New S. C. Members Make Appointments

The new Student Council had their first meeting last Monday evening. A vote from the faculty was read explaining their negative vote on the hayride question. It listed as their reasons the irregularity of presentation and also the interference a hayride would have with studying at this crucial time of the semester.

It was announced that the faculty had unanimously approved the new Judicial Board Code, which will go into effect in September.

Ron Saldarini, next year's male Frosh Advisor, announced the future membership of the orientation committee. He explained that the orientation program is being planned with several new ideas, including a type of hazing program and a somewhat revamped "Traditions Night", due to the large size (approximately 195) of next year's class.

The Council then made the following appointments: Social Chairmen, Barbare Fern and Sheldon Steiner; E.C.A.C. Policy Board, Leonard Feldman, Beverly Gilmore, Martha Fowler, and Robert Cohen; Academic Standing Committee, Nancy Clement, Roger Binkley; Student Union Advisory Committee, Judith Mowry, Celine Agostini, Marion Weir, Les Banks and Louis Jeronow.

Concerning new business, the Council discussed the unorganized and confusing way in which women's rooms were assigned for next semester. It was decided to send a request to the office of the Dean that lists of available rooms be posted next year at least one week in advance of the reservation date.

Exam schedules were also dis-

Plans Set For T. V. Courses

Final arrangements for two summer television courses are now underway. These courses, as outlined two weeks ago in the Acorn, will be taught by Dean Stanley R. Hopper of the Graduate School at Drew, and Professor Richard Hjelm of Upsala College.

The courses, which will alternate daily at 6:30 a.m. on CBS, will begin on June 6 and run for fifteen weeks. The course to be taught by Dean Hopper, an upper-level college course entitled "Religion and Modern Literature," will appear on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. Both courses will be offered under the title of "Summer Semester."

The registration procedure will be explained during the first CBS broadcast on June 6.

Cost for credit enrollment will be $100 per course. Auditing will carry a fee of $5 per course and will include a syllabus and permission to attend two discussion sections which will be arranged by the instructor. A certificate may be awarded to non-college students who successfully complete the work of each course. For this type of enrollment the registration fee will be $25 per course.

The first video-taping has been completed, by Dean Hopper.

cussed and the Council voted to send a memorandum to the registrar's office requesting early posting of schedules so that students will be able to make summer plans at an earlier date.

Ballard, Parker Receive Awards

Juliet Ballard and Edna Mae Parker were announced to be the recipients of the College Alumni Scholarships for 1960-61. The announcement was made last Friday by Dr. H. Estrin of the Newark College of Engineering. Estrin is the Class of '37 chairman of the Alumni Award Committee.

Miss Ballard and Miss Parker were selected from nineteen applicants of the Class of '61. The amount of each award is $250 for the senior year.

The awards were based on academic standing, contributions to campus and community life, and financial need. For academic consideration, the applicant must have a cumulative average of at least 2.00. The contributions to campus life were considered from participation in the following fields: publications, athletics, committee chairmanship, dramatics, speech, and debate, social and club activities, elective offices, honor societies, and community activities.

The awards were originally established by the Alumni Association to be presented in memory of alumni who were killed during World War II. The awards were continued after the memorials were exhausted.

Lit. Clubs Get

'60 Advisors

Drew's three student publications, the Oak Leaves, the Acorn, and the Columns, will each receive new advisors for the 1960-61 school year.

Dr. John M. Schabacker, Associate Professor of Modern Languages, will take over the advisorship of the Oak Leaves. He will replace Dr. Allen L. Weatherby, who has served as year-book advisor since 1956.

Dr. David M. Gray, Professor of Political Science, will become advisor to the Acorn. This post has been held by Dr. Paul C. Obler since 1954.

Mrs. Jacqueline Berke, Instructor of English, will become the advisor of the Columns, filling another vacancy left by Dr. Weatherby, who has served as the advisor to the literary magazine since 1956.

Dr. Obler will remain a member of the Publications Board, while Dr. Weatherby will not be permitted to serve on the Board when he assumes the deanship.

Controversy To Continue May 26

The Madison Magistrate's Court hearing for the six Drew students charged with Civil Defense violations during the May 3 air raid has been postponed from last Thursday evening until this Thursday, May 26 at 8 p.m.

