

FULL WEEK-END FEATURES 1936 SPRING PROM

Lower Price of Bids Sure to Increase Attendance

Smith, Vassar, Wellesley, N. J. C., Philadelphia, Boston, New York, Binghamton, Kearny and Mt. Lakes will all be familiar names and places to the girls who will descend en masse upon the campus for the Spring Week-End which is to be held May 1 and 2. An unusually full and worthwhile program at economical cost has been planned.

The Spring Prom will be held Friday evening following the Senior Banquet. The dance is to be semi-formal and features the music of Gay Young and Muriel Manners.

Reviving what was once a popular custom at Drew, the Social Committee has decided to have a Saturday afternoon sport-dance. This dance will begin at 2 o'clock and will continue until 4:30 for all but Juniors and Seniors who are expected to attend the Dean's reception at four o'clock. On Saturday evening those who are making the most of the week-end will be at the North Jersey Intercollegiate Dramatic Competition to be held at the Madison High School auditorium.

Not the least interesting item on the program for the week-end is the cost which amounts to $2.50 for the two dances and the plays. As usual, accommodations can be provided for guests who wish to remain overnight. Such accommodations entail no expense.

FORESTERS OUT TO WIN CUP IN DRAMATIC LEAGUE

Plans for the annual one-act play competition of the North Jersey Intercollegiate Dramatics League were announced yesterday by Ralph Johnson, director of the Drew actors, who is in charge of the program this year.

The Mimmers of Newark University and the Foresters of Drew will present one-act plays in competition the evening of May 2, at 8:30 p. m., in the Madison high school auditorium. "The Command Performance" in the title of the Mimmers' play, while Drew will stage "Submerged".

Drew has won the competition the last two years against Dana College and Centenary Collegiate Institute. A third win will retire the Harry C. Bradshaw trophy. C. C. I. has withdrawn from the competi-

Close Contests For All Posts Predicted; Honor System Vote Holds the Spotlight

Proposed Honor System To Be Voted Upon In Referendum

STUDENT INTEREST KEEN

Rumblings pro and con reverberated through the halls of Brothers College today following the issues raised at last week's meetings of the student body to consider the proposed honor system amendment to the student constitution.

At a well-attended meeting yesterday Phillip Burdett presented the case for the Honor System. Ralph Porzio spoke against it.

In substance, the amendment states that a court consisting of the four class presidents, the President of the Student Body and a member of the Faculty appointed by the Dean be formed to pass upon cases of dishonesty discovered in or out of the class room. Four out of five votes are necessary for the court to charge an accused with being guilty. Sentence will rest with the discretion of the President except in cases which are violations of student honor. The court shall have jurisdiction over all violations of the constitution of the Student Body, of the by-laws of

Nominations Are Made In Record-Breaking Time at Meeting

PORZIO IS ACORN EDITOR

Tomorrow will mark the student election of officers to the student council for the year 1936-1937.

The election follows the nomination of candidates a week ago which occurred in record breaking time and with half the student body present.

Candidates for President, open to juniors, are as follows: Charles E. Sutton, nominated by Wright; Alpheus C. Robbins, nominated by Cook; David P. McCracken, nominated by Roach; Thomas A. Nevins, nominated by Esposito. Opponents for the post of Vice-president are: Leighton E. Pitkin, Fred Goehner, P. Corson.

Candidates for the position of secretary: Josef Tamovitz, Dudley Ingerson, Fred Weihe, Grover Bagby, Herman Estrin.

In accordance with the rules of the Acorn staff and the student constitution, persons eleg-

MILITARY TAPS SOUND CALL FOR FUTURE VETS HAILING NEXT WAR

Military taps at Baldwin Hall marked the opening rally of the Veterans of Future Wars Friday afternoon when an enthusiastic audience of sixty Brothers College students cheered and applauded a stirring address by Post Commander J. Edward Fox, who received his appointment last week from headquarters at Princeton.

"Soldiers of the Future," shouted Commander Fox in opening his address; and with each epigrammatic sentence in which he demanded payment of the bonus, the establishment of an R. O. T. C. at Drew and subsidy of munition makers and international bankers, the audience yelled its approval. Walter Sharp played several military numbers at the piano before and after the meeting. G. Alan Bowne sounded taps.

