

Mice, Moods, Magic Reign in Dorms

"Merry and mousy," summarized one guest at men's house parties held Saturday night, October 8.

While the men of Sam Bowne established a second Greenwich Village, Faulkner threw an out-of-season Christmas party with trees and all the trimmings.

Baldwin Hall created "The Mouse House," in which the downstairs recreation room and the entrance was the mouse domain and upstairs was "where the people live," according to Bob Slater, social chairman. Outside by the door, which was cut down to mouse-hole proportions, the men constructed a giant mousetrap. Those "mice" who passed the out-sized decoration and stooped to enter the mouse-hole main door found themselves in the painted-sheet mouse tunnel stretching to the recreation room door. Steve Karakashian and Larry Slacum were in charge of decorations.

CHEESE CENTERPIECE

A giant clay cheese centerpiece, sculptured by Reinhard Loy, dominated the dance floor downstairs. Around it seventy-odd couples, the highest participation ever in the dorm, whirled to the "live" music supplied by Chick Straut and Stan Wiley.

Nort Wettstein and Ken Hellman engineered the en-buffet style. Favors were supplied by Walt Adams and Jim Bloom.

Faulkner House managed the novel use of an old theme as a community project, under the direction of Tom Curry, house president.

The fellows imported decorations from home and made use of several trees and innumerable pine boughs to trim the house inside and out.

TREES AND STOCKINGS

In the two triples, furniture was rearranged to provide a dance floor and a cozy lounge, each with its own tree and with stockings on the mantles. Beneath the tree in the lounge, girls found novelty gifts from their dates.

Wes Carson secured the services of the professional Bob Daniels, Clown Prince of Magic. Howard Applegate managed refreshments, donuts and punch, while Jim Nuner and Dick Boohar furnished favors.

GREENWICH VILLAGE

Sam Bowne's Greenwich Village theme was developed by decorating each room, including the occupant, to represent some phase of the Village.

As in Faulkner House, all were invited. At the request of the College Social Committee, Baldwin Hall remained closed to all visitors other than dates until 10:30 so that the smaller houses could plan more accurately for refreshments and entertainment.

Enrollments Are Totaled

Total enrollment for Brothers College this year is 393, 189 men and 204 women. The breakdown of the classes is as follows. The senior class has a total of 64 students, 28 men and 36 women. The junior class has 68 students, 30 men and 38 women. The sophomore class, the only class with more men than women, with a total of 103, has 57 men and 46 women. Freshman enrollment totals 143 students, 69 men and 74 women. There are 15 special and unclassified students. Total enrollment includes 156 new students, 30 of whom are transfers from other colleges.

The theological school has a total of 264 full time B.O. students, 257 men and 7 women. There are 87 seniors, 86 men and 1 woman. The middlers total 95, 90 men and 5 women. The junior men outnumber the women 81 to 1. Of the total enrollment 81 are new students. The unclassified, special, and S.T.M. degree students total 36, and the Graduate School has 80 students.

Poet Ciardi To Analyze Arts At Convocation

John Ciardi, lecturer in English and poet in residence at Rutgers University, will be the first guest on Drew's 1955-56 Convocation Program. Also a translator, critic, and teacher, Ciardi will speak on "The Point of the Arts" here the evening of November 7.

Among his literary works are his poetry volume, As If, published this year by the Rutgers University Press, and a translation of Dante's Inferno published by Mentor, which received high praise from scholars and reviewers. Many Drew upperclassmen may remember his name from the freshman English text, Reader and Writer, which was used last year. In it his essay "What Doesn't it Take to Enjoy a Poem?" and his poem "On a Photo of Sergeant Ciardi a Year Later" were published. He has also been associated with Twayne Publishers for many years.

Ciardi has taught creative writing at Harvard and Princeton as well as Rutgers. He is listed in Who's Who.

This year's convocation programs are planned according to last year's student prefer-

Physics "Prof" Leaves Drew

Dr. Marshall C. Harrington resigned as Professor of Physics at Brothers College in July 1955 to accept a research position with the U.S. Navy at David Taylor Model Basin, Carderock, Maryland.

Dr. Harrington joined the Drew faculty in 1931 as Assistant Professor of Physics and Mathematics, having received his bachelor and master of arts degrees from Princeton University. The following year he received his doctorate in physics from Princeton.

