

New Faces Seen In Crucible Cast; Rehearsals Begin

Many new faces will be seen in the cast of Arthur Miller's The Crucible, to be presented by the Foresters on December 1, 2, 4, and 5 in the Baldwin Gymnasium.

Dr. Ralph Johnson, director, has held many tryouts in the last two weeks. An unusually large number of freshmen have been cast in this year's production. In the past year or two, for one reason or another, the number of experienced actors on campus has dwindled. Last year's production had a cast of only five, of whom only two are available this year. Therefore, Dr. Johnson is beginning work with a largely inexperienced but promising group.

Speech Contest For Freshmen Held This Week

Freshmen will compete in the annual Freshman Speech Contest tomorrow, October 13, at 8:00 p.m. in the Multi-purpose Room of the Student Center.

Six speakers are expected to take part and all students are invited to attend. A first prize of $5.00 will be awarded to the top speaker. Second and third place winners will receive prizes of $3.00 and $2.00, respectively.

The speech may be an original oration, a declamation or extemporaneous speech. Delivery will be the main criterion considered by the judges, although content will be another deciding factor.

This event, as well as the Norman M. Guy Speech Contest to be held next week, has been conducted for a number of years. As well as encouraging public speaking among Drew students, these contests are planned to reveal new talent for debating.

An allotment of money for prizes has been donated by alumnus Ralph Porzi, once a debater under Dr. Norman Guy's direction and now a lawyer in Morristown.

Anyone interested in entering the Norman M. Guy Contest should see Dr. Johnson immediately.

Six Undergrads Receive National Church Awards

Dean Schultz has announced that six Drew students, including two freshmen, two juniors, and two seniors, are the recipients of National Methodist scholarship awards for the academic year 1959-60. They are: Miss Emma Lee Himeno and Miss Julia Johnson of the Class of '63; Miss Carol Anne Magee and Miss Edna Mae Parker of the Class of '61; and Miss Martha Pierce and

Although some parts have not been definitely filled as yet the first rehearsal was held this afternoon. The members of the cast include: Lee Bachschmidt, Nicki Nock, Jeanne Rue, Jack Brody, Ed Daniels, Don Rudalevige, Ross Boring, Ruth Sinclair, George Hoag, Paul Wood, Larry Flood, Mary Ann Zolata, Rosemary Haness, and Greta Wach. The remaining parts will be cast this week.

Miss Nock and Mr. Daniels appeared in last fall's production of Ghosts as Reginia and Jacob Engstrand respectively. Both also played minor roles in Cyrano de Bergerac. Mr. Flood and Mr. Rudalevige appeared in the Game of Chess last spring.

The Crucible, which was presented off-Broadway last season, is a story about the Salem Witch Hunt. The play is based on historical facts and relates the spread of terror which took place in that era. Written about eight years ago, this play marks a change from the classical plays usually presented by the Foresters.

D.Y.R. Attend Del. Convention

Ten members of the Drew Young Republicans attended the Young Republican Convention for Region 2, covering N. Y., N. J., Pennsylvania, and Delaware, on Saturday in Wilmington, Delaware.

The main business of the division of College Young Republicans was the election of an area chairman. Andy Skonberg, treasurer and state delegate of Liberals Form Club Affiliated to A.D.A.

An organizational meeting of the Drew University chapter of Students for Democratic Action was held on Thursday, October 1, in the meeting room of the University Center. A constitution was accepted which states the purpose of the organization—to foster a liberal atmosphere for the discussion of political, social and economic issues.

Officers for the year were also elected. The slate is as follows: President, George Misner; Vice-President, George Suttmeier; Secretary, Donald Rudelevage; and Treasurer, David Allen. Dr. Robert Friedrichs of the Sociology department will serve as faculty advisor.

It was announced that Mr. David Gray would speak on African nationalism at the first regular meeting of the year, scheduled for tonight.

