Soccer team into region final

Led by a goal and an assist from Bob Conrad the undefeated Drew Rangers came from behind Wednesday to upset a talented Pratt team, 4-2.

The Rangers thus advance to the NAIA tournament district final, where they will meet Trenton State College tomorrow at Newark College of Engineering field. If the Green and Gold win tomorrow, they fly to Indiana for the national finals over Thanksgiving vacation. Sixteen teams now remain in the single-elimination tournament, and eight will go to Indiana.

Under a threatening sky, Drew took an early 1-0. lead on Pratt when Conrad headed in a Stu Eidelson pass in the first quarter.

Pratt dominated the middle of the game, however and had a 2-1 lead in the fourth quarter, when John Waters and Wolfgang Wessels found corners of the visitor's net in rapid succession to reverse the advantage.

With momentum and a large, enthusiastic home crowd, Drew then smothered the Cannoneers for the remainder of the game, as Neil Arbuckle added a final goal with a minute left to play.

Goalie John Cadwell shone all afternoon for the Green, making 17 saves, including blocks of two point-blank drives which kept the Rangers in the game.

Full details, sports page.

Doug Trott leads attack against Stevens in final regular season contest.

FIRST CLASS MAIL

PELE GETS HIS

1000th GOAL

Drew Acorn

Student Newspaper Of The College

Drew also wins

DREW UNIVERSITY, MADISON, NEW JERSEY

November 21, 1969

CURFEW CHANGE?

Key system sought

Story page 3

DeG going to London

Story page 3

Down in D.C...

Not with a bang... " ???

Search and seizure plan OKed

for students "simply because they are students," but carefully defining procedures for all searches, has been approved by the Faculty Committee on Student Concerns.

The approved policy, from a draft submitted by committee member Dr. E. G. Stanley Baker, states that it intends to "recognize the privacy of all members of the college community' while adding that by enrolling in the college a student accepts the "rules and regulations of the faculty and the governing board."

The policy will now go on the faculty for final approval. The faculty meets in about two weeks. Highlights of the new policy, which is partially a consolidation of precedents and partially clarification and specification, include requirements that all searches must be specifically authorized by the Dean or Associate Dean of Students and that students must be informed of their rights and informed of each step of the search and seizure process as it progresses.

If students refuse to cooperate with authorized representatives, police warrants may be sworn out. The University also will cooperate with police "if the Dean of Students or his designated representative is presented with a proper search warrant describing the specific areas to be searched."

Following is the committeeendorsed statement:

SEARCH AND SEIZURE POLICY It is the intent, indeed the obligation of the College of Liberal Arts of Drew University to respect the privacy of all members of the college community in the maximum degree possible. This has certain responsibilities for policy defines the specific appli- the safety of all enrolled studcation of that intention in the mat-allowing no special dispensations for purposes of so - called "search and seizure".

cific procedures in this matter.

In developing or judging spesponsibilities.

4. Emergency circumstances in which prompt authoritative action is essential to the protec-

Concerns resolution near Confer

I would like to clarify one point raised by the Confer Resolution passed by the Student Senate (Nov. II) and reported in the Drew Acorn (Nov. 14). Point 2 of the resolution reads: "If a student will not be turned over to the external authorities unless proved a pusher."

The Committee on Student Concerns, in its action of Nov. 17 wherein it accepted a new Search and Seizure Policy found no way to legally incorporate Point 2 of Confer's Resolution into the new policy. In fact, one position of the new policy states:

"National, state and local laws governing the behavior of citizens are just as applicable to students enrolled in an educational institution as to others; the college can neither ask nor obtain special dispensations for students because they are stu-

However, I might add that the remaining portions of Confer's resolution were substantially similar to the Student Concern's Search and Seizure Policy. In short, the new policy offers much in the way of clarifying and defining the rights of students while redressing some of the inconsistencies of past policy. Dr. James M. O'Kane

Chairman, Committee on Student Concerns it is essential that cognizance tion of physical safety or even be taken of the following consid- life can arise. University Search and Seizure 1. National, state, and local . To reconcile these divergent laws governing the behavior of obligations, the following steps citizens are just as applicable will be followed in entering any to students enrolled in an educa- room for any search or inspectional institution as to others; tion whose justification is based either law or University and College regulations.

1. The search shall be specifically authorized, usually verbally, by the Dean of Students or the Associate Dean of Students.

2. The Dean of Students or his designated representative shall be present throughout the search. 3. Entry shall be preceded by a knock on the door and a request for permission to enter if the room is occupied. 4. If no response to a knock is forthcoming, the room shall be presumed to be unoccupied and may be entered.

5. If, upon entry, the room is in any emergency of such a natfound to be occupied, the purpose ure as to warrant fear for the of the entry shall be clearly stated and permission to inspect or search requested. 6. If cooperation or permission is refused by the occupants, applicable alternatives -- including police search based on a warrant obtained by a responsible College or University officialshall be explained. 7. If cooperation is still refused the Dean of Students or Asso- of Students or his designated ciate Dean of Students shall immediately initiate the appropriate alternative action. 8. A receipt listing all items seized as evidence shall be given to the student who occupies the room or who owns the items. 9. During any questioning of the student subsequent to the search,

10. Should such search or inspection uncover evidence of law violation that the University is obligated to bring to the attention of local authorities, the Dean of Students, if not already present, shall immediately be advised. The student shall be advised the reason for such decision and of his rights to counsel.

Nothing in the above procedures shall be interpreted to prevent immediate, forcible entry physical safety of any room occu-

Nothing in these procedures shall prevent duly announced routine inspections for room damage or safety violations. Search by Police Officials

College or University officials will, under ordinary circumstance, cooperate with local authorities in a search if the Dean representative is presented with a proper search warrant describing the specific areas to be searched. During such search it shall be the responsibility of the Dean of Students or his designate to advise students affected as to their rights and to assist them in obtaining those rights.

meeting to reconsider were not

car pool groups left sporadically participated in the march. However, a total of between 125 and 200 Drew students were estimat-

Some reported being caught in ported some contact with tear help but notice that we were ed to have attended.

No organized Drew group

nor obtain special dispensations Locally: 'encouraging' -

Over 100 from Drew to DC

faculty and the governing board of the University' (1969-70 Cat-3. Under law, the University > which were also moratorium sized and enthusiastic." days. Organizers stated that the have most the Drew community seminary.

Smartt that student task forces be set up to study areas in which were scheduled to begin at 4:15, guerilla theatre presentation and examinations and cut policies made. he set up to study areas in which he felt action should be taken. and if enough people aren't here a showing of an anti-war movie for the two days of the moratori
The next major event of the an-These areas included constiby then, we might as well adto a large audience in U.C. 107. um. No action was taken.

judicial revision, King-Kennedy Senator David Little askedthat tober observances, relatively few tee, Dean of the College Richard eduled for Christmas eve. Senator David Little asked that the meeting be held open for "a little while" until other senators could be contacted. Senators could be contacted. Senators at Drew for moratorium activities, and few Drew students went to other schools. Fairleigh Dickwhich appeared last Saturday which appeared last Saturday and senators are students from other schools were at Drew for moratorium activities, and few Drew students went to other schools. Fairleigh Dickto other schools. which appeared last Saturday, five-minute wait, for courtesy." inson and St. Elizabeth's, coor- Through the cooperation of the lot Monday, November 24. were reports from the Educa- The next session of the senate dinators reported, had few or- Public Service Gas and Electric turnout for planned activities was . were planned by the New Moraencouraging", but one admitted, torium Committee and the Ad "It was more an activity of the Hoc Committee to end the War in moratorium group this time, Vietnam, which included students while in October we seemed to from both the college and the Stronger actions, such as boy- the tear gas bombardment at the A forum Thursday in the Uni- cotting merchants who refused to Justice Department and many reversity Center lounge drew close their stores for an hour crowds ranging from 50 to 200 on Friday in sympathy with the gas or mild violence. persons. Fred Starner, Instruc- moratorium, were considered by Most felt that the demonstrator in Economics, received a the groups, which finally decided tion went peacefully and went warm ovation there for several against such steps for this ob- well. "I don't see how Nixon can Scheduled to be considered at Several senators questioned ology, Dr. Charles Courtney, close for an hour. There was uled for December. The New ti - war movement is another

Comps: keep, change, abolish?

The open meeting on senior day in Great Hall gave students on the retention or abolition of more consistency was needed dent has a working knowledge comprehensive exams last Tues- a chance to voice their opinions

No resignation yet

Student Government Vice-President George DeGirolamo announced Wednesday that he will be leaving for the London semester in January.

De Girolamo was elected last March on a ticket with Robert Smartt at the top. He has served since April 15.

President Smartt will appoint a new Vice-President when De Girolamo leaves. The President had no comment on who he would appoint. "I think speculation now would be premature," he added, asserting that he had made no formal contacts concerning the position.

This is the second consecutive year the student government Vice-President has resigned near the end of the first semester. Last year Paul Dezendorf resigned from the Ken Gates administration in early December.

in good academic standing and until such adjustment was made.

would enforce dormitory security Discipline for key violations with a key system was offered would be handled by dormitory

this week by the Student Dis- judicial boards. Six infractions

The proposal was scheduled to be discussed at Tuesday's student senate meeting, which was adjourned. It is on the agenda for the session scheduled for

If passed by the senate, it will go to the Faculty Committee on Student Concerns for review. If they approve it, it goes

The Concerns Committee will meet in December, and the faculty will meet reading week.

The earliest the proposal could go into effect would be near the beginning of the second semester.

The premise of the proposal states that "Women in good academic standing, with parental consent, shall have the privilege return to their residence."

to full faculty for action.

next Monday.

the comps, and was also an op- in the exams in the area of re- of the area of concentration. portunity to hear Dr. Ruth Do- quirements, reasons for the minicovich, Dr. Benjamin Kim- comps, and the way they are a "last ditch effort to bring pel, and Dr. E. G. Stanley Baker carried out, Dr. Scott also inexpress their opinions as pro- dicates that the same emphasis fessors on the value of these should be placed on the comps

The meeting, attended by about 65 people, was moderated opinion that the comps are neby Dr. Donald Scott, chairman cessary, especially in her deof the Faculty Educational Plan- partment, Spanish, so that the ning Committee. As well as student would have the chance moderating the meeting, Dr. Scott to "organize and synthesize" gave a report on the findings of 'information learned in courses his committee which included leading to the major, because faculty members, former stu- dent intends to continue toward dents, and last year's seniors. a graduate degree. Dr. Baker dicate that most people felt the comps should be retrained, bur should be given earlier in the Spring semester, so as not to conflict with semester exams. The report also emphasized that

Leaving the door ajar after entering the dormitory. 4) Not reporting the loss of a key to by all departments. Dr. Dominicovich stated the answers to questions asked to this ability is needed if the stu-These findings seemed to in- noted that the colleges with which he is familiar seem to be adopting the idea of comprehensive exams, rather than discarding the idea as outdated. He noted, however, that the present scheduling procedure is "ridiculous," and that senior exemption from semester exams was do C work or better in courses seniors to gain both a quanti-Security. 5) Not returning the cipline Committee under Chair- would be punishable, including: key to Security before noon of relating to their major was felt tative report of ideas, and also marked that a procedure making comps the choice of the individual department would only be together knowledge" that should take place within each individual course, that is, every course should make use of knowledge received in previous courses. . There was much discussion about the validity of an exam like the comps which, as some students stated, tries to fit into a nine hour exam all the knowledge gained in four years of study. There was a suggestion for the substitution of a senior essay, which would relieve some of the pressure of the student who faces a nine or twelve hour exam the week before graduation.