In 1937 Dr. Harrington became associate professor at Drew and in 1942 a full professor. He is a Fellow in the American Association for the Advancement of Science, and a member of Sigma Xi, national science honorary society.

From September 1952 to July 1954 Dr. Harrington was with the UNESCO Technical Assistance Mission in Bagdad, Iraq. There he helped develop facilities, plan curriculum, and recruit teachers for the physics department of the Iraq College of Arts and Science. He resumed teaching at Drew during the 1954-55 academic year.

At the present Dr. Harrington's work at DTMB is in the area of theory.

ence sheets. Results of the census show that BC students' first choices are programs of music, art, and theatre, then current events, government, and literature.

The Convocation Committee, headed by Dean Florence Morris, met September 28 to discuss tentative plans. Dr. Baker recommended that the Milnes of the University of New Hampshire biology department be invited for the December 5 convocation to lecture and show Audubon and nature films for which they have gained some note. On December 14 the annual University Carol Contest will be presented.

DREW HOST TO NJCPA AT FIRST FALL MEET

With twenty-five colleges and universities represented, the annual New Jersey Collegiate Press Association conference will be held on Drew campus, October 22. Murray Kempton, columnist for The New York Daily Post, will speak on civil liberties and the college newspaper at the general meeting opening the conference. Kempton, who is also the author of the recently published Part of Our Time, will be representing the American Civil Liberties Union.

Following the general meeting of all staffs in the Rose

New Dorm For Co-Eds

The residence which has housed Drew presidents since 1869 will be converted next year to a dormitory for college women, the University News Bureau has announced.

The three-floor, thirteen-room structure is expected to be ready for occupancy by co-eds in September of 1956.

Plans for the conversion have been made possible through a gift to the University for the erection of a new president's residence. Location of this new home in Drew Forest will be at a point not far from Green Village Road. Funds for the project are being contributed by a member of the Baldwin family which has had a long-time interest in Drew; two of its members, the late Arthur and Leonard Baldwin, having established Brothers College.

The University architect is now making plans for the new home which will be ready for President and Mrs. Holloway next year.

Memorial Library at 1:15, both advisors and students will attend workshops presided over by student leaders. These include meetings for editors of newspapers, yearbooks, and literary magazines as well as advisors. Workshops will also be conducted for staff members in the various phases of journalistic activity. Jack Watkins, Editor-in-Chief of the Acorn, will conduct a workshop in newspaper editing.

A general meeting will be held at 3:20. The tea-dance at 4:10 will climax the convention.

During the day a display of New Jersey's collegiate newspapers, yearbooks, and literary magazines will be on view in the Brothers College foyer.

New Jersey Collegiate Press Association is the only association of its kind in New Jersey. Designed to promote and encourage collegiate journalism, the Association holds monthly meetings at various New Jersey colleges.

The publications of such schools as Rutgers, Seton Hall, Montclair State Teachers, St. Peter's, and St. Elizabeth's will be represented.

POSTPONEMENT

Founders' Day, originally scheduled for Thursday, October 13, has been postponed indefinitely, President Holloway announced.

Three Elected To Cheering Squad

Janet Fults, Betty Cotterill and Emily McGregor, a sophomore and two freshmen, respectively, were chosen new members of the Green and Gold cheering squad by Dr. Wagner, its advisor, and the remaining members of last year's squad.

Babs Ridley and Cathy Draper were named alternates for the year. An alternate will become an active member of the cheering squad if one of the permanent members is dropped for an excess of absences.

Nine girls participated in the tryouts, in which only freshmen and sophomores are eligible candidates.

Former members of the team include Nancy Schoonmaker-head cheerleader, and Pat Brown, seniors; Judy McCartney and Joan Torrens, juniors; and Peg Luisa, a sophomore.

Board Launches Gym Campaign

Drew Board of Trustees formally opened the fund raising campaign for the proposed new gymnasium-auditorium at a meeting and dinner Friday, September 30, 1955.

President Holloway and Mr. Carlton Perine, an alumnus of Drew, head the controlling committee which co-ordinates the activities of three organizations participating in the campaign. The Alumni Association will conduct a program of solicitation by mail. Two committees will be working with the Board of Trustees. An Essex County committee will hold a series of luncheons, and a Morris County committee has planned a program of individual solicitation. Each organization will function as independent foundation in its area of interest.