Peasants, Nobles to Mingle Amid Medieval Splendor at Fall Frolic

by H. KERN

A medieval setting will be the theme for Fall Weekend, November 13th and 14th, the senior class has announced. The program for the weekend will include: Friday—a movie at 7:00 in Bowne Lecture Hall, the informal, 'Peasant's Harvest Festival', in Baldwin gymnasium from 9:00 to 1:00; Saturday—a jazz concert at 3:00 and the Court Ball from 9:00 to 2:00 a.m. in the Student Union.

Jerry Shard's band has been hired for the informal. Mr. Shard himself plays the drums, saxophone, clarinet, trombone, and vibraharp. He has his own radio show and has played for such shows as the Steve Allen Show, Bob and Ray, and Ted Steele. His first recording was the "Washington and Lee Swing." He has made many others, his most recent one is an album on the Urina Label called "Vibrations."

TINY MANN

D. Y. R. was an unsuccessful candidate for this office. Emilie Paul, assistant secretary of D. Y. R. and co-chairman of the College Young Republicans of New Jersey, was named to the position of Regional Director.

Informal Discussion

Dean Robert Schultz will be available for informal discussion with students on Monday nights at 7:00 at the Student Center. All students are invited to meet with him at this time.

Tiny Mann's Orchestra will play at the formal on Saturday night. Tiny, who plays the saxophone, has played under such leaders Tommy Dorsey, Tommy Tucker, Ray Eberle, and Stan Kenton. Since he has formed his own band he has played in famous ballrooms all over the country as well as many colleges in the New York area, including Fordham, Queens, and Centenary. He was recently awarded a citation from Fordham for "his contribution to and his participation in the Student Life of Fordham University."

Under the leadership of Judy Smith, social chairman, committees have been set up, bands engaged, and other plans laid. The committees are headed by: Ayleen Glenn—decorations; Mary Helen Davis and Hank Yeznack, publicity; Midge Campbell and Frankie Edell, refreshments; Avis Foote, favors; Jodi Della-Cerra and Gerow Reece, King; and Dave Williams, jazz concert.

Further articles on the Weekend will appear in following issues as more plans are made.

Columns Editor Eddy Announces Biannual Issue

The Columns staff will meet this Monday evening in the Student Center work room from 7:00-8:00 p.m., editor Spencer Eddy has announced. Students are urged to bring manuscripts for possible inclusion in this year's issues.

ECAC has allotted funds for a Fall and a Spring issue, and material will be considered from all students and members of the faculty. Art work, as well as essays, stories, and poetry, will be included.

This year's editorial board includes Elmer Smith, copy; Elliot Esterman, layout; and Rand Castile, art and publicity. Manuscripts, suggestions, and question should be given to a staff member or addressed to Columns: Campus Mail. Only student support will insure the publication of a dynamic literary magazine. Guest speakers will be invited to future meetings, and other special programs are planned.

JERRY SHARD

Frosh, Sophs' Destination: N.Y. On Wednesday

On Wednesday, October 14, the first group of field trips for the 1959-60 academic year will begin. Each year, freshmen and sophomores are required to go on three field trips which are taken in the areas of the theater, music or art, science, sports, religious institutions, and social institutions.

The trip to social institutions, under the direction of Dr. Friedrichs, will leave the University at 8:00 a.m. and proceed directly to New York City. In New York, the group will tour the New York Clearing House and the New York Stock Exchange. After lunch, there will be a boat trip around Manhattan Island followed by the return trip to Drew.

During the afternoon, Dr. Scott will escort a group to one of the pharmaceutical research laboratories in North Jersey.

Dr. Schabacher is director of a large group of students viewing the New York Rangers at a hockey game in Madison Square Garden.

The itinerary of religious institutions is the longest both in time allotted and area covered. Students making this trip will visit the following places: Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Christ Church (Methodist), Temple Emmanuel, Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Cathedral, and St. Thomas Liberal Catholic Church.

REFLECTION

There have been tragedies with a greater number of casualties; there have been tragedies where a greater proportion of damage has occurred, yet few events have been so allied with the Drew college scene as the calamity which took place last Friday night in which nine Trenton State Coeds, and one professor were killed on a return field trip excursion from New York City.