The postponement, a member of the group said, was requested because the groups' lawyer, the Honorable Helen Frankel, was pleading a case before the Supreme Court at the time of last week's scheduled hearing. She will meet with her Drew clients soon to prepare for their defense on Thursday evening.

Robert Goff and Theodore Olson of the Graduate School, Kenneth Williams, Gary Klempnauer, and Louis Rawley of the Theological School, and Gerow Reece of the College were the students involved in the May 3 protest.

According to Reece, "The demonstration had two objectives: One was to support the view that in metropolitan areas such as this, air raids are ridiculous because in the case of an atomic attack, the whole area would be completely destroyed."

"The second objective is that of bringing into focus the disarmament situation," Reece continued. "It seems to those of us who participated in the protest that the continued renewal of air-raid defense tends to alleviate the feeling among the responsible population that steps must be taken at the level of government and foreign defense policies."

Acorn Chooses Associate Editor

Joyce Samanick, sophomore News Editor of the Acorn, will become Associate Editor for the 1960-61 school year. She will succeed Michael Solomon, whose transfer from Drew requires his resignation from the staff.

Miss Samanick has served as News Editor of the Acorn during the past semester and has worked on the newspaper since her freshman year.

Susan Campbell will fill the position left vacant by Miss Samanick in the News department. Miss Campbell has served on the News staff through her freshman year.

Steven Ellingsen will be Staff Photographer for 60-61, succeeding senior Richard Wrathall. Raymond Gulick, a freshman, will replace Jeffrey Gillman as Advertising Manager, and Irwin Bloch will succeed Paul Troop as Exchange Editor. Gillman and Troop recently resigned from the staff.

Happi Gallagher, a features writer, will perform the duties of Lay-Out Editor next year. Richard Olmsted, also a member of the features staff, will take over Copy responsibilities. Frances Brown will become Head Typist, and Ward Landgrigan will offer his services as a cartoonist for the 60-61 Acorn. All four will be sophomores.

English Dept. To Add New Teacher

The English Department announced last week that Mr. George Slover will be another fall addition to the College faculty. He will undertake many of the courses which Dr. Allen L. Weatherby will be unable to continue, due to the time to be consumed by his administrative position.

Mr. Slover will be Instructor of Dramatics and Freshman Composition, as well as take over the duties of faculty advisor of the Foresters for Dr. Ralph R. Johnson.

The new instructor was born in Germany, but he came to the U.S. as a child, to be raised in New York City. From 1954 to 1956, he served with the United States Army as an interpreter and interrogator for the U.S. Intelligence Service in Germany. He has also travelled in Italy and in England.

Mr. Slover received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania, and is currently pursuing his Ph.D. in the fields of Comparative Literature at Indiana University and in Fine Arts at Yale University.

A member of Phi Beta Kappa and Delta Phi Alpha, Mr. Slover has had a great deal of experience in dramatics, particularly play production, both at Yale and Hunter College, where he is currently lecturing in the English Department. He is very active in the modern drama.

In line with his intense interest in dramatics, Mr. Slover plans to visit Drew this Saturday, May 28 at 10:00 a.m. in Bowne Lecture Hall. He plans to speak with all Drew students who are interested in participating in dramatics here at Drew, whether or not they are present members of Foresters.

The new drama coach hopes to begin working with those who are interested in drama next year. In order to obtain a preliminary evaluation of some of the acting talent he may have to work with, he may ask some of these students to read parts from selected plays for him.

Committee Lists '60-'61 Events

Current movies, Coffee Shop Dances, and a Faculty-Student Day are but a few of the events which will highlight Drew's social calendar next year, according to the '60-'61 Social Committee, headed by Barbara Fern and Sheldon Steiner.

The tentative schedule was formulated by the committee at its first meeting held on May 18, attended by Marian Wier, Judith Gravell, Paul Wood—class social chairmen, and their class representatives. Different affairs are being planned along with traditional taking a new twist. Among other things the committee plans to build up the Sadie Hawkins dance and to have another Beatnik Affair sporting a real beatnik.

Other tentative plans include a "Women vs. Men" basketball game, a "20's Dance," Las Vegas Night, and a College Carnival, which was discontinued last year and will resume its place on the social calendar. Plans will be definite upon approval by Dean Morris, Social Committee Advisor.

Multitudes To Visit Drew This Summer

Drew will be host to 20 groups of summer visitors this year, beginning the day after Commencement and continuing through Labor Day. The schedule is the heaviest in the University's history, according to Richard C. Morgan, director of the University Center and coordinator of the summer program.