So successful was the inauguration of the Veterans chapter here that nearly fifty stu-

UNIVERSITY AND STUDENTS PLAN DADS' DAY HERE

Baseball and Tennis, Banquet Listed On Program

The first annual Dads' Day will be sponsored by the Student Council and the University Saturday afternoon and evening, it was made known by John E. Barclay, chairman of the social committee and professor Harry W. Semister of the faculty.

The program will open with an intercollegiate tennis match between Drew and Newark Normal. Following this there will be a baseball game between Drew and Pratt. Dinner at Bowne Hall will be featured by an address by Dr. Sherman P. Young. The University quartette will be heard in several selections.

An informal get-together in the evening at Brothers College includes a musicale by the Brothers College orchestra, a play in the Green Room, and a smoker.

"The purpose of Dads' Day is to make dads feel that their interest should not be confined to signing the checks but to show that the college is interested in them," the committee reports. Invitations have been mailed from the office of the Dean.

FIREWORKS EXPECTED AT JUNIOR-SOPH DEBATE

The Juniors and Sophomores will pit their oratorical abilities against each other tomorrow night in University chapel when a capacity crowd is expected to hear the final round of the interclass debate series. Juniors will be represented by Alpheus Robbins and Ralph Porzio; Ernest Arthur and Randolph Phillips will speak for the Sophomores.

The Juniors will uphold the resolution: That the Construction of the St. Lawrence Waterway Project would be Beneficial to the United States. Dean Frank G. Lankard will act as chairman.

Professor Norman M. Guy, who is in charge of the Forum meeting, has sent invitations to faculty members and students. Tickets to the debate have been issued only upon special request. The occasion tomorrow night will also mark the induction of the Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic fraternity, as a chapter in the college. A representative of Tau Kappa Alpha will also serve as one of the three judges.

VOTE "NO" ON THE HONOR SYSTEM AMENDMENT

The Acorn is definitely and unalterably opposed to the amendment to the constitution of the student body of Brothers College which is up for a vote at the general election tomorrow. Our objections to the amendment are based largely on our disapproval of the attempt to "administrate" an honor code by drastic judicial action and our belief that the attempt is unnecessary and unwarranted and that it carries within its provisions the measures of its own failure.

First of all, we believe that supporters of the honor system are making a mountain out of a mole hill. We do not believe that there is need for any such "system". To have an honor code is perfectly all right—in fact, we have an honor code in Brothers College at the present time which includes much more than the code outlined in the amendment. After a man has been in Brothers College a short time he realizes there is such a code of honor in existence. We believe that through this realization rather than through legislation is the way to convince students that "there is no place here for dishonorable action." We admit that for the first one or two years of his college career a student may fail to realize that Brothers College does have an honor code, but he either learns it before he becomes a junior or senior or else he is usually dropped from college for various reasons. Let us have an honor code that is inbred by tradition rather than one that is plastered on by penalties.

The proposed amendment contains provisions of which we sincerely disapprove. We are opposed, in the first place, to the extension of wide judicial power to the student court which rightfully and by all means should belong to the administrative heads of the college. Under the provisions of the amendment, the student court would have the power to drop a man from college even over the objections of Dean Lankard. Student government and student participation in administration of college affairs are fine, and we have these here in the form of our student council and four student-faculty committees. But the right to drop a man from college for two infractions of the honor code is a serious matter which should be in the hands of men other than the student council president and four class presidents who, by the way, are elected to executive rather than judicial offices and for executive rather than judicial purposes. We believe that any matter serious enough to be the cause of a man's being dropped from college should be in the hands of the dean or a faculty-student court with faculty members in the majority and the dean as president of the court. We realize that we are opposing the present student court—we would have done it sooner had conditions arisen to make it necessary. Thus far the student court has continued harmlessly to exist.

In order for the proposed "system" to be passably successful, it would be necessary to have the cooperation of each student and faculty member in reporting infractions of the honor code. We believe that only a very few students in Brothers College would report these infractions. The majority of students simply will not report such things, not because they are dishonest, but because it just is not in their nature to "tattle". Students are not going to be forced into reporting the dishonesty of other students, especially when the punishment for the dishonest act is so much greater than the act itself. We believe that most students consider it a person's own business if he wants to cheat. It is argued by the supporters of the "system" that cheating by a few is unfair to the other students in the matter of marks. To this we answer that most cheating is done by students on the failure margin where its effect on the higher students in the class is negligible and that cheaters rarely get higher marks than they deserve.

