THE DREW ACORN

Vol. XLIII, No. 5

Student Newspaper Of The College

Friday, March 3, 1978

Candidates Discuss Their Proposals

by Sandi Crair

Wednesday, March 8 brings another Wednesday, March 8 brings another sign of spring with the annual election at Drew Student Government Association president and vice-president for 1978-79. Unlike past election, this one is not clear-cut. All the candidates are serious and enthusiastic, and there doesn't seem to be just one outstanding issue to

The first candidacy announced was that of Mark Beckett and Kathy Siebert. Although they have no real working experience in student government, they experience in student government, they stress the importance of having proved themselves in other areas. Beckett is presently a member of Student Concerns Committee. Siebert points out her experience of managing Chorale for three years, giving her communication with the alumni and publicity offices. Beckett says there are "two key words to his campaign: communication and community".

munity"

While neither of them is familiar with the administration, Beckett says he does not consider that a handicap, as he would stress the student end of that relationship. They see the present administration as flexible, concerned, willing to help students and improve Drew, but they point out the need of the Administration to "be shown the right direction." They emphasize the role of SGA as a liaison body between the students and Administration.

They would implement increased communication between the senate and the students, preferably on a "one-to-one the students, preferably on a "one-to-one basis." Beckett and Siebert feel that the existing link between the Senate and the dorm senators is strong. They also feel there is presently "too much inelficiency and over-representation". One idea they have is to decrease the membership of the senate from 33 to 23 by reducing dorm senators from 2 to 1, thereby making the office more competitive. This plan would also involve adding membership out to the himself of the competitive. membership on the living councils to the duties of a senator.

Another major emphasis of their campaign is social life. They want to institute "things that will bring people together." One idea is to present a smaller-scale FAP in the fall, as a way of smaller-scale FAP in the fall, as a way of opening the year and integrating freshmen into the Drew Community.

Concerning pub renovations, Beckett and Siebert stress the necessity of "making it clear to the administration that social life is important here."

Beckett would like to see a study begun on freshmen attrition rates at Drew They think that another way to improve social life is to integrate the Senate and the social committee, especially providing one committee as a purely informational source to "facilitate communication."

munication."
Other issues they would address are academic dishonesty, election statutes, budgeting reform, and furthering use of parliamentary procedure at Senate meetings. In short, Beckett and Siebert see themselves as "innovative blood", able to improve the SGA by communication and life at Drew by communication.

Kathy Slebert and Mark Beckett

Acorn Photo by Glenn Esher

Ken Hill and Jim Magee

Worn Photo by Glenn Esher

Opposing Beckett and Siebert are Jim Magee and Ken Hill. Jim Magee's qualifications for the office of president include experience as director of student security, and his present position of president pro temp of the senate. Hill has no experience in student government, but has served on Baldwin's Living Council and is an active member of Economics Dept. honor society of Economics Dept. honor society (O.D.E.). Magee points out that in winning this election, he would immediately resign from the post of security director.

Magee and Hill feel that they both have a good working relationship with the administration, and are "wellthe administration, and are "well-known and respected" in administrative and faculty circles. Both feel that the and faculty circles. Both feet that the administration is willing to listen and further its communication and coordination with the student body, and they feel that as capable leaders and organizers, they could put that cooperation to better use tion to better use.

A major theme of their campaign is decentralization of SGA power. By spreading power throughout the executive committee, Magee feels he could better utilize student input. As a specific implementation, each week Magee and implementation, each week Magee and Hill would invite eight or 10 students at random to an informal discussion in their suite, as a means of receiving first-hand student opinion, ideas, or complaints. Another method Magee suggested to open up the SGA to students would be to supplement committee appointments by allowing anyone with a serious interest to serve on SGA committees.

on SGA committees.

Magee and Hill also want to use the Acorn as "a forum for constructive ideas, but more importantly as a factual source for letting students know exactly what the SGA is doing at any given moment in any area." They feel a good starting point for this would be to designate to one member of each committee the responsibility to work with the Acorn and other groups to make SGA workings public to the make SGA workings public to the student body.

Social life is also a major concern of Mages and Hill. It elected, they would attempt to promote university-wide coordination of social activities so as to eliminate concurring events and present a more integrated social program. By instituting a system of checks on the progress of committees (academic and social) it would be possible to further this kind of coordination as well as eliminate some bureaucracy, says Magee. Other proposals to improve social life are to extend snack bar hours through the day and coordinate them with pub hours to create a more operative central living council and to help convince the administration of the place of such activities like rugby or the pub along with academics.

Specific areas Magee and Hill intend to address if elected include negotiating a food service proposal to allow students to "run their own system" with their own management, published information on the budget, costs, nutrition and taste considerations, and student participation; getting locks on the inner doors of the suites, and instituting a system whereby typewriters would be available to students to use on would be available to students to use on a reservation basis, in the library or U.C. Magee and Hill are interested in bringing a prospective to SGA of "working support and student participation." Their key words in the election are "working and straightforward", and they would like to make these key SGA terms as well.

Editor's note: As of the time this article went to press, Scott Smith and Kevin Marino had not made their candidacy

Speaker Selection

Don't forget that Graduating Seniors will choose the three candidates for student commencement speaker this Wednesday. Think about that Senior who you think will best represent your class at graduation.

After Dinner

CREATIVE WRITING CONTEST OFFERS CASH AND BOOK PRIZES

Writers: You can win $100, $50; or $25 in cash and book prizes for best short story, humorous essay, or other pieces between 250 and 1000 words with free copy of winning COLLEGE CONTEMPORARIES Magazine for all—if you enter the Collegiate Creative APRIL 25. For rules and official entr form, send self-addressed, stampe envelope to: International Publications, 4747 Fountain Ave. Dept. C-3, 4.os Angeles, CA 90029.

Woodland Tree Company Cleans Up Storm Damages

The Plant Office has hired the Woodland Tree Company to prune trees damaged by ice this winter. Eric Sandberg, Plant Office Manager, says the company has been working on campus for two weeks, adding that "they'll stay for as long as the money holds out."

According to Sandberg, Woodland estimates the tree repairs will cost at least $23,000, and "that's really not doing everything. There's a lot of heritage that goes into this plantation known as the Forest. We'll try to save as many of these old oaks as possible. Luckily, not too many whole trees actually fell, but a lot of the bigger ones Sustained damage."

The plans for cleaning up the fallen branches remain unchanged. The Plant Office hopes to organize people living on campus to pick up the litter, which is on campus to pick up the litter, which is still frozen into the ground, sometime in the early Spring. Sandberg is optimistic "because, after all, we have so many students just dying for a fun day or two."

The wood that is collected will be chopped into firewood and used for the working fireplaces on campus, particularly in dormitory lounges. Faculty who participate will also be allowed to take wood home. The remainder will be chopped into wood chips.

