Governor, Former White House Aide In Centennial Remarks

New Jersey Governor Richard J. Hughes will join with a former White House aide February 12 in helping Drew celebrate the hundredth anniversary of its New Jersey charter.

Governor Hughes will offer brief remarks following a formal academic procession beginning the centennial ceremonies at 8 p.m. in the University's Baldwin Auditorium.

Main speaker of the evening will be Dr. Eric Goldman, former Special Consultant to President Lyndon B. Johnson. Goldman, called "the White House intellectual-in-residence" during his 1964-66 tenure, will speak on "The American University of the Future."

Currently Rollins Professor of History at Princeton, Dr. Goldman's latest book, "The Tragedy of Lyndon Johnson," is scheduled for July publication as the first book on the President written by a former aide.

A former writer for Time Magazine and moderator of NBC's Emmy-winning "Open Mind" television series, Dr. Goldman is a frequent contributor to Harper's and The Saturday Review, among many others. He is the author of two best-selling books, "Rendezvous With Destiny," and "The Crucial Decade."

Originally chartered in New York in 1866, Drew was actually located in New Jersey when financier Daniel Drew purchased the home of a former Major in the Confederate Army to serve as the grounds for the then-fledgling Drew Theological Seminary.

In 1928, brothers Arthur and Leonard Baldwin financed the addition of a College of Liberal Arts, and trustees of the institution formally changed the name to Drew University.

Fishman Seeks Funds

Gregg Fishman, Chairman of the International Relations Association, announced Friday February 2 that Drew University will participate in the National Model United Nations. The four day session will be held at the Statler Hilton and at the United Nations Building on February 15, 16, 17, 18.

Fishman stated, "The IRA has assumed the cost of registration for the delegation, but any individual delegates attending will be held responsible for additional fees." The IRA had originally requested an additional $325 to augment the existing budget of $250. The additional request was intended primarily for participation in the National Model United Nations and the sponsoring of a Drew Model United Nations in March.

Despite a favorable recommendation by the Academic Activities Board, ECAC has denied the most recent request for additional funds. "No satisfactory explanation accompanied the denial," said Fishman in commenting on the action taken by the Extra-Curricular Activities Committee. The IRA is still awaiting the decision on a request for funds pending before the Field Trip Committee.

"Because of budgetary difficulties it is uncertain what the program will be," said Fishman in commenting on the IRA program for this semester. The Drew Model United Nations, scheduled for March 16, has been cancelled. The IRA, however, does plan to participate in the Hunter Model U.N. on April 3 and the Model United Nations for New Jersey, at Monmouth College on April 19 - 21. Dr. Robert A. Smith, director of the Drew United Nations Semester, and Chairman of the Drew Political Science Department, is a member of the 1968 Advisory Committee. "Participation in both of these events will be dependent upon funds from the University," Fishman declared.

Highlights of the first semester included: speeches by Ambassador Ariah Eilan of Israel and Mr. Malmoud El-Okdah of the Arab States Delegations Office, and the U.N. Children's Fund drive which netted $180,000 for the U.S. Committee for UNICEF. Events on campus for the coming semester include: a debate on Vietnam, a speech by a member of the USSR Permanent Mission to the United Nations on Soviet Foreign Policy, and a lecture on South African Apartheid.

Players Present "Chicago," Work By Student Hillman

The Curtain Line Players will present two plays CHICAGO and ZOOM ABOUT starting Thursday Feb. 15 and extending through winter weekend, in Bowne Lecture Hall.

CHICAGO was written by Sam Shepard, who, at twenty-five, has already had an extremely successful career as a playwright. This was his first play, done when he was only twenty.

The campus production of CHICAGO will star Drew Lerz as Stew, Amy Runyon as Joy, Jean Meek as Myra, Patrick O'Kane as Joe, Nancy Sweeny is playing Sally, Al Lavenziano is Jim, and Jurt Schwalbe is the policeman. Lighting (which will be used more extensively and with interesting effects) is being done by Joe Heilman and the play is being directed by Irene Lawson.

Briefly stated, the setting of CHICAGO is a bathtub and the play is "concerning itself with people whose heads and bodies are intimately connected."

For those whose curiosity has been aroused, the play will be performed at 8:30 on Feb. 15, 16, and 17 with a 2:30 matinee on Sunday, Feb. 18.

Along with this will be another play, ZOOM ABOUT, which was written by Bill Hillman, who is a student at Drew. He and his wife will be appearing in the production which is being directed by Jim Hunt. This is the first production by Mr. Hillman and is being performed as short studio experiment.

Tom McMullen, President of the Student Association, met with Mr. H. Vernon Carnahan on January 19, 1968. Also attending the meeting were Dr. Robert F. Oxnam, and Dr. Richard Stonesifer.

The meeting, the first of its kind, was held in President Ox-

President Vernon Carnahan

nam's office.

The topics of discussion were varied. Included was athletics, specifically, team spirit, scheduling of games and sports facilities now available. Social considerations such as drinking regulations, open house regulations and student social life was considered during the meeting, as were university services, dining facilities, dormitories, the fine arts building, and the alumni relationship with the school.

