

B.C.'s Twentieth Year Is President Holloway's First; Occasion to Be Marked by Convocation, Dinner

Former Dean of Seminary To Be Inaugurated Oct. 16

Pres. Fred G. Holloway officially took over the chief administrative post at Drew University on July 1. Pres. Holloway was chosen to succeed the retiring Pres. Arlo Ayres Brown at a meeting of the board of trustees last February.

Pres. Holloway will be inaugurated on October 16. The speaker at this occasion will be Pres. Umphrey Lee, of Southern Methodist University.

Dr. Holloway was president of Western Maryland College for 12 years before coming to Drew in 1947 to succeed Dr. Lynn Harold Hough in the seminary deanship. From 1932 to 1935, he served in the presidency of Westminster Theological Seminary, Westminster, Md., where he had been appointed to the faculty in 1927 as professor of Biblical languages.

A native of Newark, he received the A.B. degree from Western Maryland College in 1918 and the B.D. degree from Drew Seminary in 1921. He was a fellow at Drew from 1921 to 1923. He holds a D.D. from Western Maryland, and LL.D. from Dickinson College, and an L.H.D. from Baldwin-Wallace College.

Ordained in the ministry of the Methodist Protestant Church in 1921, he served in pastorates for eight years, including churches in Wilmington, Del., and Baltimore, Md. He was a member of the last General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Churches, of the United Conference of Methodism in 1939, and has been a member of the General Conferences of the Methodist Church since that time.

The National Association of Schools and Colleges of the Methodist Church elected him its president at the last annual meeting in Cincinnati. He is also president of the Association of Methodist Theological Schools, and a member of the University Senate of the Methodist Church.

Faculty Adds Six to Ranks

Among the recent additions to the Drew University faculty are Dr. Lois Mae Hutchings, Mr. Oliver W. Park, Mr. Daffin F. Backstrom, Mr. John E. Frost, Mr. James M. Boyd, Jr., and Mr. Franklin E. Kooker.

Dr. Hutchings has been appointed as instructor in the Science Department. She received her B.A. at Mount Holyoke College, and after studying at the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Vermont went on to earn her M.A. at Columbia. A few years later she received her Ph.D. at Cornell.

Mr. Park received his Bachelor of Arts at Temple University and his Master of Arts at the University of Pennsylvania. He was vice-president of his college class and is still active as a member of the Pi Gamma Mu fraternity. During the war he spent five years in the Navy and was discharged as a Lieutenant-Commander. His travels abroad have taken him to all parts of the world. Mr. Park, who is thirty-one, is married and has one child. He is, at present, assisting at the University of Pennsylvania. When he begins instruction here he will teach sociology and history.

Mr. Backstrom, who will be an instructor in physical education, received his A.B. at Drew University.

Mr. Frost is from Kittery Point, Maine, and is the assistant librarian of Drew University's Rose

Recent Weddings Highlight Summer

Due to the many recent weddings and engagements resulting from the co-educational status at Drew, a Matrimonial Bureau has been suggested for the college.

Some of the knots tied this summer were Jean Elmore and "Jazz" Remaly, with an almost completely Drew wedding. Dr. Heisse Johnson assisted with the ceremony, Swede Lundberg was the best man, Carl Anderson and Jim Hines, ushers, and Joy Werner, Mimi VanderWater, and Janeth VanderMark, bridesmaids. The couple are now living in Morristown where "Jazz" is employed.

Marc Joseph and Judy Goldstein were married on September 11th. They are now living at Cornell where Marc is attending law school.

Don Abbott and Jeri Schacterle joined the marital status on September 10 in Philadelphia. Joe Belsky was the best man, Rod Barr an usher, and Margie Schneider and Evvie Eenberg were bridesmaids.

Among the earliest to take the big step were Steve Cruz and Marjorie Conner in Morristown early in June. Ushers included Sid Rosenblum, Dick Dennis, John Duryea and Dick Krumm.

