McMullen Address Knocks 'Our Dictated Moral Codes'

In his speech to the Faculty on April 18, Thomas McMullen, President of the College Student Association, questioned the discrepancy between classroom education and campus social practices.

Mr. McMullen pointed out that students are "instructed as to the situation ethic rather than a prescribed moral code. Yet it is overlooked that many of the regulations to which we as students must conform are little more than a prescribed, dictated moral code."

Mr. McMullen cited as a case in point the controversy of two years ago regarding dress regulations in the dining hall. The resolution passed by the student council ending the requirement that men wear coats and ties in the dining hall was rejected by the faculty. Although a compromise was eventually reached, Mr. McMullen pointed out that "if we are mature enough for a situational ethic in the classroom why are we not mature enough for it in our campus social and residential environment.

Another practice questioned by Mr. McMullen was why so much care is given to our physical plant when so little money is spent on placement, scholarship funds, and when some seminars must have 50 people in them.

Mr. McMullen recommended that the Faculty Educational Policy and Planning Committee merge with the Student Educational Policy Committee and that students should be "brought into the very first levels of planning and development of the college."

Also suggested was that a professional be employed to coordinate the entire University social program. Inclosing, Mr. McMullen reiterated that the "Faculty should take another strong look at its regulations regarding student affair, conduct, and discipline."

Dr. J. Paul Sampley, Assistant Professor of Religion, stated in reaction to Mr. McMullen's speech: "I think Mr. McMullen would be surprised to find how many of us faculty members share certain of the concerns listed in his address to the faculty. I personally would quibble with his use of situation ethics as a rationale for the changes he suggested."

Saga To Serve Survey Winners

Saga Food will serve the foods most preferred by Drew students for the next week, Director George Koenig has announced.

Dinner favorites were roast beef, fried chicken, and broiled steak.

Leading dessert was ice cream and tossed greens were the favorite salad.

Mead Hall Lawn To Host "Tartuffe"

The production is being sponsored by Drew's Curtain Line Players. Students will assist with lighting and sets.

Following the performance they will serve at a reception for the members of the "Tartuffe" company. All members of the Drew community are invited to attend the reception and talk with the actors.

Class Candidates Offer Plans

Next week the college Student Association is holding elections for class officers and senators. To help the Drew community become acquainted with some of the ideas of the candidates, each of them was invited to submit a short statement for publication.

Two men are candidates for the office of president of the class of 1971.

Tom Hughes: "It is time for the class of '71 to start to exert itself as a force in this university. We have spent the past eight months fumbling through the forest and following the prescribed way of doing things. Now we must begin to assume the initiative and responsibility of leadership. We must pool our considerable individual talents into a class that is imaginative, creative and constructive, and start to work on the metamorphosis of the Drew community."

John Vander Voort is also running.

"I am willing to give as much of myself and my time to the job as possible. As president I would be a member of the Senate. I again am willing to attend the Senate meetings. I will listen to and voice student opinion and most important I will try to unify my class into an active, spirited organization."

Two students are running for the office of vice president.

Barry Lenson: "Apathy in our class stems from lack of unity. Lack of spirit can be rooted out only through class-wide participation in important projects. For example, we could possibly convert one of the old buildings in the vicinity of Tilghman house into a lounge or useful hall. A great proportion of the class could take part in a truly clever plot for the taking and treatment of Hoppy. Tutorial programs, dances, the Frosh games, and any other type of project can begin to convert the number '71' into something quite significant if we all push just a little bit. One class officer alone cannot cause these events to take place, but he can be receptive and enthusiastic about the suggestions of the people he represents."

Dale Wilcox: "I feel that the freshman class has had a real successful year and that I would like to have the opportunity to serve them again as their vice-president."

Two senators are elected from each class. There are four candidates for senator from the class of '71.