Several members of the audience expressed the opinion that nar to replace or augment comps. Coordination of information, and ideas should be in the individual courses instead of in a also "ridiculous." He also re- comp, which then seems only to try to make up for a lack

At the close of the meeting, satisfactory if there was a "po- it was announced by a member liceing" committee to make the of the Student Educational Planning Committee that a ques-That seniors are expected to campus mail to all junior and man Marti Allen. To participate, 1) Allowing someone without key the following day. 6) Theft of a by Dr. Kimpel to be adequate more suggestions and possible

Innis proposes 'local solutions' to community control problems

by Martha Millard

Curfew abolition sought

A proposal which would abolish for the dorm, and no new keys Admitting a student ineligible curfews for all college women for that dorm could be issued for a key to the dormitory. 3) students would also need parental privilege the use of a key. 2) key.

Roy Innis, director of CORE (Congress on Racial Equality) defined the Liberationist which he supports thusly: liberationists are those Blacks who feel that the solution to the confrontation between Blacks and Whites for the oppressed group--Blacks - to liberate themselves year's second Academic Forum lecture, last Sunday, About 100 of determining the hour that they Under the proposal, dormitories would be tocked each night in addition to proposing his solu- the fact that the nation includes jority in their own area, giving at an hour determined by stu- tion to the problem, he pointed to one-fourth of humanity.' Cuba, them self determination. Since dents. Those eligible for keys several alternative movements. barely ninety miles from Ameria most of the political decisions signed a numbered key. Security movement, those who want a for the American government is local level, Blacks would have stitutions, such as schools and transfer of power to another nonexistent, pointed out linis. an autonomy that they do not have hospitals, and gain Black control Students returning after the class; the reformist movement This "strange disease" was also under the present political set- of them. To the question "what is dormitory was locked would pick which advocates integration of called "political astigmatism" up. "If Harlem had political conup the key from Security by Blacks into the main stream of by the CORE leader. trol of it's turf, it would be the Southern Christian Leadership presenting a Drew I. D. and American life (white middle class. Mr. Innis referred to Black twentieth largest nation in the Conference, directed by Ralph indicating the hour of return. life); the reactionaries, who were leaders Martin Luther King, and world." lacluded in the plan for Alernathy, Innis replied that he Keys would be returned to Se- described as "verbalutionists;" Roy Wilkins as members of the separatism are separate schools, would not answer the question, curity by noon the following day. the active moderates, or status reformist movement, and de-police departments and hospitals. but would reply to it later with When using 'key privileges,' quo people who want to stay the nounced their ideas of integration Innis concluded that the pro- 'my (Black) brothers and the sign-out sheet. Keys could T. Agnew.

not be loaned or borrowed. door behind them. If a door were was a conflict of interests be- lives.

the Liberationists as those in which is a larger GNP than many assumption is valid-that self-insupport of the movement for con- countries," Innis commented, trol of areas in which Blacks "but they have no sovereignty novator of human existence, predominate, such as Harlemand over the turf they live and pro-Watts. This control, he explain- duce on. ed, included social, economic To achieve separatism, Innis and separate. Innis spoke at the Syndrome," otherwise known as inequality for Blacks and since plan. The topic of Innis' address was a prime example: "since we for a new idea. "Community Self - Determi- don't like the politics, we don't A redefinition of political bounnation-Alternative to Chaos, and recognize China, regardless of dries would put Blacks in the ma- mediate aim would be a move to Listed were the revolutionary can soil, is another nation that affecting people are made at the ed as a move to "slice off" instudents would so indicate on same, exemplified by Veep Spiro into the main stream of society gram would work only if the final sisters." by saying that Blacks and Whites Students entering after the Liberationist and compared them distinguished as different, with dorm was locked would lock the to those of Moses in Egypt. There separate social and religious . The Red Cross bloodmobile, was for the Drew community and curity. The girl who lost it would the Promised Land was describ- the 25-30 million Blacks in the under 21 must obtain parental sion slips home over Thanksgivbe financially responsible for ed as "any place away from the United States have a productivity consent before donating. ing and then return them to either adjustment of all locks and keys oppressor." He further defined of close to 40 billion dollars, Last March the drive, which of the chairman.

tion, because Blacks "recognize to the problem, innis explained tary might." innis remarked that "I - don't - recognize - what- all other attempts for a solution I-don't-like-ism." The present have "failed," people must be situation in China was cited as able to agree that there is need to be found open, it would be the tween the Jews and the Egyptians, "We are distinct politically, cle K, will be here Tuesday, Dec. ed 105 pints of blood. responsibility of the last girl and Moses saw that the solution socially, economically, and even 9, for the annual blood drive. Co-chairman for this year's to get her key from Security. was to take the Jews out of the visibly distinct, and so separa. Members of the University are drive are Paul Coombs and Stu If keys are lost, the loss would Egyptian society to the Promis- tism seems to be the answer to advised to secure an appointment Eidelsen. It is recommended that be reported immediately to Se- ed Land. In the case of the Blacks the problem." He also noted that for a donation; those students those under 21 take the permisterest is the most pragmatic in-dience were answered after the and political control by Blacks saw the need for a mutual solu- To the question would conservatives cooperate more than liber-In regard to the White attitude the massiveness of White mili- als, Innis replied yes, and that the big city democrats would be it is a case of the "American since there was segregation and the strongest opponents to the grams of CORE. Innis said that while the long range plan was for a totally new contract, the interincorporate Harlem and other

Innis explained the ideas of the are two different groups, clearly Bloodmobile here December ninth sponsored on campus by the Cir- St. Alban's Naval Hospital, gain-

Senate adjourns when quorum found lacking student senate's scheduled meet- olamo and President Smartt exing Tuesday was adjourned by pressed regret that no quor-Vice-President George DeGiro- um was present.

When the meeting was schedsenators were present. A quorum complain about no work being bership of the body, which would be 16 of the 31 senators. Without a quorum, no business can be Smartt said he was "a bit war protest songs. transacted.

the meeting were several rewhether a "quick call" had been. Mrs. Barbara Salmore, Mrs. little response, it was reported. Moratorium Committee has antutional revision, curfew reform, journ."

For lack of a quorum, the Both Vice-President DeGir-

the College can neither ask for for students simply because they

2. By the act of enrollment a student in the College accepts.

the "rules and regulations of the alog, page 41).

"I'm slightly disgusted," uled to begin at 4:15, only 13 stated DeGirolamo, "after people consists of 50% of the full mem- done, and then don't show up for

Participation by between 125 ing of the names of war dead in Stonesifer had brought the issue and 200 Drew students in the James Park on Thursday, and a before the faculty at their No-March on Washington climaxed march and rally in James Park vember 7 meeting, but no official Drew's observance in November on Friday. Rabbi David Levy, motion was made at the time, Vietnam war moratorium last Lecturer in Religion, gave a talk and requests for a special faculty

In contrast to October's mora- Coordinators Bob Burns and torium, however, few classes George DeGirolmao praised the A busload of Drew students were cancelled or used for war speech by Rabbi Levy. They de- left for the Washington march forums. Thursday and Friday, scribed the crowd as "good- Friday noon, and individuals and servance. Speakers included Dr. Robert The committee didsendletters there," noted a marcher. Friedrichs, Professor of Soci- to merchants asking them to Another moratorium is schedquests from President Robert conducted. DeGirolamo had Frank Wolf, and others. The committee also asked the nounced that it will again be ac-Quests from President Robert Smartt that student task forces

The moratorium activities

Again in contrast to the Oc- At the request of the commit- march on Washington, now sch-tional Policy Committee, the is scheduled for next Monday ganized plans for the November Company a traveling exhibit from The elaborate display, in a Public Relations Committee, the at 4:15. There was speculation moratorium.

The elaborate display, in a moratorium.

The Transcontinental Gas Pipe—fifty-foot trailer, shows how nat-Public Relations Committee, the confidence on Student Discipline.

Activities in downtown Madinary and the company will be on display and transmitted in the Hall of Science parking.

Activities in downtown Madinary and transmitted in the Hall of Science parking.

The soccer win

It was already getting dark when the crowd counted off the last six seconds and it ended at 4 for Drew and 2 for Pratt. Pratt's number 12, an obnoxious fellow, kicked the referee. A hundred fans swarmed across the field and mobbed the Drewbench, chanting, again, "We're Number One."

Perhaps the finest soccer seen at Drewwas seen Wednesday. Pratt was good enough that you had to blink sometimes to accept them. They passed, dribbled, or kicked from any position. They dominated the game from the ten minute mark until well into the fourth quarter. Drew played with four fullbacks, and still goalie Cadwell had to stop two breakaways which goalies usually only got to wave at.

But Drew beat them. One of the first points Coach Jim Reeves had promised about this year's soccer team was that they would be in condition. They were. So in the fourth quarter, a first team which had run for 75 minutes was not only hanging on, but beating Pratt to the ball. Drew was playing against the wind in the fourth quarter. But a Ranger break to the goal came, Missed, Another, Missed, Then John Waters threaded the ball inside the near post, and it dribbled off the goalie's hands into the net. Waters stood stunned for a minute, then joined the crowd and the team in ecstasy.

Turning point, Pratt was good, but Drew was now better. Pratt had won the 73-minute game, but Drew was taking over for the last 15. Wessels rifled a 30-yarder, High, Then another, over a dozen heads. Skims the bottom of the top bar and slides into the net. From Oxnam to the freshmen in the bleachers, the crowd roars, Real pandemonium-for a DREW sports event.

Pratt tries to get up for a score, No chance, Trott finally breaks free after a frustrating afternoon at forward and dribbles through. Maybe he can score, maybe not, He passes to Arbuckle, who can,

To all the team, win or lose tomorrow, Indiana or not (and don't count Drew out), congratulations.

To those who played the Pratt game, specials: Doug Trott, Neil Arbuckle, John Waters, Bob Conrad, Stu Eidelson, Wolfgang Wessels, Jim Morris, Eric Jones, Al Whittemore, Neal Warner, Dave Grout, Tim Rothwell, John Cadwell.

Once and future senate

"And lo, when next a man speaketh that the senate meeteth too long and too often, and that the senate-men spendeth time too long arguing amidst their brethren as their hearts are troubled by many things, then let that man recall Tuesday, November 18, 1969, when these problems were solved."

-- The Gospel According to the Constitution

Revise revision proposal

Curfew abolition or at least radical revision is strongly desirable for Drew. An unfortunate remnant of the "in loco parentis" tradition that Drew officials regularly renounce, its removal would rid Drew coeds of the nightly reminder that someone is trying to protect them-as much from themselves as from the evil outside world.