Another June wedding was that of Rod Barr and Ruth Thomas in Chatham. Colin Williams was best man, and Joe Belsky and Don Abbott were ushers. Rod is now attending the University of Pennsylvania, while "Tommy" is teaching in south Jersey.

Early August featured the wedding of Sue King and Jerry Thiese in the Drew Seminary Chapel with "Doc" Young officiating.

On August 29 Irene Frattalone and Vic Cranston were married in Staten Island, with Herman Hengen as best man. The couple will live in Madison while Vic completes his senior year at Drew.

Another Staten Island wedding was that of Elaine Anderson and Jim Dewart. The couple will return to Drew, where Jim will enter the Seminary.

On September 11, Ann Teien and John Duryea were married in Dumont. Steve Cruse and Jerry Thiese were ushers. Upon returning from their honeymoon the couple will live in Fort Lee.

Among new arrivals in recent months was a red-headed daughter to the Dick Runyons in July; a son to Phyllis Chinnock Soto in August; and a daughter last May to Joan and Dominick Caramagna.

Recent engagements include that of Ruth MacKinney and John Shipley.

Future Ink Spots to Be Seen Privately

The Personnel Office has announced changes in its testing and guidance program. In the future, the group Rorschach test will no longer be administered to all entering students. Time of scoring and interpretation make it necessary to employ a personality measuring device which can be more readily administered and scored. The Rorschach will thus be replaced by the Minnesota Multiphasic Test. Henceforth the Rorschach will be individually given and at the request or on the recommendation of a staff member of the Psychological Counseling Center.

As of 1948 the Strong Vocational Interest Test will not be administered to freshmen, but rather it will be scheduled in the sophomore year. It is thought that the results will be more valuable at this time. All students in the college other than entering freshmen will be required to take this test during the first five weeks of school. Students are requested to watch the bulletin board for the announcement of the exact date of the examination.

Guidance Stressed
The personnel office of Brothers College is in the position to give counsel and guidance to students concerning graduate work in other schools and permanent positions upon graduation, it was announced recently by James McClintock, personnel director. A relatively high percentage of Brothers College graduates seek assistance through this office. Although it is not possible to give a definite answer to the question of the exact date of the examination.

Chancellor John Lowden Knight, '39, of Nebraska Wesleyan University, the first Brothers College alumnus ever to address a Drew University Convocation. The topic of his address will be "Implications of a College Education."

"Jack" Knight was born in Beverly, New Jersey, in 1915, and graduated from the Wilbur Watts High School in Burlington, New Jersey. His higher education includes an A.B. from Drew in 1939, an A.M. and an S.T.B. from Boston in 1941 and 1942, and an A.M. from Vanderbilt in 1943. He also holds an honorary Doctor of Divinity from Kansas Wesleyan University in Salina, Kansas.

Chancellor Knight is an ordained minister of the Methodist Church and a member of the Oregon conference. He has served as pastor of the Lake Shore Park Methodist Church in Lynn, Massachusetts, and the Bellevue Methodist Church in Bellevue, Tennessee. In 1943 he became assistant professor of Religion and counselor on Religious Life at Williamette University in Salem, Oregon. He was elected Chancellor of Nebraska Wesleyan University in 1946. Chancellor Knight is the author of numerous articles and publications.

The Alumni Association will celebrate Brothers College's twentieth anniversary with a dinner party at the Canary Cottage in Florham Park that evening. The address will be by Raymond J. Blair, a Brothers College graduate in 1941 and a former Acorn editor, who is now covering Congress and Washington politics for the New York Herald Tribune where he has a front page by-line daily.

Aim to Aid New Students With Altered Orientation

Freshmen Orientation Week got under way last Monday as scheduled and has carried through with commendable efficiency. This comprehensive type of orientation was instituted last year with the Freshman Class of 1947-48, and has been improved and broadened to give the new class a bigger and more pertinent introduction to the school.

