

Smith Replaces Malm As Supt. Of Grounds

Ralph Smith, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, will be the new Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds on Drew's Campus. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree from the University, where he majored in ornamental horticulture and engineering. He will arrive, highly recommended, from Adams State Teachers College in Alamosa, Colorado, where his duties were substantially the same as they will be at Drew.

Mr. Smith will be replacing Enoch Malm, who has been Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds for nine years. Mr. Malm has accepted a position with the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York City, where he will be doing work similar to what he has done here. He and his wife are leaving January 15 for their new home.

With his wife and twelve year old son, Mr. Smith will take up residence in the Sitterley House apartment where Mr. Malm lived during his stay at Drew.

Prexy Tours In Mid-West

Conferences of the Association of American Colleges in St. Louis, January 10-12, and of the General Board of Education of Methodist Churches, in Cincinnati, January 17-20 are President Holloway's major destinations on his current trip to the Mid-West.

The Association of American Colleges is the only national association of colleges and universities in the United States. Its purposes are both fraternal and educational. Problems of College administration and finance were among the matters discussed at its conference, January 10-12.

While the President is out West, work is being started here on his new home. The contract for its construction was awarded last week. The presidential home will be erected in Drew Forest between Woodcliff Drive and Glenwild Avenue. President Holloway is very happy about the idea of moving to this new home. The President's present home will be converted into a girls' dormitory next fall.

Mid-Year Loses Seven Seniors

Seven students of Brothers College will complete their undergraduate work this semester. Those who will be graduating are: Edwin Allaire who majored in philosophy, Mary Fisher who has done her work in botany, Ingrid Mueller who majored in zoology, Sidney Zwerling majoring in history, Cloyde Noyce with a major in religion, Edward Gorcezyca whose concentration was psychology, and Clayton Haws, also a botany major.

Letter To Student Body

It has been brought to the attention of your Student Council that recently there has been a growing number of petty thefts on campus. There being a unanimous feeling of shock and disappointment on the part of your representatives, we take this opportunity to officially and personally express our grave dissatisfaction.

The article entitled "Student Conduct" found in the Drew University College Handbook makes any such misconduct subject to severe disciplinary action, possibly resulting in expulsion. It reads:

"Student Conduct" (page 35) Drew students are expected to represent the University worthily in their personal behavior and to respect its standards of conduct at all times...Violations...will subject the individual or group to disciplinary action. The college reserves the right to dismiss any student whose presence its officers believe to be detrimental to the general welfare. This regulation applies to any form of misconduct, such as...theft.

Furthermore, the Judio-Christian moral code of our society, which is particularly exemplified within Drew Forest, distinctly prohibits the disrespect of another's belongings. The open disregard of this code weighs heavily upon all those within the society, the burden being appreciably greater upon the malefactors.

It is with confidence that we underscore these obvious reasons for our disapproval. We feel sure that the mere bringing of the matter to your attention will be sufficient.

HELP WANTED - Male or female, no experience needed. Free training in all phases of job. Sorry, no pay other than your own satisfaction in the completed job. Apply: Civil Defense, Drew University.

A joke? By no means. Civil Defense is anything but that. Russia has the weapons with which to attack this country at any given moment she chooses, and according to the Air Force, regardless of how good our defenses may be, 7 out of every 10 planes will get through. We must learn a new kind of ABC's, the ABC which stands for the deadly triplicate of modern warfare, Atomic, Biological, and Chemical warfare. BUT, there is a defense against all of these weapons. That defense is Civil Defense.

The concept of Civil Defense is not new by any means. Our forefathers used it when they first came to the shores of this country in 1620. Surely, if one of our neighbor's houses burned down, we wouldn't hesitate to pitch in and lend a hand. With one exception, Civil Defense is nothing more than that. There will be no time after the attack to train people in Civil Defense. This is one time when you can't lock the barn after the horse is stolen.

Colleges all over the country are realizing that they can no longer withdraw into their "Ivory towers." They are realizing that the colleges must assume some responsibilities in Civil Defense. In setting up a student - faculty C.D. program on the campus, Drew is assuming a leadership in the state of New Jersey. Our school is one of the first colleges in the state to organize such a program. It is a fact of which we should all be proud, and it is a program which we should all support. Nine months out of the year, our campus is the residence of some seven to eight hundred students. The lives and safety of these people cannot and MUST NOT be ignored. To adequately protect these students, a minimum of 75 volunteers is needed. A training program has been set up to provide as much training as possible in the shortest length of time. Courses will be given in first aid, communications, rescue work, and warden duties, and the training received here at Drew can be used anywhere in the country. Once the volunteers have completed their training, they will be required to come to only one meeting a month and to work only in the event of a drill or actual disaster.