So we say vote "no" on the honor system amendment. We already have an honor code which includes much more than is contained in the provisions. Let us continue to inbreed this honor code by tradition rather than try to plaster it on by rules and penalties.

Letters to the Editor

The Pros and the Cons of the Honor System As Viewed By Two Student Leaders of Brothers College

To The Student Body:

I have learned that the editorial policy of this paper will be in opposition to the proposed amendment and the Honor Code. As President of the Student Council I feel it my duty to the Council and to the Student Body to take this opportunity to express the views of the Council, whence the amendment originated, and uphold the proposed Honor system.

It was apparent at the mass meeting that the sentiments of the opposition were based upon two derogatory notions. It was assumed first that the students lack sufficient mental ability to sanely and fairly operate a Student Court which is already provided for by the Constitution; and secondly, that students lack sufficient moral integrity necessary to uphold and protect a Code of Honor which they have devised and imposed upon themselves.

As for the first I have faith in the ability of the students to operate the Student Court. The system of appeals always provides for the possibility of more mature judgment, namely the Administration which has final word in all cases. As for the second, I believe the great majority of the students want Brothers College to have an Honor Code and once accepted will do everything in their power to support it. I do not agree with those who say that by the mere stating of an Honor Code we encourage the breaking of it. Some human natures may respond that way, especially to laws laid down by others; but the students of Brothers College are not, I believe, of that calibre, particularly when those rules are created by themselves.

Builds Tradition

This leads naturally to the opposition's argument that you cannot legislate morals. This implies that there are no rules here at present which censure dishonorable action, that there are not already penalties for cheating, stealing, etc. It is an opinion which fails to see the difference between self-discipline in a student body and autocratic restraint upon a student body. This amendment will be of the greatest possible aid in the building of a tradition of honor among our students. Individual honor is maintained by self-control; the honor of the student body as a whole must be maintained by the students themselves. It is important for the building of character and independence that the government and control of the students be in the

To The Students of Brothers College:

On Wednesday of this week we students shall be called upon to vote on one of the most important issues in the history of the school—the matter of the Honor System. It has been announced that the Student Council voted in favor of the proposed system with only two dissenting votes. I was one of the dissenters, and in view of the import of the issue and of the fact that the students have shown a wide difference of opinion on the subject, I feel that the student body should be acquainted with all sides of the issue before casting a vote. Therefore, I should like to state briefly my reasons for opposing the plan.

Were this matter a piece of legislation upon which the vote of the Council is final, I should not thus publicly voice my opposition after the Council had approved the legislation, but should abide by the majority vote of that body of which I am a member. However, the issue before us now is in the form of an amendment requiring a vote of the student body, and, therefore, I feel called upon to present the reasons for my negative vote and for the lack of unanimity in the Council. The sincerity of both the majority and the minority of the Council is evidenced by the fact that the principal advocates of the plan, Bob Williams and Phil Burdett, and the opponents, Max Bergman and I, are all Seniors and will not be in school when the plan would take effect.

I oppose the plan because I consider it impracticable, unnecessary, and an issue tending to disrupt the general unity of Brothers College.

(1) Impracticable—The weakness of the plan is in its very fundamental provision—namely, that it relies upon students reporting and punishing fellow students. Persons are taught from early childhood to frown upon tattling, and such a spirit has been so instilled in youths before college age that a great many of them would refuse to report cases of cheating. While I am opposed, of course, to cheating, I could not conscientiously report the practice by a fellow student. It seems to me that cheating is such a personal matter that it cannot be eliminated by legislation. Rather than have students afraid to cheat for fear of being reported, I prefer to have them refrain from the practice because the tradition and environment of the College is not conducive thereto.

(2) Unnecessary—The traditional spirit that has grown in less than ten years has al-

FENCERS ANNEX N. J. STATE TITLE

Unofficial Crown Goes To Drew Foilsmen Season Success

The Drew foilsmen won the unofficial New Jersey Intercollegiate Foils championship in a meet held at Panzer College in which Drew, Panzer, Montclair, Newark College of Engineering and Newark University competed.

James Herslow and Pete Lacey, fencing in stripes B and C, respectively, won all of their three bouts each. Carl Van Gilder, fencing in stripe A, won three out of four of his matches.

On March 15th, the same trio of men defeated Upsala on Upsala mats by the one sided score of six to one. Upsala foilsmen had defeated Drew earlier in the year.