This program is proving to fill a very necessary phase of the freshman's first days at Drew. It is designed to make both the transfer and freshman students feel at home in their new surroundings. It also acquaints them with the many and varied activities which make up the total picture of life at Drew. This includes meeting the professors and learning of the different clubs, committees, and recreational opportunities available here.

To facilitate this program, the first day was given over to tours of the campus and library building, and acquainting the student with the campus. The faculty dinner held in the evening gave him the chance to see and meet the professors of the College as well as several of the administrative officers.

Another significant phase of the program was begun on Monday afternoon and continued through Tuesday. This was the administering of the Rorschach and Reading tests which are designed to give

Bill Corbett Takes Post in Book Store at Columbia

The familiar face of Bill Corbett will be among those missing on the dining hall with the discontinuation of the V-12 program. Mr. Corbett, who has managed the Drew Bookstore for the past two years, has been appointed assistant manager for the bookstore at Teachers College of Columbia University.

Mr. Corbett first came to our campus during the war while the Navy V-12 program was in operation here. At that time he had the position of Steward in the dining hall to facilitate the feeding of the Navy men. Corbett had come to Drew from a similar position in a Columbia University dining hall.

With the pressure relieved in the dining hall with the discontinuation of the V-12 program, Mr. Corbett took over the bookstore in the spring of 1946 until August of this year.

His position is being filled by Mrs. Benjamin who is not new to the Drew Bookstore. She will be remembered by the older students as having managed the bookstore as Mr. Corbett's immediate predecessor.

The coffee shop which opened late last spring will be continued under the competent direction of Mrs. Sandello of Madison. This year it will be open later in the evening as well as during the day.

... One Giant's Step ...

All of heaven is able to contemplate the erection of an infinitesimal speck in space from which the people of this earth will look for little more than understanding and justice. This past week, construction was begun on the gigantic world capital of the United Nations Organization on a seventeen acre plot in New York City.

And the enormity of the tract assigned to the edifices reflects only partially the faith we must have in the work of the UN.

For, though the leaders of the world may not cease to play the game of international power politics, the use of masses of people (defined by economic, racial and religious borders) for these maneuvers is directly contrary to the best dictates of our consciences. The most flagrant of these abuses is the abject deprecation of the displaced persons (uncapitalized, if you please) of Europe. It has been justly recognized by clear thinking humanitarians that the job of settling this one problem is the task of all nations.

Scarcely secondary to this is the economic stabilization of struggling countries. Other international problems may be mentioned: education, communication, transportation, etc.

What we are trying to say is that the new UN site may be the nucleus of world federation. This move will be slow and elastic in taking form, but its inevitability cannot be denied. The problems of the various nations, both internal and international, are too far-reaching and complex to remain in isolation.

However, many individuals are rebellious to the idea of world federation. The vision of a single world government is nebulous; and even a union of nations is fantastic. The impression is given that present national boundaries (except in Europe, where frequent changes are almost commonplace) are fixed in heaven, and any violation of them is incomprehensible. But, their dilemma is understandable, though unjustifiable. Not many of the citizens of colonial America could visualize a United States, or possibly even a united thirteen colonies. The need here is for imagination and foresight.

Thus, the United Nations headquarters is only a step, not a permanent fixture for all times, unsurpassable and final. True, world government is taking "one giant's step" forward, but subsequent steps are predictable.

Here, please use our stereopticon, it's almost four-dimensional.

On the Town

by Lester Bauer

The approach of fall and the revival of urban artistic activity marks the logical time to pause for a glance at the coming season.

The first of next week's openings, Magdalena, with a score by the South American composer Heitor Villa-Lobos, will make its bow on Monday. The operetta has been recommended to me by discerning friends who saw it on the coast and were delighted by its music.

Town House, a comedy by Gertrude Tonkonogy, based on a series of stories by John Cheever, will open on September 23. The play was the talk of Boston when it was shown there recently and is said to have the wittiest dialogue since Born Yesterday.