Female Resident Assistants Appointed for 1978-79

Valerie Barrs Diane Bennett Kathleen Block Marita Finsie Ana Maria Garcia Jeanne Lutfy Lori Mack Meredith Murray Wendy Nettleton Karen Oliveto Jan Schwartz Tamar Stone

ALTERNATES Jean Harper Adrienne Holmes JoAnn Keatz Kathleen Keeley

CONGRATULATIONS!

"THE FIRESIDE SERIES" BEGINS MARCH 5

The current trend in education today is toward more and more "compartmen-talization," an isolation of the various talization." an isolation of the various disciplines we study. Colleges are producing fewer graduates who understand the interrelationships in knowledge and the professions; and yet, it is more important now, in our complex society, that we understand the endeavors of one another than ever before.

Therefore, a group of students at Drew has gotten together in an effort to prevent the educational trend of compartmentalization. We have asked help from the faculty and administration and have asked fellow students for support and received a commitment to make and received a commitment to make it work. Together, we have conceived and created an interdisciplinary discussion series called "The Fireside Series." We hope it will give students an awareness of the interrelatedness of knowledge and excite students where classrooms do not.

The first "Fireside" will be held March 5th at 8:00 in the Tolley-Brown lounge. The guest professor is Dr. Niel Riemer who will interrelate the works of the theologian Reinhold Niebuhr and Karl Marx.

Series on Credit for Young Consumers

In more and more cases, consumer credit institutions ranging from banks to department stores are utilizing point scoring. There are purists who insist that point scoring will never replace sensitive, human judgment. Others, like Ted Lewis, vice president of Fair, Isaac & Co., Inc., of San Rafael, Calif., says point scoring is consistent and efficient, it eliminates human error and it saves millions of dollars for consumer credit enterprises.

Fair, Isaac is considered the premiere developer of point scoring systems in America. Among their 200 well-known clients are Montgomery Ward. American Express, National Car Rental, Diners, Carte Blanche, Visa, Master Charge, the Chase Manhattan Bank and Citicorp, New York. The IRS has also Citicorp, New York. The IRS has also been a client. (Says Lewis, "They like to know who's cheating.") A first-year savings of $400 million and a staff reduction of 20 to 30 percent is attributed, in part, to the Fair, Isaac point scoring system developed for the IRS. Lewis says point scoring can save a company from 20 to 45 percent of all its losses on bad debts. That savings is significant, Lewis says, when a major chain store can lose up to $50 million or more annually.

nore annually.

But, Lewis admits, conver point scoring usually is not favorable to young adults: "The 18-year-old age of adulthood came into being only recently. That age factor wasn't part of point scoring systems when they were first developed," he says.

National Car Rental uses a "point scoring system" to help pinpoint potential credit risks. Matt Waters, National's disease of gradit point suit that coint tial credit risks. Matt Waters, National's director of credit, points out that point scoring, however, is not the sole source of decision-making. He says National has invited the creators of its point scoring system to carefully re-evaluate its fairness to young people. National's credit card manager/Connie Conradi says that while job tenure may be desirable for most established people, young adults must be evaluated on other factors: "We know, for example, that a person who applies for a National Car Rental card within five months of starting a job probably needs the card in connection with his job. As a result, the person who has only been on the job a connection with his job. As a result, the person who has only been on the job a short time is often an excellent risk. Perhaps that person started as an administrative assistant and now has moved up to district manager of a whole region. We have to be aware of a young person's upward mobility. We've taken pains to make sure our credit rating person's upward mobility. We ve taken pains to make sure our credit rating system is fair to them," It is useful, also, to employ young credit analysts, says Conradi. Among six credit analysts on her staff, four are under age 25.

Although every point scoring system is specially tailored for each client based on that form' credit bitters, there are some general criteria that usually figure into a point scoring appraisal. Routine-ly, high (or good) ratings are given to people who have a home phone, own rather than rent, live at the same address rather than rent, live at the same address for several years, have checking and savings accounts, and who hold professional and supervisory jobs. While age may not always be a factor (indeed it may be obliterated by interpretations of the new Equal Credit Opportunity Act), it may still be found on a number of the older point scoring scoring systems that treat young adults more fairly. Montgomery Ward already has a point scoring system, along with about two dozen other systems tailored developing special scoring systems for any group left out of the credit picture," Lewis says. "After all, lenders make money by lending ... not by keeping cash in the bank." Lewis says that cash in the bank." Lewis says that although separate scoring systems for men and women might permit women to fare better, anti-discrimination requirements cited by the Equal Credit Opportunity Act may not permit that. "That would be ironic, wouldn't it?" Lewis thought out loud: "In the case of young people, however, I'll bet the government will permit point scoring to be developed to benefit them." Lewis says his firm has not been commissioned to develop a point scoring system for young consumers yet, but he missioned to develop a point scoring system for young consumers yet, but he expects to begin collecting data soon.

"I'll probably get together a bunch of high school and college kids and find out what they think is fair." Lewis said.
"I have real faith in young people. I had a buddy running a major loan company in central California years ago who didn't care what age a person was. If a in central California years ago who didn't care what age a person was. If a 15-year-old kid came in and said he had a paper route and wanted to buy a bike with his earnings, my pal would usually bet on that kid. He rarely lost a penny on a person like that because he had a wonderful sense about people. He'd look that kid straight in the eye and ask. 'Well, are you going to pay this loan back?' The kid's answer would be HIS answer. As sophisticated as we become in this credit business, the human element is still the most important

OPPORTUNITY Earn extra income School bus driving Flexible hours No experience required Company benefits CALL (201) 227-310

KEVAH KONNER INC

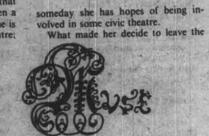

Profile: The Many Performances of Jane Coil-Cole

have witnessed her rémarkable memory, a product perhaps of hours spent memorizing scripts. On the first day of class she asks each person his or her name and repeats it. When she gets to the last student, she quickly rattles off all the correct names. She does this in an attempt to get everyone acquainted and to establish a comfortable environment.

As a theatre major in college, Ms. Cole was involved in a variety of skits and plays. "But I haven't done that lately," she said, "my life has taken a different turn." For the moment she is satisfied with just attending the theatre;

Friday, March 3, 1978

Jane Coll-Cole

The Nutritionalist Manifesto

by MSG

A spectre is haunting Drew — the spectre of Nutritionalsim. All the Powers of Woods have entered into an Alliance to exorcise this spectre: chefs and bakers, managers and directors.

It is high time that Nutritionalists should openly, in the face of the whole school, publish their views, their aims and meet this nursery tale of the Spectre of Nutritionalism with a Manifesto of the movement itself.

The history of all hitherto existing Drew society is the history of nutritional struggles.

struggles.

The modern Drew society that has sprouted from the generosity of Daniel Drew has not done away with nutritional antagonisms. It has but established new institutions, new conditions of nutritional privations, new forms of struggle in place of the old possesses however this distinctive feature: it has simplified the nutritional struggles. Drew as a whole is more and more splitting up into two great camps, two great groups directly lacing each other: the student body and Woods.