In reflection, one could say many things; all of which would be inadequate to compensate for the feeling of loss that is presently permeating the college campus, as well as the homes of the injured and dead. The question of where to place the blame, is at this time, rather pointless. A much bigger question is involved. Two thoughts occur to us in partial answer; neither in the way of explanation, for a satisfactory one is impossible, but rather as a meaningful conclusion. One, is the emphasis it gives to the necessity of constant attention to the practices of safe driving, and the other is the realization that, unfortunately, both young and old, are equally vulnerable to the circumstances of life.

N.T.M.

The Line-Up

It seems to be one of the many Drew traditions for the ACORN to come forth with a few pointed remarks about the "Refectory." This time, however, we are not particularly complaining about the food, (although there is some room for improvement), but rather are criticizing that which is the plague of the early riser, "The Breakfast Line."

In the beginning we said, "It won't last long, everyone will start sleeping later, people will lose their appetites for hard boiled eggs and even harder waffles." But the situation has been endured and it is about time, we think, for a solution to be found. Somehow it seems ridiculous to arrive at the dining hall at 7:15 in order to be on time for an eight o'clock class. And even at that hour there is still a lengthy line. Some professors, it is reported, have agreed to excuse lateness so that students may eat breakfast.

Our suggestion is to make the serving period fifteen or twenty minutes longer. Then those who have eight o'clock classes could come early and those who don't could wait until eight. This solution has occurred to many and seems so simple that we wonder if it, or some other solution, could not seriously be considered by the management.

J.A.S.

The ACORN announces the resignation of Bob Swydan, as Editor-in-Chief. This position will be assumed by the Associate Editor, Judy Smith, beginning with the next issue.

The ECAC finance board will present the budget for 1959-60 for discussion at the council meeting Wednesday evening, at seven o'clock in the Student Union building. Dr. Crammer, chairman of the board, reports that the greatest change from last year concerns social committee budget, $4000. of the $4900. requested has been granted; this is an increase of $1300. over last year. The total budget represents a deficit of $1200. This meeting is open to all students. Any suggestions made by the council at this time will be considered by the finance board and the final budget will be announced next week.

Back To The Pit Stokowski Returns To Opera In Triumph

by John Fischer

The coupling of Leopold Stokowski's superb directing and the two dynamic works, Oedipus Rex by Stravinsky and Carmina Burana by Orff, would certainly contribute to a momentous evening at the theatre for anyone. This reviewer was definitely among those who were moved by the stirring performance of these two works.

Maestro Stokowski's talents have been confined to the symphony hall for too many years. He had turned his back on the opera house because "[it involves] the terrible difficulties that face someone who is looking for singers who are good actors and actors who are good singers. That, mainly, is what has kept me away." The reason for his return to the opera pit?—"the two works themselves," he replied. Stokowski's return to opera, after an absence of twenty-eight years, is certainly a glorious one. The resources of his infinite ability draw forth wonders from the relatively small City Center orchestra.

In Oedipus Rex, based on Sophocles' drama, Stravinsky's point of departure was the concept of Greek fatalism in that play. The opera was written in tribute to Sergei Diaghilev's twentieth year in the Ballet. The music is an expression of the Greek fatalism, and the action on the stage is minimized to provide the fullest impact of the fate of Oedipus. The end of the opera is particularly beautiful: Oedipus, blind, after having plunged a pin from the dead Jocasta's gown into his eyes, is gently expelled from the city while the chorus sings "Farewell Oedipus, we love thee." Arnold Volkstein as Creon, Clarence Turner as Jocasta, and Richard Cassilly as Oedipus gave outstanding performances. The text of the opera was written by Cocteau and the portion for narration, since the opera is in Latin, was translated into English by E. E. Cummings.