Last calls: Two of last season's biggest dramatic hits, Command Decision and The Heiress, are scheduled to close tomorrow. Closing on Sunday at the City Center is the latest revival of Jerome Kern's Show Boat, with a cast that includes Carol Bruce.

When Ballet Theatre cancelled its 1947 season, apparently because of Lucia Chase's rumored withdrawal from the role of golden godmother, there were mournful predictions of a calamitous ballet year. Nevertheless the prospect at the moment is more than promising.

Tomorrow the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will begin the celebration of its tenth anniversary at the Metropolitan Opera House. With its regular company supplemented by several associate artists, the Ballet Russe will have more first-rate dancers than it has had in many years, and its three week season should be a memorable one.

On September 21 the New York Golden Jubilee Celebration will present an International Dance Festival at the City Center. The star attraction will be the Paris Opera Ballet, to be seen for the first time in this country in fourteen new productions.

Also contributing to the Festival will be Charles Weidman and his Dance Theatre Company, which enjoyed a highly successful season on Broadway last year, and Ram Gopal and his Hindu Ballet Company, which comes to New York for its United States premiere following a European tour.

Down in the Village the Lemonade Opera is still offering alternate performances in English of Don Giovanni, Prokofiev's The Duenna, and the double bill of La Serva Padrona and Hansel and Gretel.

The long awaited Laurence Olivier production of Hamlet will open on September 29. The film has received high praise both abroad and in Boston where it had its American premiere.

You might enjoy the German motion picture version of the Greek classic, Lysistrata. The film is quite impressive in parts, amusing in others—sometimes intentionally. The scenario seems to have been confused somewhere along the line with the text of a Wagnerian music drama.

More conventional is the movie adaptation of Maxwell Anderson's Mary of Scotland, starring Katherine Hepburn, Fredric March, and Florence Eldridge. It is a moving and well-acted film.

QUESTION: What do you feel, as a new student at Brothers College, that the upperclassmen could do to improve the Orientation Program and help you to get acquainted with the campus and its activities more easily?

ANSWERS

"Jinny" Knodel, junior, transfer from Centenary Junior College, Irvington, New Jersey — "I think it would be a good idea to have all upperclassmen wear name tags as the Orientation Committee did." Saul Rubin, freshman, Newark, New Jersey — "I suggest that the entering frosh men have big brothers, just as the women have big sisters. This arrangement would benefit the men greatly."

Joseph Holzinger, freshman, Walden, New York — "I would like to see all the students maintain

Words in Season

Bob Carlson

The number of early returnees to Drew Forest would cause one to suspect that the sentiment, "It's great to be back" is not a unique or odd one this year. Could it be nostalgia, a desire to loaf for a week, or perhaps merely the purely selfish desire to put the pick of dormitory furniture under lock and key before the rush?

Having been on campus since last Sunday we feel especially qualified to extend greetings to the old timers as well as to the latest additions to our Drew family. This year is guaranteed to be one of the best and most important of your lives, especially for you who claim this as your first year at Brothers College. To you we would like to address a few words.

You have heard a great deal during this week about Drew's fine traditions and distinctive characteristics. You have probably picked up some doubt in the process as to any school's being quite that terrific. With that doubt in mind you will be a perfect victim for a certain type of Drew "ear bender" who has achieved a degree of sophistication unequalled (in his own estimation) anywhere. He has come to a point at which he can find faults which the average mortal simply has no means of discovering. He will tell you of the hypocrisy of Drew professors, of the deliberate foulness of refectory food, of the moral degradation of all B.C. and seminary students, and of the graft and corruption in administrative circles. No matter what the topic of conversation, he knows something about it which would deserve a page four spot on any one of our New York tabloids.

We could spend the rest of the semester refuting arguments and accusations made by these super-sophisticates, but that will hardly be necessary if you learn to identify them for what they are. Meanwhile we'll do our best to puncture them with a verbal pin at convenient times.