Our epoch, the epoch of Woods.

The old system of cooking, under which food production was monopolized by the University Commons, no longer sufficed for the growing wants of Drew. The Woods system took its place. However, the productive forces at the disposal of Woods no longer tend to disposal of Woods no longer tend to further the conditions of student health: on the contrary, they have become too powerful for these conditions, by which they are fettered, and as soon as they overcome, these fetters they bring disorder into the whole of Drewsoeiety endangering Drew's health.

Consequently, Woods is unfit to cook because it is unable to assure a happy existence to its students, because it cannot help letting students sink into observations of an "amazing and un-usual" hair cutting contest. Her greatest writing interest, however, lies in poetry. She has taught a January course on twentieth century American poets, she ilso writes lyric poetry and gives poetry readings.

Ms. Cole's interest in the arts go beyond her involvement in the theatre and poetry. She has also studied ballet, the piano, and believe it or not—the encourage poise and grace," and found it to be helpful in her theatre ex-periences. She has studied the piano for periences. She has studied the piano for 17 years and finds playing it a relaxing activity. Knowing how to play the piano helped her in learning the harp because, she said, "they are very similar." She did have some trouble with the harp, however, because her short arms made it difficult to handle. "I was never incredibly proficient, but I think I can play something," she said. "Isn't that angelie?"

hough she is interested in "t entirely devoted to teaching. She enjoys meeting students, and through English I she comes in contact with one fourth of all freshmen classes.

As a performance criented person, the possibility of Jane Cole being a judge for Drew's up-coming Gong Show is fitting. She believes it will be an experience filled with fun and laughter. "Everyone needs humor to survive." she said.

Instead of being a judge for the show, it might be more interesting if she could be a contestant. After all, how many angelic, dancing, piano-playing poets do you know? Chances are she wouldn't get content. ouldn't get gonged.

stage? "I really wanted to write." she said. She is currently working on a humorous cultural essay involving her such a state, and must feed students instead of being fed by students. Drew society can no longer live under Woods, in other words, its existence is no longer compatible with Drew's.

We wish, therefore, to raise the student body to the position of the wellfed. Of course, in the beginning, this cannot be effected except by means of determined inroads on the rights of Woods, and on the conditions of food production; by means of measures that are unavoidable as a means of entirely revolutionizing the mode of food production. The following measures are applicable:

applicable:

1. Abolition of unacceptable foods suchas: bean casseroles that look like golf divots, salad dressing that looks like it was manufactured at Du Pont, chicken hat fights back as you swallow, and so on.

2. Confiscation of recipes of the above.

3. Centralization of the means of food production in the bands of able chefs.

4. Free Alka-seltzer until these measures are enacted.

The Nutritionalists will never cease.

The Nutritionalists will never cease, for a single instant, to instill into the eating class the clearest possible recognition of the irreconcilable an-

Student body.

The Nutritionalists disdain to conceal their views and aims. Let the chefs tremble at the Nutritionalist surprising. Our stomachs have nothing to lose but their aches. We have a menu to win. NUTRITIONALISTS OF ALL GRADES, UNITE!

The Senior Class Semi - Formal Scheduled for this has been Re- Schedualed April 15

A Dip Into Nostalgia

Oh, Drew 1928-72

Here is Drew back through the years. In the dismal ages when you folks 1928-29. Ford sinks in Tipple Pond.

1928-29. Ford sinks in Tipple Pond.
Fox terrieress almost becomes first coed. First hazing committee elected.
Students want "radical changes" - make worship more helpful.

The Thirties - "Campus Gay With Holiday Programs" Acorn headline.
Desperate students dream up tunnel to St. E's. Drew celebrates 39 Peace Day.
Students prefer Toscanini to Dorsey.
Ruppert Hall to replace "decrepit Asbury Hall." Acorn first paper to interview Miss America-1938.

The Fourties - Strict rationing and

The Fourties - Strict rationing and ersatz coffee begin-1941. Nora Mickefirst coed-'42. Coeds outnumber males in '45. Complaints arise over brutal hazing ceremonies. Julius "Maestro" arrives.

The Fifties - Esquire comes looking for calendar girl - departs unsatisfied. Chem. Dept. on t.v.-52. Acord denounces squirrels for dropping nuts on students' heads. B-ball goes 1-24 over 1960 - "What can you do with a Drew. education?" headline: girl graduate finds position on Japanese basketball team. Chorus girls do "bump." Students stage hoax murder. Gastrie disorder cripples campus.

61 - Students demonstrate in front of Prez's house over lack of communica-

in London

by Chuck Redfern

Redfern Speaks

Bob Goggins Returns—

A Lonely American Student

From Oxford

If you look back into the dim past of days of yore, you'll remember this column used to be mildly interesting.

Alas, the days of yore are gone, and now "Redfern Speaks" has become dull. I don't regret this because dullness sometimes is a criterion for getting into high places. If you don't believe me, take a look at the members of our university's

Now that we're agreed, let's squeeze our memories once more and look into our memories once more and look into last year's column. You'll remember that, during the first semester at least. I followed the life of a sophomore named Bob Goggins and how such hooligans as faculty members would manage to screw up his life. In the second semester I stopped following Bob. You see, this used to be a satire column and the incidents in Bob's life were quite amusing, but they were nowhere near as hilarious as some of the actions Hardin used to pull. Thus, our president had the dubious honor of replacing Bob Goggins as the main character of "Redfern Speaks." But meanwhile, the populace of Drew was left wondering where poor Bob had gone. How was he doing? Had he tripped over anything lately? Had he (this was the dread fear) dropped out of school?

dropped out of school?

Well, let me calm your fears. Bob Goggins is alive and well and kicking in England. Like me, he thought getting away from Drew for a year would be a marvellous idea. Both of us are spending our junior-year abroad and revelling in the fact that we only have to write essays on. Indira lectures on Indian democracy.

'62 - Best male legs contest. Infirmary arouses students' disgust.

'63 - Drew smered in t.v. College Bowl Campus Civil Rights demonstrations highlighted by Dr.

King's visit.
'64 - "Mrs." George Davis promoted.
"Teach-in" attacks Vietnam War - way to go Dr. Bick. Students join protest march in D.C.

'65 - Drew professor's Marxist antiwar remarks irk administration.
Academic freedom debate aroused by his dismissal. Locals think Drew Commie hotbed. Vietnam fast held. Von der Heide gives first interview on the educated elite in society - Acora sentences him to 12½ years of rejection for dullness.

student views. Acorn columnist asks why so few students have heard of Bilbo Baggins.

'67 - Panty Raid gets mixed support.
Blacks protest "tasteless" black-face minstrel show. Soc. Com. chairman apologizes and resigns. Draft cards turned in. Warhol stuns Drew.

