

Student Council Discusses Hazing, Acorn, Constitution

Hazing Poll Results:

Present System - 95

New System - - 96

No Hazing - - - 52

The hazing question, election of the ACORN Editor, and a committee for interpreting the constitution were the main topics of discussion at the October tenth meeting of the Student Council.

A poll on hazing will be put before the student body. The outcome of the vote will help the committee in planning next year's hazing program. There will be three alternatives on the referendum: hazing as it is now, a new type of hazing, or no hazing.

In the past there has been no set interpretation of the articles in the constitution governing election of the Acorn editor. The following interpretations were made by the Student Council and will be abided by, by the Elections Committee. The candidate must have served on the staff three semesters one of which may be the semester he is nominated in. He must serve from January to January.

A new committee, the Judiciary Committee, was set up by the Student Council to interpret the clauses of the Brother's College Student Association Constitution, and of regulations of the Student Council. It will be composed of five members appointed by the president of the Student Council. There is a check on the committee in that if one quarter of the Student Council or ten per cent of the student body protest a decision, the judgment of the committee will be subject to review and approval of the Student Council as a whole.

Dorm Cornerstone Laying Feature of Founders Day

By NINETTE JENNI

The cornerstone laying ceremony for the new Seminary dormitory climaxed Drew University's annual Founders Day program on Saturday. Those participating in this symbolic placing of the cornerstone were President Fred G. Holloway, President-Emeritus Arlo Ayres Brown, Dean Clarence T. Craig, Dr. Edwin Lewis of the Seminary faculty, and Mr. Robert C. Morris, President of the Board of Trustees. A metal box containing a copy of the October 6th issue of the ACORN, the current Seminary catalogue, the GATEWAY and BROTHERS COLLEGE ALUMNUS, a Bible, a coin, and pictures of President Holloway and Dean Craig was enclosed in the cornerstone.

This ceremony followed the Convocation in the Seminary Chapel, where Dr. Vincent Sheean addressed the University students, alumni, and friends on the topic "India after Gandhi". A highlight of the Convocation was the conferring of degrees by President Holloway, two of which were B.A.'s conferred in absentia on R. Robinson Chance, Jr., and Willoughby F. Senior. Other degrees earned included one Bachelor of Divinity, three Master of Arts, and three Doctor of Philosophy.

In the morning, Robert C. Morris presided over a meeting of the Board of Trustees at which time Mr. Joseph Ferry of South Orange was elected to the Board. Seminary alumni attended dis-

Whitcomb, Silvernail Leave for Service

Two Brothers College students were recalled into the armed forces within the past two weeks. They are Nathaniel Whitcomb, a Junior, and John Silvernail, a Sophomore.

Whitcomb's call has been deferred until November 15 and he plans to spend the time at his home in Rochester, New York. Nat has been a member of the Chapel Committee and the Student Life and Welfare Committee. He has been Business Manager of the Foresters, and Chairman of the Brothers College Service Committee. In addition he was President of the Sophomore Class last year, and was active in the Student Council. Nat graduated from Brighton High School in Rochester in 1946. He served as a Chief Clerk and Acting First Sergeant in the Army in Japan. Nat was

Wonderland, Rome, West, Lodge Are Party Atmospheres

By JOAN FISHER

The honest sweat of the girls who worked to make Sunday's house parties successful was truly rewarded. Their ingenuity was reflected in unique themes, colorful decorations, and talent-filled entertainment.

Faulkner House was enveloped in a Roman atmosphere complete with columns circled with ivy, marble (with a little imagination) statues, Latin manuscripts and even a replica of Mt. Vesuvius. The girls, who were draped in togas, provided their dates with ivy crowns to match their own. The entertainment featured orations in Latin, and a court-trial using dates as baits.

"The Wild and Wooley West" was the theme for Roger's House Party. Cowboys, Indians, campfires, and teepees adorned the walls. A table in the hallway was covered with little tin favors of studying for the ministry when his reserve unit was called.