The arguments for curfew abolition are well known, and valid. The arguments against it have centered on one factor: security. Women's dorms do have a certain vulnerability to late-night prowlers, not all of whom merit an invitation to enter. Women's dorms should be locked at night. All right. And that leaves the one real problem with curfew abolition; how do women get back into their dorms?

The student discipline committee proposes a relatively complex key system. The key system has worked at other Uni should work here. However, hopefully the senate will refine and simplify the one which has been proposed for Drew. The following points might be considered:

1) Good academic standing should not be requisite for participation. 2) Keys should not have to be returned to Security by noon the next day. They could more simply be put in an envelope and put under the dorm director's door when someone returns, Then Security could collect the keys from the director.

3) The practicality of the proposed system for periods longer than overnights should be examined-beforehand.

4) The word "privilege" should not be used when referring to the key system. It should be a right. That the discipline committee has made a concrete proposal for curfew reform is good. With refinements, it can be the first step toward ridding Drew of the unnecessary adherence to a women's hours system.

Moratoria

"You all didn't even have to come here, you know," exulted one speaker in Washington last Saturday, "because as soon as they set up machine guns and sent in troops, our point was made."

Yeah, but still anything that gives a two-day moratorium from Drew must have some redeeming social importance.

The view from here In retrospect

George DeGirolamo

Although last week's morator- IAL UNITY. ium protest and the March on Things seemed to be more Washington, bolstered by the or less resolved; it appeared as overall congeniality and peace- if Vietnam would finally achieve fulness of the protestations and stability. The United States Secprotestors of this Vietnam con- retary of State at that time asflict have raised my spirits, serted that "the United States the words of my esteemed lit- would refrain from the threa erary friend, Harold Gaordon, or use of force to disturb these the Joe McCarthy of Drew, keep accords." The election, needless returning to haunt me: "Middle to say, was never held. The pup-America speaks through thee," pet government that the United referring to run-at-the-mouth States recognized, that of au-Agnew and "the country is stead- thoritarian Catholic Diem, would ily drifting to the right" -- undoubtedly have lost to the Comone of his more obtuse and sick- munists and Ho Chi Minh, but ening statements. These com- neither Eisenhower nor his ments, along with the prevalent "silent majority" would have "armchair liberalism" of Dr. this. After all, it was only Amer-Oxnam and company and the over- ica's word. From then on, the all sit-on-its-ass-and-belch non regimes of Diem, Theiu, and -commital philosophy of the ma- Ky have become histories of jority of Drew "protestors," blundering and incompetent fools cause me to reflect and look who place their emphasis on maback on this conflict in Vietnam terial gains and maintain a corand do some research. I share rupt and evil organization dedicathese facts below with you in ted to their personal enrichment, hopes that the December protests _with no regard or even recogniwill carry more meaning to Drew tion of the vast majority of their and the upper echelon of members countrymen. Our enemy NOW who wallow in the insipid surname is the Viet Cong -- but who are of "faculty and administration." the Viet Cong? As the movie, In August of 1950 the first 'The Face of War,' pointed billion dollars. As the French is estimated that about three- ica's finest hours." ing were provided for:

from one zone to the others, Over 45,000 Americans have been achieve at least this profidiency

3) A FREE GENERAL ELEC- 90% to 95% of the people we have esteemed and admired baboon TION TO BE HELD BY JULY killed or wounded in the South has not yet done so. 1965, TO ACHIEVE TERRITOR- have been southerners.

As long as the U.S. maintains its forces South Vietnam, the conflict will continue. The United States can best encourage the return to political equilibrium in Vietnam by removing its forces ese to reconcile their own dif-

The United States foreign policy makers, content to lie and beguile the American public, have perpetuated a history of blunders that starts with McNamara in 1962: "very quantitive measure we have tells us we're winning this war." In 1963 General Paul Hankins stated, "Victory in the sense that it would apply to this kind of war is just months away, and the reduction of American advisors can begin any time now." LBJ states in 1964, "As I have repeatedly made clear. the United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war."

. In 1966 he states, "I see no reason to expect any significant increase in the level of the operations in South Vietnam." More received in 1969, Tricky Dicky had the audacity to state, "in American advisors arrived in out through the words of a mar- this dreary and difficult war, Vietnam -- 35 of them, By 1954 ine, "The Viet Cong are over- I think history will record that an aid program had totalled 2.8 whelmingly South Vietnamese. It this may have been one of Amer-military collapse accelerated, we quarters are native South Viet- The politicians babble and the underwrote 80% of the cost of namese." The figure reported madness of war goes on. Harold their war. Eisenhower decided by General Westmoreland in Nov- Gordon here, Spiro Agnew there. against direct intervention to ember 1967 was 169,000 out of To both 1 say -- throw off the support the French, however. 222,000. The involvement of the shackles of your obvious obtu-He realized the application of United States is now history, siveness and face the facts. Neimilitary power would not resolve but the nature of the enemy was ther of you possess either a mind a hopeless political situation in once the same as that of our or the faculties with which to ex-Vietnam. After the Geneva Con- allies. As Senator Mansfield no- press rational or believable ference, which ended the first ted, "When the sharp increase ideas. As Dicke Gregory noted Indo-China conflict, the follow- in the American military effort at the Washington rally, "Agnew began in early 1965, it was es- is so bad he would have trouble 1) Disengagement of Vietnam- timated that only 400 North Viet- chewing gum and walking at the ese and French troops by with- namese soldiers were among the same time." To Harold Gordon drawal above and bwlow the 17th enemy forces in the South, which I say, spend less time flaming totalled 140,000 at that time." in the Acorn and running off at 2) Free movement of peoples Who are the CASUALTIES now? the mouth and maybe you can killed and over 255,000 wounded. that Gregory speaks of. Your

Letters To The Editor

Linden Sí-Stewart's No.

Since September 1 have been I ever run into a Stewart's Root fairyland of a hometown is not Queen? Yes. A used car lot? just a figment of my imagination, Yes. But a Stewart's Root Beer? an actual dot on the map of Never.

This state. Then, this Tom Ward So who's crazy? There is no (whomever and if-ever he may be) Stewart's Root Beer in Linden. takes it upon himself to relate to never was, and probably never you, Drew's unbelieving popula- will be (the pollution, you know.) tion, the legend (Linden's only) The whole situation, then, of Street dragging. And all you seems quite clear. You see, Drew suddenly guilible readers take people, there is no Tom Ward or resident even, for truth. he does an extraordinary job (for that there is no Linden at all. an outsider) of giving a vivid de- Well, forget it, David, you tells you that he and Bill Pilitow- in it. ski were dealing with a Great Le- Right, David ... right? gal Mind a la Linden, he is not 6. telling the half of it. Every year Linden mass - produces Great (Dear Miss Fabrizio, proclaimed conoisseur of Linden went to Soehl Junior High. and her glories, made one gross Price Street was a very nice particular race was to run from has a Carvel aow. the St. George Diner to the Shop-rite on the corner of Wood Avenue. O.K., I accept that. But in the final sentence of this "Ode to a Linden Loser", Tom says that Old Pilitowski makes a right turn off St. George Avenue and heads for Stewart's Root Beer.

Well folks, I've been trying to tell you-I really live in that place. I grew up there. I've actually eaten in that phenomenon known as the St. George Diner. I've screamed "Banzai" while trying to cross St. George Avenue during those street races. I've seen that '60 Olds since 1957. And I've turned right, off Ahal All you unbelievers! Lin- every corner on St. George Ave- Anacapri?) den, New Jersey DOES exist nue. But never, no not once, have vainly trying to convince people Beer. The Athletic Field? Yes. that my smog-ridden polluted The high school? Yes. The Dairy

Tom's word, the word of a non- Bill Pilitowski or '56 Chevy or Stewart's in Linden. "The Los-Now, it would be very unfair er" is simply another episode to say that all of Tom's account in that insane David Hinckley's of our town is inaccurate; in fact, sick-sick plot to convince me scription of our Number One can't confuse me. There is a Sport and Local Strip. When Tom Linden and there is NOStewart's

Michele Fabrizio

Legal Minds and Biological Ex- I lived in Linden for 13(hmmm) perts (all our boys knowthat they years before moving to Clark can't have babies, but sometimes where the Stewart's I refer to their powers of recollection are does exist and where Mr. Piliimpaired - the pollution, you towski and I did our drinking. It was my mistake in saying "right" Anyway, the whole point of this instead of "left" turn. But what rambling is that Tom, a self- do you expect from a kid that error in his writing that cannot one-way street until they closed be overlooked. Tom says thathis the Mayfair. Well, at least Linden One who escaped(and should be brought back)

p.s. Did the pizza improve at

Satisfied

To the Editor:

According to Mr. Peter Hoffman I have a 17th century mind. That is perfectly satisfactory to me, for being bracketed with the likes of Francis Bacon, John Milton, Sir Thomas Browne, and Ben Johnson isn't too bad. If only Mr. Hoffman wrote as well as Isaak Walton we'd all behappier. Richard J. Stonesifer

Thanks

To the Editor:

Once again we want to thank everyone involved in presenting the concert on Friday for their help. We especially appreciate the assistance of Ron Durante and his fellow members of Alpha Phi Omega for their excellent job of ushering; John Keiper for donating his time and trying his patience; Tony Damiano and his ground crew for their help in setting up; and the sound crew for natever they did.

We appreciate the help of these people and the others who helped us through Friday night. David Marsden

Greg Granquist

On unreality

Reports of my unreality have been greatly exaggerated.

Volunteer help sought

This is a request to all of you out there who have a few free hours a week for a worthwhile cause. I am working at the Dover Neighborhood Center with some groovy Puerto Ricans. We are trying to start a recreational program at the Center for high school age boys. We have the back room of the Center for a place, the boys will show up, and all we need is some supervision for the group. This is where you come in.

Again, the times, will be MONDAY AND TUESDAY NIGHTS FROM SEVEN UNTIL NINE O'CLOCK. If you are interested in one or both of these times please contact me through campus mail or by phone. My name is Ralph Wilson, Box 1219, and the number is 377-9828. Your help will be greatly appreciated.

The overseas view: no way to run SG

I, along with many other students in London, am utterly dismayed and disgusted with the condition of our so-called Student Government. Even though I have no personal contact with the problem, letters and ACORN have made me painfully aware that something is rotten at Drew.

We are all aware that a personality conflict has developed that has reverberated through and shattered the Student Government Organization-a very unfortunate and unnecessary occurance. Last Spring this personality clash was well hidden (though many speculated that it did exist) and Bob and George were elected, together as a governing unit, and no couple could have looked happier. I remember how the faces of Bob and George were depicted on large balloons, giving the allusion of unity and that with their unified leadership, Drew Student Government would soar to greater heights. Well, that balloon has now burst, and with it followed Student Government.

The respect that the Student Government once received from the student body, faculty and Administration is now a has beenthe only thing that remains is a group of disheartened students and a more alienated Administration.