'68 - Frank Zappa and the Modison walk out on Drew audience. Madison evicts hippies: townies attack protesting Druids. Miss Drew contest is hig social event. Girls protest women's outdated English teach) and practice our cockney was alive and well? Yes, Bob is alive, but I think I'll have to take that second characteristic back. Let me explain. One characteristic back. Let me explain. One typically bleak, soggy, mundane, depressing, boring English day. I heard a knock at my door. "Wonder who that is?" I thought. Then, as if by revelation. I knew that it would be a good idea to answer it if I wanted to find out.

When, I opened the door there was Bob, dressed in a tweed cap, scarf, jeans, and runny nose. "Nobody loves me," was the first thing he said. He entered the house and I guided him to my room. Once there, he flung the cap to a hook and missed it by a mile. He then plopped himself into a chair.

himself into a chair.

I decided to brighten up his day: "I love you, Bob."

"No, I meant someone important."

"Oh." I said, consolingly.

We sat there for the longest time. The only sound was the calm hum of a train passing just outside the house I live in. Bob seemed to be in a reminiscent mood, probably thinking of the sweet mood, probably thinking of the sweet face of Dean Sawin or the clear, concise discourse of Paul Hardin. Finally he spoke:

"Do you realize I haven't got a letter since the year eight B.C.?"
"Gee," I joked: "You seem to have established a record for longevity!"
Bob didn't even bother to give me a dirty look. He just went on: "Whatever happened to Joanne? To Cathy? To Michael?..." He went on listing names of people he'd written to at Drew. All seemed to have abandoned Boh. I curfew hours. Iron Butterfly arrives 3½ hours late: Drew sues. Druids busted on exam week.

'69 - Moratorium goes big but Madison peace march fizzles. Strom Thurmond jeered as bigot. Druids petition for alcohol rights. SGA president narrowly escapes public censure. Acorn "discovers" Igor Oxnam - twin brother of Prez.

'70 - Drug crackdowns threatened by Madison coppers, Acorn editor sets up 70 - Drug crackdowns threatened by Madison coppers, Acorn editor sets up government in exile.

71 - Allman Brothers concert fails - Druids didn't know who they were. Abbie Hoffman speech puts Drew in spotlight. Acorn co-editor resigns calling paper a "one-sided propaganda sheet of worn radical dogma." Sit-in projects suspension of students after heroin bust. Acorn editor arrested for marijuana possession. Baldwin secedes from Drew and sets up enlightened despotism.

despotism.

'72 - Student advocates boycott of "anti-semetic" English classes reading Trollope. Hemingway and Pound.
Students botch mandatory meal plan protest. Soc. Com. chairman resigns because of student apathy.

Yes, this school is mighty screwy. From way, way back - before Tom

All your gripes have been griped But such as you are: you'll gripe all the · como bamboo curtain.

PUNDRE

Talk about cruel punishment. The most in human activity I know of was exceptionally crewel by a stitch witch.

Some equipment rental centers will rent most anything and some cleaning shops follow suit by renting almost proceedings.

Dry wines can be polarized. If it dries down "it's good to the last drop." If it dries up? Well just try another drink one that won't go out the top of your drunk.

Why do I write such stuff? When we, persons in general, were small we played on the floor. Somewhat older people play on/in fields and some have even been prone to play on couches, beds or what have you. I, being addicted to TOPONYMIC PSEUDETYMOLOGY, play on words.

There is an ongoing search for the biological clock — how do lower lifeforms tell time? Right here in New Jersey we have such a potential. In a northern sector of the states there is a much disputed use of Tock Island. In the southern section, like thousands of acres of pine barrens, there are trillions of insects. Get the two areas together and we'll have an unlimited source of TICK TOCKS.

· more.

nquiring Reporter

Mindy Taubel (Soph) Not as much as Beth (Fr) It's a shame they all peaked at

Nora McMahon(Jr) Very predictable. I wish there were more like Billy with his eye.

Wendy Levine (Fr) They're coming and going and going and coming and always too soon.

Elsa Phin (jr) I'm glad I'm a lacrosse player, it gives me something to play with Carolyn Horton (Sr) They'd be great if half of them weren't under 5'6".

The Women's Club: If they measure up, send them up.

Anne Kinnaman (Sr) How would I know? They're too scared to approach me.

Cathy Vlozas (Sr) Undersexed, undersized and underdeveloped.

Q: What do you think of Drew men?

Margaret Baxter (Jr) 1 don't. Lisa Clare (Sr) Lovely friends but lousy lovers.

Laura Becker (Soph) It's not the men in my life, it's the life in my men.

Margie Nance (Fr) I hear there's a club for them on campus but I don't know who could possibly qualify.

Jeanne Lutfy (Jr) As soon as I can separate the men from the boys I'll let you know.

Lyn & Ana (Sr & Jr) Why waste your time thinking about something that doesn't exist?

Melissa Friedman (Soph) They're not exactly what I had in mind but I can't transfer again.

Diamond Lil (fr) F-'em and forget'em.

Ellie McGarry (Jr) I think the guy with the active right hand is a jerk-off.

Sam Mayer (Sr) When they're number two they have to try harder.

Holography: What Is It?

When Sue Schenk graduated from Drew University last May, she had no idea that, within three months, she'd be the assistant director of the Museum of Holography in New York City—the only museum of its kind in the world.

Holography is the process by which holograms are made. Holograms are pieces of film which record the "interference pattern" resulting from a subject illuminated by a split laser beam. Shining either laser or normal white light through the hologram at a certain angle produces a three-dimensional image of the original subject—an image which resembles the original in every detail.

The Museum of Holography, located at 11 Mercer St., Soho, displays holograms made by holographers worldwide. "Holographers from France, Amsterdam, and Japan, as well as the United, States, have contributed to the exhibit we now have on display."

to the exhibit we now have on display, says Sue.

The current exhibition (christened the 'holofame' by Abe Beame) highlights holographic film strips of fathous New Yorkers. By walking around a hemispherical hologram, the viewer sees Andy Warhol reading a magazine, Pete Hamill of the New York Daily News.

CONGRESS DEBATES TUITION TAX CREDIT BILL

(CPS)—Washington insiders say this will be the year middle-income families can expect some relief from high tuition costs. But not without a highly charged costs. But not without a highly charged fight in Congress.

Friday, March 3, 1978

The current Tuition Tax Credit Bill now in the Senate Finance Committee would allow for a tax reduction up to $500 per student at any education level. The bill sponsored by Senators Moynihan (D-NY) and Packwood (R-Ore) plus 41 Senate co-signers, includes private and parochial schools. The concept of a tax credit is aimed at relieving the financial strain on middle income families who don't qualify for financial aid but are hard-pressed to meet college costs.

financial aid but are hard-pressed to meet college costs.