John Silvernail was also a pre-theological student when he was called by the Marine Reserve. While in the service after the war, John was a Sergeant in the Marine Corps. He graduated from Stanford Central High School in New York State in 1946. John came to Drew in February 1950 after studying for one year at LeMoyné College in New York State. Silvernail, whose home is in Rosbury, N. Y., was married in September, and was living off-campus in Madison while at school.

The only other Brothers College student called into the service this year was Chauncey Benedict, a Senior, who was cabled by his Army Reserve unit at the beginning of the term.

Foresters Outline Future Dramatic Activities Here

Announce List Of '50 Play Members

An outline of the future dramatic activities on campus was presented at the meeting of the Drew Foresters on Tuesday.

The club, which held its meeting in the Green Room, heard Dr. Ralph R. Johnson announce the list of members of the TWELFTH NIGHT squad. This group will work with Dr. Johnson and will eventually be assigned to specific roles in the play. The roster includes Jean Russell, Claire Baird, Maxine Herman, Charles Redfern, Jim Benson, Herb Boyer, Al Wendel, Al Erickson, Oscar Tomlinson, Bill Howells, and Elmer Smith.

In addition, members of the Foresters were assigned to the production committees which are to work on TWELFTH NIGHT. Ruth Boltz was appointed stage manager. The other committee chairmen are Marilyn Sawyer, make-up; Emily Christensen, costumes; James Benson, publicity; Lois Vorhees, properties; Vera Allen, prompters; and Ed Norton, sound engineering. Hedding Richter and Dick Rohde will be in charge of lighting.

An election was also held to fill the recently vacated post of Treasurer. Wally King was elected to this office.

To encourage original, creative work on campus, the Foresters voted to sponsor original one-act play writing. Jean Russell, who was appointed chairman, stated that all manuscripts must be submitted to the Foresters by February 1, 1951. The contest is open to both College and Seminary students. A material award will be made to the winner, and the Foresters will produce one or two of the best plays during the

New Report Shows 398 Enrolled Here

The Registrars office has just released the statistics about the current Brothers College enrollment.

At the present time, there are 111 freshmen, 105 sophomores, 82 Juniors, 88 seniors, 7 unclassified and 5 special students. Of this total of 398, 242 of the students are men and 156 are women. In the incoming freshman class, 45 were women and only 41 were men.

Last year, women composed 32% of the student body, while this year 36% of the students were women. The reason for the rise of the percentage, was the large number of women in the new freshman class.

Branch Rickey to Speak

All Drew men have been invited to the next meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening of the Men's Club of the Madison Methodist Church at which Branch Rickey will be feature speaker.

Commuters Hold Hay Ride Tonight

A hay ride, this year's fall activity of the Commuter's Club, is being held on Friday, October 20th. The ride will start at 8:15 from the Lackawanna Railroad Station, and travel to Miele's Grove where refreshments will be served. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan will accompany the group. To cover the cost of the wagon and the food, $1.50 is asked of each person attending. Although another night was first planned, October 20th is the date as it is the only night the horse and wagon can be obtained. Everyone is invited to come. Those expecting to do so, contact Herb Martin, Treasurer, as soon as possible as a farm wagon can only carry a certain number of people, and no more.

At the last meeting of the Commuter's Club, John May was elected Secretary in a special election. He is taking the place of Binley Hoff who left Drew.

Debaters Hold First Meeting; Plan Program

Season May Begin In November This Year

Almost all of last year's debaters were out for the first squad meeting of the season which was held recently in the BC lounge. With Bert Amel as manager and Mr. Dean as coach and advisor, general plans were laid for the 1950-51 season. It is hoped that inter-collegiate debating will begin in November, rather than in February as it has in previous years.