The Carmina Burana is a drama of the very early German renaissance. There are, in essence, three dramatic themes in the Carmina Burana: the first deals with the delights of spring; the second is a bacchanale concerning the excitement, the gaiety, and the impulsiveness of comradeship in the tavern; the last concerns the part love plays in our lives—the love for our children and erotic love. Soloists John Alexander, Rori Grist, and John Reardon assisted by an excellent chorus did an admirable job. John Butler did the original choreography and the solo dancers were Scott Douglas, Veronica Mlaker, Carmen DeLavalade, and Glen Tetly.

Many feel that the balance of music and drama in an opera should be relatively equal, but when music augments and enriches a production, as music can do to a fantastic degree, the listener benefits immensely. Stokowski's conducting, the superb singing, and superlative production imparts these qualities to the listener at the New York City Center's production of Oedipus Rex and Carmina Burana.

Hist. Club Meets; College Choir Plans Program, Elects Officers

On Thursday, October 8, the History Club held its first meeting of the year in the Brothers College Building. Approximately fifteen students were present, as well as Mr. Emery, professor in the history department. Leading off the year's organizational activities was election of officers. Those receiving the club's choice were President, Nancy Marshall; Vice-President, Norman MacArthur, and Secretary, Susan Bonface.

The remaining portion of the meeting was taken up with planning programs for the year. Besides monthly on-campus meetings, the club discussed the possibility of occasional field trips to points of historical interest in the New York area. Investigation is also being made into the possibility of a more extensive spring field trip.

Membership in the club is not limited to history majors. Dr. Brunhouse is the club advisor.

Art Lectures By Erika Dinkler Start October 22

The Graduate School has announced that the University Lectures for 1959 will have for their general subject "The Image of Christ and Man in the Art of Western Europe". Lectures will be as follows: October 22, Early Christian Art, October 29, Early and High Middle Ages, November 12, The Late Middle Ages, November 19, The Age of Reformation, December 3, The Sixteenth to the Nineteenth Centuries, December 10, Modern Man and His Encounter with Christ. These lectures will be published in book form during 1960 by Meridian Books, Inc., New York City.

Dr. Erika Dinkler-von Schubert will be the lecturer for the series. Lectures are scheduled for 8:00 p.m., Thursdays, in the University Center.

Dr. Erika Dinkler-von Schubert, daughter of Hans von Schubert, is married to Dr. Dinkler, Bonn University, noted Christian scholar, currently visiting Professor of Biblical Theology at Drew University. She received her doctorate in the History of Art, Church History and Classical Archeology from Marburg University. Medieval iconography and the relationship of Christian thought and art throughout the centuries is her particular interest.

Lecturing extensively, she has spoken at such places as the Ecumenical Institute, Bossey, Geneva; The Yale Divinity School; and the Evangelical Academy at Herrenalb. Papers have also been presented by her at Heidelberg, Marburg, New York City, and Washington, D.C.

Junior Class To Sell Cakes, Shine Shoes

As a prelude to Junior Day on Friday, October 16th, the Junior class will have a pep rally beginning with a softball game on Young Field. Following the game the class of 1961 will parade and have a marshmallow roast. Saturday, October 17th, is Junior Day itself. There will be a car wash between the hours of 1:00-5:00 p.m. The girls will spend the morning baking homemade cakes and pies and will sell them between the hours of 1:00 and 3:00.

If you need any odds and ends or want to have some Junior work for you, come to the auction. Between 12 and 3 p.m. services such as washing, ironing, shoe shining and typing will be sold, along with other various and sundry necessary items.

The Committee Chairmen are: General, Dale Sorenson; Friday night program, Marion Dickinson; Auction, Mac Husler; Bake Sale, Jane Beardow and Janis Becker; Car Wash, Dale Sorenson and Neale Mosher and Publicity chairman, Mike Dudlar.

Doctor Jones Cites Library's Progress

Occupying the position of Library Director at Drew's Rose Memorial Library is Dr. Arthur Jones, a member of the college English Department.

Prior to coming to Drew in 1950, Dr. Jones was a professor of English at Syracuse University. His undergraduate work was done at the University of Rochester and his graduate work at Syracuse. He has three degrees: A.B., M.A., and Ph.D.