While plans were approved for construction of the gym last spring and contributions have already been received, this meeting marked the first formal step taken. Thus far gifts total $205,000, or almost one quarter of the estimated cost. This sum has been donated by Drew alumni, faculty, and friends.

NOTES IN THE MARGIN

So often, on campus, we hear reiterated these words, "Drew certainly belongs to the 'Ivory tower league'." The term is applied to many things; our outlook on life, the lack of attention to matters of national and international import, and very often the term is used as an adjective to describe that which is expressed in The Drew Acorn. However, at times The Acorn feels it important to express opinions about what is happening within our "Ivory tower." From time to time, therefore, Notes in the Margin dealing with a variety of campus matters will appear.

A great deal of attention has of late centered about the "refectory situation." Complaints ranging from the loss of a prune to the lack of a friendly working environment have been heard about campus. Misunderstanding reigns supreme. Mrs. Baker, the dietician, in a recent interview, made several explanations. Items which have been missing on recent menus, such as jelly and coffee cake, will be restored. Because of the great amount of food which is wasted, Mrs. Baker instructed those working behind the counter in some instances to give smaller portions of vegetables and salad. However, no similar order was made concerning meat portions. Anyone who wishes "seconds" in all items, excepting meat and certain desserts is welcome to ask for the same, Mrs. Baker further stated.

Of no little importance is the publication of the ECAC report. The student body is indebted to the concern and interest displayed not only by those who worked to submit carefully prepared and accurate budgets. The Acorn is especially grateful for the consideration given it. The large increase in apportionment from the ECAC fund was necessary to insure publication in a period when costs of printing are rapidly rising.

There are many things about Drew that its students can take a great deal of pride in. Among these are its buildings and campus. Yet, as one walks about campus he is quite aware that both are often highly abused. We would call attention to the front lawn of Baldwin Hall, which is rapidly being un-officially turned into a parking lot for the residents of that dorm. Also the suggestion that the "lounge lizards" be a little bit more careful of where they butt their cigarettes (It does things to the floor tile.) might be of some value. The administration could help to improve the appearance of our campus by authorizing the paving of certain paths.

We hear a great deal, often, about the resignation and retirements of faculty members, but often little or nothing about those in administrative positions. One person in such a position is Mrs. Karl Marx, former Secretary to Registrar Glass, who recently submitted her resignation. Mrs. Marx will be remembered as the helpful source of answers to the many, many questions taken to that office. With her go our best wishes and appreciation.

Music Notes

by Georgia Bewley

This month is a period of quiet before the musical "storm." The choir is rehearsing for its appearances in November and next semester. The Colonial Little Symphony will begin rehearsing at the end of October. Its first Sunday Concert will take place at 4 p.m. November 13 in the Pilling Room. The program will feature Mary Canberg, violinist and Dr. Newlin, pianist.

Lest the music enthusiast be discouraged, however, several concerts are being presented in nearby areas during the next few weeks. November 7, the Community Concert Organization will present Boyd Nee and the Heart House Orchestra from Canada at Summit High School. Any students who have tickets to the Morristown Community Concert series can use these in Summit. Dr. Newlin always has a few extra tickets and should be contacted by anyone who wishes to attend this program.

The New York Opera Company is presenting Troilus and Cressida by Walton on October 21 and 30. The production is in English. On October 27 Golden Slippers by Tschalkowski will be given in a new arrangement by the same company.

CLUB NEWS

Sociology Club has scheduled panel discussions, a field trip and a movie to illustrate some of the aspects of this field. The club also hopes to have speakers from a social agency.

Psychology Club plans to visit Cooper Union and to attend a play in New York in the spring. Officers for the year are: Ann Larson, president; David Rein, vice president; Mary Lee Forrest, secretary-treasurer; Jo Bullard, publicity.

Spanish Club has just begun its activities for this year with Dr. Dominovith as its new advisor. Bob Slater will act as president until the election of new officers during the meeting this Thursday. The club has decided that officers will be elected for only a semester instead of for the entire year. Some of the activities planned are field trips, plays and games.

American Chemical Society at its first meeting elected officers with Roy Haynes as president. Suggestions were made for field trips.

Drew offers its students a wide variety of clubs in which to find an expression for their interests. Some of these groups are more active than others but this is directly dependent on student interest and participation. Freshmen are urged to lend their abilities to make these organizations a vital part of life on campus.