The national question to be debated at colleges throughout the country this season, deals with the formation of an international organization by the non-Communist countries of the world. Each squad member was assigned several individuals or organizations to which he could write for information on this topic. Although letters have already been received from Hamilton, Columbia and several other schools requesting debates, no definite dates have been set as yet.

A program of intensive inter-squad debating will be inaugurated this year in order to enable all of the squad members to get practice in organization and delivery and to give the entire squad an opportunity to evaluate the issues on both sides of the question.

Since only two applications were received for the oratorical contest which was to have been sponsored this month by Tau Kappa Alpha, plans for the contest have been deferred until later in the season in hopes that more new students will come out and try for the cash prizes.

Consider Joining Freedom Crusade

The Student Council is presently considering joining the Crusade for Freedom. The National Committee for Free Europe, the organization that is running the Crusade, is setting up broadcasting facilities all over Europe. The purpose of these broadcasts is to carry the voices of exiled leaders back to their own people behind the Iron Curtain. The folk music, literature, religion and history of the captive countries, banned by communism, are kept alive in the hearts of the people by the programs heard over Radio Free Europe.

The Crusade is being operated because if we are to win the battle for men's minds, we must affirm loudly and unmistakably to the peoples of the world our belief in freedom for all. The objective is to give all Americans the opportunity to sign the Freedom Scroll affirming our belief as free Americans in the right of all men to freedom.

Other business that was discussed by the Chapel Committee concerned the election of new members to the Committee. It was decided by the Chapel Committee to allow five new students to join the Committee at the beginning of the spring semester.

The next open meeting of the Chapel Committee will be held following Religious Emphasis Week.

Editor's Corner

Lost and Found

Every now and then we are accused of hostility toward the Student Council. This will probably be interpreted as one of these times. It is not intended as such HOWEVER, things don't look too good when the Student Council starts losing things. The item in question is the first and only Amendment to the Student Association Constitution. Last term this amendment, dealing with the amending of the constitution, was put forth after the Council received a petition with far more signatures than the necessary fifteen percent of the student body. These students went to a great deal of effort to secure this amendment. The Council should expend the same effort in assuring a record of it.

A new Judicial Committee has been added to the Student Council. Consisting of five members of the Council, it will act to interpret the Constitution and make on-the-spot decisions when a question of interpretation or application of some part of the Constitution is necessary. Its need has long been apparent, both in and out of Council meetings.

While on the subject of the Student Council we'd like to offer a suggestion to students who can spare an hour or two every other Tuesday evening. Student Council meetings are of direct interest to every student, and they will be of greater value if more students take part in the discussions.

As for those students who can't afford two hours every other week - tune in next issue.

About the Acorn...

After each issue of the ACORN we usually receive a few comments on the paper - from make-up to grammar. If we are to turn out a better paper, however, we'll need more suggestions, more criticism. The best way to register such suggestions is at an ACORN meeting, held each Monday following publication at 4:00 P.M. in room 120 in the College Building. Letters to the Editor are always welcome, and may be left in the ACORN box in the mail room. Again, this is your newspaper - why not take an active part in it?

Much criticism, incidentally, has been received concerning the replies to the question in the INQUIRING REPORTER. Although some of the answers are undoubtedly ridiculous, unnecessary, and crude they are nevertheless the answers we received from students - students who knew the purpose and intent of the questions. It is fine to try to get sensible answers - we make every effort to select at least a few students who we know will contribute substantially to the purpose of the column - but the answers, good or bad, come from the student body and we in this case do not believe it necessary or judicious to alter what otherwise is a representative opinion of the students.

The Ruins That Were Home

Those who have been through the ruins of Hallasbury Castle recently have undoubtedly noticed the sacrificial offerings being made. In many cells plaster has been covered (with loving care) with the finest of oils and pigments; rustic-antique furniture has restored to its original condition (this is a condition?) All these improvements are the result of the "go-ahead" order from the administration last term for students to paint rooms. Isn't it amazing what a little mutual understanding and cooperation can accomplish?