At Drew Dr. Jones has taught Freshman Composition sections, American Literature, and Literary Criticism. These last two courses are now being offered on an alternate year basis.

The Director of the Library also serves on the Board of Trustees of the Madison Public Library, and is a member of the Middle States College Evaluation Committee. This year he and a committee will be evaluating Cedarcrest College in Pennsylvania. In his spare time Dr. Jones enjoys golf, a game of bridge, or a good book. His literary taste runs toward contemporary fiction, or eighteenth century literature. He collects Faulkner, and has a number of first editions. At the University of Rochester he was captain of an undefeated swimming team and a not-so-fortunate football team.

In regard to the library, Dr. Jones feels that there are a number of additions to be made. These would include a microprint reader, new records for the circulating collection, new lighting, and a program of exhibitions.

The microprint reader will be added to the microfilm readers already found in the North Room, and it will condense a volume of print to a sheet of plastic instead of a roll of film. The lighting in the periodical room and the three main reading rooms will be fluorescent, thus ridding the study tables of their individual lamps. The exhibits will be arranged by Mrs. Mather. One which is proposed is on the history of Drew. Dr. Jones explains, "Drew has material of this sort and it (the exhibit) helps us to know just what is available."

On the question of opening the library on Sundays, Dr. Jones stated that a program of this sort was tried last semester, but there were not enough students utilizing the library facilities on Sunday to warrant its staying open. He emphasizes, however, that if the demand becomes stronger, another attempt will be made.

Summing up, Dr. Jones states, "No library ever has all it needs for every purpose, but Drew students have a much larger collection of materials than most liberal arts colleges, and fewer students using these materials. And they have a library staff which is small, but dedicated to the service of the students and faculty, to bringing the library and classroom work together in the closest possible way to provide opportunity for intellectual growth."

Capt. Kaiafas Scores

Three-Way Tie For First In Intramural Play

by J. J.

Monday, October 5th found both the sophs and the juniors winning. The sophs defeated the seniors by a score of 8-0 as Bob Catlin passed to Bill Barrowclough for six points and Walt Knox added two by trapping Jack Kingsley for safety. On the adjacent field the juniors, led by Bill Engler, outscored the frosh, 19-6. The scoring for the winners came as Engler passed for three touchdowns, one to Poultney, one to Steiner, and one to Mosher. A point-after-touchdown was also tallied on an end run by Poultney. The frosh's lone score was made by Dick Slout as he intercepted a pass and went all the way.

Two games were also played on the following Friday. The sophs trounced the frosh by a score of 42-0 as Swann, Flood, Inglis, and Catlin all found their way into the end zone. That same afternoon the seniors came from behind in the closing seconds of play to hand the juniors their first defeat of the season. As Kingsley hit Hayward with a touchdown pass, the score changed from 8-6 in favor of the juniors to 12-8 in favor of the seniors. The seniors had tallied earlier as Dick Wrathall threw to George Hayward for the first score of the game.

There is now a three way tie for first place between the seniors, juniors, and sophomores. Each have won two games and lost one.

Sport Shorts

By Art Binz

Congratulations are in order for the soccer squad and their "big" 2-0 win over the Lions of Trenton State. Due to a mix-up the sports page did not adequately headline the game. Incidentally, the picture appearing above shows Tony Kaiafas scoring the all-important first goal which broke open an exceedingly tight, well played ball game. Don't forget, we play this same squad again on the 24th on the Trenton field and I'm sure they'll be out to avenge their defeat. A bus load of Drew fans would do much to spur on the team. Another big one will be the Rutgers game on Tuesday, October 20, on Young Field. This one should be an old-fashioned thriller, with the "breaks" deciding the victor.

Attendance of recent games has certainly improved. A lot of this is due to the fact that the Frosh class seems to be one of the most active in years; but this does not tell the whole story. The band, which was organized only last year, does an excellent job in helping to create an atmosphere of excitement which is felt by fans and players alike. All of these factors combine to spur on the team. I would like to see large, cheering crowds at all of our games. Let's make this the year for a rebirth of the nebulous quality-school spirit.

