S. Mandel Elected 'Columns' Editor

Susan Mandel was elected editor-in-chief of Columns for the 1960-1961 academic year. The selection was made by the Columns coordinators who were chosen in September to help get the publication off to an early start.

These coordinators have met several times during the past few weeks for the purpose of crystallizing the temporary staff into a formal group on the basis of attendance, interest, and performance since the beginning of the semester.

Miss Mandel, whose other activities include A.D.A., Young Democrats, Acorn business staff, and women's tennis will be aided by an editorial staff consisting of Gale Sypher, short story editor; Ron Barber, non-fiction editor; and Robert Friedman, poetry editor.

Columns has a new business manager this year as well. William Couper, a recent transfer from Rutgers, will handle financial arrangements for the printing of the magazine. George Chiorazzo, also a transfer student, will hold the responsibility of managing editor. The secretary and representative to the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association is Clod Reed.

Mrs. Jacqueline Berke will continue in her position as faculty adviser to Columns.

Christmas Dance Ends '60 Season

Wednesday, December 14, will see the climax of Drew's Christmas festivities with the annual Christmas Dance sponsored by the College Social Committee. The dance will begin at 9:30 P.M. in the Multi-purpose Room of the Student Union.

This final dance of 1960 calls for semi-formal attire. Dancing will be to the music of Dick Meyers band which is making a return engagement at Drew. Since the dance will last but two hours, entertainment is being omitted from the evening's program.

Sue Campbell, chairman of refreshments committee, has planned a seasonal snack of hot cider and Christmas cup cakes.

Decorations, according to committee chairman Irwin Bloch, will be "novel." The multi-purpose room will be disguised with greens and Christmas lights.

Publicity is being handled by Diane Reed.

Barbara Fern, Social Committee Co-Chairman, and the committee have carefully planned for a Christmas Dance that promises to be a success. Miss Fern urges all Drew students and their friends to come and make Drew's last dance of the year a great one.

Dean Florence Morris has granted late permission to all Drew co-eds attending the Christmas Dance.

Acorn Editors Appoint Four

Susan Campbell has been chosen Associate Editor of the Acorn to fill the vacancy left by Joyce Samanick's recent resignation from the position.

Miss Semanick, a junior, served as Associate Editor since last spring. She will continue working for the Acorn as a news writer, and editorial assistant.

Miss Campbell, a sophomore, has been News Editor this semester and a member of the News Staff during her freshman year.

Filling the vacancy at the News Editor's desk will be George Eckstein, a freshman who has been active on the News Staff since he entered Drew, and who was an editor of his high school yearbook. Phyllis Bailey will be Assistant News Editor. Miss Bailey, a sophomore, has written for the News Staff for the past year and a half.

Joan Davidson, will become Head Typist.

Students are reminded that Christmas vacation begins at 6 p.m. on Friday, December 16. Classes will resume at 8 a.m., Tuesday, January 3.

Novice Debaters Win At Temple

A novice debate team from Drew attended the Temple University Debate Tournament, December 2 and 3. Seventy-two colleges were represented at the tournament.

Both the affirmative and the negative won one out of the four rounds of debate in which they participated. Dr. Ralph Johnson, Drew's Debate Coach, expressed his optimism for the future of these four novice debaters, since none of them had ever debated before the tournament at Temple.

Drew's team was composed of Tony Shipley and Ronald Barber, negative team, and Brent Haskell and Paul Comiskey, affirmative. They debated the National College Topic, Resolved: That the United States adopt a program of compulsory health insurance for all its citizens.

The affirmative team, in their argument, tried to prove a need for compulsory health insurance and presented a plan which would fulfill this need. The Drew team considered their plan to be the strongest point in their argument. Drew's negative team maintained that their opponents could not show a need for the proposition. This was considered to be their strongest argument.

Seasonal Entries Readied For Wed. Carol Competition

The annual University Christmas Carol Contest will be held December 14 from 7:15 to 9:15 in the Baldwin Gymnasium. All Dorms on campus will participate. Commuters will take part in the competition this year for the first time.