Take a Mild Bow

We note with some pride that the ACORN was chosen along with other noteworthy documents to be placed in the metal box enclosed in the cornerstone of the new Seminary dormitory. What a comeback for the wise remarks that we ought to "take that paper and bury it!"

The Acorn Staff, on behalf of the Student Body of Brothers College, wish to extend to Larry Bonar our condolence on the loss of his father.

Letter to the Editor

Rogers House
October 6, 1950

Dear Editor,

Some say it's because I haven't been here long enough; some say I must have spent most of my life in the Navy; some say I'm just plain crazy. Whatever the reason may be, I must say that I really enjoy the meals here at Drew! I even found a couple of upper-classmen who agree with me, but they seem to be afraid to admit it. What are the possibilities of our forming a "Society for the Preservation of Encouragement of Meal Appreciation at Drew"? Sincerely,
Ninette Jenni

Club Briefs

Chess Club

The first meeting of the Chess Club for this term was held on October 12th. The members discussed the purposes of the club and organized an intra-club tournament by which they hope to determine the standing of the members. The club is planning to start a beginners session to teach students the fundamental principles of the game. Everyone interested is invited to attend these classes which will be held from 4:30 to 5:30 on the day which is found to be the most convenient for the majority.

French Club

The "Cercle Francais" held its first meeting on October 9. Plans were discussed for field trips to New York. Doctor Woolley, the advisor of the club, entertained with a tape recording of an interview with a French woman who gave her opinion of American youth. Refreshments were served. The newly elected officers of the club are Frank Dreisbach, president, and Blanche Jabitsky, secretary-treasurer. The next meeting will be held on October 23 in the Wendell Room of Mead Hall.

Tri-Beta

Tri-Beta met for the first time this term on October 11. Ruth Volz and Roger Miltrey talked on their summer experiences at Woods Hole Marine Biological Laboratory in Massachusetts. Dave Quinn discussed his trip to Oregon. Doctor Zuck is the advisor of the club.

Mrs. Korn Co-author, Illustrator Of Volume on Husband's Work

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Korn of the Art Department of Brothers College is the co-author and illustrator of a new book, "Trailblazer to Television", which was published in September by Scribner and Sons. It is a biography of her late husband, Dr. Arthur Korn, noted mathematical physicist and pioneer in television, who was a member of the Drew faculty during the war.

Dr. Korn was the first person to ever produce a picture by wire or wireless. He did this by taking everything step by step, and this method proved successful. The first wireless picture from Europe to America was received by THE NEW YORK WORLD in 1922 upon the election of the new pope.

Mrs. Korn drew all the pictures according to scale and they are all technically correct. Scribner and Sons, the publishers,

'Ghandi Assassination Inevitable' - - - Sheean

Ghandi's assassination was asserted to have been "inevitable" by Mr. Vincent Sheean, world famous author-correspondent, at the annual Founders Day Convocation of Drew University, Saturday in the Seminary Chapel. Mr. Sheean was introduced by President Fred G. Holloway to members of the Plays Collection of Old Records on Own Show

Among the talented Drew freshman is George Woodruff, who has the unusual hobby of collecting old records. Every Sunday from 12:30-1:00 P.M., on the Morristown radio station, W. M. T. R. (1250 on the dial), George presents his own program called "Voices of the Past". The program consists of the playing of old vocal records made from 1900-1930, featuring such great singers as Caruso, Galli-Curci, and Melba. George writes, directs, and produces this material as well as serving as the disc jockey.

His avocation dates back to when George was a junior at Chatham High School and began collecting old records. After four years of accumulating these classical discs, he approached the officials of W. M. T. R. and asked them if they would give him the opportunity to broadcast his records over their network. Since his trial script was approved in April, 1949, George has been volunteering his records and services over the Morristown network to let others enjoy his rare collection of "Voices from the Past."

George has not yet decided whether he would like to make radio his life work. Nevertheless, he has already achieved his claim to popularity by receiving fan mail from avid listeners.