Remember, if you know how to take care of other people, you will always be able to take care of yourself. That life you save may very well be your own. JOIN CIVIL DEFENSE TODAY!!

NOBLE TO SPEAK DURING RE WEEK

Dr. Herbert C. Noble, General Director of the Commission on Christian Higher Education of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., will be the featured speaker of Drew's Religious Emphasis Week, March 18-24.

As an ordained minister of the Presbyterian Church and former chaplain and professor at Occidental College in Los Angeles, California, Dr. Noble has been active in the cooperative church movement and has been associated with inter-church groups.

He has worked with the World Council of Churches, the Los Angeles Church Federation, and has recently come east to join the National Council of Churches heading the administrative committee, of which he has served also as a member.

Dr. Noble is particularly interested in social ethics. He has served as an official advisor of Unesco, a committee on the founding of the U.N., and is presently active in U.N. circles.

A graduate of Occidental College, Dr. Noble received his B.D. degree from Union Theological Seminary, his master's degree from Columbia University, and an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of Dubuque. Dr. Noble did graduate work at the University of Strasbourg.

A good game of bridge, golf, or pool would not be unusual for this dynamic man. At present Dr. Noble lives in Criskill, N.J. with his wife and two daughters.

Tentative plans for RE Week, March 18-24 include worship services, communion, panels, living unit discussion groups, and a dramatic presentation.

Fund Drive Is Started

Plans for the Student Service Fund Drive to be held next month are now being formulated by the fund drive committee, headed by Jo Zimmermann.

As has been done in previous years, one donation will be accepted from each student. Proceeds from the Annual Spring Carnival will also go to the fund. The money collected will then be divided proportionally among the various service organizations selected according to the wishes of the student body.

Since last year's drive fell short of its goal, the fund drive committee is hoping for greater student participation this year.

This united drive has been referred to by Dr. Purnell Benson, faculty advisor, as a "campus chest." According to Dr. Benson, "one of the greatest values of this drive is not only the money collected but also the experience in giving (on the part of the student)."

ZWERLING SHOOTS 1,000

In the basketball game between New Paltz and Drew last Saturday night, January 14, Sid Zwerling scored the thousandth point in his college basketball career. He is the first man in the history of Drew basketball to hit such a mark.

In hitting the 1,000 mark, the Rangers captain utilized six of the twenty points made by him in his last college basketball game, Sid completes his B.A. requirements at the end of the semester.

Lenten Booklet In Preparation

For the second year, a Lenten Season devotional booklet is being prepared for the Drew family under the direction of Drew Fellowship.

Editor Jack Watkins welcomes contributions suitable for daily devotions from all members of the University family. These are to be not less than 280 and not more than 320 words. Scriptural references may be included. All contributions are to be submitted in typed form on or before February 1 to the Drew Fellowship box in College Hall mailroom.

The booklet will be available to faculty, administration, and student body at a nominal cost February 14.

NOTES IN THE MARGIN

Once more the "harried and haggard look" is back on campus. For by this time most of the undergraduate students are in the midst of a busy exam schedule. It has occurred to me that the possibilities of a reading week might be considered as a solution to the problem faced by many students who have such very little time (Saturday to Monday morning, in some cases) to prepare for finals. In a college system where so much depends on just one exam it sometimes seems rather unfair to ask students to cram so much work in the three weeks between Christmas vacation and exam period. While it may be true that some of this work could have been done earlier in the year, the belief that such is the case is rather idealistic. In any case there are daily assignments and weekly quizzes which keep the student busy until the last class day before finals. Why not institute a reading week? (Even two days would be helpful.)

A call has been issued for Civilian Defense volunteers. Of course, this call in some cases is being answered by the usual hilarious reply given anything of that nature. However, one fails to see anything hilarious in the thoughts of disasters occurring without the availability of trained personnel to cope with the situations. This plea might just be important enough for us to direct at least a little serious attention to it.