The carol contest will be held under the auspices of the Social Committee. Many of the carols are to be sung in different languages and include old church music, folk tunes, and traditional carols. During the judging, community singing will be led by Carolyn Thompson with Jerry Aulenbach as accompanist. A trophy, now held by Wendel Hall, will be awarded to the winner. Refreshments will be served in the foyer.

The Drew-Eds will provide ushers and give out the traditional Christmas candy. The dorms in charge of the various committees are as follows: Wesley House, arrangements; Rogers House, publicity; Asbury Hall, decorations; New Women's Dormitory, refreshments; and New Men's Dormitory, clean-up.

Judging for the contest will be based on eight criteria: tone, quality, pitch, phrasing, diction, balance, precision, impression, and originality. The carols will be judged only on these bases. No extra consideration will be given for such features as dramatic presentation.

Rehearsals for the Carol Contest will be held in the Baldwin Gymnasium on Tuesday, December 13, from 7:00 to 11:00.

tournament were such schools as, Boston University, Morgan State, United States Merchant Marine Academy, St. Peter's, St. John's, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Hunter College, University of Pennsylvania, City College of New York, and University of Virginia.

University Choral Communion Precedes Christmas Caroling

For the first time students will have the opportunity to participate in a University-wide Choral Communion Service. This Christmas community service will be held tonight, Dec. 12, at 7:30 in Samuel Bowne Hall.

The service will be led by Chaplain James Pain of the College and Professor Alfred Haas of the Seminary. Laurence MacIntosh, a seminary student and formerly connected with the Australian Broadcasting System, will read the lessons. The service will be chanted in a cappella. The communion will be admini-

Burrill-Lodge Chosen To Lead Class Of '64

George Burrill was voted president of the Class of '64 in the election held Friday, December 9. Also elected were Mary Lodge, Vice-President; Ann Warner, Secretary; Robert Saar and James Stewart, Student Council (on campus); Valerie Greenspan, Student Council (off campus); and Paul Springle, Social Chairman.

George Burrill,
Frosh President

Before coming to Drew, Burrill was an active member in his school Student Council.

Miss Lodge was co-editor of her high school yearbook, secretary of the Leaders' Club, a member of the National Honor Society, and business manager of her school paper. She participated in all sports. Since coming to Drew she has participated in the Fall Production, the Psych-Soc Club, and was co-captain of the Frosh-Soph games.

Miss Warner was a cheerleader in high school, as she also is here. She was president of her sophomore class, a Student Council representative, and homeroom president. At Drew she is a WAA representative, and was co-captain of the Frosh-Soph games.

Saar, who was stage manager for "Skin of Our Teeth," was president of his high school student council, vice-president of his junior class, and a member of the National Honor Society.

Stewart was also president of the Student Council in his high school, and has shown interest in the proceedings of the Drew Student Council. He is a member of the Service Committee of the University Center.

Miss Greenspan listed among her high school activities the National Honor Society, French Club, newspaper and yearbook staffs, Tri Hi-Y, and choir. Since coming to Drew, she has been active on the Acorn and Columns staffs.

Social Chairman Springle has been active at Drew as production coordinator for the Frosh Show and set chairman for the Fall Production. He was homeroom chairman and vice-president of the Biology Club in his high school.

Allen Merriam, a write-in candidate for class treasurer, received a sufficient number of votes (41) to invalidate the election for this position. On Wednesday of this week Frosh will hold renominations for treasurer. A final election will take place on Friday.

Dorm Deposit Credit Cited

Students are reminded that the $50 dormitory deposit is being credited to the second semester account this year.

If for some reason you will not occupy your room during the spring semester you must notify the Dean's office—Dean Morris for women, Dean Sawin for men—by December 15, 1960, 4:00 p.m.

Approval of a refund will be given only when there are extenuating circumstances which would make off-campus living acceptable under existing University regulations.