Organizations planning to have one or more conferences, training sessions, or workshops on campus are Lybrand, Ross Brothers & Montgomery (accounting firm), National Student Christian Federation, Philadelphia Conference of the Methodist Church, Chinese Christian Fellowship, International Christian Youth Exchange, Northeastern Jurisdictional (Methodist) School of Evangelism, Presbyterian Synod of New Jersey, Walther League (Lutheran) of New Jersey, New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, Luther League of New Jersey, and the National Council on Religion in Higher Education.

The heaviest concentration of summer visitors is anticipated the week of July 10 when 400 to 500 persons are expected for the Presbyterian Synod Training School, the Methodist School of Evangelism, and an orientation program of the International Christian Youth Exchange. The last-named organization will have groups here on three occasions—two of them composed of high school young people coming from or returning to various European countries and the other of American young people bound for a year abroad.

The Bookstore is planning to be open from 11:45 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday during the summer. The laundry and dry cleaning service will be continued during the interval.

An Illusion Of Discipline

While it is infrequently that disciplinary problems come to the attention of the campus, it is becoming increasingly apparent that there is a lack of standardization of penalties imposed for relatively similar offenses. We are especially reminded of this in considering the incident which was tried before the Dorm Council of the New Women's Dormitory last week.

We point to the inconsistency which exists between the penalties imposed on five of the six women involved in the said incident and that of the sixth who must, we are told, be subjected to a more rigid penalty. As we understand it, her penalty must be more severe because at the time her misdemeanor was committed, she was governed by the limitations of extended period of social probation invoked by a previous offense. But here is the very essence of inconsistency, for this previous offense, while being similar to the current offenses of all six women, was not nearly so serious. Had the penalty for this prior offense been the same, or as it should have been, less severe than it was, she would stand to be alleviated considerably of the pressure which has been placed on her as result of the more recent situation.

While we do not neglect to realize that circumstances alter cases, we feel that there is a definite need for (1) a formal listing of situations which House Councils should have the authority to consider, and (2) a similar listing of standardized penalties for specific social violations.

We would not want to contend that dormitory councils should have less power than they presently do, nor do we say that the persons involved in the incident under consideration did not violate an explicit code of the campus. But we do contend without further hesitation that the manner in which this case was handled suggests that a definite and tangible constitution for dormitory councils should be established if these disciplinary bodies are to possess the authority which is demanded of them in such incidences.

Retrospect And Prospect

As we review the past year's functioning of the Acorn, we cannot help but focus on new losses to the staff. Mike Solomon, who has served during the past semester first as Exchange Editor, later as Features Editor, and finally as Associate Editor, will leave the staff with this issue. Mike's dexterity, earnestness, and affability will be missed considerably when we return in September.

We regret also the loss of Dr. Obler, who has served as advisor to the Acorn for six years. While his advice has not been metered with regularity, it has been marked with willing interest and honesty.

The memoirs of the past year could not be complete without mentioning the contributions of our retired photographer, Dick Wrathall, and our pensive columnist, Pete Cain. We also cannot afford to overlook the diligent work of Paul Troop and Jeffrey Gillman in their respective positions.

In spite of our many and frequent losses during the past year, we preview with hope and a certain enthusiasm the contributions which our new advisor and staff members have yet to make.

De Rojas' "La Celestina" Initiates Modern Drama

by Richard Olmsted

In 1499, seven years after the discovery of America, and 65 years before Shakespeare was born, La Celestina, a tragicomedy by Fernando de Rojas, inaugurated the modern theater. It was no crude beginning. The characters were flesh and blood, the plot well contrived and springing logically from the interplay of character, the action dramatic, and the dialogue witty and eloquent. Rojas' portrayal of the old bawd, Celestina, was masterful; not until Falstaff would there be another so wickedly human and so amusingly wicked. Small wonder that all Europe took La Celestina to its heart. Rojas' play not only set the stage for the golden age of Spanish literature, but its translation gave impetus and direction to the national theater of other countries.

La Celestina, in the beautiful Elizabethan prose of James Mabbe (1619), adapted for the contemporary stage by Eric Bentley, is the first of six Spanish plays comprising Volume III of Anchor Books' Classical Theater. The other five are surprisingly good verse translations by Roy Campbell of plays by Calderon, Cervantes, Tirso de Molina and Lope de Vega. All are playable, and two were prepared specifically for B.B.C. television presentation.