This year and succeeding years at Drew hold unbounded opportunities for you. You may spend them looking for excuses for your lack of achievement or you may spend them utilizing the tremendous advantages which Brothers College has offered you by approving your admission. The old adage about one receiving only what he gives is as true now as it ever was. Be glad you're here. We're glad to have you.

Space was found lacking in this issue to speak of campus improvements of the past summer, but recognition and appreciation is not lacking. Mr. Malm and his men have done an excellent job. Among other things, they have redecorated Rogers and Faulkner, giving each room its touch of individuality, maintained former improvements in Asbury, and set up a thoroughly life-sized lounge in S.W.B. We might also call to attention the B.C. lounge. Let's hope it will remain that way for a while at least.

These improvements have been designed to make this year a more pleasant one for us. The least we can do is to show our appreciation by helping to preserve them.

Basketeers Won 7, Lost 8; Lose Star Player, Bannon

Though the past basketball season was not the most successful in the history of the school, it was one for which no one need feel ashamed. Losing five of their first six games, the Simister-coached team finished the season with a record of seven wins out of fifteen games as they closed strongly.

Although dropping eight games, at no time was the team completely outclassed. Rutgers of Newark was the only team to beat Drew by more than ten points. Later in the season Drew returned to spring an upset, 66-57, score on the Newark school. This was the high point of the year for the Circuit Riders.

Other games saw Drew defeat Bloomfield College twice, Newark State Teachers twice, St. Basil's College once, and Maryland State Teachers once.

Height, basketball's biggest advantage, or disadvantage, depending on the side you're on, proved to be Drew's outstanding opponent. Coach Simister's lack of just one big "goon" made the difference between a fair and a great season. On the brighter side of the picture was the team's offensive strength. In all, the team scored 890 points to 810 for the opposition, an average of 59.3 to 54. Sandy Smart's average of 14 per game was the team's high, but his season's total was less than Bob Bannon's 195 and Al Smith's 188.

Only three of the squad members were seniors which speaks well for the future. However, it will be especially hard if not impossible to find someone to fill Bannon's shoes. Bob will be remembered as one of Drew's all-time greats not only because of his scoring ability but also because of his amazing floor play. Bob Gungel and Don Sweeney have also finished their college basketball careers and Coach Simister will miss the hustle and will to win that characterized the play of each.

Newcomers to the team such as Bill Ready, Al Smith, and Bob Rosenkrance aided immeasurably, and along with the other members of the squad should form a team which will be hard to beat next year.

Ernie Hartmann, freshman, Union, New Jersey — "I would like to suggest handing the freshman class small maps of the buildings and main offices on the campus to help orientate them in a hurry on the first day. Even though there is one in the catalogue most of us don't carry those with us."

Mitchell Krauss, freshman, Morristown, New Jersey — "Orientation Week should be compressed into a few days. There's too much time to get bored, with so little to do and so much time to do it in."

Dick Stone, freshman, Walden, New York — "The upperclassmen have been swell in the Orientation Program so far. They have gone out of their way to be friendly and helpful. I have no complaints."

able for this school to provide the extensive placement services currently available in many other institutions, it is in a position to do more along this line than most other schools of comparable size and standing.

It is possible to notice the following assets in the placement field: proximity to the Metropolitan area, an Alumni Placement Council which serves in an advisory capacity to the Personnel Officer of the College, contacts with business and professional concerns through our alumni, and the good will of employment managers who have been impressed by the outstanding work of Brothers College graduates. For those students who wish to go on to graduate school we have established excellent contacts with the better institutions.

The nature of the responsibility of the office to the student is to be determined by the following factors: the competency of the student as revealed in classroom activities, the adequacy of placement facilities as determined by financial and personal resources, the availability of positions open to liberal arts majors, the enrollment resources of graduate schools, and the willingness of the student to work diligently in his own behalf.

Dr. McClintock urges all students to avail themselves of the resources of the Personnel Office.

RIDING THE CIRCUIT

by Jim Richards

In order for any institution of higher learning to be a leader in collegiate circles and to send its graduates into the world well prepared, it must possess that rare combination of excellence in teaching method and a deep-rooted tradition. We here at DREW feel that this end has been accomplished. It is in reference to the TRADITION in athletics that I write this column.