WAA Sponsors Stag Soc Roc

The WAA "Soc Roc" climaxed a gala sports extravaganza Saturday night, Dec. 10.

After observing two performances—the Synker's water ballet and the Rangers' conflict with RPI—spectators were free to release their pent-up energies via rock 'n' roll.

A new tape of songs by Johnny Mathis and Frank Sinatra, put together by Sally Prettyman and Shirley Kot, added a unique touch to the evening's entertainment.

Sally remarked, "We had ham and cheese sandwiches instead of decorations. Hope everyone was well fed. It seems that all the available funds were spent on food and nothing was left for decorations. It is doubtful that we will hear any complaints regarding this problem."

strated by intinction, which is the dipping of the wafer in the wine by the communicant.

Following the service, about 9:00, students will gather in groups, choose a singing leader for their group, and depart from the campus to sing carols at the homes of faculty members and shut-ins in the Madison area. Carolers will walk or ride by truck depending upon the weather.

Refreshments will be served in the College Building lounge upon returning. Women will be granted late permission.

A New Concept In Athletics

Drew University's varsity basketball team seems headed toward another dismal court season. It is in this sport that the glare of certain basic faults which riddle the Drew athletic program become evident. In discussing these faults we assume that the athletic program is a major part of college life. We also assume that the various teams represent Drew, its spirit and excellence to other schools, alumni and to the prospective student. We do not intend to degrade the members of the team or the coach, they are both products of a greater system and an attitude that has become popular on campus. We do not feel that basketball is the end goal of a college program, but rather one form of expression for those who wish the name of their college to be an acknowledged one in any of the recognized areas of competitive comparison, be it in academics, sports, or the business world our graduates enter.

In that columned building we call Mead Hall a policy of athletic deemphasis has prevailed since a time no one can remember. In its desire to maintain high academic standards the administration, whether by plan or by forgetfulness, has left the tide of the athletic program at low ebb. By the simple act of asking a man to coach three sports, be athletic director, and teach sociology courses, the administration is following an archaic, outmoded, and ridiculous policy. It is impossible to find a school with the same high academic standards and student population that follows this policy.

What of student opinion, school spirit or pride? Student comments such as "I go to the games, and if I don't see what I like I keep my mouth shut," have reached the ears of the Acorn staff. Yes, attendance has improved over last year, but support of the team does not end by sitting on the wooden bleachers of Baldwin Gym. It is this placid acceptance of losing and not trying to do anything about it that has prompted this editorial. The student body must also have the desire to win and to excell.

At Drew University the basketball team has been one of the least successful intercollegiate sports. We have not seen successful seasons since the days of the Navy V-12 units and 1945. As of late there have been rumors of dropping the sport; the Acorn does not favor such an action. The team has more potential this year than in the past. It had what we hoped would be a scoring punch in Dale Sorenson and Don Anderson, but now Sorenson is hurt and Anderson has not been played. The team does not look well drilled.

As we go to press the Ranger five has not won a game and prospects for that elusive winning season are growing dim. What can be done?

The Acorn does not feel that the sport should be dropped, but has considered this plan of action:

1. The hiring of a basketball coach, hired for his ability to coach this sport and this sport only.
2. Aid to prospective athletes. At this point we do not feel the necessity for athletic scholarships; however, in awarding scholarships, loans, and jobs, preference should be given the academically qualified athlete.

3. Recruiting athletes. The job of the athletic director in part should be the recruiting of prospective student athletes, qualified in both studies and court performance for admission to Drew.

It is this concept of the athletic program that the Acorn favors. We do not expect the Rangers to play N.Y.U. or Cincinnati, but we do expect the Rangers to win.

Reviewer Examines Hick's Conclusions

by Richard Olmstead
"Christology and Theological Meaning" was the topic of consideration at a graduate school lecture by Dr. John H. Hick on Thursday, Dec 8 in Samuel Bowne Hall. Dr. Hick, professor of Philosophy and Religion at Princeton Theological Seminary, lectured on the meaning of the affirmation, Jesus Christ is Divine.