Bob was once proud of his rapport with the faculty and Administration--- wonder now if he is proud of his rapport with his Vice-President

George was going to lead us on to bigger and better things-wonder now if George is proud of the leadership he has so far

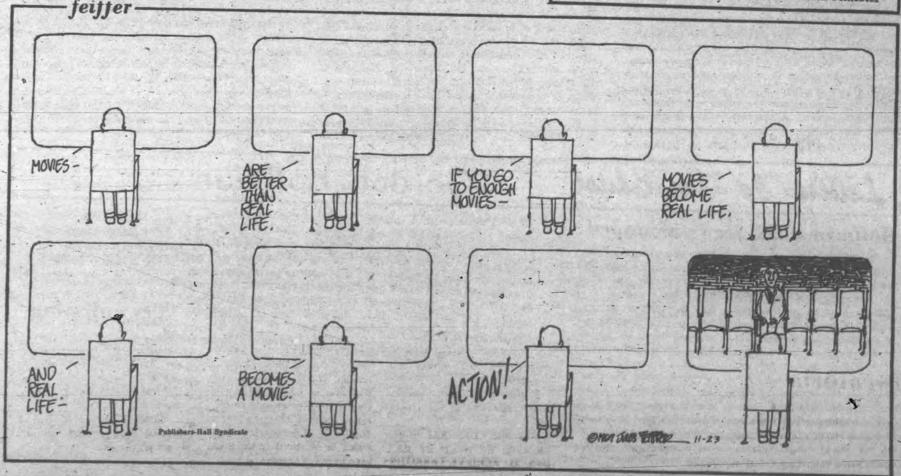

The effects of the Smartt-DeGirolamo relationship go much farther than the Executive branch-they have now extended to the Senate and Student Body. One Senator has been threatened for recall (a serious charge that is now being thrown around as freely as Saga's mashed potatoes) and with its threat a para-. nois has developed beyond belief in the Drew political world. The word TRUST (as George has so thought provokingly explored in his column) has been replaced by words such as "RECALL", "CENSURE" and "DISMISSAL".

This madness must stop-for no one is benefitting from it at all-except perhaps the Administration, who will fondly use the Smartt Administration as the epitome of the lack of student responsibility in managing student affairs. This is a serious consideration, for Bob and George through their selfish ego conflicts have jeopardized the method of gaining the respect of and working within "The System" that the McMullen and Gates Administrations so successfully employed.

A final showdown between Mr. Smartt and Mr. DeGirolamo is iminent-the sooner the better-and a decision will have to be made and settled OUTSIDE the Senate. If George cannot effectively work with the President, he should resign. If Bob cannot be more tolerant and work WITH instead of AGAINST the system, he should step down and make room for a responsible leaders, someone who truly represents the students, and who can become involved with their problems rather than his own.

Hopefully, all persons involved in this unfortunate situation will come to their senses and recognize the gravity of their actions-until this happens, student government under the Smartt, administration will remain a comedy of errors.

Jon Holt Fall '69 London Semester

Violence and unprecedented change

I am disappointed that my column on violence has not received much comment in the Acorn, I had discussed my position with Dennis and we had reached an impasse, neither of us being able to refute the other's argument, So his column in response was no surprise, Dr. Baker's criticism was well-taken; my deep emotional involvement in the breakdown of or rather the breakdown in the use of rationality-during the drug incident of last May certainly shrouds my objectivity. I will admit my part in this breakdown; I was filled with an overpowering sense of injustice, that feeling of repression and of incomprehension which has become horribly familiar to me through working in the Senate this summer and working on the moratorium this fall, However, I am willing to discuss the issue, though admittedly with much emotion. The administration wishes to ignore the whole thing; I can understand this posture although I don't agree with it. Possibly some proadministration student would condescend to comment upon my article-a likely prospect would be Mr. Gordon, who has been writing some amusing things lately. Therefore in lieu of public criticism I will review some of the arguments I have received privately. I am continuing this discussion because I think this issue is of overwhelming importance.

I sense that Drew is on the brink of unprecedented change. I can see that the attitudes and values of the students have shifted right out from under the institutional framework of this University. The rumblings of discontent have been more pronounced in the last year than in my first year and a half there. The tempo of life is speeding up and reform is becoming more and more a vital necessity. And in the background is an administration which feels strongly the need for retrenchment and preservation of 'stability' and the status quo. In this atmosphere there is bound to be disruption. The chaos and dissension in student government is the beginning. Soon these disagreements will be carried out of the committee rooms and into the streets. Now is not the time to ignore the issues of how change is to be wrought.

The first criticism levelled against me concerns the legitimacy of my disrespect for the Deans, Well, my position is that if my deans can sign out federal warrants for three students in direct contradiction to their stated policy and without consulting student leaders and without even attempting to handle the issue within the university, and then not even condescend to explain their actions to the students, then I believe that the deans can stand a little name-calling. And I will be frank about my motives-this mockery of the deans is designed to undermind their authority by breaking the convention of attitudes which protect it. "How can anyone call the dean a liar?" Well, I can. if the deans have no respect for student concerns, then they will get no respect from me, I don't know that that is a big loss, though, it will take many more irreverent people than just myself to really undermine the deans' authority. Someone said tome that they thought that I considered the deans fascist, Weil, if I have given that impression, I wish to retract it. They are not fascist; they are paternalistic, and there is a difference. Nor do I wish to give the impression that the deans are the incarnation of evil. They are actually rather personable men who just believe that the students shouldn't run their own affairs. And it is obvious that the students cannot just whip down to Sycamore Cottage and simply by asking, receive the authority which is theirs. There is going to have to be a little disruption.

This, of course, leads me to a definition of "violence," This was the most misunderstood part of my article and 1 accept responsibility for this, I separate violence into two categories: 1) political disruption and 2) physical destruction. Thus, basically, violence is anything outside of institutional power and rational dialogue. I really know of no other word to describe the phenomenon of power being exercised outside of institutions without limiting the exercise to an appeal to the conscience of

Thus with the failure of rational appeals, certain tactics of political disruption become necessary. This is the situation now at Drew. The intrasigence of the Administration on student social autonomy leaves the student government and the student body no alternative but to adopt tougher tactics or give uphope for the foreseeable future. The drug issue and the police issue will be powerful lessons. On the police issue student opposition outside the student government forced the administration to back down. No doubt the intensity of student opposition had a great deal to do with this. The police issue was not of any great importance to the Administration. When other issues come up, such as control of ECAC funds and drinking and student control of drug offenders, it will take more than shouting to get the Administration to move. I do not suggest what particular tactics will be necessary. I doubt that physical destruction will be needed. Nor do I believe it desirable for issues such as these I've described. Clauswitz's famous statement that war is an extension for diplomacy is relevant here. All the avenues of diplomacy have not yet been tried on campus, Certain political pressures are probably the most effective tactics at this time. The Gates-Zwetchkenbaum handling of the open house issue was a beginning of this sort of approach. Mobilization of student, faculty, and alumni opinion are powerful weapons of political disruption. The purpose of all this is to effectively challenge and break the legitimacy of administrative social authority. I think that the Deans faced with concerted and coordinated pressure will give way on the more important issues. But there is going to be disruption and the approach of these tactics is power, not rational appeal, I think it should be recognized for what it is. Of course, if the Administration proves to be stodgy and immobile, then the diplomacy will have to be extended. This has been the case with SNCC, SDS, and other extrainstitutional groups in the nation. All these groups started out with peaceful political activity. Faced with increasing national repression, they extended their tactics. So this leads to the question: "Does the end justify the means?".

Well, this question has been so misused that it arouses real irritation in any activist. But I will try to rationally dissect this irritation. I think that the real question is not that "the end justifies the means," but that the "means should not control the ends." In other words, violence '(or 'disruptive power tactics' if you like euphemisms) are acceptable if they do not alter the ends, as has occurred in China. Here the use of violence to induce change has led to a reign of terror. In short, the traditional social structure has been replaced by a society based on fear and not a peaceful communist society. Thus the inordinate use of violence has changed the ends, largely because the ends were unachievable.

On purely pragmatic grounds, in this case, violence has been an ineffective tool of social advancement. The same is true of an inordinate emphasis on rational dialogue. The old liberals have failed in their attempts to convince some people that certain changes should be made, and they have also failed in making the changes. These unconvinced people do not offer rational arguments in opposition, they just offer blatant half-truths laden with hypocrisy. So some liberals have thus failed in their attempts to biring change-if they accept this social advancement to ceaseless unproductive chit-chat. A very relevant of this subtle process is the 1930's situation in Europe. A common slogan of the fascists was "You talk, we act." Of course the morons use this to say that we shouldn't act. This is absurd. The fascists present a challenge (and don't think there aren't fascists around-like Agnew and Wallace.) A society has problems when it is undergoing a period of value revolution. A society can either solve its problems or repress them. This is the choice Europe faced in the 1930's and it is the choice the U.S. faces today. If the liberals fail to solve the problems and fail to bring stability and respect for the law, then the people will turn to the repression offered by the fascists. In the 1930's liberals were all talk and no action; they did more than fail to solve the problem, they made it worse by inaction, and thus cultivated despair. Into this wake of political ineptitude stepped the logic of the fascists. One doesn't solve the problems; one ignores them. The liberal approach to social injustice and instability is the most difficult of all, and thus it cannot be implemented by a mystical faith in rational dialogue. Power politics is needed and if anyone denies that this is true for this decade, I suggest that they study how the monumental social reform of the 88th Congress was enacted. Lyndon Johnson, through sheer personal power, drove that reform through. Johnson's emphasis on power politics outran itself in Vietnam, largely because the end toward which they were directed was fallacious. And it may be argued that the means of instruments of power changed the ends. Too much emphasis on military defeat of communism led the U.S. into a denial of the right of the Vietnamese to self-determination (i.e. we support Thieu-Ky because they are the most virulent anti-communist force in Vietnam. Thus we are not concerned that the Vietnamese have a free government, because Thieu and Ky are more fascist and totalitarian than the communists could ever dream of being.) But I would like to point out that at least Lyndon Johnson had the guts to take action on his policy. The policy was terribly wrong, but if the Republicans had been in office, they would have been twice as moral in their condemnation of the Viet Cong and done about half as much as Johnson did in opposing them. The Republican party is the party of drift.

I think the Johnson example illustrates both the dangers and necessities of an active, committed realpolitik. And I offer no easy solution to the dilemna this poses. Whenever one acts on the premise that ends are more important than means, then one accepts a huge responsibility for making sure that the instruments, a means of power, do not usurp and twist the ends of power. The alternative to this heavy responsibility is a pious reliance (which is often no more than complacency) on rational dialogue. And I consider this an abdication of leadership. This country has big problems and this campus is finding it has a lot as well. We are working for the ideals of stability, respect for law, belief that the law makes for justice, hope for the future, and faith in the institutions of society. These are general ideals-I don't think there is much dispute about them. The question is, what actions on the parts of individuals and society will bring about these ideals? The liberal approach is the toughest to enact, the most difficult to implement, and the slowest to succeed, The conservative argument is to do nothing or simply pretend that the problems don't exist. The fascist "solution" is repression and moral decree. So you "liberals", which do you choose? Action or talk? If you fail again to meet the fascist challenge, the world will not live to mourn

Sloop group forms, seeks people, goal is cleaning Hudson, beyond

by Bart Roccoberton

This past summer a sloop, modeled after the 19th century Hudson River sloops and titled into port, exhibits were set up "The Clearwater", sailed from showing the ecology, folklore, Maine, down the coast and up the history, and music of the river. Hudson River, It was manned by This has brought the interest volunteers who, for the main of many to the river and the purpart, were folksingers. These ification of its waters. Poster

all the Mann's potato chips,

apples, oranges, and Borden's lemonade that one could eat and

It was a group of professional beggars chanting "Hare Krishna" and asking for donations?