We have had winning and losing teams here down through the years, but win or lose we have maintained a certain spirit on the part of the players and the student body which would be difficult to find anywhere else. One of the men who has had much to do with guiding and keeping this spirit a vital part of our campus life is a man, small in stature, but big in his contributions to every student who has ever been fortunate enough to know him. He is affectionately known as "Doc" Young.

This summer he was one of two coaches chosen from the entire country to help train and manage a team sponsored by the Brooklyn Eagle newspaper and the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team. This team was made up of the finest amateur talent to be found in New York City and Long Island. The boys were given try-outs and the cream of the crop were chosen. George Sisler, the immortal first baseman, was in charge and it was he who chose "Doc" after seeing the way he handled our team at Drew.

Our baseball teams are establishing a tradition on this campus down through the years. This is but one of the many fine traditions of which we are so proud and to which we are so loyal. To those of you who are about to become part of our fellowship for the first time may we extend a hearty welcome and the hope that you also will recognize our traditions and try to carry them on as have those before you.

There are other sports realms with which we hope you will become familiar before many moons have come and gone. We have basketball teams on this campus of no mean ability who are led by "Coach" Harry Simister. We are every bit as proud of our basketball teams as we are of any of our others. We play teams from this area and our team takes a southern and a northern trip each year. Last year, hampered by height, we managed to win 7 and drop 8 to some very good teams.

Tennis is another intracollegiate sport in which we participate. Prof. Smith has charge of this team. Fencing is strong here. Some of the biggest schools in the nation are on our schedule.

The girls are very active in athletics on this campus and in many instances they, too, participate with other schools, and win.

If you are looking for the thrill of athletics as can be found in those schools which go "big time" you have come to the wrong campus. If you have come to be a part, and a vital part, of those things which have built our tradition, then you are in the right place. Give your time and whatever effort may be required, and when you leave this campus to go out in the world you will realize how much a part of your life the traditions of this campus have become.

Power Plus Pitching Led To Another Great Year

The 1948 baseball season at Drew University was one of the most successful in the school's history. In the beginning of the season Coach "Doc" Young predicted that the team would not fare too well on the diamond. But with hustle and team spirit the 1948 squad proved him wrong. Led by the brilliant pitching of Jack Champlin and Don Hufnail, together with a team batting average of .307, our team amassed an 11 and 1 record. Champlin won six games and lost one, while Hufnail won five and lost none.

To give you newcomers on campus an idea of the terrific offense displayed by the '48 nine, here is the team's individual batting averages. Gene Sacco, Chatham's cheerful circuit clouter, led the team with .379. The other averages were Bob Gungel, .354; Jack Champlin, .350; Joe Sabo, .343; most successful in the school's history. insights into the new student's study habits, abilities, and personality. Such information is of value to the personnel advisers in future work with the student.

During the course of the week, meetings were held at which time various rules and customary procedures related to Drew citizenship were explained. Hazing rules, of course, were given special attention. The official hazing program got under way yesterday morning at 8 A.M., and is proceeding with the usual vim and vigor.

Resume of Rider's Fencing Successes

The Drew University Fencing team overcame many handicaps in its quest of a winning season. The "Iron Men" triumvirate of Vogel, Hardy and Carlson defeated Newark College of Engineering, Temple University, and Stevens, tied a strong Rutgers University outfit, and dropped a close match to Paterson State Teachers. Those who witnessed the home matches need not be told of the spirit of our swordsmen.

Jim Hardy paced the "Iron Men" during the year with twenty-six wins as against thirteen losses for a percentage of .667. Jim was Captain of the team. Al Vogel, newly elected Captain, seconded Hardy with twenty-four victories in thirty-nine bouts, an average of .615. Bob Carlson came through with a .500 average, collecting eighteen and one-half wins in thirty-seven bouts.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY—(This statement adopted April, 1939, and revised June, 1942; final revision June 6, 1947.)