NATIONAL SPORTS BRIEFS

Football — The once mighty Oklahoma Sooners lost their second straight as Texas came from behind a 12-0 deficit to pick up a 19-12 victory. In the East, the University of Pennsylvania routed Princeton 18-0 to take the inside track for the Ivy League title. Also, undefeated Rutgers nipped unpredictable Colgate, 15-12, in a game which saw most of the action centered in the final quarter. Penn State, behind Richie Lucas, their crafty quarterback, defeated the Cadets of Army by 17-11. It was the first Penn State triumph over the Cadets since they first met in 1899, when Penn State won 6-0.

In other games the scores were: Pittsburgh 12, Duke 0; Yale 14, Columbia 0; Cornell 20, Harvard 16; and Syracuse 32, Navy 6.

World Series Sidelights — A woman interrupted the Chicago White Sox batting practice in the last game. She suddenly swooped down from the stand and circled the bases, sliding into each bag. She would have achieved whatever her aim might have been if she had not run into a group of photographers at third base. "One more, they directed. The woman stayed around long enough for a couple of policemen to escort her to the local Bellevue for observation.

On Wednesday October 7, in a game marked by thunder, lightning, and heavy rain all through the second half, the Drew Rangers literally slipped past Rutgers of South Jersey by a score of 5-1. Every man on the Drew front line scored a goal. Everyone, including your reporter and the many spectators who witnessed the contest, was soaked by the downpour.

The game opened on an even keel with both teams scoring early in the first quarter. Drew's first score came at four minutes and fifty seconds of the quarter when Craig Wilkinson booted one in. In this game, as in last Saturday's, Craig showed much spirit and hustle as he seemed to be all over the field. A minute later the Rutgers squad tied it at one apiece. This was the closest the South Jersey boys were to come however, as Dave Pitkin booted one in at 12 minutes of the first quarter. This was the only scoring until the last quarter, but the Drew squad continually dominated play, putting Rutgers on the defensive. Drew's alternating goalies, Rock Smith and Andy Kaiafas, only made fourteen saves between them. This indicates the strength of the Drew offensive attack. As the third quarter opened so did the skies. What began as light drizzle soon developed into a torrent which sent some of the faithful crowd to cover. Play in that quarter was marked by much slipping and individual play as accurate passing in the rain proved impossible.

In the last quarter the Rangers, getting used to the rain and perhaps helped by it, broke the game open with three big tallies. Tony Kaiafas scored first at six minutes and fifteen seconds, his seventh goal of the year. Two minutes later Ron Barber scored and just before time ran out Ed Chestnut kicked one.

Fine play was also turned in by Dan Marcus, Mike Sherbin, Andy France, and Mike Berman. The next Ranger game will be at the Stevens Institute of Technology on Tuesday, October 13.

Sports Personality

by Doug Davis

For a guy who never played soccer before he came here, the sports personality this week, Bob Berger, has managed to make an outstanding contribution to Drew's soccer success. Bob has played at halfback for four years and it was certainly a bad break for the Rangers when he broke his ankle in the first practice following the New Paltz game. He is philosophic about it however as he says "when you play a rough game like soccer you have to expect things like this". Soccer is his favorite but by no means his only sports interest. He likes to play intramural softball and volleyball as well, and in his Freshman year, was an outfielder on the varsity baseball team.

Bob grew up in Clinton, New Jersey, and attended North Hunterdon Region High School, where he was a member of the track team and also did some wrestling. In his Senior year he was elected class president.

Dodgers Take Series 4 To 2; Sherry, Neal Snider Star For L. A.

By Art Binz

The Los Angeles Dodgers, capping one of the "oddest" baseball seasons in history, came home with the bacon as they defeated the Chicago White Sox in World Series, four games to two.