It was cops, National Guard,

and Washington regulars flashing

It was the hours of the "Mad

Dog" and the "Crazies" meeting

each other at the Ellipse and kissing and hugging each other like old ladies at a tea party.

matter what EricSevareid, Walter Cronkite, or Roger Mudd may

It was posters of Ho Chi Minh,

Bob Kennedy, and George Wal-

It was more litter on the streets

It was Richie Havens, Tom

than anyone could ever clean up.

Paxton, and The Horror of Dracula for free at Catholic University (Dave Mansden take note.)

warmly rewarding "march against death" trek from the Cemetary at Arlington to the White House, to the Capital building,

and then back to warmth and wo-

It was chanting "Dick, Dick, wake up quick, you're killing our boys and making us sick" in front of the White House at 2:30 on it was enjoying free caramels and hershey kisses in the cold

Saturday morning.

It was an extremely frigid, but lace-together.

It was a six-hour trip down and

It was a MILLION people no

the peace sign to the tremendou contributions? or whatever.

er, Allan Aunapu, Gordon Bok, schools. Posters with drawings With the encouragement of Mr. Jonathan Eberhart, andy Wall- of the Clearwater saying "Hero Fred Starner, professor of eco- ace, Brother Fred Kirkpatrick, nomics, a "Sloop Group" has Louis Killen, Fred Starner, Don been established on campus, This McClean. Their duties were to group is an appendage of the Hud- sail the sloop and give benefit son River Sloop Restoration Inc., concerts when the Clearwater an organization interested in was docked. This sounds like cleaning up the waters of the an easy job, but I have gathered A Hudson River and sparking in- that it is a seven-day-a-week

When the Clearwater sailed folksingers included Pete Seeg- contests were held in grade

by George DeGirolamo

ful, clear, crisp sky I have ever seen on Saturday morning and marching 13 blocks to the rally

rived than when I had left.

in mind-PEACE NOW!

idiot would hear and heed

It was peaceful.

It was beautiful.

been if you weren't.

For your EVERY

Banking Need

5

- =

TRUST COMPANY

NATIONAL BANK

2 Waverly Place

Madison Plaza

Member F.D.I.C.

377-3600

site and feeling better when lar-

It was sharing food, talk,

thoughts, and kisses with kids

from Florida, Canada, Colorado

and Flushing on the Green, South

It was being spooked yet bol-

Washington was...

er is very real, even to children. Seven people made up the Mad-

The Sloop, Group on campus hopes to undertake projects to raise money to enable the sloop to continue its mission this summer and for years to come. There have been two concerts for the sloop so far this year, featuring Gordon Bok and Reverend Kirknatrick. There will be more. The next concert will feature Louis Killen, an English balladeer and chantey singer. In the future we will hopefully attain the talents of Pete Seeger.

stered by the feeling of three or Anyone interested in helping four hundred thousand people the Sloop Group should contact surrounding you with one purpose Fred Starner, The organization needs people of many interests It was chanting "Agnew-shut and talents. At the Poughkeepsie up," and feeling somehow, ludimeeting committees were set crous as it may seem, that the up for the organization of music, poetry, photography, art, ec-It was Dick Gregory, Dr. Benjamin Spock, Dave Dellinger, Senen the writing of a play to be ators McGovern and McCarthy, performed when the sloop docks Charles Goodell, and Ossie Dafor an exhibit. Volunteer crews will be needed to sail the Clearwater and people mastering carpentry, plumbing, and electrical It was where you should have

> Madison Varn Sho Needlepoint and Crewel Ribbon -- Buttons Trimmings

Of The Hudson", "Make the Hudson River good to fish in and sail on and even swim in", and "Please clean MY river", etc., show that the condition of the rivison, New Jersey delegation at terest in other polluted areas. job, twenty-four hours a day, a meeting of the sloop people in Poughkeepsie, New York last Sunday. We were able to see pictures of the sloop, exhibits on the ecology of the river, children's posters, old books on sailing, and general duties of sailing. Through Mrs. Fred Starner we met members of the Board of Directors for the sloop, members of the crew (including Mr. and Mrs. Pete Seeger), and people interested in this very real > ology, history, recipes, and evwork are always needed.

0000000000 40 KINGS ROAD MACISON

Simply a stage?

The senate is presently passing through what I hope is a temporary inability to cope with those matters which should normally be handled by that body. I am not in a position nor do I believe I am capable to cite the reasons for the present state of affairs. I believe any body which does not progress can only slide back. Not wishing to see some very valuable programs fall into ruin under irrelevant points of order, I sought another means to continue the ideas which are important to us all. The instrument, of continuance presented itself, or so I thought, in the form of a committee rather inaptly labeled "Students for a Progressive Drew." I saw this as a means of dealing directly with administration, without the usual red tape found in the Senate. I understood this committee to be an effort which would work not for or against the administration of this school, but rather with them. This word "with" is very important. Little can be achieved by a group which is a parsy for the administration, but at the same time equally little can be accomplished by a hostile confrontation. Much, however, can be worked out for our good if we meet as equals.

An organization which is militantly aggressive can only result in an unfavorable reaction. We do not have a Columbia here-that is a non-receptive administration. Never have they refused to at least listen to our ideas. By attacking we can only lose ground. Programs in the past have been thwarted or delayed by irresponsible action, i.e. open house. Let's not let this happen to any new programs, such as curfew revision. The actions planned and already written by SPD are irresponsible and this can only be carried over to effect judgements on issues by the administration. By seeing this lack of maturity and forethought on the part of SPD, things which are important to us will be shot down on the grounds of our inability to accept the responsibility of our new freedoms. I am withdrawing my name from the statement made by SPD and resigning from this committee. I do not withdraw under pressure, but because I believe this organization is a greater danger to our achievement of a more free campus than the incompetence of the senate. Hope must return to the senate. Attend meetings. Ask your senator questions. Speak out in these meetings. Support the senate and help it regain its feet. Name calling and hostility toward those in command can only hurt us. An effective senate will show the responsibility demanded of us, and widen our gateway to a more progressive Drew.

Michael Jacques  New location ARE TELEVISION SERVICE In the heart of Medison Druback Florist Radio, Phono, TV, FINE FLOWERS Tape Recorders DISTINCTIVE GIFTS 80 MAIN STREET FRONTIER 7-5454 FR7-2702

Gerlach's Jewelers SERVING MADISON AREA FOR 32 YEARS

DIAMONDS SILVERWARE LENOX CHINA OMEGA-HAMILTON WATCHES Watch and Jowelry Repairing

60000000000 | 61 MAINST. 377-0767 MADISON

Letters To The Editor Gordon, Hoffman

Hoffman attack seen unfounded

To the Editor:

Of late, letters to the Editor block for any recognizeable proseem to be little more than bits gress' of the type which you, for a forum of AD HOMINEM Mr. Hoffman, continue to uphold, addresses and abuses, Recogniz- Can we attribute any progress ing this, I cannot help but respond here to your festering prose? I to another of Mr. Hoffman's in- am well aware, Mr. Hoffman, be-

In reference to your cosmopol- too, that ideas must run in aditan observations on my Senate , vance of deeds. But your ideas, positions, Mr. Hoffman, of which Mr. Hoffman, run amuck; they ify (in reference to your column chronistic to assume that words Hoffman, usually by a process of with some apprehension, Mr. of last week) "on whose side" be backed up by deed? In my elimination (I refer of course to Hoffman, to your return to came to enlist." I am: not yours, I cannot think "gut," Mr. Hoffman, I have much the mental process here, Mr. pus. Then we will be able to judge of a designation I would prefer more respect for the judgement. Hoffman), not on the basis of what type of ink is in your anal more than that of a "stumbling student affairs than I do for any . If your mind cannot quite abof your visceral directives, sorb this, Mr. Hoffman, I sug-Luckily, while your pen scurries gest you clip out this letter, put across the page to half-prove it between two pieces of bread, to us that you are not intimidated and chomp away. Wait a few hours by Drew's truly ominous Power Mr. Hoffman, and perhaps you Structure and Bureaucratic Es- will arrive at some insights. Do Try enlisting tablishment, there are some peo- me a favor, Mr. Hoffman, you formed and provocative columns: cause I took Intellectual History, pie here actually working to bet- use your column to inform us ter Drew, Sometimes this is about London and not to keep served by going against admin- yourself politically vital at this istrative policies, sometimes it Big University in the States, and you apparently have such a close hardly surface from the Augean is not, Mr. Hoffman, I decide we will just stimble along until working knowledge, let this clar- stables of your mind, is it ana- my positions pragmatically, Mr. you return. We do look forward, of the administration in running predisposed ideological cant. pen, Mr. Hoffman, But for now, Sir, I am quite tired of your unwarranted feculence.

Joe Mayher

Robert Kennedy was once harangued by a college student with views similar to those of our own Mr. Harold Gordon. He waited until the young man paused and then quipped: "Well it's not too late

Mother Cabbage

streets of Washington when the last thing you wanted in the world was hershey kisses and cara-It was facing the most beauti-Funds sought for young girl Seminary student Ralph Wilson is asking for donations for surgery on Lisette Galoza, a girl who was born with an imperfection in her heart. Wilson works on a committee in Dover, New Jersey that is trying to raise money for the girl's parents so that they can pay the $2,800 surgery billst

Wilson urges all those who can donate to the fund to save Lisette to contact him at Wesley House (377-9828) or through the campus

Bing:01

IN CONCERT JOE COCKER THE BYRDS

Upsala Viking Hall East Orange, New Jersey

Saturday, December 6 8:00 p.m.

All seats $4.50

Advance ticket sales: Ticket department Upsala College Bambergers, all stores Madison Photo Shop For information call 286-7000

Washington a 'terrific experience

250,000: the District of Columbia police chief says the figure is "modest." One-and-a-half million: the estimate given at the rally itself. I tend to think about 500,000 demonstrators mobilized for almost two full days in protest of the war and for what turned out to be a demobilization of the capital city of Myself and four others, Chet Clark, Clay Horsey, Wayne Spitzer and Nelson Bjorkman, bussed down to the city. The trip, a chartered bus ride by Fairleigh Dickinson, lasted almost eight hours-eight hours of some anxiety, some singing, some eating, some rapping and some thinking.