Dennis Ingoglia: "I believe myself qualified for the office of Sophomore Class senator. I believe this because I have a sincere desire to work for my class, and because I have had a great deal of experience in student government, notably as a member of New Dorm Council. I will not promise to do a dozen impossible things. If I am elected, I will work. I will try to appraise each issue and act with what I consider proper judgement. I will constantly move about next year's Sophomore class, asking questions and sampling opinions. I will not vote on any issue which I feel does not concern Drew University. I will attend every senate meeting. I will report the business of that meeting to you. Above all I will try to represent you with all of my ability and dedication."

Jeff Myers: "As a regular observer of the Senate this past semester, I've found that its major drawback was apathy among the senators. The average attendance at meetings was 16-18 of the Senate's 30 members, and many committees had but one or two meetings and these were attended by only half their members. If the class of '71 elects me senator I intend to attend all meetings, work in committee, and listen to and voice any and all student opinion brought to me."

John Pinkney: "The class of 1971 needs the best representation that it can afford. If we have that representation we can look forward to the quickest possible liberalization of curfew, open houses and liquor regulations."

Phil Wineman is also running. Maryann Liptock is a candidate for treasurer of the class of 1971. Barbara Muglia is also running.

There are two candidates for the office of president of the class of 1970. Richard Chaves: "We of the class of 1970 were quick to proclaim ourselves 'Spirited '70' when we first arrived on campus. I am running for president because I would like to see at least a partial return to class cohesion and spirit. Next year will hold a variety of opportunities that will require the class to function as a class: Junior Day and Spring Weekend, for example, I am asking my classmates to vote for me, but I am also asking them to back up their vote with action, not apathy."

Richard Cromwell, candidate for vice president issued a joint statement: "Variety is not the spice of Life, but the very stuff of it. We oppose blandness, sterility and indifference to Drew and in our Class of '70 and will do our best to offer and pursue a fresh approach in all endeavors."

Donna Laverdiere is also running for vice president of 1970.

Ann Travis is the only candidate for secretary of the class of 1970.

There are two candidates for senators from 1970.

Claire Connolly: "I believe that I can properly represent the Class of 1970 in the Senate during the upcoming year. I have worked closely with this Senate this year as its secretary, and in my freshman year as a member of the elections committee. I have found student government interesting and worthwhile and I would like to carry the thoughts and ideas of my class before the student government."

Joe Mayher is also running for senator.

The class of 1969 has two men as its candidates for president.

Rich Whitaker: "Having worked in dormitory government and various campus activities I feel I am qualified to accept the responsibilities of this office. As president I would work for the senior class and express their concerns in the student senate. I feel that individual opinion is very important and I would hope to work closely with all seniors in order to obtain class unity."

Sheldon Liebowitz is also running for president.

Steve Fagen is the only candidate for the office of vice president in the class of 1969.

Kent E. Jaffe is the only candidate for the office of treasurer of the class of 1969.

Diamondmen Slugged Twice: Opposition Hitting Too Much

UNION

It was just one of those days for the Drew Rangers as they succumbed to an unrelenting Union College team, 14 to 0. The Union attack consisted of only eleven singles but they capitalized on Drew errors and wild pitches to make the most of their opportunities.

The Union men jumped off to an early lead scoring three runs in the first inning off Drew starter Dave Bretschneider. Union got only one hit in the first but made the most of three Ranger errors by stealing two bases.

In the fourth, Union broke the dam, flooding the scoreboard with seven runs. The leadoff batter singled and the batter following walked. An error allowing the next batter to reach safely. After Bretschneider got the next batter on a strikeout a walk, a single, and another error necessitated his exit and Rich Tait came in to finish up. A single and two walks and Union was done, at least for the fourth inning. Final tally for that frame: seven runs on three hits, four walks two errors and three wild pitches.

The rest of the game was anticlimactic, with Union picking up a run on two hits in the sixth and three runs on four hits in the seventh. The final score was Union 14, Drew 0.

NEWARK RUTGERS

Despite a late inning surge that knocked out the opposition pitcher, the Drew Rangers were unable to overcome a hard-hitting team from Newark Rutgers, losing 11 to 6. It was the long ball that made the difference in this well-played game. Drew committed only two errors while Rutgers had three, but the big difference was three big home runs by Rutgers, two for three runs and the other for two.