Attention has been called to the petty thefts which have recently taken place on our campus. This, it seems, is just another example of failure in considering the rights of others, whether they be property or otherwise. This seems to be the right moment for the re-evaluation of the place of an honor system. Of course, such a system should not be considered a necessary prerequisite for honor, but it might help all of us to be a little more aware of just what is meant by the term "honor". We might become aware that honor includes attitude as well as action.

Time has come for me to bid farewell as editor of The Drew Acorn. I would just like to take this opportunity of offering my sincere thanks to all those who have co-operated and worked so hard during the past year. My special thanks to Claire Dresner, without whose help the first issues under my editorship would never have materialized. To the new editor, Helen Blumer, and her staff I offer the best of good luck and success in the year which lies ahead.

Toombs Awaits Jerusalem Trip

Dr. Lawrence E. Toombs, assistant professor of Old Testament at Drew University, has been named a fellow of the American Schools of Oriental Research. His election was announced here today by Dean Bernhard W. Anderson of Drew Theological Seminary.

The honor carries with it the privilege of a year's study at the American School in Jerusalem, including travel and living expenses. Professor Toombs will spend the 1956-57 academic year in Palestine. He and his family plan to travel there in July.

Only two fellows are elected by the schools each year. The work in Jerusalem includes seminars and archaeological field trips. Students there also have access to the Museum of Antiquities. Professor Toombs expects to have an opportunity to study portions of the famous Dead Sea Scrolls.

FROM THE GRASS ROOTS

by Soda and Fizz

A special Christmas came early for Ginny Callis who became engaged to Joe Sabota on December 10. Other holiday engagements include Pat Brown to Bob McQueen, '54; Janet Fults to Vern Wallace; Jo Zimmerman to Vern Wishart; Jennie Fenby to Bob Nida; Nancy Lee to Pvt. Albert Parsons and Ann Pletzer to Richard Glessman. Barbie Powell and Jay Schmidt are pinned. Headlining this issue's announcements of romancing, is the announcement of Dr. Richner's marriage on December 3rd. Dr. Richner retired last June as a professor in the language department. All of his former students join in wishing him their very best. Patti Watts and Bob McKelvey, '55, tood the big step on Sunday, December 18 in a very pretty wedding in Craig Chapel. To Patti and Bob go our wishes for a long life of lasting happiness. Two more Drew alumni, Marie Roach, '55, and Al McArthur, '53, became Mr. and Mrs. on December 10. To Dr. Brunhouse goes an award for the keenest observation of the week. He remarked after watching one of the basketball games to the effect that the most interesting thing in the entire game was the expression on the cheer leader's faces when the other cheerleaders were cheerleading. All we can say is girls will be girls. Dr. Wooley recently made some rather pointed and good comments on the proposed parking plan of the Student Council. Parking stickers won't help very much as parking is still not being limited in the sense that there will be no limit to the number of cars that can obtain stickers. A better suggestion might be to restrict freshmen from owning cars (except, of course, commuters) or restrict all but seniors from owning cars. Something more drastic must be done than parking stickers or one day the campus will be all parking lots. Reactions (and not good ones) came from the faculty and Varsity D club to the change in team name from Circuit Riders to Rangers. It certainly is peculiar that the faculty knew nothing about the proposed change until after it came, especially since it was pending a month or so. Apparently they do not read the Acorn. We must admit that perhaps the change was not handled well but "what is done cannot be undone." That it was done in the best interest of the present student body we can be certain. Be seeing you after the biannual finals liberation.

To the Editor:

At the December meeting of the faculty, much time was spent considering the parking regulations proposed by the Student Council. The problem of what to do with the increasing number of automobiles on our campus is not unique with Drew and it was with considerable sympathy that I read in my copy of "The Middlebury College News Letter" the following:

"Student cars have been barred from the main campus of the College and special parking spaces are being completed for student cars. These spaces will accommodate about 300 cars..."

"Like every community in the nation, large and small, the automobile traffic and parking problems of the College community have increased with the passing years. In an effort to help solve some of the problems, and at the same time reduce the hazard to life and property, the College Board of Trustees voted to bar student cars from the campus..."

"The new regulation will be in effect through the academic year except on days such as when the College recesses, begins and ends, or on other exceptional and infrequent occasions as designated by the Dean of Men. The rule bars students' cars from the main campus."