We made two stops: the first was the result of an apple cider attack (two chicks were forced to release some inner tension after drinking the juicethus, the driver stopped and let the pained excrete their pain in the woods); the second was a 15-minute rest stop at the Maryland House Restaurant.

Traffic from the Harbor Tunnel down the Baltimore-Washington Parkway to Washington was hell. Everyone was becoming increasingly more restless, hungry and complaining.

Finally, at about 7:30, we reached the bus'destination, the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. At this point, the five of us split the scene, grabbed a 16th street bus and headed toward my house in the Silver Spring suburbs. The remainder of the night was contained in food, rapping, TV, some concern over the DuPont Circle violence, and a pretty good night's sleep.

Early the next morning we left the suburbs and bussed downtown anxious in the wake of the soon-tooccur march. Almost the entire D.C. Transit bus was filled with soon-to-be demonstrating people, the complexion of which, like at the rally, ranged from young to old.

Reaching the west mall of the Capital, we threaded our way through all kinds of people--Hari Khrisna advocates to helmeted freaks -- to the beginning of Pennsylvania Avenue and there started the march.

It was not an extremely vocal crowd -- there was, however, many peace fingers signs, and subdued talk. It seemed that the New Mobe marshalls, who greatly contributed to the excellent organization of the demonstration, were the ones who spurred on the chants. High point of the march probably was at the end of the avenue-ahead of us was the bus barricade around the White House; to the left was the Department of Commerce, which in its barred concourse housed a good part of the troop contingent; but behind us was a mass of people, as far down the road as we could see--people. It was quite a sight.

Once at the rally sight on the grounds of the Washington Monument we were happy to find good grass space on a hill just below the monument. As the rally progressed, the most annoying thing was the bitter cold that numbed our faces and feet.

The rally was good although several speakers, George McGovern, Mrs. King, and Charles Goodell. seemed to turn off most of the crowd. But the entertainment, Arlo Guthrie, Peter, Paul, and Mary, and Richie Havens, complemented the fine speeches of Dick Gregory, David Dellinger and some G.I. who runs an underground Army base newspaper.

The spread-out crowd was a beautiful sightwaves of people all-around the monument. Clay and Chet compared the scene to Woodstock, as did many others. After it was announced that one and a half million people were there, Arlo Guthrie commented, "One Woodstock, two Woodstocks, three Woodstocks--it's beautiful". Truly, it was probably the most stimulating sight of the day, only to be compared with our view while departing the grounds.

The cast of "Hair" had just made its appearance on stage and, after a few numbers, broke into "Let the Sun Shine In." As we left the site, we turned around to be awed by the setting sun gleaming through the trees, scattered fires and the Hair

We were ready to head back home, but couldn't

Pageant hit

cortex rather than in his adrenal glands, drop the column. Blank space would be more valuable.

If you look on that as censorhip-which it isn't - then edit Mr.

Hoffman's bile and verbosity.

get over to loth street, so we instead walked towards 14th street and the area around the Justice Department, the scene of the Saturday night vio-

The gassing had already taken place; people were milling around the corner of Pennsylvania and 12th Street. Somebody broke a window in an all-glass building; some argued whether the stuff was tear or

Clay and Nelson went ahead a bit but then came back to the corner; then, the four of us started to walk up 12th toward F Street, but were stopped by a rising chant in the background. Shortly, a large group of flag-wielding and chanting marchers came up the street and, suddenly, a cloud of smoke enveloped them -- it was tear gas. We left quickly, but were later to feel some slight effects of the wind-

It looked like another confrontation at 15th and Lafayette Square; cops with masks and the troops right behind them. People were milling around all over the area; it was like we had taken over the city. Another groovy site.

We finally got to the loth street bus, and that's where we really felt some effects from gas. The bus had moved two blocks and stopped when someone in the rear of the bus coughed and screamed, "Tear gas." But it was us who had the tear gason our clothes.

Noticing the source at last, we re-opened the windows and things came back to normal. It was a freaky incident.

Washington, the next morning, was an amazing contrast -- solitude, wind and rubbish ruled the same streets that people had ruled the night before. The troops were pulling out; the Monument grounds were being cleaned. We caught our bus from the church at noon and left the city for Drew. We left behind a peaceful demonstration, a terrific experience, a stimulating two-and-a-half days.

And then on page 10, I found

'Students for a Progressive

Drew". What an impressive title! If we were prior to 1966

"rather intellectually unsophis-

Jethro Tull tops triple bill show audience instead of for "warming up", (4) such a performance would constitute an additional show, for which they were not being paid. Ah-ha, I thought, here's the hassle. But, alas and alack, it was soon resolved! Tull agreed to perform without any er, the real root of all hassles was soon discovered. The Flock that evening, "Drew or Bust"

through the small town of Oak-

"long-haired faggot dope fiends"

the Flock was found to be in third of the show was in jail.

So, if the Social Committee wanted to hold the concert as was sortta up-tight.

by Dave Barnett

Arriving at the concert last Friday night, I was amazed to see Marsden and Granquist running around in a veritable flurry of up-tight confusion. Knowing that the concert was by no means their first, veteran concert-givers that they are, it was apparent that Something Was Amiss. Attempting to obtain an explanation from Marsden, as he hustled by, the only comment that was intelligeable and printable was a rhetorical "Jesus...l don't know...Jesus." Actually, I don't think he even heard me. So-I made an effort to "buttonhole" some other people who would be expected to know what was going on. It was as if everyone involved in the concert in an official capacity were given a script based on Kafka's "Eine alltagliche Verwirrung'--(Character A is preoccupied with finding Character B; hearing that B is backstage, A strides down the corridor, shaking his head and muttering. In his haste, he passes B, who is scurrying about, also shaking his head and muttering, trying to find A.)

It was 7:30, and the Drew students were lined up outside the side entrance on the basketball court. Inside the gym were about 300 people, most of whom looked like "townies". Jethro Tull's manager (road, equipment, business, or assistant) was involved in a heated discussion with Mars. den and Granquist. It seemed that Jethro Tull wanted to warm all those people were sitting out there. The Tull representative pointed out that (1) a "warm-up" was absolutely necessary if the group was going to put on a decent (i.é., "good") show, (2) "warm s'ups" necessarily are loaded with mistakes, and who wants to make mistakes in front

SALES GIRL Better Ladies'

Sportowear Shan THURSDAY NIGHT & SATURDAY CLOTHES

HORSE MADISON CALL 376-2288

Rose City Jewelers LONGINES BULOVA SPEIDEL TIMEX watch & jewelry repairs cor. Waverly & Main.

PHONE 377-2145 BANK OF AMERICA MASTER CHARGE

UNICARD ...

of an audience?, (3) the presence guitar amp, Rather than waste all of an audience would tend to force that time and money, a great deal the group into playing FOR the of difficulty could have been avoided by buying several good "horns" and a high-powered amplifier, or by renting a good PA. But, this was not the case. When Wintergreen performed, not only was the vocal virtually inaudible. but distorted to the point of absurdity. For the first song, there warm-up what-so-ever. Howev- was a malfunction in the PA which addition, the drums were miked. had left for the concert earlier As anyone who has had experience in such matters could prethey exclaimed. While driving yond belief. Audible bass notes land, N.J., they were stopped have a tendency to completely and searched by so-called local "pigs". The stop-andobliterate anything else coming through the same speaker -- every seizure" policy directed against time Wintergreen's drummer us-"hippies", "crazies", and ed his double bass drums (which was most of the timel everything else going out of the PA by our rural communities proved rewarding in this instance; was canceled out. The overall possession of a "stash". One "white noise" in which the harely audible vocal was discernable as a some kind of supervibrato "psychedelic" instrument, lt was advertised, the Flock had to be impossible to listen to Winterbailed out. Thus, one could dig green critically-the noise was so overpowering that it effectivewhy the responsible parties were ly prevented hearing Wintergreen The concert began at 8:15 with QUA Wintergreen, Like, digit-Wintergreen, It was immediately I thought I heard a few nice little things, but there was no way to

evident that there was an equipment difficulty somewhere. Ifintell for sure... ally pinpointed it in the Drew PA After Wintergreen we had a short little intermission about system. Someone made the mistake of thinking that a small house forty minutes long. The Flock PA would be adequate for a rock was on their wayl Would they contorted facial expressions hidmake it in timel? Finally, Jeconcert. The system had been built especially for this concert: thro Tull agreed to go on in the the Tull contract specified that number two slot. They too had It was unfortunate that Ander-Drew was to provide a PA. It was some difficulties. They were not son could only be seen and not plain that a lot of work and money warmed up. They just flew in went into the new speaker banks from London and were messed up -each of the two cabinets conby the change in time zones; as tained (I think) 25 six-inch colan Anderson explained it, for axial hi-fi speakers. These were them the concert was just startadded on to the PA system used ing at four a.m. And of course, for lectures, which consisted of the PA. The PA problem was two columns (3 or 4 12" speakpartially solved by using Winterers each) and one of the various green's Traynor amps, which, low wattage amplifiers owned by although far superior to the Drew Drew. Before the concert the new jury - rigged set - up, still left rig was tested out; it was decided much desired. The other probthat since someone speaking into lems were ignored. Jethro Tull the mike could be heard quite came on stage to face adisgruntclearly at the back, of the gym, led up-tight audience...but their things were groovy PA-wise. It music hath charms, you see. Wiis unfortunate that those responthin seconds the audience was sible did not realize the differinto it and digging it; madman ence between a quiet gym and one Anderson cavorted, franticly. filled with the sound of a 200 watt leaping across stage, twisted fingers writhing insanely, mystic gestures, playing flute on one leg while keeping time by tapping a pointed foot on his knee, singing - a - line - and - walking away-only - to - rush - back seemingly - far - too - late --time - but - always - arriving - on - time - and - in - control, den by convulsive turns of the heard; the other instruments (Cont. p. 11) ******

THEY'RE TODAY, BELLS FROM

THE MILROSE SHOP HEADQUARTERS FOR

Miss Wranglers Denum 'n' Corduroy Slims 'n' Bells 52 MAIN ST. MADISON

Letters To The Editor

No Miss Drew

To the Editor:

I see that once again that cultural remnant of the slave market the Miss Drew Pageant, is warming up its illusion machine. I recall four years ago, reading a letter in the Acorn from Dr. Baker. who expressed the hope that "this debasement of sexuality" would not be continued. Unfortunately, this hope was not realized, and the cattle parade continues. I have seen three Miss Drew Pageants come and go, and the kind of "beauty" that constituted them up in being more beautiful than anyone else that they would sooner slit their fellow contestants, and stop the Ugly. necks than speak to them. The whole concept of beauty pageants Senator hits is phony, from the pasted-on smile to the pasted-on (or rather 'discourtesy' stuffed-in) bust. It seems to me that any girl with a modicum of self-respect would be somewhat Dear Mr. De Girolamo, to make it to the Miss America us?