Mr. McMullen summed up the meeting by saying that it "wasn't fruitful. I was encouraged by a willingness to discuss the problems but I was discouraged by an attitude that there is no generation gap."

"Dr. Stonesifer was extremely influential in expressing the students' view points. I think that the first steps have been taken to-

Alumni Placement Office, Homecoming Urged

Thomas McMullen, president of the Student Association, has recently outlined a program whereby a closer and more beneficial relationship between students and alumni could be developed. Noting that the first attempt at an Alumni Homecoming weekend was moderately successful, he proposes that an Annual Homecoming Weekend should be established.

With respect to this Annual weekend, he proposes to honor 10 and 25 year classes, while at the same time inviting all classes to participate, and that the Weekend should be sponsored financially by both the Alumni Association and the Student Association.

Mr. McMullen favors the establishment of a Past Presidents Club "with more of a traditional function than any other."

He also proposes the addition of one senior and one junior to the Alumni Board, as not-voting members, to serve in an advisory and informative capacity primarily.

One of the most important features of this proposal, McMullen emphasized, is the establishment of a placement office for graduating students which will put them in touch with alumni who could assist them in finding jobs.

WERD Marathon Begins Today

As part of the University's centennial celebration, WERD is running a 100 hour marathon.

The four and a half day broadcast began at noon today in the university center. WERD will broadcast from U.C. 102 until the building closes each night and then return to their studio in the basement of Great Hall.

The marathon will feature an array of Drew's best disc jockeys, and campus personalities will drop in. Student Association President Tom McMullen will have a few words for the campus.

Among those participating will be:

Mr. McMullen did believe that Mr. Carnahan was very receptive to discussion.

Forum Seeks "Pro" Speaker

The Academic Forum will sponsor a Vietnam debate on February 25. The debate topic will be "the legitimacy of United States presence in Vietnam." The Academic Forum Committee is looking for one student and one faculty member to argue the "pro" point of view.

Raves In Miami Choir Returns Home Sunday

The 40-voice College Choir, billed as "one of the leading choral groups in the world" for their performance last month at Miami's Deauville Hotel, will kick-off a week of music, dance, and dramatic presentations at the University with a free public concert this Sunday.

"The choir is one of the most unusual groups ever to be presented in the Cavalcade Theatre," the Hotel said of the Drew students' appearance January 16, "and are coming to Miami Beach just for this special appearance."

Gordon MacRae, who was originally scheduled to perform tonight went into the Broadway musical "I DO, I DO" and, of course, it's one of the big hits of the year. Thus, Gordon invoked the cancellation clause in his contract and we had to find a replacement. We found FORTY of them... and it is our pleasure to present the DREW UNIVERSITY CHOIR."

The College Choir, which annually presents a series of Christmas Concerts for the area's residents, will present the Miami Beach concert Sunday at 8 p.m. in Samuel W. Bowne Great Hall.

Bennington Dancers To Perform

On Wednesday, February 14, the Bennington College Modern Dance Group will perform in Drew's Baldwin Auditorium. Bennington, which since its 1937 founding has been a major center of modern dance, has sponsored an annual tour of selected dancers for more than two decades. The 11-member group's performance is free and open to the public.

On the nights of February 15, 16 and 17, Drew's Curtain Line Players will produce their second drama production of the year. Again, there is no charge and the public is invited.

The Players will perform two one-act plays each night, repeating the highly-successful performance of Sam Shepherd's "Chicago" which they presented several years ago, and featuring an original play written by College of Liberal Arts senior William Hillman of Bernardsville, titled "Zoomabout."

A final performance is scheduled for Sunday, February 18, and all performances begin at 8 p.m.

Revenues Would Drop Cup-To-Can Change Complex

The question of cans versus cups in the soda vending machines on campus has arisen. Mr. Mack Jordan, University Purchasing Agent, has listed some of the considerations of the proposal to change from cups to cans.

First, all vending machines on campus would have to be changed as the different types of machines are serviced by different departments of Pepsi Cola. This would necessitate agreement of the Theological School students as machines are located in Seminary, Hoyt-Bowne, Wendel, and Tipton Halls.

The change from cans to cups would require a two to three months advance notice to secure the equipment.

The pros and cons of the functions and malfunctions of each type of machine were presented by Mr. Jordan as follows: the cup vending machines are subject to malfunctions of the cup and liquid dispensing mechanisms; the cup vending machines are subject to malfunctions of the coin mechanism.

Tuttle Announces CaseYR Board Of TrusteesMember

George Tuttle, chairman of the New Jersey College Republican Organization, announced Monday the appointment of Senator Clifford P. Case to his organization's Board of Trustees.

Case, in accepting the post, praised the group's contribution to the Republican Party and noted, "Your organization has indeed made outstanding progress in the past two years."

Tuttle, a student at Drew, remarked, "We are convinced that youth groups and the senior political party must co-ordinate their efforts more closely than ever in this crucial election year. We are therefore, grateful that Senator Case will serve on the Board, and we will welcome his advice on national and state issues."