Cervantes' Siegde de Numancia is an intensely patriotic historical drama of the days of Roman Spain. The inhabitants of the besieged city, abandoned by the gods and devoted to destruction, yet find within themselves the dour, deadly courage to cheat the Roman of his triumph. The play has a somber and curiously modern existential quality. Tirso de Molina's Trickster of Seville is notable as the first literary manifestation of the Don Juan legend. Calderon is represented by the melodrama, Love After Death, and the romantic comedy, Life is a Dream, a play worthy of comparison with the later comedies of Shakespeare.

Of special interest, because of the attention it has received from left-wing critics, is Lope de Vega's Fuente Ovejuna. The Russians particularly admire it as a classical expression of the class struggle. The inhabitants of a 15th century village, outraged by the cruelty of their feudal overlord, revolt and kill him. When put to the rack by the royal judges in an effort to determine who struck the fatal blow, they answer simply "Fuente Ovejuna," the name of their village. They are eventually pardoned by Ferdinand and Isabella and the play ends happily. The theme is unusually democratic for the 16th century theater, but the struggle is against an individual rather than a class, and only a socialist audience could equate the hardy villagers with the Marxian proletariat.

Student Art Found Creative And Bold

by Mr. James H. Pain

This year the annual exhibition of student art made its appearance in the University Center during early May. It was an impressive assemblage which gained much by being superbly hung. The general impression of the group was one of vigor and freedom. In most regards it was imaginative and inventive. I have been impressed over the years with the variety of materials employed in the studio work here, and this year was no disappointment. Gary Kuehn displayed work on glass, while others utilized masonite, cardboard and more conventional canvases.

In a similar vein, the different techniques employed in the deployment of paint and pigment constituted a fascination. Rand Castle evidenced considerable ingenuity in this regard. Remembering his work displayed last year, I was quite conscious of much greater sense of the total area and more liberty with his brush.

Last month I viewed an exhibit of student art in a noted New England college and was struck by the rather rigid conventionality of the work. The Drew grouping, by comparison, illustrates a willingness to experiment which is boldly creative at points. Not all of the work here is on the same level of competence. Yet, this is of interest and value in gaining an understanding of the work in the department of Art. Some of the first year students are obviously experiencing something quite new and foreign to them. The material is handled in a variety of ways which point not only to

Letters To The Editor

Well it looks like we shall have to wait another week to watch the Drew Macarthyism "render unto Caesar that which is God's" in their patriotic testimony against the six Drew students. So perhaps this is a good time to look a little closer at Drew.

From the Drew catalogue: "Drew is a Christian college." Does this mean that Drew endorses the teachings of Christ, or does it mean that Drew students are encouraged to obey the Laws of God, only inasmuch as they do not conflict with ordinances of Madison? If the latter is the case, it will take a heap of theological apologetics to convince me that this makes for a Christian college, to say nothing of a college founded upon ideals of brotherhood, democracy, and the dignity of man.

Does Drew teach its students to resist every attempt to condition them to hatred, mass murder, the annihilation of the human race? Ah, not so, my friends! Drew arrests them! Was this obscene act perpetrated through the murky workings of the hierarchy of Drew's Administration? Or was this done on the sterling initiative of Ralph Smith and his henchman Bilge? And if the latter is the cause, then perhaps the Madison Eagle had a pearl of wisdom buried in its slimy editorial; maybe Drew should have "done a little extra screening."

Why doesn't the Student Council, or any representative group, circulate a petition asking the President of Drew University to forbid any official of Drew to force the students to submit to a violation of their beliefs and principles. If this does not have the effect shaking our Madison neighbors out of their indecent rituals, then at least it will prevent the shameful recurrence of what amounts to a deprivation of basic human rights on the part of a college official.

Sawin States Facts About Class '64

"Next year's freshman class has great promise, especially in the academic and athletic areas," stated Mr. Alton Sawin, Jr., Director of College Admissions. Mr. Sawin went on to say that the Admissions Office plans on an enrollment of approximately 195 freshmen and 20 transfer students which add up to a total of 215 new Drew students.

The size of the class will not in any way detract from its scholastic abilities. The standards are as high, and in many cases higher, than they were for the Class of '63. At present, the class boasts of two finalists in the National Merit Scholarships and a winner of the Warner-Chilcott Scholarship.