Beauty pageants are a sad col- discuss the material on the agen-

of conceit. Boycott Miss Drew

November 18, 1969

insulted to be required to parade As a member of the Senate, I in various stages of undress would like to express my annoywhile, the panel of old men and ance at the discourtesy you diswomen dickered over her worth. played this afternoon. If we sena-Equally phony is the idea that any tors can put up with you and Mr. girl is "eligible". Is the girl who Smartt's personal arguments isn't nominated or doesn't make during senate meetings; if we can the finals supposed to resign her- tolerate wading through the preself to the thought that she is ug- judiced opinions you present from ly? And what of the girl who the podium; and if we can wait doesn't measure up to the beauty fifteen minutes, on three occastandard of the "All-American sions for you to appear at senate -Girl", like the many attractive meetings, then is it too much to girls who never seem to be able ask you to wait five minutes for Side" originates in his cerebral

Cattle Show, and therefore have . I was rather disgusted to walk to hold their own pageant on the into the November 18 meeting at other side of Atlantic City be- 4:19 p.m. only to find that at 4:17 cause they happen to be Black. the meeting had been cancelled No. Miss America and its official because there was not a quorum. preliminary, Miss Drew, are not Perhaps if you would wage your officially segregated, but I would personal battles on other-thanlike to see what the odds are for Senate time, we senators would a Black girl winning either title. appear promptly, enthusiastic to a professional obligation. With anticipation I opened it as soon as we were airborne. It almost life have I been air sick, but as I read on, I came closel things I couldn't understand (Runyon or Ward, for example) and a couple I couldn't be interested in, but you should not be criticized for that since I'm an obvious left-over from Drew's "rather intellectually unsophisticated" past. My nausea came on acutely when I reached page 5.

Bonnie Scolari

After Dramamine and cogitation

I am moved to offer advice.

If the Acorn cannot find some-one whose thought from the "Left

There were, as usual, a few was my undoing. Never in my

Senator, Class of 1970

lection of paradoxes: The real da. beauty is obscured by artificiality and ugliness: while claiming to praise Woman, they degrade her. Like the Playmate of the Ad nauseum Month, the beauty queen is reduced to a thing, that is put aside for a newer model each year. To the Editor:/ For the sake of beauty and women,

I was delighted when on Friday,

a copy of my favorite newspaper Applauds curfew proposal. before boarding the 4:30 Air Shuttle for Boston where I had small problems that come up.

you will deal wisely with any and fear.

The Senate Committee on Student Discipline, headed by Marti Allen, has proposed an excellent alternative to our archaic women's curfew policy. Their "key system" is a well-formulated and responsible plan to bring about this much-needed change.

It is with sorrow that I an- ticated" I assume they represent nounce that I have given up on newly arrived intellectual soph-

Peter since people tell me he istication. I do not know all the

"had a good mind". I shall, founding members of this boon in the future, waste little time to Drew but I have had some reading and much less comment- contact with several of them. The ing on his views. I advise Mr. arrogance, parochialism, and Hoffman to follow one of the conceit in their statement (not oldest precedents in education - to mention illogic) helps to make shake the dust of Drew from understandable the developing your feet and found a school wave of anti-intellectualism that more to your liking. I'm sure some thoughtful people detect

Formulating this system, the committee took into careful consideration the objections of the administration and faculty to the abolition of curfew. Provisions were made to solve these problems. Relieving the administration of unwanted responsibility, parental permission will be required. Minimizing security risks, doors will continue to be locked and rigid restrictions will be placed upon the issue and return of keys. Infractions have been defined and assigned to the J-Board. With the existing sign-out policy, the administration will be able to account for all women in any twenty-four hour period.

We feel confident the senate will recognize the merits of this proposal and will refer it to the Student Concerns Committee. We hope the committee and faculty will make a quick affirmative decision. With the new increase of internal security forces, there is no reason why this system shouldn't go into effect next

Students for a Progressive Drew

Height lacking-

Four returnees lead BB squad

est and hardest season begins; the Rangers play their first varsity basketball game against Queens College in an away match. The same problems which plagued last year's 2-15 squad: will hurt this year's young team. A serious lack of height will handicap the team's rebounding capability, which gives other teams a big advantage. Secondly, only four players from last year's team will return. Key losses through graduation last year were John Kane and Biff Clark, one of Drew's all time greats.

These losses will be felt primarily in the scoring department. Seven new players, including six talented freshman, have made the team. The athletic department expected a far greater turnout. Lack of depth and experience will thus be the second major problem.

The new coach, Mr. Frank Giovannucci, a former Bloomfield College standout who is known for his defensive genius, will make the team play a slow, deliberate offensive game with the emphasis on a tight, man-to-man defense. As the coach said: "I want the team to be patient and get the good shots."

On the offense the Rangers will look for the good shot, Compared to last season's running and "fast breaking" games, this year Ranger fans should brace themselves for mostly low-scoring contests. Drew has the shooting potential but in order to effectively play against other teams the coach feels that defense will be most important,

On December 3 Drew's long. Mr. Giovannucci has had some sity include Bruce Johannessen, the country's best defensive

> Drew played its first scrimmage against Morris County ounity College. The Rangers lost, according to the picked up his defensive and ofseason lies ahead; the cagers experience with Army, one of the team's tallest man at 6'4", Dave Truran, John Hudak and Chris Kersey. New players include Bob Kopech, a former high school captain; Howie Schober, Meritt Schwartz, Bob Burger. Grey Desmore, Jim Arseneau, Hudak, Kersey and Truran all hit double figures several times last year, and all three are good

In his first year here as head basketball coach, Mr. Frank Giovannuci hopes to turn a small Ranger swuad into a tight defenimportant Middle Atlantic Conference games. Albright and Hamilton, two outstanding Eas-

Players from last year's var-

Forward Litwack's seven points tern College powers are joining lead Drew ruggers over Fordham the schedule.

capable of penetrating Fordham's

defense on numerous occasions

The Rangers scored first when misplayed by a Fordham wing and was fallen upon by freshman inside center Ken Callahan in the end zone for his first score of the

On a day marked by freezing alty kicks by the Fordham squad. temperatures and strong winds However, the second half was the Drew Rugby Club trounced a different story. The Drewteam a tough Fordham fifteen 13-0 thus demonstrated a determined effort earning its first victory against and was able to mount an offense two defeats this fall.

The first half was a lackluster (culminating in three scores. affair with neither team able to gain any advantage and being frequently penalized while attempting to gain some sort of momentum. The closest either side came to scoring were two missed pen-its lead to 8-0. Finally Hunt Jones bulled his way over the goal lines from five yards out after a mark was called against Fordham due to a miscue in their own end zone. Litwack converted the extra point.

PARTS ACCESSORIES

note as Bruce Antoniotti became ham forward over an apparent tuted sportsmanlike conduct dur-Arlyn Mick's towering kick was ing their duel throughout the > Drew's next action will take place on Saturday November 29. when it will be involved in the Randall's Island Seven On A Side Rugby Tournament. Drew will be out to repeat its success of two years ago when the Rangers lost in the semi-finals to a Brown squad which later won the tournament. Some other teams sending sides will be Harvard, Princeton, Rutgers, and Yale. Drew will send two sides.

> > Drew now one of three

By Defeating Pratt Institute Wednesday Drew remained one of three undefeated untied teams in the nation. The other two teams are St. Louis 9-0 and Harvard, 10-0 . The other two previously unbeaten teams, Alderson-Broaddus and Davis and Elkins tied each other in the last game of the

MADISON PHARMACY 377-0075 - 0076

som sborts view

The needed many

It's great to be associated with a winner. Spirits are high, devotion unending. As long as you're winning.

Drew has a winning soccer team; the only undefeated team in the Northeast, and one of four undefeated teams in the entire U.S. Home crowds have been among the largest and most enthusiastic that ever supported any Drew team. Drew is winning. But what after the soccer season, what after the success and glorious triumphs? Will the devoted fans still be devoted when the basketball season

To be honest, the basketball team faces a tough, grueling schedule. The team will lose some games. It lost fifteen games last year, while winning two. It was because of this lack of success and the dim prospects of substantial improvement, that the fans gave up on the team early in the year. The fans gave up; the team never did. This reporter spoke with a member of the team (a starting player, who has since graduated.) He was very concerned about the lack

"The guys feel lonely and ignored when they look to our bleachers during a home game and see about three people cheering for us while the other five spectators aren't even watching the game." (Of course, when this player spoke of only eight spectators, he was being a little sarcastic. Actually the home crowds averaged twelve or fifteen.)

"I don't care what anybody says," he continued, "you DO get a psychological "lift" when you see kids coming out to support you. We try 150% when we know the students care. When they don't, playing basketball is simply going through the motions we try to win, but only so we don't make the school look bad. We play by reflex.'

It is sad to lose, but even sadder to know the people have given up on you. It is even sad to win if nobody cares one way or the other. More numbers on our side of the score, just numbers. No meaning, just points superior, a hollow victory. When nobody gives a damn, the score has no significance. The torture of defeat is increased, the reward of victory emasculated.

A baskethall team is not simply the athletes dressed in shorts and tank tops. It is also the people who back the team. Every sive unit, playing a deliberate game. Here he confers with Bruce student is a member of the team that represents Drew. The players. Johannessen, at 6'4" the team's tallest player and one of four will do their best; the fans can help them. It is a participation just as necessary as the actual play of the team members on the floor.

Eric Jones and Jim Morris, senior co-captains. First row: Steve Dillon, Neil Arbuckle, Dave Stewart, Wolfgang Wessels, Doug Trout, John Waters, Stu Eidelson, Bob Conrad, Jack Mead. Back row: Coach John Reeves, Jay Tuttle, Pete Sarkissian, Mark Armbrust, John Vandervoort, Tim Rothwell, John Hudak, John Cadwell, Neal Warner, Dave Grout, All Whittemore. Al Kolb, John Karefa-Smart, Ron Durante, Al Gallagher, Manager Mark Lescault.

Pratt good, but Drew better: 4-2

Pratt Institute, 4-2, Wednesday on the soccer pitch. The Rangers will battle Trenton State College, Saturday at 1 p.m. at Newark College of Engineering in the final game of the NAIA regional tournament. The winner travels to Richmond, Ind. for the Over 200 people watched the Green and Gold come back from a 2-1 deficit to overtake the Cannoneers in the early minutes of the final period. Pratt was definitely hurt by the ejection of two of its players early in the first half; both players were ejected from the game because of unsportsmanlike conduct.

Wing Bob Conrad scored first for the home team. Ten minutes into the first quarter, Stu Eidelson booted a pass to Conrad who headed in the score. Pratt's highscorer, Tom Malango, who was later ejected, tied up the score with an unassisted goal at 6:03 of the second period. The game was knotted at 1-1 at halftime.

With ten minutes past in the third period, Pratt's George Owons picked the ball off goalie John Cadwell's hands and kicked in part, the Cannoneers were controlling play in the Drew part of the field.

al period, Conrad crossed a pass to John Waters who booted the tying goal just off the goalie's .. hands, Three minutes later Wolfgang Wessels kicked a line drive lead. Then, with just a minute and a half remaining in the game, ... Doug Trott crossed a pass to Neil Arbuckle, who in chipped in the final Ranger score.