Similar bills have sailed through the Senate only to be torn apart in the House. Last month final passage of a Social Security financing bill was held up for two weeks because of a tuition tax credit amendment attached to it. The impasse in the House was solved when the Senate backed down after previously voting for the amendment, sponsored ly voting for the amendment, sponsored by Senator Roth (R-Del). The Senate took up the issue again in January by introducing no less than seven bills dealing with tax credits. The most likely to succeed are the Packwood-Moynihan version and a deferred tax plan introduced by Senator Mikva (D-III), which has found a measure of acceptance with House conferees. Mikva's plan would permit a parent or self-supporting student to measure of acceptance with House conferees. Mikva's plan would permit a parent or self-supporting student to withhold payment of up to $1,500 in taxes until after the student graduates. The Mikva plan would operate like a loan with little or no interest owed and a repayment period of ten years.

Lon Skavedra, aide to Congress-woman Patricia Schroeder (D-Colo), believes the version presented for a winning House vote will be a combination of the two. As it stands now however alot of compromise will have to be effected to overcome opposition.

The most articulate expression of dissent outside of Congress comes from the National Student Association and National Student Lobby (NSA and NSL). Countering Senator Roths' prophecy that "Soon we will have two groups of our society left in colleges, the very poor and the very rich," the NSA-NSL stressed the inefficiency of across the board tax credits in a Memorandum in Opposition sent to members of Congress. Such a plan would be used by the more affluent who don't need it costing the government needed revenue.

The NSA-NSL believes tax credits

The NSA-NSL believes tax credits would create incentive for institutions to increase tuition. They quote a Con-gressional Budget Office (CBO) study are more likely to increase in response to a broad across-the-board subsidy like that contained in S.311 (Roth Amend-that contained in S.311 (Roth Amendment) than they are when a subsidy is targeted on a more narrowly defined group of students..."

Part-time students would be ineligible for the credit unless the bills under consideration are amended. Almost 39 percent of total degree-credit enrollment were part-time students in 1976. A noticeable portion of college enrollment would be unaffected.

Tax credits would further add to the complexity of federal expenditures for education. The 1RS would be put in a position of policing educational institutions to determine if their courses meet the necessary requirements for the credits. The NSA-NSL along with the American Teachers Federation support the expansion of existing student aid programs to serve middle-income families.

The Packwood-Moynihan bill has

The Packwood-Moynihan bill has The Packwood-Moynihan bill has already come under sharp criticism involving the constitutionality of providing a tax break to parents of students in parochial schools. The Supreme Court has interpreted the First Amendment clause "Congress shall make no law respecting establishment of religion" to mean that literally.

Senator Moynihan thinks the Supreme Court interpretation is wrong and is fighting for inclusion of religious institutions on that point. He argues that the founding fathers meant to protect against the founding of a national religion favored above others rather than government aid to churches. Aid to private schools is another sore point with opponents. Moynihan states that they should be helped because they "... provide diversity to the society

"... provide diversity to the society choices to students and their parents and a rich array of distinctive educational offerings that even the finest of public institutions find difficult to supply not least because they are public and must embody generalized Moynihan didn't elaborate on was the mediocrity and poverty which have become features of public education in the US. Members of the Senate Finance Committee will invariably guestion whether public money should help finance the few so they can continue to benefit from "the rich array of distincbenefit from "the rich array of distinctive educational offerings" of private schools while Cleveland students took a two month Christmas vacation because the Cleveland Board of Education

The McClintock Men's Club

Designed in Irish Pub tradition by co-founders Liom O'Hoofawitz and John O' Deane, the Men's Club is the newest club on campus. In fact, neither E.C.A.B. nor the U.C. Board have E.C.A.B. nor the U.C. Board have approved funding for this new organization as yet. At present, all Men's Club functions are funded by its members, the men. Originally the founders kept the membership limited to rugby players, believing that non-ruggers were, in effect, women. Due to the efforts of Mr. Fic, many non-ruggers were able to join, after proving their manhood. The many functions of the Men's Club include: Sunday night dart competition (with Michelob on tap), Monday night poker games (with Bud on tap). Tuesday night porno flicks (with Pabst on tap), Wednesday night drinking contests (with Molson on tap). Thursday night general brew-ha-ha with Red tending the bar, Friday post-pubbash, Saturday morning chugging bash, Saturday morning chugging contests, Saturday afternoon puking contests, and of course, the highlight of the week, brewing straight through Sunday's dawn. The Club's toilets do ATTENTION: Faculty and Student Reading Hear your professors read from their own fiction. Features Robert Chapman, Jane Coil Cole and Robert Ready. Tuesday, March 7, 7:15 p.m. Founders room, Mead Hall. refreshments will be served.

There is presently talk of an ultimate bash, Heineken and Guiness on tap with shots of Cuervo Gold. At mid-tave the highlights of the 1967 Cardinal baseball season will be played at 78 rpm's. Odds will be taken on how many men will see God. Stephen is warned to keep his hands off any hot potatoes on this Present officers include: King Mazo.

Queen Hoofa, President Mr. Mystique.
Treasurer Mr. Fic. and of course, the Club's resident drunks, John Gilrain, Joe Walsh, and the Bear.

The club boasts of thirty members and they are presently searching far and wide on the Drew campus for more men. However, standards are strict. No cretins are allowed, no women (male or female). No nerds, smirking wiesels, pinyods, pards, pittyits, numbskulls, female). No nerds, smirking wiesels, nimrods, nords, nitwits, numbskulls, nincompoops, or non-alcoholics. Applications with resume of drinking feats should be sent to box #463 campus mail. Under certain circumstances, members are allowed to bring a female guest. However, they must be tied and guest. However, they must be tied and gagged.

Last weekend, a drinking team composed of Men's Club members; Mr. Mazo, Mark Andrews, Joe Walsh, Rocky, and The Bierut Bomber, won the Olympic Beer Drinking Contest at F.D.U.'s annual No-talent Contest. They totally annihilated the F.D.U. ruggers, as they literally inhaled their brew, as if it were air.

Presently, the men are busy finishing their bar and guzzling some fuel as they talk of plans; for a new outdoor wing. "Hey, Red, fill'er up!" Possibly, some barbecues with some baked Idaho spuds will be in order for the warm weather.

Conference for Undergrads

An undergraduate Psychology Con-ference will be held at Caldwell College April 15. Undergraduates are encouraged to submit papers in any area of the Psychology of Women and/or-sex roles by March 15.

March 15. The conference will provide a forum for undergraduate students to discuss future directions in psychology. Case study, theoretical, experimental and study, theoretical, experimental and review papers should be mailed to: Sandra Lee or Dr. Marie Kaminski. Caldwell College, Caldwell, N.J. 07006. Participants will be notified by April 5. For further information, call

(201) 228-4424. Psychology Depart-

BLOOD DRIVE

This semester's Blood Drive will be held on Monday. March 6 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 107 of the University Center. It cannot be overstressed the importance and need of every donation made. Anyone wishing to help may see Shari Tenca either beforehand or at the

Sponsored by Circle K through the American Red Cross

LOST

Book about George Grosz's po-litical cartoons from the Weimar period.