George does not limit his interests to radio alone. On October 16, he will begin the first of a series of recorded concerts for the Friends of Morristown library. These concerts will be given every other week on alternate Mondays. The admission is free and George says, "All are invited to attend."

Aside from his love of classical music, George is a jazz fiend and would like to form a record club here at Drew.

In so much as television is concerned, George can only use profanity to describe his opinion of T.V. programs. He doesn't predict a bright future for T.V., but we can foresee a successful career for George here at Drew.

spring. It is the hope of the chairman, that literary figures who reside in the North Jersey area can be persuaded to judge the manuscripts.

Another innovation this year will be the use of a unit set consisting of curtains, platforms, and steps to form the background for the action of TWELFTH NIGHT. The stage crew is receiving the advice of a former member of the OLD VIC repertory theater in London, who will assist them on technical questions.

Ghandi was born during the period of the revival of Hinduism, at the time when India as a nation felt the necessity of returning to a creed. Because Ghandi went abroad to study law at eighteen years of age, he was expelled from his caste. The combined influence of the Gita and the New Testament upon his philosophical speculation was related by Mr. Sheean. In South Africa, Ghandi encountered a social situation, the oppression of Indians, which affected him greatly and he went into a form of public service. At thirty-five, he renounced the world and adhered to a life of truth, non-violence, and purity. Mr. Sheean stated that "a leader cannot reach the masses in India except religiously." Ghandi also participated in active practical service to help his people. He re-introduced spinning and weaving into India. In the meantime, he led many non-violent armies in protest to actions by the British Viceroy.

During the winter of 1948, Mr. Vincent Sheean went to India to interview Ghandi for the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE and the WASHINGTON POST. He said, "Life (for Ghandi) was a sacred drama which always demands the blood sacrifice. I wanted to ask a few questions before he performed this sacrifice. I did see him for two long periods. The third day he was killed. I was there. I had expected this to happen. In the drama of Ghandi's life this was inevitable. The Indian people cannot possibly forget this drama...It was extraordinary and has no parallel." Mr. Sheean said that Nehru "to the limit of his ability is devoted to Ghandi in principle...When the world is materially polarized a third force assumes greater value...India has a pivotal and decisive voice...Under the present situation the United States and The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics will never go to war...The nature of the weapon (atomic bomb) is the deterrent." India's voice is vital to the cause of peace.

Mr. Sheean is a personality of world note. He has travelled the entire globe in pursuit of world news and has written several novels, as well as non-fiction. His work of non-fiction on the life of Ghandi is entitled "Lead Kindly Light".

For five years now, the B. C. women have been striving to establish a women's athletic activities program which will satisfy and encourage women's interest and participation in sports. Spirits undaunted by lack of funds and facilities, the girls have set up a program that has been varied and which tries to include as many participants as possible. The struggle to maintain such a program has been mostly uphill work. The necessity of scheduling home games because of lack of funds to provide transportation has limited activities. The lack of gym facilities for the college and the seminary, coupled with the lack of adequate coaching and practice periods is a tremendous problem.

The women have tried to cooperate with the other organizations who need the gym. Intramurals in basketball were, until this year, scheduled for 6:30 P. M. Swimming is also scheduled at this hour. The girls did not accept home matches in tennis last spring because the men needed the courts for matches and practice. The women agreed to schedule their matches for the fall. Unfortunately however, the courts are not yet in playing condition, which means that the women will have no home matches in 1950.

This year, the girls are producing a water ballet entirely on their own. Twice a week they meet together to rehearse routines, which they compose, and to discuss costuming, music and other details. The fall ballet will be presented on November 28-29.