The Admissions Office and the Athletic Department are very optimistic about the athletic abilities of the incoming freshmen. Many of them have received letters in soccer, baseball, and basketball, and they promise to greatly enhance the sports program.

When questioned about the ever popular subject of male-female ratios, Mr. Sawin said that the ratio would be fairly even with the possibility of about ten more females than males.

Kimpel Named Contest Judge

Dr. Ben F. Kimpel, Professor of Philosophy, has been named to be one of three judges in the Philosophical Library Essay Contest for 1961.

The subject for the essay contest will be "Philosophy and Religion in Colonial America." The essays are to contain not less than 30,000 and not more than 75,000 words. The closing date for submission of entries will be March 15, 1961.

Other judges for the contest will be Professor Kurt F. Leidecker, Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, and Dr. Dagobert D. Runes, editor of the "Pictorial History of Philosophy" and the "Dictionary of Philosophy."

The contest is open to members of the teaching profession and members of the clergy only. Graduate students may participate if they have met the requirements for a doctorate.

The winning essay carries a prize of $500.00, with the understanding that said prize be applied against royalties on the manuscript to be published.

Banks Wins Key Elections

Leslie Banks was elected to serve as President of Green Key for the year 1960-61 at the final meeting of the group on Thursday, May 12. He will succeed Jodi D. Headley.

Also elected were Michael Dudlar, Vice-President, and Lynn Chappel, Secretary. They succeed John Fischer and Lorilea Philibert, respectively.

An extensive discussion was carried on concerning contributions which the Green Key members might make to the proposed orientation program. It was suggested that upper classmen be required to wear name tags during the orientation period, that a cheering section be organized among the freshman girls to cheer at athletic events, and that white blazers be offered for sale to all members of Drew Eds.

Zarych's Entry Wins Silver $s For Fine Taste

Reed and Barton Silversmiths of Taunton, Massachusetts, have announced that Rosmary Zarych has been awarded one of the 100 "Starter Set" prizes for her entry in the silver firm's 196 Silver Opinion Competition from more than 14,000 university women who entered the contest this spring. She will receive approximately $50 in sterling silver, fine china and crystal.

Earlier this spring, Reed and Barton invited the women of universities throughout the country to participate in this contest. Scholarships were awarded on the basis of the tastes exhibited by applicants who were asked to make a silver pattern, a china pattern, and a silverware pattern from a given selection.

Miss Zarych's selections were as follows: Reed and Barton's "Silver Sculpture" sterling silver, Franciscan's "Newport" china and Imperial's "Etiquette" crystal.

Ten major scholarships were awarded to other women in universities in the U.S.A. The winner of the $500 scholarship was Miss Lucetta Swift of Mills College in California.

of records was huge and seemed to grow daily. But, Corky preferred barber shop singing as his mode of musical expression, singing whenever not pressed by English papers. In sports, Cork put his baseball talent to good use, pitching for the Rangers for three years. He helped the senior class by participating in intramural football and basketball, in which sport he was continually a high scorer. Dick also spent many hours in the mailroom, earning that "date" money. The future looks bright for Cork as he intends to enter Biblical Seminary in New York. Cork will prove the exception to the rule as he will be one minister, at least who can sing.

14 Plan Moves For Junior Year

Fourteen members of the Class of '62 will be absent from the Drew campus as they travel next September in exchange and transfer programs to Washington, D. C. and Germany.

Five prospective juniors will study in Germany. Mara Barens, Thomas Aquilino, and Ralph Thorne will spend a full school year at the University of Munich. Miss Barens is a Zoology major, Thorne a Chemistry major, and Aquilino a Political Science major. Their courses will all be taught in German.

George Leggett and George Litts, both German Literature majors, will study for a full year in Freiburg at the university there.

Three members of the Class of '62 will comprise the third group of exchange students from Drew to go to Howard University in Washington, D. C. Mary Peck and Elizabeth Schell, both Psychology majors, and Donald Rudalevige, a Sociology major, will spend the first semester of next year at the Negro college. This will be the first semester in which the program will be recognized as an "exchange" for Howard will send two students to Drew for the first term, also.

The long established Political Science exchange to American University, also in Washington, will claim six members of the '62 class. David Allen, Robert Catlin, Lawrence Flood, David Hansen, Robert Harrall and Shannon Rafferty will participate in this one semester program of exchange. All six, being Political Science majors, are anticipating the opportunity of spending five months in the nation's capital during which final presidential campaigning, the election, and the inauguration will take place.