Please return to John Vonder Heide as soon as possible.

STORAGE SPACE WANTED space for a roomful of fu including piano. Must ha arly constant temperature to protection. Call Lynn Luderer, Development Office, ext. 230.

EDITORIAL SGA Election: A Close Race

If the academic year 1978-79 goes down in campus history, it might be because there was fi-nally an SGA election in which one strong ticket was not opposed by a hamster. The fact is, the editorial board of the Acorn believes two of the three pairs of candidates are equally strong, sincere, and qualified to lead the student senate and serve as liaisons between students and administration.

The second of th

Beckett-Siebert and Magee-Hill have many of the same goals. Both propose restructuring the sen-ate, making the social life more social, and improving communication between SGA and students.

Beckett's and Siebert's strength lies in their plans to reorganize student government. Cutting the number of senators from the current 33 to 23 just might glean out the hard workers from the well of garrulous students whose chief interest is to hear themselves orate eloquently. Beckett and Siebert also propose eliminating the "dead wood" committees so that issues can be addressed directly at senate meetings. Many of the research and information-gathering tasks currently delegated to SGA committees would rest with ad hoc committees composed of senators and interested students-atlarge. We also favor the proposal of Beckett and Siebert to strengthen the role of dorm living councils in planning social events.

Magee's and Hill's strength lies in their fresh, sincere approach for improving communication between SGA and students by inviting a group of students to their suite each week to informally discuss what's on their minds. We believe this attitude would help dissolve the cliquish aura which over the years has made SGA distasteful to many stu-dents. This openness could have wider implica-tions, namely, if student leaders show they care about students, students might feel better about Drew. We share Magee's and Hill's advocacy of a permanent social director to help students more efficiently coordinate social events.

Our one reservation about this ticket is that Jim's basketball and Ken's lacrosse is likely to im-

THE DREW ACORN

The Drew Acorn is published weekly during the school year except on or near school holidays. The paper is free to the Drew Community; outside subscriptions cost $5 per semester. All correspondence should be sent to The Drew Acorn.

Drew University, Madison, N.J. 07940.

The Acorn is published by the College of Liberal Arts. The University does not exercise any form of censorship over the paper's content and is not responsible

Elaine Davies

News Editor

Michael Pollack

Sports Editor

Penny Dagget

Gail Gardner

Lavout Editor

Copy Editor

Deborah Riviere

Circulation Manager

pinge upon their very time consuming responsibili-

All four of these candidates are juniors. Short of Beckett's position on the Student Concerns Committee and Magee's post as senator from Mc-Clintock and speaker pro temp in the senate, the candidates have limited experience with student government. But we do not regard this as a weak point since each student has been involved with various organizations on campus; attended senate meetings; and expressed realistic understanding of the responsibilities, rewards, and excruciating anxieties that accompany the jobs of SGA president and vice-president.

We've presented our views. Agree or disagree but, get out and vote.

leditors ===

Magee and Hill Announce Candidacy

We would like to officially announ our candidacy for the positions of SGA President and Vice-President. Our goal is to pursue some of the fine work that John Hambright and Margaret Baxter have begun as well as to institute some new alternatives to make the SGA a more effective, more efficiently organization. We are a ticket with a olicy of openness and honesty.

One program that we would like to pursue is a weekly, random selection of 6 or 7 students to sit down informally with the SGA President and discuss some of their gripes and suggestions. These suggestions could then be relayed to the administration or the Student Senate to take appropriate action.

Another change that we would like to see is the distribution of the workload more evenly through the Senate and the committees. This policy would ease some of the workload of the President, it would give more individuals some say in the development of ideas, and it would allow a lot more work to be done. The committees and the President could work at the same time on different topics and the President could coordinate all the separate activities so that more can be done. In order to insure that the work would be done, we would like to establish committee deadlines on problem issues. This would reduce the reaucratic lag present in the existing

If elected, we would like to see the Acorn used not as a soundingboard for

SGA personality clashes but as a forum for summaries of every committee's weekly activities and upcoming issues. The committees themselves would be responsible for these reports. We feel that this suggestion would spark student interest and make committee production or the lack of it known throughout the Drew Community.

This is just a short list of some general This is just a short list of some general policy positions that we have discussed and we have a long list of specific issues that we will pursue with the same vigor and interest. Just a few of those "small" things that we would like to see done are: free access to typewriters for the students, a vacuum cleaner in the dorms that don't have them and a Pub. that don't have them, and a Pub alternative. The small things that touch the students every day and a lot of small changes can be a big help.

we make only one promise: to work as hard as is humanly possible to upgrade life on this campus. We simply feel that a hard, honestly working student organization can make giant steps toward improving student life.

Finally, we wish our opponents in the upcoming election the best of luck and the would like to urge the Drew we would like to urge the Drew Community to vote on March 8th. and to send any questions to Campus Mail, Box # 1093 or to come to McClintock 33 to discuss anything, anytime.

Jim Magee, President Pro Tempore

Candidate for SGA President Ken Hill, Candidate for SGA Vice Pres

Beckett-Siebert Platform

To the members of the Drew communi-

We would like to elaborate on the goals which we put forward in the letter announcing our candidacies on February 10. It is necessary to focus on the methods we hope to use in order to chieve these goals.

No one needs to be told that the social life is viewed as a problem on this campus. In the past, this problem seems to have stemmed from the lack of cooperation between the social committee and other student organizations, especially the S.G.A. This gap in cation has not been the group, but it seems to have been a problem over a period of several years. There are two things which might help alleviate this situation:

1. There should be an individual appointed to serve as a liaison between the social committee and the dorm living councils, and

2. The social committee should make weekly reports to the S.G.A. Our goal is to change the perspective of the social committee. We feel that the social committee should plan events that are more community-oriented. It is not enough simply to bring large numbers of people together in one place; this does not necessarily mean that they will relate to each other as people. Concerts are not enough. The success of the recent Welch-Holloway after-pub parties indicates that dorm living councils can take an increasingly activ role in innovative social-life pla

One way to re-order the social life with a new perspective might be to plan a big fall event, not unlike F.A.P. in the spring, which would be jointly sponsored by the social committee along with other campus organizations. Such an event would begin to set a mood of integrate the incoming freshmen into Another possibility that has been suggested many times and deserves serious study is the creation of an alternative to the pub. Considering the amount of popular sentiment that this idea has generated, it should be the responsibility of the S.G.A. to look into the feasibility of such a project.

Friday, March 3, 1978

It is also no secret that the structures of student government are in need of change. We need a structure which nhances S.G.A.'s responsiveness and eases its ability to take effective and

There are many ways in which the government can be improved. First, we can increase the efficiency of the senate by re-organizing its internal structure. We can achieve this in four ways:

1. Cutting total membership of the senate from 33 to 23. This total can be alized if each dorm elects one, rather than two, representatives to the senate.