The Psychology Club and Sociology Club will have a joint meeting October 12 to hear Dr. Paul Benjamin Maves. Dr. Maves, who teaches religious education in the Seminary, will speak to the group on the problems of old age.

CAMPUS PERSONALITY

HAROLD E. QUIGLEY

by Neale Secor

Personal comment, fall, 1952: "If there is one job I could never handle it's that of President of Student Council."

Official comment, spring, 1954: "Hal Quigley Wins Council Presidency." Thus is the growth of Harold Edward Quigley Jr.; thus is the growth of the boy who entered Drew in '52 to the man who today ably represents the interests of the student body. This conversion from the shy, almost socially backward, freshman to the straight forward (though still not outspoken) senior indicates a maturation in self-confidence. That maturity was recognized by those who officially placed their confidence in him. For his basic criteria of sincerity, an eager mind, an open heart, and a highly developed sense of humor have not changed; they have merely been reinforced and strengthened by the three years of active learning and living within the Drew Community.

Hal became a "junior" in November of 1934 in the suburbs of Boston. He is now a resident of Winchester, Massachusetts, and it was there

Soccer Rally Inspires Team

The pep rally which was scheduled to be held around a bonfire on Young Field, Friday, September 30, was rained out and held in the College Hall Lounge.

Pat Brown, Judy McCartney, Peg Luisa and Nancy Schoonmaker, remaining members of last year's cheering squad, led the cheers. Nancy introduced Dr. Bicknell, faculty advisor of the team. He in turn presented Coach Bannon.

After presenting the players individually, Coach Bannon emphasized in his remarks that while Drew has a good soccer team, it is important that the students support it at all games.

Refreshments were served after the rally, and there was dancing in the lounge.

COME ONE! COME ALL!

Green Village will be the destination of those attending the "All College Hayride", Saturday, October 22, from 8 to 11 p.m. Those planning to go are asked to bring whatever food they want. The Social Committee will supply ice, soda, charcoal, relish, and mustard.

Anyone planning to attend is asked to sign a list that will be posted.

he attended high school. Membership in the National Honor Society and presidency of his senior class highlighted his secondary school career. His active interest in church activities began early in his life and he soon became president of the local youth fellowship. The sports world of Winchester High lost an avid football recruit, when Hal inadvertently mislaid his cleats. He manages to hold onto his sneakers, however, and their use in the football intramurals of Drew helps to compensate the earlier loss.

One would hardly know that the generally soft-spoken "Quig" was once Massachusetts' oratorical champion, but this is typical of the many qualities that lie just below the surface of the lanky Bostonian. These qualities of leadership became more evident, however, as Hal became sophomore vice president of his collegiate class, an active member of Drew Fellowship, a member of the Washington Semester clan, "House Father" of Sam Bowne, and finally president of the Student Council.

One admires Hal more when he understands the personal and financial handicaps which have accompanied his college experience. But even this is relatively insignificant in comparison to the personal development itself - a growth which will continue to leave its imprint on the minds and hearts of all with whom he comes in contact, upon leaving Drew, regardless of his chosen profession.

FELLOWSHIP PLANS FOR 1955

Mrs. Elizabeth Korn will present a program of religious art at the Drew Fellowship meeting in College Hall, 7:30 p.m., October 9. A worship service will follow.

Professor Haas, of the Seminary, explained the origin of hymns and led in a hymn service and "festival" at the second meeting of the organization, October 2. The program was preceded by a buffet supper.

A panel discussion by government students is tentatively planned for October 23. The October 30 meeting will feature a special music program.

Fellowship committees are forming now, and interested students should check the College Hall bulletin board for opportunities to work.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

Because only Viceroy gives you 20,000 filter traps in every filter tip, made from a pure natural substance found in delicious fruits and other edibles!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
3. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy cigarettes have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
4. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip... and Viceroy costs only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filters!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette... that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

OAK LEAVES Announces Staff University Lists Job Openings Mad House Open House

Ruth Smith, editor of the 1956 Oak Leaves, has announced the completion of appointments to the yearbook staff. Neale Secor and Bob Slater will assist with senior portraits and write-ups; Helen Garrett, clubs and activities; Carol Niederhofer, senior activities; and Al Yuen, staff photographer. Judy McCartney, business manager, heads a team of "ad-men" consisting of Steve Karakashian, Jim Gerber, Ellen Schneider, and Andree Liddell.