Middlebury is one of the loveliest campuses in the United States and the Trustees are wise in keeping it so by removing automobiles from its main section. One of the attractions for me at Drew is its lovely campus--as it is for all of us and for prospective students. It could be made even more attractive by removing the parking lots in back of the College Building and Rogers House all together. Esthetically it would be so much better to have green lawn and appropriate plantings than a sea of automobiles and/or mud and clouds of dust. The College Building would be so much cleaner. Research requiring reasonably sterile conditions would be easier of achievement.

It seems to me that policing parking lots is not the function of a College, whether done by students or anyone else. Although it is somewhat more difficult at Drew than at Middlebury to put the parking lots on the periphery, it could be done here out on Woods Road going toward Glenwild Rd. How much more attractive Seminary Hall has become since its parking lot similar to the present one at the College has been removed and planted to grass! If the student body increases, as it will, there just won't be room in the present parking space at the College anyway. Therefore, it seems to me, we should look to the future now and try to remove the already inadequate area as soon as possible. I do not think it should be extended from where it is.

These are my thoughts and sentiments and are offered for consideration by students, faculty, administration, and trustees. Let's make Drew even more beautiful than it is.

Sincerely,
 Robert K. Zuck

Jrs Cop First Half Championship In Intramural Basketball League

by Bill Craven

By Christmas time last year, the first-semester intramural basketball championship was certain. This year, however, the league was more evenly matched. Before Christmas the league standings were as follows: juniors 5-2, seniors 4-3, sophs 3-4, and frosh 2-5.

On the fourth day of the new year the first place Juniors opposed the second place Seniors. These two teams, being the most evenly matched in the school, kept the score close all the way. The Juniors managed to keep a small margin, however, and came out with 33 points to the seniors' 28. It was Vander Schaaf who kept the seniors in the game throughout the 40 minutes of play. He was high for his team, scoring 11 points—every one from the foul line. Of his teammates: Marbach had 8 points, James 5, and Weichert 4. For the juniors, Captain Jerry Nicholas was high man with 11 points; Craven had 10, Hargreaves 9, Tuzeneu 3, and Jones 1. With this win under their belts, the juniors are going to be a hard team to beat for the half-year championship.

Also on the fourth the frosh faced the sophomores. The sophs needed this win in order to have a chance at the second place position. Doug Lonnstrom hit 14 points for the only double numbers score of the game. The frosh were in sad shape with the absence of their star, Dick Wainwright, who has moved up to varsity. The final score was 28-19.

Monday, January 9, brought the last day's play for the half-year championship. The schedule is set up so that at the end of the year the winners will play off against the second half winners for the league championship and trophies.

The confident juniors, with a two game lead, strolled onto the court to meet the not so confident frosh. It wasn't much of a ball game from any point of view. Five of the six freshmen that played accounted for 19 of the 29 fouls of the game. No matter what the outcome of the game was the juniors had the league sewed up, but the game was played just to make sure. The freshmen were beaten soundly, 45-25.

The soph-senior game was really the attraction of the day. The winner was to take second place in the league standing. Fouls were comparatively low, and the score was close. For the sophs Babkowski was high with 11 points, Mantel had 8, Lonnstrom 7, Morse 4, Hubbard 2, Phylly 2, and Edel 1. Ron Vander Schaaf was high again for the seniors, this time with twelve points. Ed Newman was next with 10, James had 4, Weichert 4, Marbach 2, and Slacum 2. The seniors won their first three games of the season by one point. It is ironical that they should lose their second place position now by only one point. The sophs beat them 35-34.

Here are the league standings which wrap up the half-year league:

TEAM	WINS	LOSSES
Juniors	7	2
Sophomores	5	4
Seniors	4	5
Freshmen	2	7

Varsity Girls Prepare For Opener

The women's varsity basketball season is underway with members of the women's varsity basketball team having been named, and the schedule of games nearly completed. Practices have been faithfully attended and this season promises to be a good one.

Forwards named to the team are Judy Adams, Mimi Brewster, Charlotte DePuey, Judy Hawkins, Barbara Peschel, Barbara Powell, Janet Rushmore, and Gail White. Guards will be Mary Henck, Sueli McCleary, Joan Patchen, Prunella Read, Kay Smith, Sue Smith, and Lee Ward. At the present time it looks like the starting team will be comprised of Brewster, Peschel, and Rushmore for forwards and Henck, Read, and K. Smith in the guard position. However this lineup may very well be altered within the next few weeks.