Back in May, when the race was in its infancy, any scribe or "baseball expert" who picked the Dodgers for first in the National League would have been considered daft. Here was a squad which had managed only a seventh place finish the year before and was thought to be in a state of shock when confronted by the infamous left-field screen. The Dodgers did not start particularly strong but, starting late in August, launched a pennant drive which carried them past a playoff series with the Braves and into the World Series. In the beginning it looked an easy Chicago series as the Go-Go's took the first one in Chicago by a score of 11 to 0. This game was all Ted Kluszewski's as the strapping first baseman provided winner Early Wynn with plenty of runs. The second game was an entirely different story as the Dodgers, capitalizing on some fine clutch hitting and young Larry Sherry's relief hurling, won 4 to 3, with Johnny Podres picking up the victory.

The scene then shifted to the Los Angeles Coliseum and the White Sox got their first look at the short left field fence. The White Sox were outspoken in their criticism of the park, a fact which Dodger Carl Furillo says "made us all the more determined" to defeat them. The Dodgers, though outthit by the Sox 12 to 5, managed to make their count as Drysdale, again receiving help from Sherry, won over Donovan, 3 to 1. The next game was pretty much the same story as the Los Angeles club won 5 to 4 on a late inning homer. By this time it was generally conceded to be all over as the Dodgers needed to win only one of the remaining three. This they did as the untouchable Sherry won his second behind robust Dodger hitting, 9 to 3.

Athletics aren't the only field in which Bob excels; he also is tops in the scholastic department, and last spring was elected vice president of the Student Council. This year he is the holder of the Alumnae Scholarship and one of three physics majors in the Senior class. He is interested in the peaceful uses of atomic energy and plans to go on to graduate study when he leaves Drew.

The winning combination of a friendly outgoing nature plus a good balance of interests and activities make you glad to be numbered among his many friends.

SOCCER RULES: GOAL TENDER

By Art Binz

This will be the first in a series of articles designed to acquaint the Drew soccer fans with the rules of soccer. Different positions will be presented, starting this week with Rock Smith's position as goalie.

The goalie, Rock emphasizes, is no better than his fullbacks. He must work with his fullbacks until he knows their capabilities and their likely moves in given situations. Rock then gave the following explanations of some of the various types of "kicks" which occur in his area. The first two are penalty kicks in that they result from an infraction, such as "hands." No player other than the goalie is allowed to touch the ball with his hands.

On a Direct Kick the opposing team, which has a free kick at the ball, can kick it directly into the goal. An Indirect Kick, on the other hand, must hit another player (on either side) before going into the goal. The hardest shot which a goalie must block is the Penalty Kick. This kick results from any infraction which occurs within a semi-circular area in front of the goal. The ball is placed fifteen feet from the goal posts. This presents the kicker with an exceptionally wide area in which to score and, consequently, a large area which the goalie must protect.

There are many more aspects of goalie play which the average spectator will be able to understand through attendance at the games.

Women's Sports

By Bonnie Weir

The Women's Sports program, through the guidance of Miss Cronin, is really expanding this year. I am sure that every Co-ED would enjoy at least one of activities being presented if she took the time to go out for one. We are especially interested in seeing some upper-classmen, who have never before been interested, to participate in some sport.

Recently, Charlotte Ruffead, Betsy Schell, Jane Fink, Ellen Camp and Marilyn Moore went with Miss Cronin to Plainfield to watch the North Jersey Hockey Association practice. If there is a large enough turnout for soccer which Miss Cronin is using as a lead-up sport to hockey, classes infield hockey may be started next year.

Senior Life Saving starts on October 19 from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m. and is open to all. It will feed into a Water Safety Instructor's course which will be given second semester. The faculty and their wives are also invited to participate.

The new modern dance class is being conducted by Mrs. David North who has had nineteen years of dance experience. There are fifteen women in the class.

Frankie Edel, who is heading Women's Fencing this year, while Bill Blair is away, has a big job. There are sixteen beginners who meet every Monday and Wednesday afternoons; on Friday the varsity team practices. No matches have been scheduled this fall, but in the spring when Bill returns the girls hope to have an active season.

Miss Cronin is very pleased to see that some upper-classmen are participating in the activities. She hopes that more of them will get up the gumption to come out and have some fun.