As a member of the college organization's Board of Trustees, Case will serve with other Republican officials such as Congressman Peter Frelinghuysen and State Senators Joseph Maraziti and Harry Sears. The New Jersey College Organization is a federation of Republican Clubs on fifteen campuses throughout New Jersey, with a combined membership of over 2,000 students.

Edwards Signs Anti-Vietnam Statement, McMullen Refuses

A statement, circulated among Student Presidents' and College Editor's, in opposition to the Vietnam War was considered by Frances Edwards, editor of the Drew Acorn, and Thomas P. Mc-

Mullen, President of the Student Association. The statement under consideration is as follows: "I believe that I should not be forced to fight in the Vietnam War because it is unjust and immoral."

In signing the statement Miss Edwards made the following comments:

"A recent evaluation of United States policy in Vietnam and current information gathered at the United States Student Press Association Conference held in Washington Feb. 1-4 has changed my opinion in regard to the Vietnam War."

"While I would oppose the continuation of the United States' presence in Vietnam, I would not support acts of draft card burning, draft dodging, and the prevention of recruitment."

Miss Edwards went on to say that, "I believe it is the citizens' duty to participate in the Armed Services in a time of national crisis."

"The individual however, if morally opposed to the war and to the act of killing, should be offered the choice of civilian or non-combatant service."

Thomas P. McMullen, President of the Student Association, was asked to sign the statement and declined. Mr. McMullen stated "I believe the war to be immoral and unjust, but if drafted I would fight." Mr. McMullen endorsed McCarthy's statement (Acorn 1/19) because, "I believe in it in principle."

The statement has been signed by 440 Student Presidents and College Editors and is still being circulated throughout the country.

'Silver Opinion' Contest Offers $2050 Scholarships

During the months of February and March, Reed and Barton, America's oldest major silversmiths, are conducting a "Silver Opinion Competition" in which valuable scholarships totalling $2050 are being offered to duly enrolled women students at a few selected colleges and universities.

Drew has been selected to enter this Competition in which the First Grand Award is a $500 cash scholarship; Second Grand Award is a $300 scholarship; Third Grand Award is a $250 scholarship; Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Awards are $200 scholarships; and Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth are $100 scholarships. In addition, there will be 100 other awards consisting of sterling silver, fine china and crystal with a retail value of approximately $50.00.

In the 1968 "Silver Opinion Competition", an entry form illustrates twelve designs of sterling with eight designs of both china and crystal. The entrants simply list the three best combinations of sterling, china, and crystal from the patterns illustrated. Scholarships and awards will be made to those entries matching or coming closest to the unanimous selections of Table-setting editors from three of the nation's leading magazines.

Miss April Thompson is the Student Representative who is conducting the "Silver Opinion Competition" for Reed and Barton at Drew. Those interested in entering the "Silver Opinion Competition" should contact Miss Thompson through campus mail for entry blanks and for complete details concerning the Competition rules. She also has samples of 12 of the most popular Reed and Barton designs.

Through the opinions on silver design expressed by college women competing for these scholarships, Reed and Barton hopes to compile a valuable library of expressions of young American taste.

Choir Tours North For Money

The College Choir has just returned from a week-end tour of Connecticut and Long Island which covered approximately 350 miles. The purpose of the tour was to raise additional funds to cover the choir's recent trip to Florida.

Thirty-three members of the choir, under the direction of Mr. Lester W. Berenbrock participated in this tour, leaving campus on Friday, February 2 and returning late Sunday evening.

The group performed in Windmere and Long Island City, Long Island, and in Hamden, Bristol, and Naugatuck, Connecticut.

Why? Why? Why?

Social life at Drew has always depended heavily on the personality of the social chairman. Last year Glenn Redbord provided really dynamic leadership for the social committee. He accepted responsibility for making arrangements with outside groups, and gave Drew one of its most successful years socially.

Bob Sprague worked closely with Redbord all of second semester last year, learning the ropes of dealing with entertainment firms and making arrangements for social functions. With this valuable training for his leader, where did this year's social committee go wrong?

Why did the social committee have so much trouble first semester?

Why is there only $3500 left for social activities out of a budget of $15,500?

Why did Sprague spend so much money on last weekend?

Why did he pay the Four Tops $5000, when the going price is much lower?

Why did he deal with only one agency in New York that charges high commissions?

Why didn't he deal directly with the groups' managers himself?

Why don't Drew students know what happened? Why don't they know how their activity fee was spent?

Why isn't student government investigating Sprague's handling of social committee money?

Why don't they find out the facts about contracts that he made with groups?

Why didn't Tom McMullen as Student Association president do something to prevent Sprague from spending so much money so quickly?

Why did Al Lovenziano allow Sprague to spend so freely without questioning him?

Why did Dean Savin let Sprague spend?

Why don't Drew students deserve to know why they have to have record hops this semester instead of dances with bands?

What is to prevent this fiasco from ever happening again?

—Frances Edwards

Letters To The Editor

Republican Reply

To The Editor:

In response to Peter Hoffman's flight into fantasy in your last issue, I should like to offer a few attitudes which we "fanatical Young Republicans" share:

1. The U.N. definitely should not be converted into a memorial to Joe McCarthy. At the same time, we oppose all efforts to dedicate it to Alger Hiss. Incidentally, Richard Nixon agrees with us on this point.