Dr. Hick began by outlining subtle distinctions of meaning in the usage of the word is; for the remainder of his lecture, he analyzed the function of is as it applies to the statement, Jesus Christ is Divine. Dividing his lecture into two parts, Dr. Hick first spoke on the qualitative and then on the numerical meaning of the affirmation.

He maintained that Jesus' attitude toward the people with whom he came into contact, was God's attitude toward the same people. Therefore, there is a qualitative similarity between Jesus and God. However, if this is the only meaning of Christ's divinity, Dr. Hick points out that such an analogical position would not preclude the belief that insofar as any man's attitude was similar to God's, to the same extent the man would be Divine.

To obviate the last conclusion, the lecturer proceeded to an explication of the numerical meaning of Christ's divinity. Infinity may partake of finiteness; if this were not so, then infinity would be bound, which presents a logical absurdity. Therefore, one may affirm that Christ and God were one. To clarify the assertion, Dr. Hick uses an analogy of the sun, found in the thought of Tertullian and Athanasius. These two early Christian philosophers thought of the sun as emitting particles to the earth. To avoid such as outmoded substantialist theory, Dr. Hick changes the analogy to that of the sun emitting light waves, rather than particles of itself. He further clarifies the relationship of God, the Father to God, the Son, by comparing it to the amoeba which extends a pseudopodia. Dr. Hick's theory is more reminiscent of the Neo-Platonism of Ammonius Saccus and Plotinus than the thought of Tertullian and Athanasius. He seems to suggest that every action and reaction of Christ originated from God who is separated from mankind as the sun is separated from the earth. How is such separation to be reconciled with the omnipresence of God? One must ask if Dr. Hick's theory is no less substantial than its predecessor and if the entire conclusion is not similar to the Beryllian heresy condemned at Bostia in 244 A.D.

In spite of the unfortunate conclusion, this reviewer appreciated what Dr. Hick was trying to do and found the lecturer stimulating.

Draft Views Contested

Dear Editor,

In "Tatum Considering Military Service," Pete Mosher cites ten "reasons" for opposing conscription and asks us to assume their validity. Most of these are unfounded and only show Tatum's ignorance of the armed forces, the democratic process, and the draft laws. After looking at his "reasons" for opposing military service I doubt Tatum has much to worry about. He couldn't pass the mental exams required, or if he could, would, soon after induction, be given a Section-8 discharge.

Let's look at Tatum's reasons. Tatum maintains "Conscription is a necessary tool for carrying on modern warfare." Granted, but he implies that it is a sufficient cause for modern warfare. He goes on to state that conscription has no purpose apart from preparation for war. A famous American said, "The best method of preserving peace is to be prepared for war."

Tatum goes on to say that conscription is an important element in the growth of militarism in this country. How? Militarism grows out of a nation's political philosophy and culture, not its defense policies.

Tatum also rambles on about the "disruptive factor" in the

Debaters Plan Future Agenda

Illness caused the Drew Debate Council to cancel its participation in the New York University Hall of Fame Tournament this past weekend.

This cancellation, however, has not dampened the spirits of the debaters in regard to their future contests. Their next scheduled debate tournament is the Eleventh Annual Garvey Invitational Debate Tournament on February 10 and 11. This will be held at Kings College, Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. On March 3 and 4 the Council is scheduled to attend the William Ober Memorial Debate Tournament at Hofstra College, Long Island.

Also planned are a number of home debates with colleges in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D.C.

Noel: No End...

Drew first: the Christmas scene at Drew has been highlighted this year by the arrival of a Hammond organ in the lounge of the Student Center. Loaned by frosh Bob Cole, and transported from its customary habitat in the gym, it has been in frequent use by students Cole and Gerald Aulenbach, also by Mrs. Adele Lorie of the Drew Book Store.