Four intercollegiate basketball games were played in 1947-48. The program increased during the succeeding years and in 1949-50 fifteen intercollegiate games were played plus three games against local teams. The opposition included such colleges as L. I. U., Hofstra, St. Johns University, N.J.C. and Montclair. Although these colleges have a larger student body from which they may choose their varsity teams, Drew managed to hold its own, sometimes winning and sometimes losing by a narrow margin. The games were enthusiastically attended by members of the student body and faculty, and Drew received publicity in Newark, Morristown and New York papers. The coaching for these games was done by one of the college men who generously offered his time during the last half of the season. Let a brief summary of the record speak of itself: Won 10 - Lost 8.

The girls have taken the responsibility of program planning, the scheduling of intra-murals, the scheduling of inter-collegiate games, entertainment of visiting teams (which is paid for out of the W.A.A. funds) and the arrangements for the gym, fields, and courts. In short, the W.A.S. is handled exclusively by the girls. This is not a simple task. It entails a great deal of correspondence, constant reference to B. C. and Seminary social calendars, the contacting of referees, and the approval of various committees.

For all of this, there is a need for encouragement, coaching, and more adequate funds. A few faculty members, along with many students, have shown sympathetic interest. Now is the time for both students and faculty to encourage the program to insure its future success, or to forwardly reject women's athletic activities outside of gym classes.

Knights in Tights Allow Girls Score in Annual Hockey Riot

For the second consecutive year the women's hockey team met the knights in tights in a win-or-be-squashed battle of field hockey.

The game took place on Wednesday afternoon, October 11, and after a brief warm up period for the benefit of the knights, the battle between the sexes commenced. The knights took the lead down the field while the women bravely defended their goal posts (two plaid shirts). Corry Rogers and Cubby Tiger thought they were in a golf game, thus the ball had to be brought back to the 25 yard line for a bully between "Vish" and Joe Holzinger. After picking up the referee, Sally Parker, Joan Hahn sparked a girls drive down the field toward the girls goal. Bob Germond intercepted and in a clash of sticks the men drove through the girls goalie, Petey, and made their first score.

The rest of the game continued with ups and downs with the boys in the lead. In the third quarter, the girls scored their first point after Barbara Buckley outran Doc Walters, bypassed Sharpey, and evaded Hed Richter. She passed the ball through the goal and Bob Germond caught it, but his reflexes were too slow. Joan Hahn took his fingers off in scoring the first point. In an effort to regain their supremacy, the boys huddled around the ball which promptly disappeared. After a battle of who can hit who first with the sticks, the boys took the victory with a score of 5-1. The game was called due to the darkness.

SENIORS RECORD 5th WIN

Remain Unbeaten To Hold Grid Lead

The Standings of the League

Seniors	5 - 0 - 1	1,000
Juniors	3 - 2 - 1	.600
Sophs	2 - 2 - 2	.500
Frosh	0 - 6 - 0	.000

A last second desperation leap by Frank Ritzer in the last quarter of Friday's game between the seniors and the juniors gave the Seniors a 7-0 victory for their fifth win with only one tie. It was the second time this season that the Seniors pulled this feat, the first coming on October 3 to the tune of 7-0. In the other game of the day the missing freshman cost their team the game as the Sophs rolled up a 41-0 count. This game was the worst of the six straight scoreless losses the Frosh have suffered.

The seniors, obviously deserving of first place in the Inter-mural League, played with a strong backfield of Ritzer, and Co. who passed almost all over the field. The touchdown play was set up on the eight where Ritzer had carried the ball on a reverse, and came on a pass from Frazer to Ritzer in the end zone. Frank, being played perfectly by the Junior wall, had to make a desperate leap, catching the ball over his head and netted the T.D. The extra point attempt was successful.

In games Tuesday the seniors defeated the freshmen by a score of 6-0, and the sophomores and juniors battled to a scoreless tie. These results change the standings as follows:

	W	L	T	Pct.
Seniors	6	0	1	1,000
Juniors	3	2	2	.600
Sophs	2	2	3	.500
Frosh	0	7	0	.000

Prof Smith, Richter Meet in Net Final

The class A tennis tournament has moved right along, and the finalists have been determined, while the class B tournament has bogged down with only one match already played.