2. Recognition of Government's just and necessary role in solving public problems is a prerequisite to solution of, say, the plight of the cities.

3. Having recognized the role of government, one can formulate good programs and bad programs. A bad program is worse than no program at all, insofar as it is implicitly a waste of time, money, and effort.

4. Most of President Johnson's programs are bad.

Consequently, we accept two responsibilities as eminently worthwhile: 1st, to say "No, that won't work" when President Johnson proposes to help ghetto people by tearing down 10,000 housing units and replacing them with 2,000, or by paying rent subsidies to men with annual incomes of $20,000, or by paying $12,000 for a six month course in the Job Corp; and 2dly, to propose good programs as alternatives—such as the Human Investment Act, Opportunity Crusade, Tuition Tax Credits, government assistance to enable the urban poor to buy their own apartments, and other similar republican programs which Mr. Hoffman has either overlooked or chosen to ignore.

Sincerely,
George L. Tuttle

Doubt Luce

To The Editor:

The sensitivity associated with the college students' perspicacity

Ex-Violence Advocate Luce Now Sees Communism Major Peril

"The demonstrations and protests in this country," stated Phillip Abbott Luce at Drew last Sunday, "are nothing more than a series of giant tantrums." "It's people saying 'if you don't play my way I'm gonna demonstrate and riot!' They're not interested in free debate or justice. They just, plain and simply, want their own way."

"The state is horrid," continued Luce, "because it doesn't happen to function the way they want it to. Somehow the fact that a majority of Americans disagree with them doesn't seem to matter, despite the fact that they profess to democratic ideas."

Luce's address here, to a crowd of about 150 people, concentrated on the question of how to change the state. He related his experiences with the Progressive Labor Party, which "doesn't believe in non-violence," and contrasted them to what he now feels is a better way: working within the system.

"No matter how you look at it," Luce stated, "there is no country in the world which has as much freedom as the United States. All this would be gone were the Communists to take over."

"And the first to go—and I mean literally go—would be those young activist people. The Communists have never supported any form of intellectual or artistic freedom."

Many people would call the possibility of Communist takeover a myth, stated Luce, because "there are, it is true, very few real Communists in America."

"But the Communists use people, 95% of the Pentagon marchers last October weren't Communists. But there were Communists there and they have used it as a tremendous propaganda campaign."

"It's one thing to protest—that is in itself a good, healthy thing—but quite another to associate with those who are trying to destroy this country."

Communism, Luce related, has no issue-orientation. "They understand only one thing—victory—and they will play with anybody or anything to achieve this. Witness the Stalin-Hitler pact of 1939."

"And the real fraudulence of their position is that they don't care how many people die in North or South Vietnam. They're only interested in ultimately winning power themselves." Communists are able to get power in unstable situations, warned Luce, because they have a positive goal and program. "Too often student activists know what they're protesting but have no real, concrete positive ideas which they could effectively put into power."

"Out of such a situation Communists can easily take over leadership. And once they have there is no more freedom, no more dissent."

An example of a group favoring violent overthrow of the United States Government, according to Luce, is the black-power Revolutionary Action Movement. This group is headed by Robert Williams.

"The only problem with Rob Williams," said Luce, "is his pathological hatred of the white race. He is advocating genocide, and would be willing to do anything to advance his own cause."

Luce then described the involvement of Williams in a plot to assassinate moderate Negro leaders such as Roy Wilkins of the NAACP and Whitney Young of the National Urban League. Had this been done, Luce charged, Williams would have blamed it on whites and used that to incite a campaign of genocide.

There are two paths to change, according to Luce. One is within the system, the other outside. This would include violence, or any other means. "If one chooses the latter, he must be prepared for some Communist involvement or affiliation."

Luce differentiated between Socialists and Communists. "Many people like Norman Thomas are among our greatest anti-Communists, because they understand Communism."

It is possible, Luce stated, to demonstrate and be effective, as long as there is no violence and here is a stated anti-communism.

On current politics, Luce described himself as a member of neither side, but "probably leaning a little more toward the conservative."

He advocated massive involvement of the private sector to "set up a whole system within the ghetto" and thus help solve "the poverty syndrome."

He also expressed opposition to the Vietnam War. "If there were some way in which I could see us winning, I would favor that. But I don't think it is possible."

"Therefore I think we should cease taking the offensive in Vietnam. We do have a commitment, which we must honor. But if we cannot win, we should do just enough to prevent a Viet Cong takeover."

Luce is currently engaged in efforts, with a group in Washington, to formulate a "conservative dissent" to the war. He described that position as being a strongly anti-Communist stand which "nonetheless recognizes that we are in a stalemate and must reconsider our position."

As for his own conversion from radical to conservative-leaning, Luce said that it occurred over a period of time. "I just got tired of lying to myself about why I was there and what I was doing. I finally realized what Communism would lead to."

"I wasn't really devoted enough to their cause," said the former editor of the Progressive Labor Magazine.