Both teams were scoreless through the first two innings. In the top of the third Drew scored the first run of the game (although the game was at Drew, Drew acted as the visiting team, batting first in the inning). With Al Griswold on first, second baseman Ron Koff singled, sending Griswold to third. Griswold scored as the left fielder bobbled the ball.

The Rutgers Team erupted for five runs against Griswold in their half of the third. The first three batters got on, loading the bases. An infield ground ball resulted in an out at the plate but the next batter singled and two runs crossed the plate. The next batter, first baseman Frank De-work, homered to right center field and Rutgers had five runs for the inning.

In the fourth, the first two batters for Rutgers, catcher Ken Chapp and Ron Antoniotti, the center fielder, hit safely. The next batter struck out but then Pete Campisi, the second baseman homered and Rutgers had three more runs.

In the fifth Rutgers again used the long ball, this time to produce two runs. With two out, Ken Chapp homered with a man on first. The Newarkers picked up their final tally in the sixth, the result of a fielder's choice and an error.

Drew's best effort came in their half of the ninth. With one out Cary Campbell singled and Tom Phillips went in to run for him. On a ground ball by Tom Makosky the Rutgers shortstop went to second but Phillips was safe. Bruce Antoniotti then singled to load the bases. Steve Allen was hit by a pitch and a run crossed the plate. Al Griswold then followed with a single, resulting in two runs. Ron Koff then delivered his third hit of the day and the Rangers had another run. Dave Bretschneider then got the final hit of the inning giving Drew its fifth run for the inning. The Rutgers pitcher was taken out and his relief then struck out the next two batters. Final score: Newark Rutgers 11, Drew 6.

Play Well But — Size And Experience Win Out

P.R.C.

Last Saturday the Drew Rugby Club met defeat for the first time this year at the hands of the large and experienced Philadelphia Rugby Club who boast an 8-1 record for the spring.

The game was tight all through the first half with both sides threatening. Philly finally scored but missed the conversion and led 3-0. A penalty kick raised the score to 6-0 at half time. The second half went much the same as the first with the pace slowing considerably as the heat of the afternoon took its toll.

The Drew "A" ruggers were obviously not playing the type of game that had brought them their last seven victories. Philly again scored a try and missed the conversion. Another penalty kick for Philadelphia raised the score to 12-0.

In the closing minutes, Jeff Waldman broke away for a score. Don Clarke's conversion kick made the final score 12-5 in favor of Philadelphia. The only casualty of the game was Greg Johnson who won't be doing any necking for a few days.

The "B" team, out to avenge the "A" loss then took the field. Drew was down 3-0, but Mickey Colella's penalty kick tied the score 3-3 in the closing seconds of the first half.

The second half went scoreless and the game ended in a tie. Ben Alexander played a beautiful game at fullback, and Captain Gary Smith was beautiful, period. Other fine performances for the "B" team were turned in by Seth Metzger, Ron Tremper, Ray Andrews, Starr Barnum, and Hunt Jones.

The C's did not play.

PRINCETON

A pelting rain and a big experienced Princeton club combined to overcome a fighting Drew rugby squad Wednesday, 12-3. By winning, Princeton retained the Shafer Cup.

For the Rangers, the only score came on Don Clarke's penalty kick early in the first half. Clark's kick temporarily tied the contest 3-3, as it countered an earlier Tiger penalty boot.

Before the half had ended, though, Princeton had scored the only try of the afternoon, on a missed Drew pass that Princeton kicked past Drew's fullback on the slippery turf.

In the second half Princeton added two more penalty kicks, to place the final tally at 12-3.

The condition of the field was the major influence of the game. Neither team was able to start offensive movements on the wet field, and as a result much of the action was inconclusive.

Both teams threatened several times, but were always repulsed. Even getting a grip on the ball was a problem.

Drew was further hampered by the loss in the second half, of Mike Lescault, who was knocked unconscious in a pileup and taken to a hospital.

Ruggers hope to get back in the winning groove tomorrow, taking on Rutgers on Young Field. Their spring record is now 3-2, 7-2 for the year.