Surprising shapes: a large but somewhat trapezoidal tree (who cut the top off?), also in the lounge, was decorated by an industrious committee headed by Grace Leoser of the University Center Advisory Committee.

Notes on music: the commuters will participate for the first time in the annual carol contest. Will their contribution be ancient, mediaeval, or modern?

How to be popular: observe the season by giving your classes three hourlies and two papers in the midst of dances, tarot contests, dorm parties, teas, and decoration festivals.

Most appreciated gift: a seventeen-day vacation, of course!

Ace In A Hole

Ace: We sure do have a lot of Christmas spirit around here.

Hole: Yeah, beautiful trees, wreaths, and that organ music.

Answer: More spirit with less music a la organ.

Ace: Play's over now.

Hole: Really was a big success. Answer: Ace production in a financial hole.

Ace: "Christmas is coming and the goose is getting fat."

Hole: "Please do put a penny in the old man's hat."

Answer: College students are too poor to have hats.

I don't see Tatum proposing a workable solution to this problem. Kennedy's idea of a "peace force" may provide a limited solution of this waste.

Mr. Tatum is striking at a symptom of our sick world rather than at a cause. He could expend his energy and redoubtable rhetoric more profitably by picking up his soapbox and taking the next U-2 for Moscow. Pick up your steel marbles and go home, Mr. Tatum.

Sincerely,
QUEEG

Sawin Concludes Guidance Series

Having completed a series of successful guidance trips in the fall, Dean Alton Sawin concluded his 1960 visit to the various high schools in the tri-state area on December 9. He will resume this program after the Christmas Recess.

On December 1, Dean Sawin spoke at the Northern Westchester College Conference in Katonah, New York and at The Henry Snyder High School College Night in Jersey City, New Jersey.

On December 5, he visited Pemberton Township New Jersey High School College Night and on December 6, the Sparta New Jersey College Night.

December 7 found the Dean at Webster and Wooster Massachusetts Academies. On December 8 he visited the Northfield School for Girls in East Northfield and the Mount Hermon School for Boys, both in Massachusetts.

Fozzbury Establishes New Dramatic Club

Professor Elia Fozzbury, chairman of the extra-curricular activities committee, announced last week the establishment of a dramatic society which would present performances at Drew in a much-neglected artistic medium, the Soap Opera. A mighty wurlitzer has been shipped from the upper reaches of the Lower Congo especially for the occasion, and was placed, naturally, in the foyer of the Student Union. Although this has been recently appropriated by the Holier-than-Thou Club for its spontaneous demonstration of religious fervor, its real purpose is to provide background music for productions next spring.

The series will be kicked off over Park High School, New Jersey on December 1.

Wesley Open For Christmas

The women of Wesley House will sponsor their annual Open House on Tuesday, December 13, from 9:00-10:00 p.m.

Bonnie Weir, Wesley's social chairman is in charge of the event. Assisting her are chairmen of refreshments, Sally Prettyman and Kay Richards; chairman of decorations, Elizabeth Ford and Diane Cooper.

The refreshments committee will provide coffee, cocoa, and "a variety of sixty doughnuts." Mistletoe, sprigs of holly, and the traditional Christmas tree will add holiday spirit to the party.

From 8:00-9:00 p.m. the affair will be open only to residents of Wesley House and their dates.

The executive board of the State of New Jersey Young Republicans met at Drew on Friday, December 2. At this meeting Gordon Friedman and Jane Fink were elected as Drew delegates to the State Young Republicans Club.

Wettstein To Direct

Barbara Fern and Sheldon Steiner, co-chairmen of the Social Committee, announce the appointment of seminarian Norton Wettstein as director of the 1961 Spring Production. Wettstein directed last year's musical, "Guys and Dolls," and most recently appeared on the Drew stage as Mr. Antrobus in "Skin of Our Teeth."

The appointment of a Production Manager will be made by Wettstein and the Social Committee. The Production Manager will in turn select a production staff.

"I hope to decide on a musical by the end of this week," reports Wettstein, "so that arrangements for scripts and scores can be made over the holidays." He hopes to hold auditions for the production at the end of the present semester.