The deadline for the first two sections of the book is January 20 with the date for delivery on campus set for May 15, 1956.

A new policy was initiated in that the yearbook assumed payment of the initial photography fee formerly paid by each senior.

Mr. John Watkins, Editor
 The Acorn
 Drew Forest
 Madison, New Jersey

Dear Mr. Watkins:

In the belief that the students of the college have the right to know what the Finance Board of the ECAC is doing with their money, I have been directed by the Board to submit the following report. You will note that the report consists of a summary of last year's activities and a statement of the budget appropriations made by the Board for the current year. These are summarized in the following table.

* $100.00 transferred from Debate account.

You will notice that no budget appropriation has been made for Debate or for the Tower. In the case of Debate, the Board was not willing to appropriate funds in the absence of any definite plans or schedule of activities. In the case of the Tower, no budget request was submitted.

The total of expenditures authorized for ECAC activities in the current year is some twenty-five hundred dollars greater than last year. This very significant increase resulted from two considerations. First, and of major importance, was the increase in the student activities fees this year. Second is the increase in total enrollment apparent this fall. These factors will also provide an opportunity, it is hoped, for the Board to repay its debt to the college and to accumulate a modest reserve fund.

Sincerely,

H. Jerome Cramer

Skipping about here and there, some interesting discoveries have been made concerning this year's soccer team. Giving a bright outlook to this sport in the future is the fact that seven of the eleven starting men are eligible for at least two more years of play...Among the starting men are four who have claims on nations other than the United States. These are Jacques Duvoisin and Ed Smit, from continental Europe; Dave Hargreaves, England and Dan Kim, Korea...Larry Slacum acted as captain of the team in the first game...The posts supporting the nets behind the goal posts have had their positions changed after helping eliminate one of the opposing team's scores in the first game of the season...The presence of Jacques Duvoisin on the soccer squad, after it was reported he would not return to Drew this fall, has bolstered the defense which in early practice sessions looked weak.

Absence of cheer leaders at the first soccer game came as a disappointment to many fans, including this writer. It seemed there were several reasons for this situation, but with the appearance of some of the cheering squad in the second game, it is apparent that the difficulties have been taken care of. The E.C.A.C. granted the cheer leaders the amount of money necessary to purchase new sweaters, which alleviated the problem of proper uniforms for cheering out-of-doors. Members of the squad have arranged to have three cheer leaders present at each home and away game. This was necessary because some of the girls work Saturday afternoons and were unable to cheer every week. New cheers, appropriate for use at the soccer games, have been worked out.

Nancy Schoonmaker, captain of this year's cheering squad, has made the suggestion that in order to have better and more original cheers, a contest among the student body might be sponsored. This might also build up the interest and spirit of the students. Another suggestion made was that of having male cheer leaders. Most other co-educational schools have mixed squads, and it might be just the thing to give some new life to our cheering.

Apologies and Corrections: Larry Slacum is not the only two-letter man in the senior class, as Jacques Duvoisin has Varsity D's in soccer and tennis...The Class of 1957 did not take the championship in intramural football last year, but finished second to the Class of 1955.

SOPHS, JRS SHOW POWER IN INTRAMURAL LEAGUE

by Bill Craven

The first clash of the classes took place at Young Field on Tuesday, September 27. The frosh, showing much power, trounced the seniors 19-6. All three freshman touchdowns were scored on passes from John Smidt to Jack Dempster. The big freshman line, consistently breaking through to the senior backfield, prevented the Vander Schaaf to Canfield combination from being very effective.

On the east end of the field during the first day's play a real battle took place between the junior team (minus Jack McCluskey) and the sophomore team (plus transfer Sam Hipsher). Hipsher, playing an admirable game at quarterback, threw to Greg Mantel who showed his speed in dashing to the goal for the first score of the game. Hipsher then passed to Ron Pennipede for the extra point. The juniors came back in good spirit, with Ray Strelecki tossing consecutive passes to Tuzenue, Nicholas, and finally to Craven for the TD. Failing to make the extra point, the juniors went down to defeat at the hands of the sophomores, 7-6.

Friday, September 30, changed the picture considerably, though, as the juniors showed up with all they had and downed the cocky freshmen, 22-0. The winners broke up both the powerful frosh line and the Smidt to Dempster passing attack with apparent ease.

Also on the second day, sophomores again proved their superiority in downing the seniors, 19-0. This put the sophs in undisputed first place and the seniors in undisputed last place. The frosh and juniors were tied at second.