"I think they made a mistake in trusting me as much as they did, just as I made a big mistake in joining them to begin with."

McCarthy Appeal To Far Left Slim

It was the left that harassed Senator Eugene McCarthy during his speech to the College Editor's Conference in Washington last Saturday night.

An announced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination on an anti-LBJ, anti-war platform, McCarthy in his remarks called for a halt to the bombing of the north. Should that fail to bring about negotiations, however, he advocated U.S. withdrawal.

During McCarthy's speech a demonstration organized by Raymond Mungo, an editor of the Liberation News Service, to "demonstrate the impotence of McCarthy's candidacy," was carried out by Mungo and a group of other self-proclaimed radicals.

In a press conference after McCarthy's speech, Mungo and Jerry Rubin, another participant and an organizer of last fall's march on the Pentagon, made gestures to the audience and waved a newspaper in McCarthy's face.

The newspaper had a headline announcing the freeing of 2,000 Communist Prisoners in Hue, Vietnam. Rubin asked McCarthy "These men are free! What do you think of that?"

McCarthy retorted, "What do you think of it?"

Afterwards, following a question - and - answer period, McCarthy spoke.

The first of two student forums for February will be held on February 15 at 7:30 p.m. with Bishop Lloyd Wicke of the New York area.

Bishop Wicke will speak and engage in open discussion in room 101 Seminary Hall. The main subject for discussion will be "General Conference, 1968."

Bishop Wicke is also a member of the Drew Board of Trustees.

McCarthy carried in a coffin filled with McCarthy buttons and an American flag. As they approached the podium, they dumped the contents on the floor.

Senator McCarthy left the conference at this point. He admitted that he had left because of the demonstrators, but added, "I expected them."

McCarthy emphasized political involvement within the traditional party system in his speech. "The time to act is now," he said.

"The stands are clear by now. We must act!"

"Many who have been critical," said McCarthy in a thinly-veiled reference to such anti-war democrats as Robert Kennedy, "should realize that it will be disaster to wait until 1972. We must act on the issues now."

Americans have limited political freedom, Senator McCarthy stated in response to a question. "Educators and students are virtually the only Americans who are willing to—who do—take risks. They sign statements. Most people are too afraid to take a stand. This is the limit all Americans voluntarily place on themselves."

"It is not so much a matter of judgement as a commitment of will."

The Johnson administration is guilty of self-delusion, stated Senator McCarthy, in saying that the Viet Cong offensive has failed. "It was greatly successful, and we should admit it. We must be realistic."

McCarthy also charged that the pacification problem in Vietnam is a complete failure.

On questions of Presidential politics, McCarthy noted that he has been accused of having no "charisma." McCarthy observed, "Well, I'm no George Romney, true. And we've got a president who really makes it big with the younger generation."

Should he not be nominated, McCarthy said that he would not change his view that policies should be challenged by other means than insurrection. "We don't need that at all," he stated.

If Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon are nominated, McCarthy stated, he would endorse Johnson.

On the matter of other platforms, McCarthy stated that he has made his ideas clear on many other issues, but that "Vietnam is my central focus because it is the number one problem for America today."

He then enumerated basic support for Johnson's domestic programs.

A student at the Conference apologized to McCarthy for the demonstrators, saying that the majority of students had no sympathy for the disruptions. This remark was greeted by the only applause of the meeting.

Coordinator of the Conference David Lloyd-Jones issued a statement apologizing to the Senator, and stating that the U.S. Student Press Association, sponsors of the conference, had nothing to do with the demonstrators.

A Gentle Rapping

"Looks like Handsome Johnny with his hand rolled in a fist marching to the Birmingham War," sings Richie Havens. He is talking about the U.S.'s real war, our war. But Richie, the War has escalated; it has spread far beyond Birmingham; why, turn around, it is in your own back yard. Funniest thing the way hate can attract itself; the way it builds and the way it draws the conclusion. That awful inexorable path it follows still lead us to more Birmingham and beyond. Blame here is no concern. It is the headlong flight down this horrible path that is our problem. What matter is it to anyone who is responsible for starting the War? The frustration must be quelled; the pride and prejudice must be smoothed. It is useless to argue which emotion has the right to exist. They both are terribly prevalent and theoretical righteousness won't make them go away. It's time we got together on this. It is attitudes that control the violent motions so let's look for a moment at the beginning.