Prof Smith and Hedding Richter will battle it out in the finals of the class A tournament. Prof Smith reached the finals by virtue of a 6-3, 6-1 win over Paul Drucker and another victory in a marathon affair over George Frazer. Smith and Frazer decided to go 4 out of 7 sets to determine the winner. Evidently they were trying to play themselves into shape for the winter knife and fork league, which will get them properly out of shape so that they can work to get themselves in shape for the tennis season next spring. The scores were 6-0, 6-8, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2.

Richter gained the semi-finals by defeating John McCallum 7-5, 7-5, and the finals by default over Bob Rosenkrance who conveniently got himself hospitalized just before his semi-final match. There is a strong suspicion among those in the know that Rosenkrance's difficulties were nothing more than hysterical symptoms stemming from the prospect of having to face Richter and Prof Smith.

In the only class B game played to date, Bob Von Geldern defeated Edwards 6-2, 6-3.

Drop First Decision

The women's hockey team dropped its first decision of the season 4-0, to a strong Panzer team, last Friday at the East Orange School's field. Although no definite schedule may be published, a game with Princeton tops the program for future games.

The Sophs, meanwhile, were settling down to the task of slaughtering the again undermanned Frosh who played surprisingly well against overwhelming odds. The Sophs, in addition to their number and ability, were able to take advantage of a few errors on behalf of the officials. Their biggest break along these lines was in the second quarter with the Frosh in possession of the ball on the fourth down. With the Frosh in kicking formation one of the Soph linemen went offside a few seconds before the snap from center. The officials, not calling the play, gave the Sophs their chance which came a few plays later on a long pass from Ted Canty to Bob Kneebone for their third T.D. of the game.

DREW COFFEE SHOP

Sandwiches - Drinks

Campus Personalities

Meet Mrs. Sandello

"Two cartons of milk!" "A brownie!" "One covered doughnut!"

Practically everyone on the Drew campus has gone through this routine at the Coffee Shop, and a good many of us have become acquainted with Mrs. F. Sandello, who runs the shop. She is one of those unsung heroes whose services are generally taken for granted but who still deserve a great deal of credit.

"Mrs. S.", as she is affectionately known around campus, came to Drew three years ago at the request of Mr. Horace Benjamin to establish a small luncheonette. Previously she had worked at Lucian's in Madison.

In the three years spent at Drew, she has changed the coffee shop from a tiny "sandwich dispensary" to the present "general store". Commuters and the unfortunate souls who have missed their meals at the Refectory are able to buy soda, coffee, cake, pie, cigarettes, and other food in the shop.

The shop is unique in its many functions. Besides being a luncheonette, it is an odd combination of social room, meeting place, and study hall. One never knows quite what to expect upon entering the store.

One girl, a young Zoology student, last semester tried to turn the place into a laboratory when she attempted to dissect a fetal pig over a cup of coffee.

The shop has grown in size from an establishment of one employee (Mrs. S.) to the present size of 12 girls and three boys.

About the biggest secret on campus is who gave Mrs. Sandello the Drew class ring last year. This news she guards from all clever students who try by various means of trickery to uncover the answer.

In private life the smiling and ever cheerful coffee shop boss is the mother of a nineteen year old son, Eugene, who is currently serving in the Navy. Indeed, almost every other word she utters concerns him. When Mrs. S. isn't putting the mustard on a ham and cheese sandwich in the shop, she is reading the latest letter from her son.

Sewing and crocheting take up most of her spare time. One look at her wardrobe, most of which she made herself, will attest to her ability with a needle and thread. Although most of her time is devoted to making the leisure hours of Drew students a little more pleasant, she still belongs to the Forum Club, an Italian-American social group in Madison, and to the Woman's Club. Last year she solicited $137 for the Cancer Drive in her neighborhood.