The schedule of games has been set up by Mimi Brewster, basketball chairman, and at the present time stands as follows:

Feb. 2 (7:00) Caldwell-home
Feb. 8 (4:00) F. Dickinson-home
Feb. 27 (4:00) Queens-away
Feb. 20 (4:00) Rider-home

Centenary Junior-not yet scheduled.

In addition to the regular games, the annual Drew Sports Day will be held on February 11 with several state teachers colleges participating.

Rangers Lose To NCE, Stevens and New Paltz

Drew's Rangers lost their third straight game January 7, as they bowed to the Newark Engineers by a score of 63-64. The defeat followed pre-holiday losses to Stevens, 73-63, and to New Paltz by a lop-sided 86-62 score.

In the Stevens game, Drew, although trailing most of the first half, moved ahead by a 33-29 count as the half ended. In the second half, the lead changed hands several times, and it was only in the last three minutes that Stevens was able to pull away and gain a 73-63 decision.

The Stevens scoring was evenly divided, with four men in double figures, but it was the rebounding strength of pivotmen Callahan and Morgan that proved a decisive factor. The Rangers' Ray Strelecki took scoring honors with 24 points, followed by Sid Zwerling with 19. Other Drew scorers were Cawein, seven, Sabota, five, and Dempster and Straut, four each.

Two nights later, against New Paltz State Teachers College, the entire Drew team, with the exception of Sid Zwerling and Jack Dempster, fell victim to an elusive hoop. Sid netted 19 points and Jack 12, while Ray Strelecki was held to seven.

The game was a runaway from the start. Drew trailed by a 38-25 score at halftime and fell completely apart in the second half. At one point in the game, New Paltz held a thirty point lead. Coach Simester used the subs for the last few minutes of the game, and Jim Riordan scored seven points.

IN THE SPORTSLITE

Sid Zwerling

by Richard Garner and Howard Applegate

Only now and then do small colleges come up with a top performer in any sport. Such a person is Sid Zwerling, probably the greatest basketball player in Drew's 26 inter-collegiate seasons. Born in Brooklyn on December 15, 1933, but growing up in West New York, New Jersey, Sid quickly picked up the game of basketball in the section of New Jersey where most state championships are annually determined. He was a two-year letter man in basketball at and accurate with his one-hander, and Sid was quickly moved to the forward slot.

During 52-53, his first full season with the Rangers, Sid scored a total of 228 points in 12 games. It was in 53-54 that he really hit his stride as he cut the nets with a record-breaking 320 points in 13 games. Last year, his third full season on the Drew varsity, Sid tallied 280 points in 14 games which brought his college total to 886 points. This year he has continued his fine style of court play, marching toward his 1,000 point goal.

There is a certain amount of versatility in Sid, which is not readily apparent to those who recognize him only as a basketball player. He displays his other talents in history class collateral discussions and also in the Christmas Carol Contest, when he valiantly attempted to mold the unruly Faulkner boys into a singing group. In the past few summers Sid has gained practical experience for his profession, serving as an assistant steward on vessels of Moore-McCormack Lines, American-Export Lines and the United States Lines. His wit and friendliness are only a small part of his congenial personality.

Last week Sid finished comps and in a few weeks he will be entering New York Law School, where he will specialize in maritime law. The best wishes of the Drew campus community go with Sid as he prepares for his chosen profession.

Memorial High School. As his high school coach had other players to carry the scoring burden, Sid was used mainly as a backcourt player and a defensive specialist. As a result his highest single game total was 13 points, a blemish he removed at Drew.

When Sid entered Drew at mid-semester of 51-52, he won himself a spot on coach Harry Simester's team. In the first few practice sessions, Coach Simester noted that Sid was deadly from the outside yet aggressive under the boards

The New Paltz team made up what they lacked in height by being able to score consistently from the outside. Miller, of New Paltz, was the game's leading scorer with 21 points.

The first part of the Newark game was a repeat of the New Paltz affair. Newark lead 40-16, when Drew rallied to score an insufficient ten straight points. Half-time score was 40-26.

Scoring in the second half was fairly even, and the game ended with Newark on the long end of an 83-64 decision. Newark was led by the deadly shooting of Bayer, who scored 26 points on thirteen field goals, and Larry Tosato, with 17 points.

The Rangers' scoring was headed by Sabota with 21 and Strelecki with 19. Sid Zwerling, although double-teamed by Newark for the entire game, managed to score nine points and Wally Cawein added eight more.