The dates for the production are to be April 14 and 15. The location for the presentation will be determined by the play selected and the cost of producing it.

Wettstein is currently considering a variety of musicals including "Where's Charlie?," "The Boyfriend," "Good News," "Ernest in Love," and two of Irving Berlin's hits, "Call Me Madam," and "Annie, Get Your Gun."

Unlike other years, an Assistant Director will be chosen this year from the undergraduate body so that direction of the spring musical can be reestablished in the college student body.

Former productions have been "Finian's Rainbow," in 1959 and "One Touch of Venus," in 1958.

Fencers Open Jan. 7 6 Lettermen Return

On January 7 the Drew University Fencing team will open its 1960-61 season against the scarlet and black Fords from Haverford University. Last year the Rangers beat the Fords easily 17-10 on their own court. This year Haverford will be here and the prospects are very good that the win will be repeated.

Weapon by weapon the team is not as strong as last year's, but is larger and has much more depth and potential. Heading up the foil team are Jim Knapp and Victor Drilea, Jim fenced regularly at third foil last year and most likely will take over the first position. Vic also saw much action on the mats last year and is ready to step in at any time. Along with Jim and Vic are three experienced and four new men who have been practicing and receiving expert coaching from Rocco Feravolo.

Heading up the sabre team are senior Art Mauceri who fenced first sabre last season and Brian Coffey, a junior who fenced second sabre. Backing them up are Fred Hust who is a returning fencer and four new men who are all ready to fence.

The epee team is back intact. Headed by Captain Bob Bosdorf, the team of Bosdorf, John Klapmuts, and Joel Lowinger expect to pile up many points. They are backed up by veteran Elliot Esterman and three well drilled new men.

Both Coach Feravolo and Captain Bosdorf have every reason to expect a winning season.

JV's Lose 71-45 Drop 1st Game In 3 Outings

A devastating run could press by Rutgers of South Jersey's last breaking junior varsity sent the Drew J.V.s down to their first defeat of the season, Friday night at Camden, after they had won their first two games against Newark State and Pace. Freshman scoring ace Al Cummings led the Little Rangers with 11, 10 below the 21 point average he took in to the game with him. Mark Yerbough chipped in with 9 but a poor second half showing by the Green and Gold cost them the victory.

After both teams started slow with South Jersey taking the early lead, Drew forged ahead on baskets by Cummings and Yerbough, who was driving well down the middle, when Jerry Williams also got hot and began pumping in medium range jump shots, they spurred to a 7 point lead at 23-16. After this, Drew cooled off and South Jersey crept up slowly to go into a 32-27 lead at half time.

The strong second half comeback which had shown the Little Rangers the way to victory in their first two games was missing on Friday however. After half time, South Jersey went into a full court press at the opening whistle, harassing the Green and Gold all over the court, holding them scoreless until well into the period. The Little Rangers threw the ball away time after time to set up South Jersey baskets and couldn't hit many of their own shots. The Green and Gold worked the ball poorly and were unable to set up good shots as they had consistently done in their two earlier victories.

By Larry Day

The basketball team suffered a pair of tough breaks last week due to injuries. Dale Sorenson was injured during the Haverford game and will be out until after the Christmas vacation. Dick Chaplin sprained an ankle and also will probably be out until after the holiday break. Both of these men add much to the team.

Dale, who has played all four years here at Drew, is this year's captain. He is a natural leader on the floor who can size up situations and immediately deal with them. Dale is a great playmaker setting up many scoring opportunities for other members of the team. Dale is also a consistent scorer adding a sure ten to fifteen points a game.

Dick is new to the team this year, but has already become a valuable asset. Dick broke into the starting lineup on opening night and has remained there since. His height is valuable on defense for rebounding, and on offense for adding an extra scoring punch.

RANGERS LOSE 77-49 TO STRONG RSJ TEAM

by Jerry Williams

On Friday night December 9, Drew went down in defeat 77-49 at the hands of a well balanced Rutgers five.