As for the future, Mrs. S. hopes to remain here for quite some time. Her current goal is to have a soda fountain and a more complete and larger luncheonette, in a building by itself where the students can really relax and enjoy their spare time.

After three years on campus, Mrs. Sandello says, "Never before have I worked in an environment where I've liked the people so much."

To portray the personality of this campus favorite is not an easy thing. We can speak of her fine work in making the coffee shop a profitable venture, but she herself seems to add a little extra to campus life. It could be the friendly smile she has for everyone who comes into the shop, or maybe it's the constant chatter of friendly small talk and campus news with which she keeps things humming. Perhaps the kindly advice she has given to many has won her numerous friends.

cowboys and horses which encircled a saddle. The entertainment took the form of a traveling troop show. A master of ceremonies introduced the acts which consisted of a magician, a chorus line, and an Indian dance, concluded with the group singing an original song.

Campus Row gathered in the college lounge which had the setting of a typical college lodge. Pennants, scattered magazines, cards, and games contributed to the informal atmosphere. Marshmallows were toasted over the large fireplace and couples danced to recorded music.

Madison House became Louis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." A more than life-sized Alice parted the drapes at the front door and welcomed the many visitors to the house party. The hallway was covered with hearts and cards on streamers and "Alice in Wonderland" characters graced the walls.

You May Not Agree, But It's... AS I SEE IT

By AL ERICSON

If you have heard this please don't stop me because I want to hear it again! A certain Drew Biology professor's definition of a kiss: The anatomical juxtaposition of two orbicular oris muscles in a state of contradiction.... apropos?

There is a controversy now raging as to the place of the Liberal Arts College in our society today! Most of us have heard the "wise-guy" who seems to think that a liberal arts graduate is about as prepared to make a living as a pickpocket in a nudist colony. But seriously I think we all ought to take inventory on this point, and formulate in our own minds our position on the issue. Personally I believe a liberal Arts education prepares the individual for "success" in life, more so than a specialist or vocational school. It is not meant by "success", however, the mere ability to acquire a million dollars!! But of course money never made a fool of anybody; it only shows 'em up.

I have heard through various sources that some individuals on campus don't approve of girls in slacks; perhaps they have something there! Or as Ogden Nash put it:

"Sure, deck your lower limbs in pants
Yours are the limbs, my sweetening
You look divine as you advance;
Have you seen yourself retreating?"

From The Sea-Girt Beach (Jersey Shore) a certain photographer aptly characterized the modern girl -- "over-exposed and under-developed."

EXTRA: Wanted, an enterprising young man for job in radio, $50 a minute for pinching the girl that says: Ooooooh that Oxydol Sparkle! - No previous experience necessary - Apply Heisse Johnson's office.

Drew Girl: "Why don't you wear ear muffs?"

Drew Boy: "I haven't worn them since the accident."

Drew Girl: "What accident?"

Drew Boy: "Someone asked me if I wanted a drink and I didn't hear him."

Overheard at Rogers House:

"I'm going to love you till the cows come home, darling."

"Okay, but never mind petting the calves in the meantime."

During the last war a young officer in the Egyptian Army, called away to the wars, locked his beautiful wife in armor. Then he gave the key to his best friend with the admonition: "If I don't return in six months, use this key. To you my dear friend, I entrust it."

He then rode off to war.

About 11 miles from home he saw a cloud of dust approaching and waited. His trusted friend on horseback, galloped up and said: "You gave me the wrong key!"

cussion led by Professor Stanley R. Hopper and David R. Mace followed by luncheon in the refectory.

The Brothers College alumni program featured an entertainment program on the back porch of Mead Hall in the afternoon, when Professor Jordy gave his famous lecture on "Water" assisted by Jack Infanger. At the Brothers College dinner in the refectory, President Holloway outlined the DREW ADVANCE in detail - a new development plan which has a current goal of $1,500,000 for dormitories and endowment.