2. Holding weekly meetings, rather than the current bi-weekly system.

3. The senate should adopt its own set of rules which will establish permanent procedures (among other things, these rules should establish voting procedure, debate limits, and strict adherence to

To the Drew Community:

I declare myself to be a candidate for SGA President. I would like to nominate Paul Schultz as my Vice-

I admit from the start that I am not very enthusiastic about my efforts to become president. I really don't want to be SGA president, but I feel compelled to run from the office just the same, I am sure my opponents will be quick to misinterpret my minimal aspirations.

misinterpret my minimal aspirations.

This, they may say, is a reason not to vote for me. In fact, this is the very reason why you should vote for me.

I am running for SGA president because I am willing to propose innovative and imaginative programs, the likes of which the Drew Community has never seen. I list my programs in memory of Democracy; I list them for all the world to see; I list them in the names of Woodrow Wilson. Hunter Thompson and Yossarian. My FOUR-TEEN POINTS.

ANNEXATION OF THE

SEXUALLY INTEGRATED DOR-

TOTAL SUPPORT OF THE

ELIMINATION OF ALL SGA

SGA LEGISLATION BY

CUT IN STUDENT ACTIVITIES

SGA MEETINGS TO BE HELD IN

THE COMMONS AT DINNER

FREE BUS TO AND FROM NYC

ACTIVETRACKING DOWN AND

EVERY SATURDAY

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS

Presidential candidate.

TEEN POINTS:

MITORIES

SUDETENLAND

NO FREE LUNCH

COMMITTEES

Smith and Schultz Announce Candidacy

 A special senate investigatory and study group should be created in order to increase the amount of information available to the senate and aid in the sion-making process.

In addition to these measures, dorm senators should be members of their dorm living council. This would help to insure that dorm representatives remain responsive to their constituencies, and hopefully help the senate as a whole to keep in touch with the entire communi-

Aside from these major points dealing with the social life and re-organization of the S.G.A., the senate should turn its attention to the problem of academic dishonesty, a revision of the election statutes and better S.G.A. budgetary lotment procedures.

What we have mentioned above are some concrete suggestions to help remove the stumbling blocks that now stand in the way of effective govern-ment. Naturally, it is not enough that procedures and structures be imp if the people who work within them cannot work together. We must realize progress. It is here that strong executive leadership can play its most important role. We perceive the function of leadership at Drew as two-fold: first. leaders must determine clear goals which will lead to the realization of the greatest possible benefits for all of the people whom they represent. Second they must possess the qualities of discipline and patience which will enable them to encourage the develop ment of cooperation between all of the student organizations which serve the University. This is the only way that concepts of the imagination become practical realities that can be helpful to everyone on this campus. We believe that we have what it takes to start the

Mark Beckett

Those of us who are women are offended by the idea that a few rude and ignorant individuals could hope to evaluate all of us in a few crude words. But it really doesn't matter all that much what the question is: Ms. Herrmann could have asked for opinions on men. blacks, or Catholics, and the intent implications, and results would have been no different. Created by simplicity and misunderstanding, the question and answers demonstrate vulgarity and ig-

In the end, we hope the Acorn will rise above the immaturity and in-nocuousness evidenced by the give us all a little more of the respect and leration we deserve.

Beth Greenfield, Susan Kay Smith, Joanne Moskowitz, Patricia A. Breen. Ruth Simon, William P. Kovacsik. Sharon Dobrina, Barbara Newman. Cynthia D. Shogan, Peggy Wood Steven P. Arountz, Jr., Eric B.

P.S. We have a few suggestions for "What do you think of Drew men. blacks. Jews, left-handed people. Italians, blue-eyed people, whites.

These are all equally ridiculous and should fit right in.

Scott Smith ABOUT GAYS

Women Respond To Inquiring Reporter

TO: the Drew community. the Acorn, and Martha Herrmann the Inquiring Reporter

LIQUIDATION OF NARCS

What are the ideas of my opponents? Are they bigger than a breadbox? Will we ever know?

The FACT is that unless the disgruntled voter goes to the polls and votes for me, another set of innocuous, no-taste candidates will be installed in

So you see, dear voter, I go into this you do yourself. If you care, I will care. But if you don't care, neither will your SGA president, no matter who he is.

campaign with as much enth

HOT WATER

At first, we tried to react with humor. hoping that insult and inanity were meant in humor. Then, we became confused: why were seemingly goodnatured jibes and taunts born of such anger and frustration? Now, though, we have but one reaction; we respond with have but one reaction: we respond with real anger to immaturity, ridiculousness and offensiveness.

We are referring to the "Inquiring Reporter" column of Friday, February long and arduous process of setting positive change in motion. That's why we once again ask for your support.

(candidate for SGA president)

Kathy Siebert (candidate for SGA vice-president)

MORE INFO

To the Drew Community In response to the article appearing in last week's Acorn, "Dispel Fear of Gays." I'd like to take this opportunity to provide some information that other gays on campus may not know about. There is a Gay Activist Alliance chapter-in Morristown. It has meetings every Monday night at 8:30 at the Unitarian Fellowship on Normandy Heights Rd. The members ask for donations at the door, but they only request $1.00 from students. If anyone is interested in becoming a full-time member, there is an annual fee of $10.00. The Gay Hot Line phone numbers are 691-0388 and 691-8334. This service is provided by the

The members of the Alliance 24. written by Martha Herrmann with the help of some true Drew intellectuals.

The question asked, "What do you think the details are possible. At the meeting I attended, they presented as a speaker a The question asked. "What do you think of Drew women?" is in itself the depths of humiliation and disrespect for allinvolved: the questioner, the respon-dants, and the subjects of the question. across the country since last June, when compelled to remain anonymous.

PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PA

"Student Power"

Next Wednesday we all have the opportunity to "get involved." Please, show your collective support of the power and voice of the student hody by voting in the Presidential election.

Things are definitely changing at Drew (not to mention around the world). Take an objective look at the direction we have taken over the last several years, then take a look at the 50's and 60's. Where do we stand and where are we headed in 1978? Some of it is promising and some of it is shocking.

Choose the direction you want to take and then vote for the candidates who best represent your own thoughts and feelings. Educate yourselves to what is going on and to what the candidates are saying. As the years go on, you will be ones who make or break Drew. Think about it.

"Student Government"

I'll be the first to admit that Drew's student government is not the best organization in the world, but it certainly is effective and it does accomplish a lot. It is also true that many student government projects are not totally visible because only several major projects are completed annually. This is due to the fact that not enough people get involved, there is too much hot air, not enough true energy is expended, and it is too easy to get bogged down in red tape.