The fencing season is considered successful in view of the fact that the sword-wielders won victories from Montclair State Teachers College, Temple University, Upsala, and Newark College of Engineering. They lost to Lafayette, Upsala, and William and Mary, and made ties scores against Delaware and Haverford.

the College, of rules set forth in Part II of the constitution, and of traditions and ideals of the college.

At the mass meeting held last week, Ralph Porzio denounced the plan to inaugurate an honor system, stating that it defeated its own objectives. After the meeting a petition was signed by more than 25 students demanding a new hearing on the amendment. Within an hour after the petition appeared, President Williams granted the petition's request.

tion this year, but expects to enter next year.

The plays will form a part of the week-end of the Spring Prom, Mr. Johnson stated, and tickets to the prom will entitle one to free admission to the plays. Mr. Johnson is indebted to the Social Committee for the inclusion of the plays in the prom program.

Following the presentation, the casts of the two plays and the deans of the two schools will have a social affair in the Refectory at which time plans for next year's activities of League will be discussed.

Included in the cast of Drew's play, "Submerged", are Walter Sharp, Charles Sutton, John Vaughn, Frederick Weihe, Edward Kennedy, and Wilfred Hansen. Ira Hecht is business manager and Philip Burdett stage manager and electrician.

Drew Circuit Riders Sink Webb Marines, Winning In Baseball, 15-0, In Tennis, 9-0

Net Team Impressive In Opening Match Against Webb

The Drew tennis team, undefeated last year, opened its season impressively as it whitewashed Webb, 9 to 0, despite the fact that it had not practiced outdoors before its first match.

In the nine matches the visiting players were able to salvage only one set. The Drew team showed the benefits of its indoor practice under the direction of Coach Stanley Hopper.

Joe Tamovitz was hard pressed in the first singles match and was forced to come from behind in a spectacular rally to nose out Willie McKann in a good match, 6-3, 6-8, 7-5. McKann led 5-2 in the final set.

Drew 9, Webb 0
Singles—Tamovitz, D. defeated McKann, W. 6-3, 6-8, 7-5; Campbell, D. defeated Henry, W. 6-4, 6-3; Gemmel, D. defeated Newell, W. 6-0, 6-1; Ragby, D. defeated Belsky, W. 6-2, 6-1; Miller, D. defeated Oakley, W. 6-4, 6-2; Bartlett, D. defeated Reed, W. 6-1, 6-3.
Doubles—Ragby and Campbell, D. defeated Pierson and Henry, W. 6-1, 6-2; Gemmel and Miller, D. defeated Oakley and Donaldson, W. 6-2, 6-4; Truscott and Bello, D. defeated Newell and Belsky, W. by default.

dents signified their intentions of joining, following the meeting, according to the report of acting Adjutants Robert Kohan and Vernon Carnahan.

A resolution was made by Thomas Nevins and unanimously approved that an appeal be sent to the administration to set aside a plot in Drew Forest as a cemetery for the soldiers of the future. Mr. Carnahan spoke in the absence of Tasker Witham on the proposed erection of a monument on Memorial Day to be dedicated to the "unborn, unknown soldier."

John Barclay spoke briefly on the plans for the Home Fire Division. He will be assisted by Leo Burrell and John Meeker. Ralph Porzio outlined the requirements for membership. A program is being planned by the Vets to observe "Peace Day."

"America for Americans," "We want our bonus," "A bigger army and navy," were wildly greeted. When Commander Fox thundered, "Shall we fail the older generation?" the spontaneous cry came up from the audience: "No! No! No!"

The Post Commander also cast a disparaging remark toward the peace movement in general, and a local peace organization in particular, which, he said, was headed by a Drew professor.

"He's a Red!" someone shouted from the audience. So the Veterans of Future Wars march on. The movement seems to gain momentum aere with each passing day.

Berhman Gives 3 Hits Fans 13; Stannert Homers Twice

Led by Stannert, who hit two home runs and a double, and Joe Berhman, who fanned 13 Webbs and allowed only three hits, the baseball nine defeated Webb Institute, 15 to 0, Saturday.

The score indicates how unevenly the two teams were matched. Before four innings had passed the Circuit Riders had amassed an 11 to 0 lead and coasted to an easy victory.