In the first half Drew controlled the defensive boards, however, this was of no avail as the Rangers were not able to control the offensive boards thus limiting their scoring chances. Drew stayed with Rutgers through the first few minutes as they hit 50% of their shots. Then faced with a full court press Drew seemed to panic as they threw away passes and committed fouls at the same time dropping further and further behind.

In the second half Drew switched from a zone defense into a man to man press. This chance seemed to be a wise one since the zone had been cut to pieces by Rutgers as they drove through it, fast broke through it, and shot over it. The press combined with better offensive rebounding kept Drew on an even keel with Rutgers throughout the second half.

In the first half Drew took only 15 shots as they lost the ball 15 times. The loss of possession of the ball is very critical in a game, as in this instance Drew lost the chance for 15 more shots while Rutgers gained 15 more attempts.

One bright spot of the game was the outstanding play of Charlie Hislop as he hustled from the beginning to the end of the game, pulling down rebounds and scoring consistently. Bob Spicer gave Charlie much needed support under the boards and also with his scoring. But, in this game, as in every game, two players are not enough to win a game that takes five players acting as a unit.

Seminary Cagers Crush Gen. 77-43

by Doug Davis

The Seminary Cagers opened their 1960-61 basketball season by crushing General Theological Seminary 77-43 Tuesday night on the Baldwin court. College Junior Varsity coach John Williams paced Drew with 18 points, 13 in the first half. Williams hit on 8 out of 13 shots and contributed strong rebounding. Bill Dew tossed in 14 points for Drew and Bob Van Horn added 10 as every man on the team broke into the scoring column.

The issue was never in doubt as the Green hit 4 out of their first 5 shots and continued red hot to pull away to a 45-16 lead at halftime. Reserves played most of the second half as the score continued to mount.

RPI Beats Drew In Last Seconds Spicer, Anderson, Smith, Star

Drew University's Ranger basketball squad made its best showing of the 1960-61 season Saturday evening in Baldwin Gym. in losing to the Engineers from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. The courtmen displayed amazing drive and determination. For the first time this season the Ranger squad appeared drilled.

The story of the game was not in the loss, but in the play of Bob Spicer, Don Anderson, and Rock Smith. Spicer whom some considered to be the hardest working player on the team finally found himself against R.P.I. Bob set up innumerable screens and pulled down rebounds almost at will, while scoring eight points. Anderson, whose real value was seen when he was forced to leave the game in the last quarter, provided the playmaking that was lacking in previous Ranger showings. Lyn Smith was high scorer for the Rangers with fourteen points and added defensive skill to the zone defense. The game was the finest court performance so far.

The Rensselaer team was led by their fine right guard, Don Heck who scored twenty-six points on spectacular set shots.

The Green and Gold led throughout the game and provided the fans with an exciting contest. It was not until the last two minutes that R.P.I. pulled ahead 57-56. Here Don Anderson developed a muscle cramp and the Engineers started a full court press that the Rangers could not break. The game ended with the Engineers scoring two foul shots after the final buzzer thus making the final score 65-60.

The Rangers next contest will be Monday December 12 when they meet the Greyhounds from Moravian College at 8:30 in Baldwin Gym.

Rangers Meet Moravian, Utica, And Harpur

Next week the Drew University basketball team plays two games, and the first week after vacation one game. Next week the Rangers will meet Moravian and Utica home, and on Jan. 7 Harpur away.

Moravian, whose team is known as the Greyhounds, and whose colors are blue and grey will field a very strong team December 12. Last year Moravian had a 15-8 record.

On December 15 the Rangers will meet the orange and blue Pioneers from Utica College. Last year the Pioneers had a mediocre 7-14 record, and the Rangers look to pick up a win.

On Jan. 7 Drew travels toinghamton to meet the Colonials from Harpur college. The squad looks for a win here also since the Colonials record last year was only 6-8.