This is the final issue of the Acorn for the 1959-60 school year. The first issue to be published next year will appear on Monday, September 26, 1960.

Methodists To Hold Session

The Newark Annual Conference of the Methodist Church will hold its 103rd session Wednesday, May 25, through Sunday, May 29, on the Drew campus. It will be the final meeting of the conference to be conducted by Bishop Frederick Buckley Newell before his retirement.

The conference will meet in Baldwin Gymnasium-Auditorium. Some of the participants will be attending special luncheons and taking meals in the cafeteria of the University Center.

This is the third consecutive year in which the conference has met at Drew. In 1958 and 1959 the dates followed commencement, thus permitting the University to offer housing to the ministerial and lay delegates. However, due to special circumstances of Bishop Newell's 1960 schedule, it was necessary to hold this year's session before the close of the academic year so the conference will be on a commuting basis.

Profs Hustle, But Rangers Whip Faculty

By Pete Cain

Match pressure off, the Rangers rallied good-naturedly with some of their profs on the Drew courts Thursday afternoon, sweeping the four singles matches, and dropping the two doubles discreetly.

The English department received a sound thrashing at the hands of Chesnut and Cain, who rode over Obler and Jones with scores of 6-3, 6-1, and 6-4, 6-0. Doctor Wooley, exhausted after dropping a grueling 7-5 set with Don Anderson, bowed out leaving the field to those younger and spryer than he.

The youngest faculty member, tall, blonde Phil Jensen, allowed his early lead of 6-2 to go to his head, and clear-headed Bob McCoy came through to win the next two sets 6-1, 6-1. Phil says he wants to retrieve his lost honor. We're waiting!

Just beginning to feel the jolts of physical exertion after a long winter of idling, Bicknell and Banks quickly picked up forgotten skills, combining strategy with enthusiasm to win two straight sets from Bredin and Toorock 7-5, 7-5.

The other doubles matches was also a clean sweep (6-3, 6-4), with Friedrichs and Wooley hitting well against Anderson and Cain. Wooley felt some satisfaction about that and the vigorous sociologist was ready to go another three sets. Both men have been playing consistently this spring, so the consternation at their victory was not too great.

Some grudges were paid off and some future matches planned. The tennis team feels that despite the biases and prejudices of the faculty, a certain amount of rapport was established.

France Pitches Sophomores To Intramural Title

By Jeffrey Masuda

Monday evening the sophomores outslugged the seniors by a large margin, 14-0. Andy France pitched marvelously, gaining his first shut-out of the season, and the sophs backed him up with a five-run and sixteen hits. The win gave them this year's softball crown.

The game came as a result of the tie between the two clubs at the end of the regular season, each being 5-2. Jack Kingsley was combed, and the seniors were victimized by poor fielding. Tony Christiano, Bob Harrall, and Craig Wilkinson were instrumental in the victory. Each hit well.

The game winds up the intramural softball season. The sophs and the seniors were easily the superior teams, as the latter surprised with their first victories in four years. And a freshman team may be the surprise of future years, although they were hampered this year by lack of organization.

Sports Personality

By Art Binz

"J. J." Wolfson has done many things, in and out of college, and plans to be just as active in the future. In Long Branch High School (N.J.) he specialized in not one thing but many, among which were football, cross-country and, of course, baseball. In addition, J.J. participated in American Legion baseball after work during the summer months.

J. J. came to Drew as a sophomore, after attending Valley Forge Military Junior College where he showed his scholarship by making the "Dean's List". His record at Drew is enviable as he has participated in an array of activities from Sam Bowne treasurer to psychology club to varsity baseball and fencing. As treasurer of the Student Council, J. J. amazed everyone by showing a surplus over the previous year's treasury, and this while buying a new car! J. J. has also been instrumental in intramural sports, especially in basketball as his high school J. V. training paid off for the seniors.

However, J. J.'s biggest contribution has occurred in baseball as he joined the Rangers his first year here and has been a valuable member ever since. His first two years, he understudied his good friend "Spence" who held down the second base slot. This year he has seen more action while alternating with Dale Sorensen at second. Next year, J. J., a psychology major, will head for the sunny south and the Law School of the University of Miami. I am sure his pipe and humorous attitude will become as familiar there as they have here.