The nature of our college community makes it desirable for students and faculty to work together

Since the publication of the "Drew Handbook" has been postponed, the ACORN staff, sensing a need for this material, has compiled the more significant notes concerning the College activities and traditions. We hope these notes will prove informative and of interest, particularly for the new student.

in an atmosphere of understanding and good will. The instructors in charge of courses should eliminate as far as possible the incentives for cheating. They should consider carefully the papers they assign, the questions they use in examinations, and should make adequate explanation of all assignments. The faculty is concerned that all instructors shall assume a direct responsibility for the development of a general atmosphere of student-faculty cooperation, feeling that if the students work in an atmosphere of good will and self-respect and have an opportunity to participate in the government of their own affairs, the problem of cheating ought to disappear.

I—WHAT CONSTITUTES DISHONESTY? The acceptance of rewards, honors, of any kind on the basis of misrepresentation of one's work.

EXAMPLES: The giving or receiving of information, copying, or the unauthorized consultation of data during the period of an examination; the copying of sections of texts, in writing papers, without giving the proper credit; submitting other student's themes as one's own work.

II—Procedure in cases of alleged dishonesty:

a—Instructors shall report alleged dishonesty to the Dean of the College. Students are requested to cooperate by reporting cases of observed dishonesty. The Dean, with the reporting instructor, the student's adviser, and another instructor acceptable to the student, will form a committee which shall investigate the complaint. In the first offense this committee shall determine the disposition of the case, except that the student or the complaining instructor may appeal to the Committee on Student Life and Welfare. Second and succeeding offenses shall be dealt with by the Committee on Student Life and Welfare. In all cases, the student, his adviser, or the complaining instructor may appeal to the college faculty.

b—In all proceedings the student shall be permitted to make an oral or written statement, and he may be represented by a faculty member who may or may not be his adviser.

c—Charges of dishonesty which are not related to a particular course shall be dealt with by the Committee on Student Life and Welfare. The decisions of the Committee shall be subject to review by the faculty of the College.

III—PENALTIES

First Offense—Maximum penalty should in general be loss of credit for the course; imposition of a greater penalty requires concurrence of the faculty of Brothers College.

Second Offense—Maximum penalty, dismissal from college.

IV—THE CONDUCT OF EXAMINATIONS

A proctor shall be present in the room to answer questions and to maintain order and quiet. He is expected to exercise careful supervision over the examination. Students may bring books or papers to the examination room only with the consent of the instructor in charge of the course; the instructor shall inform the proctor when such materials may be brought by the students.

ATTENDANCE RULE OF BROTHERS COLLEGE

A student is expected to attend all the class meetings of all his courses and is responsible for all the work in the courses he takes for credit.

Reports of all absences signed by the instructor are required within 24 hours of each class meeting.

MAKE-UP WORK. As far as is feasible instructors will provide opportunity for students to make up work lost by absence only if the student presents within one week of his return to classes an excuse from the Dean. Excuses will be issued for absences caused by circumstances beyond the student's control, or by authorized participation in a recognized extra-classroom activity. In other cases excuses may be granted only if in the judgement of the Dean unusual circumstances warrant such excuse.

UNEXCUSED ABSENCES. In any one semester the number of unexcused absences for students not on the Dean's List or Honors List and for special students may not exceed the number of credit hours given for the course concerned, except that in courses in physical education the number of absences in any one semester may not exceed two. (Note: Upperlevel students no longer have unlimited cuts.)

TARDINESS. Instructors may count three latenesses as one absence, or otherwise deal with the question of tardiness at their discretion, provided that they announce at the beginning of the semester the procedure to be followed.

OVERCUTTING normally results in a grade of FF. In cases of overcutting the student may appear before the Committee on Academic Standing to show cause why he should not receive a grade of FF in the course.

EXCUSES for absences are issued by the Dean of the college in accordance with procedures established by the faculty.