Pratt outshot Drew, but goalie Cadwell's 17 saves stopped the visitor's attack, Coach John Reeves employed a somewhat different offense with essentially four fullbacks, Rick Jones playing the defense when the Cannoneers moved upfield.

Three goals in the fourth quar- Coach Reeves believed that overtime. The score at the end of ter enabled the undefeated Drew "the team played the best soc- regulation time was 3-3. of the first half on." The Ran-If the Green and Gold defeats Weselyan on corner kicks in the players.

gers did work exceptionally well Trenton State Saturday it not DrewUniv. as the game progressed and ev- only gains the privilege of playentually took control of play in Trenton State earned the right NAIA District 31 title, The honor to meet Drew for the NAIA reg- bestows both a plaque to the ional title by defeating Roberts school and medals for each of

NAIA at a glance

Overall High Scorer Topteams played 13-0 Doug Trott- Moravian, W. 3-2, King's, W. 4-2, Upsala, W 5-2 Pratt W.4-2 Trenton State Lions East Stroudsburg W, 5-2 Philly Textile,

Tull tops weekend concert

drowned him out completely, De- the modern musical ZEITGEIST ti-climax, spite all the fantastic gyrations, requires all drummers to take The Flock finally arrived im-Anderson was not as dynamic as a solo sometime during a per- mediately after Tull concluded wit and genius; far out jazz riffs usual -- because of his fatigue formance. Clive took a little 15 the "set to end all sets", After would drop down into heavy soul and his annoyance at the PA, his minute "break" while the rest of taking a half hour to set up, the or blues funks. Despite all this, performance was relatively re- Tull split off stage. As is the Flock went on. As the curtains I could have been polite enough strained. Early in the set, Ander case of most drum demonstra- opened, it was evident that there to sit through the entire show; son, told the audience that they tions of virtuosity, the walking were going to be no PA prob- but the volume was the "last bastard -- I call him that because major influence. Not only was upon amplifier formed a wall the third row, after listening to I don't want to say what I really the substance of the solo most- behind the stage. There were three slightly different arrangethink of him-who set up this PA ly "Baker-noise" imitations, but four banks of horns, each which ments of the same song, the system." In addition to being a some of the beats were exact would have made two Voice of above - pain - threshold volfantastic showman, lan Anderson copies of sections of Toad, There The Theater A-7's feel inade- ume (where you FEEL the sound had the good taste to not "hog was one rather important dif- quate, and four ultra-heavy-duty as a blow to the ears) proved the limelight". Both the guitar- ference, however, from the us- fifteen inch bass speakers, all of too much. ist and the drummer were given ual Baker imitation-Bunker was which was "pushed" by an ampli- ed out, trying to avoid stepping extended solos, Martin Lance- better than average Baker. The fier as big as a moog synthesiz-, on those who were sitting in the lot Barre, guitarist, despite look- drummer's performance could er. This was just the PA. Each aisle, the Flock snidely remarthe go-ahead goal. The Rangers ing like a sixteen-year-old, ro- only have been equalled by Gir- instrument also had its own sev- ked, "Oh...you're leaving ... sigh school boy, demonstrated his su- very together head. In a word, each for guitars, violin, bass, time and go out and get drunk ..." perior competence on the guitar Mr. Bunker was far-outta-sight. and drums. The three horns and The volume finally reached a during his ten-minute "break". The bass player, who acted as if the six vocal mikes went through comfortable level in the corridor Mr. Barre is not the "best" the rest of the guys were just the Flock's PA, Let it be said behind the gym. I could still hear But, three minutes into the fin- guitarist around, nor is he un- too heavy for him freaked him for the Flock that they used their them all the way up to New Dorm

Bus to soccer game

The Social Committee will be sponsoring at least one bus to tomozrow's Drew-Trenton State soccer game at -

NCE. The bus will leave at 11:45 p.m. for the 1 p.m. - game. There will be a charge for the ride, but admission to the game, which is one dollar, will be covered by the Social Committee. Announcements today will give the cost of the bus trip and its place of departure.

(Cont. from p. 9) take or miss a beat. However, cellence would have been an an-ought to be rather angry at "that ghost of Ginger Baker was a lems for the last set; amplifier straw", as it were. Sitting in at and in a en-foot tall amp-at LEAST one ... Well, we hope you have a good rivaled, but he is decidedly ab- right out, also was good when amps to full advantage; the only Circle; after that, all I could ove average. Drummer Clive he "did his thing". All in all, group that can compare volumes hear was a buzzing and ringing gave the impression of being irregardless of the inaudibility with the Flock is the Who. How- in my ears, which lasted for four just a very good drummer of the of Anderson's vocals, harp, and ever, the Who, at least, play good hours afterwards. The Flock variety who, while never doing flute, Jethro Tull alone was worth music. As the group started to were a perfect anti-climax to anything flashy or exceptionally the price of admission, Anything appear on stage, one of them difficult, also never make a mis- following Tull's incredible ex- whispered to the audience, "They thought they found all our stash, but they didn't ... we got high anyway, ha ha," Although the group consisted of competent musicians, it is very difficult for a group to be "together" while really "spaced-out," The psychedelic effects were probably very nice to groove on while

"high", but those of us who were not stoned were not quite as fascinated as the Flock ex-

IN MADISON IT'S

Schnippers

Hallmark card and book center

Toys-gifts--Records Russell Stores Candic-STEREO TAPES

67 MAIN STREET MADISON

TEL. 377-9855 - 2035

FREE PICK UP & DELIVERY

ROAD SERVICE CLUB

2 purchases a month Road service free anywhere in Madison

.. US RD. & GREEN VILLAGE

season. Forward Harry Litwack proceded to convert the extra point and Drew led 5-0. Drew's next score came on a 35 yard penalty kick by Litwack after an off-side was charged to Fordham. Drew thus increased

INDULGE

in our FABULOUS FALL STYLES for MEN KURTZ MEN'S SHOP

the young conservative-

A question of fairness

"In America the President reigns for four years, and Journalism governs forever and ever."

Oscar Wilde

Vice /President Agnew's latest speech has had the predictable reaction: groans from the liberals, catcalls from the students, and pious denials from the media, Indeed, this author, who caught the speech in the television lounge of the University Center, observed that several members of our supposedly enlightened and idealistic generation did not find it necessary to wait until Mr. Agnew had concluded his remarks before attributing to them character-

Just what was Mr. Agnew's crime? Contrary to popular misconception he did NOT advocate any form of government censorship; he made no concrete proposals whatsoever, suggesting that answers should come from the media itself and from the general public. What he did do was to accuse the television media of bias and sensationalism, something which nearly all Americans of all shades of political opinion have done at one time or other in private conversation. Mr. Agnew, however, has had the guts to take a public stand on the issue, something which should have been done years ago.

And the media has yelled foul. How typical! Reporters and commentators, unrestrained in their criticism of others, are nevertheless hypersensitive to criticism of themselves, just as the media barons are understandably squeamish about having public attention focused on the vast power at their disposal.

That the media is powerful cannot be denied, that it is sensationalistic cannot be denied, and that it is biased cannot be denied, although the point bears some illustration of which Mr. Agnew gave quite a bit. Of particular interest was the coverage of the 1968 Democratic Convention, in which film footage of students harassing police was ignored (suppressed?) in favor of footage depicting police clubbing students. On this occasion as well, be it duly noted, people who today criticize Mr. Agnew for making blanket indictments of certain elements of our society were not above making quite a few of their own.

There are of course countless other illustrations which Mr. Agnew could have given. For example:

is there a fair-minded man in this nation who can say that when Barry Goldwater ran for President in 1964 he received fair treatment from any branch of the media? It is not necessary, however, to rehash the Goldwater Campaign when there are equally glaring examples closer to our own time and age group.

Last March, while on the Washington Semester, I attended Young Republican Leadership Training School. The keynote speaker at one afternoon luncheon was Barry Goldwater, The Senator addressed a crowd of over 700 Young Republicans—many college students, nearly all under thirty—and received no fewer than five standing ovations. What network reported this fact? What newspaper printed it? Is it not newsworthy that a nation—wide sampling of our so—called "alienated" youth greeted Barry Goldwater with near—hysterical affection? Apparently not, and we all know why.

Another example: last August over 1,000 members of the Young Americans for Freedom staged a national convention in St. Louis. Speakers included William F. Buckley Jr., Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens, Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr. and Al Capp. How much coverage did they receive? How much coverage would one tenth that number have received if they had occupied a college building?

Up to now I have given examples of how conservatives have been abused by the media but of course while I may feel that the blade is sharper on one side than the other, the sword cuts both ways. During the Washington Semester, our group interviewed Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, who told us an interesting anecdote about television coverage of a public meeting during the Oceanhill-Brownsville dispute. Cameramen made no effort to record the orderly and productive aspects of the meeting until the proceedings were interrupted by two black militants who got up to make demands. The cameramen immediately zoomed in and would have photographed the entire scene had not Mrs. Chisholm and a bevy of outraged women driven them out.

Looking at the situation from both sides, then, as both a liberal and a conservative member of the FCC have done, Mr. Agnew's criticisms make sense. He has not advocated censorship but has rather made an appeal for fairness from the media, an appeal in which all Americans of all persuasions would do well to join.

Beyond Drew's four walls

We sat at dinner last Saturday night making the usual dinner conversation of whether or not to put ketchup on the steak, how greasy the fish was, or how a certain side dish looked like a combination of the main dish of the past three days. But for some odd and mystical reason we actually drifted out of our superfluous discourse, and into a discussion on the existence of God, man's reality, and our faith in ourselves and our fellow man—ir felt good, and I mean it felt really good, to sit and actually have a serious discussion about something besides that which exists within the four walls of our University. I'm not sure just what it is about these one hundred and some-odd acres, but they are probably one of the best insulators from the outside world known to man.

Goings-on in the outside world could be the furthest thing from our mind. I heard many a time from the Coordinators of the October 15 moratorium that "it is really hard to believe the number of students who are so completely withdrawn from goings on out there." And I remember a letter from a fellow student during the summer, and how he was saying that where he was working they liad been getting into some meaningful conversations, and, as he put it, "not the regular diddley stuff of the Drew campus."

People here are more concerned with who's dating who, or which senator is the next to go up for recall and so on. But don't get me wrong-I'm not saying that campus activities aren't important. I stand strongly in favor of full involvement on campus, but not to the exclusion of our eventual environment. As one of our professors put it, "The decisions of the Student Senate aren't going to make a great deal of difference come four years from now."

I guess in the end it all boils down to a little more getting-down -to-earth and letting the other person know just how we feel, what we expect of life, what life expects of us, or just what happens to be going on outside our make-believe world. Who knows---if we start communicating a little more we might spread a small feeling of unity, friendship or understanding throughout the Drew campus.

Store Davi

soaps and Poddless Post

glass candy

"And Such"

candles

Phone 377-7739

72 Main Street, Madison

LOOK INTO CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

DEC. 29 & 30 at Robert Treat Hotel Newark, N.J.

PRIVATE INTERVIEWS
With Leading Jersey Cos.
No Cost or Obligation

Send Coupon For Full Details