For a hundred years there has been a gentle rapping that the white man had chosen to ignore. "Wait," he promised, "and I'll let you in-in a while." And the black man said, "Nevermore." So the War began with the stored-up hate of three generations, and now in the lull of the moment, let's not forget the terrible prophecy we will face in the summer. The staccato voices of Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael still echo in the ghetto. Violence has become the policy of freedom. Does that sound familiar? It is the national policy of this country. "If the white man hits me," said Jim Brown, "I will hit him back twice as hard so that he will think twice before hitting me again." This is the logic of revolution, a logic which gave birth to our nation and a logic that has led its policy for two hundred years. To my mind it is a perverted logic. This eclectic polarization creates false, oversimplified issues. But can we blame the Negro? The U.S. is steeped in the terrifying misconception that all problems can be decided by fighting. The Negro is following the logic his environment has presented him. Who is to blame for that? Of course, someone is bound to ask whether the American tradition of law and order has affected the Negro. But, you see a law system just solidifies and protects the attitudes and beliefs of a sect or people that fought for the right to have those attitudes and beliefs. Then someone comes around whose attitudes and beliefs are conflicting with the attitudes and beliefs protected by the law system. So this someone will by nature disobey the law system that protects his antagonists. It might be nice if there were some universal "code" or law system whereby all attitudes and beliefs would be protected from violence and possible destruction. But, back to reality, the U.S. has been one of the prime proponents of this feudal state of inter-sect or inter-nation relations. For example, the North Vietnamese evidently believe it is illegal for the U.S. to bomb their country. Does this bother the United States? It is against North Vietnamese law to kill. Does this bother the United States? The Negro does not want to conform to laws that protect attitudes that he is in conflict with. Does this bother the United States? It sure as hell does. The U.S. has created such a flexible law system so that this system really is just whatever the public social attitudes happen to be which means only a constant tyranny of a living majority instead of the tyranny of a dead majority. Well, the point is the attitude of the people. The attitude is one of dichotomy, but nature, especially the nature of man, is not at all a dichotomy. If we keep fostering this sort of attitude we can expect those in conflict with us will do the same. But then we could blame them for being so immoral and ungodly. Sound familiar? We are doing it right now. However, the gentle rapping won't go away; it will become a banging and a shouting and a kicking and then the door will fall.

Joint Statement On Student

Students rights and responsibilities was the topic of a November 1966 conference in Washington, D.C. 33 representatives from ten educational organizations discussed the subject and reached a general consensus.

The result was the following report. It was drafted by a joint committee from the National Student Association, American Association of University Professors, National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, Association of American Colleges, and the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors.

In June 1967 the report was drafted. In August 1967, at its annual convention, the National Student Association ratified it. In October 1967 the AAUP endorsed it.

Preamble

Academic institutions exist for the transmission of knowledge, the pursuit of truth, the development of students, and the general well-being of society. Free inquiry and free expression are indispensable to the attainment of these goals. As members of the academic community, students should be encouraged to develop the capacity for critical judgment and to engage in a sustained and independent search for truth. Institutional procedures for achieving these purposes may vary from campus to campus, but the minimal standards of academic freedom of students outlined below are essential to any community of scholars.

Freedom to teach and freedom to learn are inseparable facets of academic freedom. The freedom to learn depends upon appropriate opportunities and conditions in the classroom, on the campus, and in the larger community. Students should exercise their freedom with responsibility.

The responsibility to secure and to respect general conditions conducive to the freedom to learn is shared by all members of the academic community. Each college and university has a duty to develop policies and procedures which provide and safeguard this freedom. Such policies and procedures should be developed at each institution within the framework of general standards and with the broadest possible participation of the members of the academic community. The purpose of this statement is to enumerate the essential provisions for student freedom to learn.

I. Freedom of Access to Higher Education

The admissions policies of each college and university are a matter of institutional choice provided that each college and university makes clear the characteristics and

According to the AAUP, "appropriate action is forthcoming from the other groups within the year."

NSA officials have been quoted as saying the Statement is not strong enough in parts, but they find it an encouraging beginning.

Drew Sociology Professor Robert Friedrichs, in a note to Drew Student Government President Tom McMullen, said that "this is the best reason I can think of for Drew to remain in NSA."

Below is the statement in its entirety. The Acorn feels that it is sufficiently important that all students should be exposed to it.

expectations of students which it considers relevant to success in the institution's program. While church-related institutions may give admission preference to students of their own persuasion, such a preference should be clearly and publicly stated. Under no circumstances should a student be barred from admission to a particular institution on the basis of race. Thus, within the limits of its facilities, each college and university should be open to all students who are qualified according to its admission standards. The facilities and services of a college should be open to all of its enrolled students, and institutions should use their influence to secure equal access for all students to public facilities in the local community.

II. In the Classroom

The professor in the classroom and in conference should encourage free discussion, inquiry, and expression. Student performance should be evaluated solely on an academic basis, not on opinions or conduct in matters unrelated to academic standards.

A. Protection of Freedom of Expression

Students should be free to take reasoned exception to the data or views offered in any course of study and to reserve judgment about matters of opinion, but they are responsible for learning the content of any course of study for which they are enrolled.

B. Protection against Improper Academic Evaluation

Students should have protection through orderly procedures against prejudiced or capricious academic evaluation. At the same time, they are responsible for maintaining standards of academic performance established for each course in which they are enrolled.

C. Protection against Improper Disclosure

Information about student views, beliefs, and political associations which professors acquire in the course of their work as instructors, advisers, and counselors should be considered confidential. Protection against improper disclosure is a serious professional obligation. Judgments of ability and character may be provided under appropriate circumstances, normally with the knowledge or consent of the student.