Tuesday, October 4, brought a scrappy fight between the frosh and sophomores, with the sophs winning their third straight, 14-0. Again it was Hipsher's accurate passing which made the day for the sophomore team.

Seniors, after showing little power in their first two games, really scared a confident junior team by holding them to a 6-6 tie until the very last play of the game. Strelecki threw to Nicholas for the winning touchdown, making the final score juniors 12, seniors 6. The seniors got their TD on a pass from Vander Schaaf to Newman, while the juniors scored their first touchdown of the game on an excellent run back of the kick-off by Bill Craven, behind fine blocking.

The league standings on October 4 were: sophomores 3 wins, no losses; juniors-2 wins, one loss; freshmen-one win, 2 losses; seniors-no wins, 3 losses.

BANNON BOYS TRIUMPH IN OPENER AGAINST NY

by Dave Fults

Led by freshman Ed Smit, who scored two goals, and Wally Cawein, who tallied a third marker, the Drew Circuit Riders started the 1955 soccer season on the right foot, blasting New York Community College by a 3 to 1 score.

The green and gold clad booters controlled the game throughout, leading by a 2 to 1 score at the end of the first period of play on the strength of goals by Cawein, who booted home a hard shot from the left side, and Smit, who put the ball into the nets on an assist from Dick Wainwright. Dick Loher scored N.Y.C.C.'s only goal of the game, assisted by the passing of Rousier.

Play see-sawed back and forth during the second quarter and although Drew seemed to have edge, neither team was able to score. Cawein and Wainwright worked the ball in close several times, but the fine play of Zellar, the New York goalie, prevented the Drew booters from garnering their third goal of the game in that period.

BOB BANNON

by Ken Hellman

That biting voice you hear echoing across Young Field every fall afternoon from 4 till 6 belongs to our hustling soccer coach, Robert J. Bannon. "Coach" as his players call him, is no one to talk about himself, but he keeps his soccer players talking about him while they run their countless laps around the field. But Bob is human as this article will try to point out.

Bob was born in Trenton, N.J., in 1923. He attended high school there and was a 3 letter man. After a year of college in Trenton, he came to Drew as part of the Navy's V-12 unit here and made his mark as one of Drew's finest all around athletes. "Doc" Young has praised Bob as the best defensive catcher he ever coached. In 1943, Bob left Drew for a hitch in the Navy, and returned in 1946 to continue his athletic feats until 1948 when he graduated.

From 1948 to 1950 Bob played professional baseball at Wilkes-Barre, Harrisburg, and Cedar Rapids in the summer while he worked on his master's degree at Rutgers in the winter. In 1950 he received his M.A., quit baseball, and on July 5, 1950, he gave up the bliss of bachelorhood for a teacher at Carney.

Bob and his pretty wife, Gerry, now own their own home in Verona, N.J., have a 28 months old son, Bobbie, and are expecting an addition to the family in December.

Every morning during the fall, Bob leaves for Bloomfield Junior High School. After a trying day with his teen age rascals, he drives to Madison where he deals with his college rascals, the soccer team.

A pupil of the renowned "Doc" Young, Bob believes that conditioning is the basis for success in any sport, and so makes his players run and run and run. His firm control of the players and his vast knowledge of the game command for him the utmost respect from the men who play under him. The soccer team, each member of which has had a chance to play against Bob will testify to his hustle and drive, and he has been the cause of more than one sore shin or leg.

This year Bob has produced what promises to be a winning soccer team. So when you come out to the games, remember that the guy pacing up and down in front of the bench, chewing stick after stick of gum, loves the game, loves to win, and, above all, loves Drew.

The third period went much the same way until Smit ended the scoring for the day on a sequence of kicks that went from Dan Kim to Wainwright to Cawein and then to Smit who booted it into the nets from about ten yards out.

The final period saw Coach Bob Bannon send his substitutes into the fray and the two teams battled it out without scoring for the remainder of the game.

Much credit for the win must be given to goalie Dave Morse, who made many fine stops for an inexperienced goalie, and to the defensive fullbacks, Dick Edel and Jacques Duvoisin, and halfbacks, Ken Hellman, Mac Hubbard and Larry Slacum, who were responsible for the New York team's lack of scoring opportunities. The coordination of the team as one good working unit was most evident in this performance.