Lonnstrom, Tiger Lead Oldsters Hayward Outstanding In Finale

The "old men" of the Alumni turned out to be pretty spry after all as they banged out thirteen hits to upset the Varsity 9-4, Saturday afternoon. The Alumni got good clutch pitching from Doug "Dewey" Lonnstrom. Key RBIs from "Cubby" Tiger, George Toepfer and Frank Ritzer capped their powerful attack. The varsity was led by George Hayward who went 3 for 5 in his final appearance, along with five other seniors.

The Alumni moved in front at the start on a triple by Rod Spencer and sacrifice fly by Toepfer. The Varsity came back to tie it up when Catlin walked, moved to second on an error and scored on Hayward's single.

The Alumni went ahead to stay in the third when a base on balls and two singles produced two runs. In the fourth they made it 6-1, scoring three more runs on five hits including a bases loaded single by Cubby Tiger. The Varsity rallied in the sixth to come within two runs at 6-4 when with two down, Hayward singled and stole second. After Stafford walked, Saldarini's single brought in one run. Swann then drew a pass to load the bases and Littlejohn walked, forcing in another run. Saldarini scored the third run on an error at second. The Alumni were playing for keeps however. They rallied for two in the seventh on a triple by Dick Hane and Ritzer's bunt single and added one more in the ninth when Tiger, Toepfer and Johnson all singled and Ritzer walked. The win had Alumni coach, Lew Watts, claiming his first "undefeated season."

Rangers Beat C. W. Post 3-2; Coffey, Hayward Lead Squad

By Larry Day

The Rangers beat C. W. Post 3-2, Tuesday, in a game which featured fine fielding, pitching, and hitting. Top honors went to Brian Coffey who pitched beautifully. In his performance, Brian struck out six, got one of two tight situations, and allowed only 5 hits. Brian got a big assist from George Hayward who cut across the middle to make two "impossible" game saving plays, both for the final out with runners in scoring position. In the hitting department, the Rangers collected 5 hits, three of them good for RBIs.

Drew Downed By Pratt, 8-3 DelGuidice Hurt By Errors

By Adam Kaufman

The Ranger baseball team ventured in to the wilds of Brooklyn to meet Pratt on Thursday in the final game of the year for a squad that has been plagued by injuries and bad breaks. As the result indicates the Thursday encounter was no exception. Drew lost 8-3, but fought all the way.

Dick DelGuidice went all the way for the Rangers giving up only two earned runs. George Hayward played most of the game at second because of an injured neck and back, while Dan Marcus and Dick Stafford limped through the game with bad legs.

Nevertheless, Drew appeared to be running away with the game during the first inning. Bob Catlin walked, but was out stealing; Dan Marcus was hit by a pitched ball, George Hayward singled, Dick Stafford singled and Dale Sorensen sent a smashing drive down the right field line which the first baseman couldn't handle. Two runs. But Drew committed four errors in the bottom of the first; allowing four runs, and trailed from this point on.

Pratt picked up three runs in the fourth after the Rangers made a valiant effort to get back into the game. Stafford singled, stole second, advanced on Swann's single and came home on Marshall's hard hit ground ball.

Women's Sports

By Bonnie Weir

Frankie Edel will receive an award for her outstanding contribution to Women's fencing. She has built the team up from an informal activity to a varsity sport. The W.A.A. has come a long way over the past two years, with the tremendous help and leadership of Mrs. Lovell. When she came, the W.A.A. said she would never get anyplace with her program on this campus, but she did. Now it is up to the W.A.A. to show the new professor and the freshmen that even more can be done. I am sure the W.A.A. will not let all of Mrs. Lovell's hard work go down the drain and will keep up the good program which she has established.

Mrs. Lovell Leaves;

Aided Girls Sports

It is with deep regret that we announce that Mrs. Barbara Lovell, for the past two years Director of Women's Physical Education and guiding light of the Women's Athletic Association, will not be with us next fall. Mrs. Lovell will be leaving to raise a family, although she may be back part-time second semester as an instructor for the Red Cross Water Safety course.

During her stay at Drew she has emphasized wide participation in Women's sports, especially concentrating on juniors and seniors. She introduced soccer as a girl's sport and has developed badminton, basketball and tennis, thus building a firm foundation for the continued expansion of the Women's Sports Program.