III. Student Records

Institutions should have a carefully considered policy as to the information which should be part of a student's permanent educational record and as to the conditions of its disclosure. To minimize the risk of improper disclosure, academic and disciplinary records should be separate, and the conditions of access to each should be set forth in an explicit policy statement. Transcripts of academic records should contain only information about academic status. Information from disciplinary or counseling files should not be available to unauthorized persons on campus, or to any person off campus without the express consent of the student involved except under legal compulsion or in cases where the safety of persons or property is involved. No records should be kept which reflect the political activities or beliefs of students. Provisions should also be made for periodic routine destruction of noncurrent disciplinary records. Administrative staff and faculty members should respect confidential information about students which they acquire in the course of their work.

IV. Student Affairs

In student affairs, certain standards must be maintained if the freedom of students is to be preserved.

A. Freedom of Association

Students bring to the campus a variety of interests previously acquired and develop many new interests as members of the academic community. They should be free to organize and join associations to promote their common interests.

Rights And Freedoms

1. The membership, policies, and actions of a student organization usually will be determined by vote of only those persons who hold bona fide membership in the college or university community.

2. Affiliation with an extramural organization should not of itself disqualify a student organization from institutional recognition.

3. If campus advisers are required, each organization should be free to choose its own adviser, and institutional recognition should not be withheld or withdrawn solely because of the inability of a student organization to secure an adviser. Campus advisers may advise organizations in the exercise of responsibility, but they should not have the authority to control the policy of such organizations.

4. Student organizations may be required to submit a statement of purpose, criteria for membership, rules of procedures, and a current list of officers. They should not be required to submit a membership list as a condition of institutional recognition.

5. Campus organizations, including those affiliated with an extramural organization, should be open to all students without respect to race, creed, or national origin, except for religious qualifications which may be required by organizations whose aims are primarily sectarian.

B. Freedom of Inquiry and Expression

1. Students and student organizations should be free to examine and discuss all questions of interest to them, and to express opinions publicly and privately. They should always be free to support causes by orderly means which do not disrupt the regular and essential operation of the institution. At the same time, it should be made clear to the academic and the larger community that in their public expressions or demonstrations students or student organizations speak only for themselves.

2. Students should be allowed to invite and to hear any person of their own choosing. Those routine procedures required by an institution before a guest speaker is invited to appear on campus should be designed only to insure that there is orderly scheduling of facilities and adequate preparation for the event, and that the occasion is conducted in a manner appropriate to an academic community. The institutional control of campus facilities should not be used as a device of censorship. It should be made clear to the academic and larger community that sponsorship of guest speakers does not necessarily imply approval or endorsement of the views expressed, either by the sponsoring group or the institution.

C. Student Participation in Institutional Government

As constituents of the academic community, students should be free, individually and collectively, to express their views on issues of institutional policy and on matters of general interest to the student body. The student body should have clearly defined means to participate in the formulation and application of institutional policy affecting academic and student affairs. The role of the student government and both its general and specific responsibilities should be made explicit, and the actions of the student government within the areas of its jurisdiction should be reviewed only through orderly and prescribed procedures.

D. Student Publications

Student publications and the student press are a valuable aid in establishing and maintaining an atmosphere of free and responsible discussion and of intellectual exploration on the campus. They are a means of bringing student concerns to the attention of the faculty and the institutional authorities and of formulating student opinion on various issues on the campus and in the world at large.

Whenever possible the student newspaper should be an independent corporation financially and legally separate from the university. Where financial and legal autonomy is not possible, the institution, as the publisher of student publications, may have to bear the legal responsibility for the contents of the publications. In the delegation of editorial responsibility to students the institution must provide sufficient editorial freedom and financial autonomy for the student publications to maintain their integrity of purpose as vehicles for free inquiry and free expression in an academic community.

Institutional authorities, in consultation with students and faculty, have a responsibility to provide written clarification of the role of the student publications, the standards to be used in their evaluation, and the limitations on external control of their operation. At the same time, the editorial freedom of student editors and managers entails corollary responsibilities to be governed by the canons of responsible journalism, such as the avoidance of libel, indecency, undocumented allegations, attacks on personal integrity, and the techniques of harassment and innuendo. As safeguards for the editorial freedom of student publications the following provisions are necessary:

1. The student press should be free of censorship and advance approval of copy, and its editors and managers should be free to develop their own editorial policies and news coverage.

2. Editors and managers of student publications should be protected from arbitrary suspension and removal because of student, faculty, administrative, or public disapproval of editorial policy or content. Only for proper and stated causes should editors and managers be subject to removal and then by orderly and prescribed procedures. The agency responsible for the appointment of editors and managers should be the agency responsible for their removal.

3. All university published and financed student publications should explicitly state on the editorial page that the opinions there expressed are not necessarily those of the college, university, or student body.

V. Off-Campus Freedom of Students

A. Exercise of Rights of Citizenship

College and university students are both citizens and members of the academic community. As citizens, students should enjoy the same freedom of speech, peaceful assembly, and right of petition that other citizens enjoy and, as members of the academic community, they are subject to the obligations which accrue to them by virtue of this membership. Faculty members and administrative officials should insure that institutional powers are not employed to inhibit such intellectual and personal development of students as is often promoted by their exercise of the rights of citizenship both on and off campus.