Although the game was very one-sided, it was filled with thrills for Drew fans by Stannert's lusty clouting. His two homers in succession tied the Drew record set by Bob Sutton against Webb two years ago. He reached first four times, making eight out of nine times to the plate he had reached first.

Berhman's strike-out record is now 27 for two games.

In the opening game of the season Drew lost to Johns Hopkins, 6-1, in a cold, snowy game.

The next game is with Pratt on Saturday.

SCHOLARSHIP AID GIVEN BY DANCE

Wegener Fund Raised By Varsity Club Last Friday

The success of the Varsity Club dance Friday evening insures an adequate fund for the first Albert Ben Wegener Scholarship award which will be made by the Club at the close of this academic year. The large attendance and receipts surpassed all expectations and provided an unusual profit which will be directed to the aid of a deserving all-around student of the College.

The dance was novel in that it was the first to be held in Bowne gymnasium. The opinion of the dancers testifies to the success of the experiment, as there was ample room for the large attendance. Such a setting—the scene of many thrilling contests by our athletes—proved especially appropriate for an event sponsored by the wearers of the "D." A ceiling of green and gold streamers covered the dance floor and was flanked on each end by large Drew banners. The side walls symbolized the athletic nature of the Club by crossed baseball bats and crossed sabres. Dot Browne and her popular Silver Crest orchestra furnished the music for the occasion.

Mahlon Smith, Chairman of the dance committee, and his colleagues are to be congratulated on the success of the dance and on the consequent aid to a worthy cause.

ready demonstrated its effectiveness by making cheating scarce in Brothers College. With the continued growth of that tradition, and with the publishing of a clear statement each year that a Brothers College man does not stoop to such methods, unfair practices can be eliminated more effectively than by the proposed system.

(3) A force tending to disrupt the general unity—Such a secret system whereby some students report fellow students will tend to raise a hovering cloud of suspicion over the school. Certain fellows will invariably be suspected of attempting to find something to report about others. Should a student be brought before he court and then acquitted—and acquittals will not be rare in these cases in which material evidence scarcely exists—he will dislike the reporter if he knows his identity, and if not, he will suspect certain persons. In either case acquittal will cast suspicion on fellow students and raise antipathies. Also, the mere fact that a person is reported will arouse in the minds of the five student members of the Court and the faculty adviser suspicions of the one reported or of the reporter. Lack of harmony within the school will result.

Therefore, because of its impracticability, the lack of necessity, and the disuniting force of the proposed plan, I voted against its adoption, and advise careful consideration of the plan by all students before they vote on Wednesday.

Robert G. Smith,

By Aesop

HAIL THE CONQUERING HERO! The story has been squashed hereabouts but our hat is off to Johnny Boatman, that quiet, unassuming member of the Sophomore Class. One night last week Johnny, while standing in the Plaza in Morristown trying to hitch a ride back to the campus, espied two suspicious gentlemen making a quick exit from a delicatessen. The Alabamian observed their automobile closely, then caught sight of a police patrol and broadcast a description of the hold-up men via the police radio. The robbers were finally captured. Johnny's waving thumb received a respite when the coppers personally escorted him to the campus in a police car. Quick. Casper, the medal!

One of the first questions Secretary Hull asked after greeting Bill was, "What are the young people thinking about?" It was a big order, but the New Dealer must have been pleased with the reply. Bill says he has an invitation to visit the State Department again in June.

hands of the students. The success of other schools indicates the practicability of such a system. It cannot be presumed that Princeton would for forty-three years maintain and support a system of student control in these matters if benefits were not derived from it. Moreover, Williams for forty years, Wilson College for thirty years, and Hamilton for twenty-five years (to mention but a few) have found the honor-system successful. It is important to realize that these systems were inaugurated when those schools were smaller and more comparable to ours. Now, while our school is still young and our student body still small, is the time to institute the Honor Code.

Two Months' Study

The creators of this amendment have been accused, by some biased thinkers, of being prejudiced. That is not true. They have arrived at their conclusions after more than two months of careful work and study. The Student Council was prompted to investigate the possibilities of an Honor system at Brothers College as a result of agitation at previous "gripe" meetings expressing sentiments favoring such a system. They have fulfilled their duty and created an Honor Code which they feel is practical and beneficial. They submit it to the Student Body with only one hope in mind, and that is the students will do their best to understand it thoroughly, to consider it seriously, to weigh the evidence, and to arrive at carefully thought out conclusions.