B. Institutional Authority and Civil Penalties

Activities of students may upon occasion result in violation of law. In such cases, institutional officials should be prepared to apprise students of sources of legal counsel and may offer other assistance. Students who violate the law may incur penalties prescribed by civil authorities, but institutional authority should never be used merely to duplicate the function of general laws. Only where the institution's interests as an academic community are distinct and clearly involved should the special authority of the institution be asserted. The student who incidentally violates institutional regulations in the course of his off-campus activity, such as those relating to class attendance, should be subject to no greater penalty than would normally be imposed. Institutional action should be independent of community pressure.

(The final section of this report, dealing with disciplinary procedures, will appear next week.)

Acorn Staffers Attend Media Thing

Five members of the ACORN staff participated in a conference of the United States Student Press Association in Washington, D.C. from February 1-4.

The topic of the conference was "Alternative Futures and Present Choices." Speakers included Buckminster Fuller, Robert Theobald, John McHale, Charles de Carlo, and Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn). David Lloyd-Jones was conference co-ordinator.

The programs were unstructured so that the conference could "create itself," report Lloyd-Jones. New wave films, guerrilla theater, and psychedelic experience games were included to help expand the delegates' modes and realms of communication.

Over 500 editors attended the conference. Some were expecting journalism instruction rather than mind-expanding experiences, and during Saturday's general meeting they introduced a proposal, later tabled, to revamp the conference and the leadership for the rest of the session.

Several informal meetings were arranged for discussion by Jim Porter of Tulane University leader of the dissenting group, following the general session. At a press conference on Sunday, Lloyd-Jones commented that "the bitch sessions made the conference a success" by furthering communications among the delegates.

Drew delegates who attended were Frances Edwards, Paul Dezenford, Gerald Levinson, David Hinckley, and Lynne Lillis.

Girls Top Faculty, Coming From Behind

Rhonda's Raiders romped to victory Wednesday night over a very spirited faculty squad, Wonnacott's Warriors, led by Mrs. Wonnacott. The excitement was great as the faculty won the first game in the best 2-of-3, 15-10.

Following a pep talk from Captain Rhonda Rush, however, the girls came back and took the next two in succession, 15-4 and 15-11, to capture the trophy won last year by the girls' team from Heaven Holloway.

Following the game Dale Thistle and Mrs. Kenyon presented the girls with their Intramural Trophy and the faculty with a token trophy to commemorate the game.

Biff, Bruce, Ray Lead Tough Win

STEVENS TECH

Tuesday night Drew traveled to East Orange to take on a tough Upsala team and was defeated 91-66. Although the 25 point spread seems to indicate otherwise, the Rangers played one of the season's better games.

Throughout most of the first half it was a hard-fought game with neither team being able to gain an advantage. The score was tied several times and neither team seemed capable of building up a big lead. For the Rangers Biff Clark, Ray Andrews and Bruce Antoniotti all played extremely well.

Particularly effective was the Ranger's tough ball hawking defense that forced many errors.

On a late basket and two foul shots the home team managed to build up an eight point lead but the game was far from over at the half. Upsala led 41-33.

In the second half, though, the Green and Gold got into foul trouble and ball handling became sloppy Upsala began to pull away. Where the Rangers were actually beaten, however, was at the foul line where they were outscored 29-8. Upsala gradually pulled away in the last half and in the closing minutes both coaches emptied their benches.

Leading scorer for Drew was Biff Clark with 22 points, while Ray Andrews and Bruce Antoniotti had 14 and 10 points respectively. Also playing a good game for the Rangers was Jeff Waldman who was 3 for 3 from the floor for 6 points.

UPSALA

In a cliffhanging performance the Drew Varsity Basketball Team reversed its losing streak by toppling Stevens Tech 66 to 64.

In what was perhaps the most exciting game of the year the home team crowd saw the Rangers protect a lead that was never more than three points through the last ten minutes of play.

The game began with Stevens taking the advantage. Making the most of outside shots, they held the lead through the entire first half. At the half the score was Stevens 43, Drew 36.

The second half began with both teams matching each other shot for shot. Then Drew started to pull up on Stevens and with 12:48 to go the Rangers tied the score. The score verred back and forth until with 9:55 to go Drew went ahead for good.

The most notable performances for the Rangers were those by Biff Clark and Bruce Antoniotti who scored seventeen and fourteen points respectively.

Freeman With Jazz Group In Concert Here Tonight

Steve Freeman, a Drew junior, will appear with the Metropolitan Jazz Quartet in a concert tonight at Great Hall scheduled for 8 p.m.

Freeman, who plays electric guitar, made his first performance at Drew in the 1965-66 academic year when he was featured in a musical production called "Andy Chilson and his 37 Friends." Last year Freeman appeared in Philo Musica's "Cafe Au Go Go" and accompanied singer Mary Davies.

Other members of the group are Gary Haber, pianist, Harold Slapin, bassist, and Bob Stoll-off, drummer.

Freeman said the group will play "straight-away" jazz as well as some "Monk." The guitarist has appeared professionally throughout the metropolitan area.