Many, many minor projects, however, are completed. This part of student government is rarely seen by most people; it deals with daily service actions. It would be ridiculous to publish and talk about the innumerable phone calls, letters, notes, meetings, and discussions which take place. But it is just these "invisible" actions which keep hings running that much more smoothly around here. It's funny - I think everybody would notice if there was no student government. What's even more funny (or more sad). however, is the fact that not enough people take student government as seriously as it warrants. Student government does accomplish many things, and we all do have an influence on how Drew operates. Your impetus, whether it be in the form of active eatly. Remember that, and don't let ANYONE lead you to believe

Anita Bryant began her own campaign. At another recent meeting, there was a panel discussion on Single Life. This past Monday was an informal social dancing, refreshments, etc. -- along with a discussion of the offices of the chapter (elections are coming up for next year). Incidentally, the Alliance welcomes of course both men and women and gays and straights to the

In further response to last week's letter. I did want to add that I both admire and agree with its author, I feel that his was indeed an accurate protrayal of the present situation at Drew. However, the situation is not irrevocable. His words were sound l. a gay, am anxiously looking forward to the day when I am strong enough and when the general climate at Drew is not as conservative as it is now so that I might sign a letter such as this without for any opinions expressed herein.

Entertainment Editor: Perry King Photography Editor: Steve Sarisohn

Dawn Thomas

Joyce Bruciati

Rob Wallace

Features Editor

Business Manager

Editors-in-Chie

London Correspondent: Chuck Redfern

News and Features Staff: Doug Calem, Nanci Carney, Lisa Galligani, Pam Green, Daisy Lindquist, Cindy Olson, Luanne Paulter, Lori Tassinari, Lisa Silverberg, Vinnie Sentore, Joe Dans, Scott Silverman, Kathy Henning, Martha Herreman, Merrick Carey

Sports: Perry King, Thomas Quish, Tom Fyler, Ray Alvarez Torres

Layout Crew: Laura Conboy,

Advertising Folks: John Cusack, Marla Friedman, Peggy McNutt

Photography Tribe: Artic Aronoff, Glen Esher, I Michelle Rosen

Jorge Pupo

To The Drew Commun

Since the passing of the legislation which prohibits hourlies during the final week of classes, there has been some week of classes, there has been some confusion over what the decision actually entails and its possible ramifications. Perhaps the following will help alleviate some of that confusion.

This legislation came into existence because of an overwhelming amount of complaints to Dean Ackerman concerning hourlies during the final week of the people. The band, speeches and ulture. There were other demands such as Bakke, open admissions, demands of

"It was different from the sixties,

"Most holographers here are artists working in their basements," Sue explains, "so they must use small lasers.

problem facing pioneering holographers. These limitations hamper quick advancement. The largest hologram made to date, for example, is one square meter. "And it is very expensive to make." adds Sue.

Funds provided by businesses may remove this financial obstacle.

"Holography is big in advertising," Sue comments. Currently, a hologram film strip in Penn Station shows a man smoking a cigarette. MacDonald's has commissioned a hologram of Ronald cating a Big Mac. "Many advertising companies call us thinking. 'Ah ha, the moneymaker of the future'," Sue says, then adds, smiling, "We try to be aesthetic here."

museum's aesthetic focus, Sue is com-ling a "Who's Who in Holography"

People from all over the country call the museum to ask what holography is, they can see a hologram, where they can get speakers on holography. The "Who's Who" will provide this information, which we have been giving out money to install a pertion," says Sue, "a muse definition, has a permanent how holograms are made, or.

In order to help maintain the ney, however, remains the biggest Holography (continued from page 4)

editors:

Inmates Seek Pen Pals

Dear Editors:

Myself, David de Freese, and codefendant William Bailey are infifteen years sentences for the charge of sales of cocaine. We have served three and one-half years of our time but won't be eligible for parole until 1980.

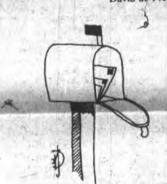

We are writing in hopes that you will print a small article in the student newspaper asking if they would mind corresponding with two lonely inmates. Since our confinement our friends have abandoned us and we have no families. Race/Creed or color does not matter as we are only seeking to gain friends. Should you decide to print this article our address is as follows:

William Bailey #C-1966 and David de Freese #C-1975 (H.U.3/1)

Beacon, New York 12508

We thank you for your time and

Very truly yours. William Bailey David de Freese

To the Editors, Gary Freed, and the Drew Community: %

Last week an article I wrote entitled "Reforming Student Government" was published a week after I submitted it and a week before the emergency Senate meeting concerning campaign practice rumours. In response to that article I received the following letter from Senator Gary Freed of Hurst:

Tim, At a time when the SGA is at a critical crossroad concerning next year and is divided, there is no need to add more wood to the fire! Furthermore, you should check my committee's schedule-are you sure we haven't met(?) Stop playing little Congressman and maybe you'd have an easier time.

- Gary Freed I believe strongly in everything I said in that article. Real change for Drew will only come about when student government is efficient. It is much harder to till the field of Drew with this horse and plow-of-a-government than with an efficient, effective combine of efforts. Also, I feel the timing of the issues I presented couldn't be better. Concrete change in SGA should be the main topic

Thank God — It's March

(there were only 5 members present at the time I was there) said "Oh well, when you drink and get loaded who wants to reasons were offered, only about two of them being valid. Don't get me wrong. because Sam the Band is good and I'm sure the party will go over well, I also realize that this is an excellent way to hear the group (with the U.C. Board buying free beer, and the room being spacious). However the question still remains how can anyone hire a band without knowing what they do, or what they play? Who hired them? How were of this Presidential campaign. The divisions which may or may not exist in the Senate are divisions of personality.

and hence are wrong. However, what I propose are ideas I believe in and hope will unify Drew: if anyone disagrees with them, that is a healthy difference of opinion that should not be suppressed

If I was in error about the meetings of the Senate committee on Student Welfare, I here make a public apology. I included that committee's name, without mentioning anyone in particular, to point out SGA duplication which SW is.

Finally, I would like to take this opportunity to say that if I (or anyone else) wanted to have an easy time. I vould not have written last week's article nor any others, nor would I have run for my Senate office. I don't know what a little Congressman is, but if it means keeping quiet when it is convenient or politically wise, then I think I'll sit that one out. Thank you for

Tim Covington, Sen. Haselton

reading this far.

Sincerely.

make the Senate look unified.

Shawn Adamo

they hired? Thank God it's May!

dance or listen to music?" Several more complaints to Dean Ackerman concer-ning hourlies during the final week of classes. Apparently, many students felt that they could not complete term papers, go to class, and have as many as three hourlies in the same week. In addition, attendance during the last week has decreased so much that many instructors feel that they cannot per-form their function with so many people cutting classes to study for exams. The Tothe Drew Community, Thank God it's almost April! That's when the social committee is elected for the upcoming year. Maybe the new Social Committee will be better, maybe not. At any rate they cannot be any worse. On the night of March 27, the cutting classes to study for exams. The Monday we return from vacation, the last week, particularly in introductory D.C. Board and the Social Committee courses, is crucial in synthesizing all are co-sponsoring a free-beer night with live entertainment in the Commons. The that's been taught up to that point; empty classrooms are not conducive to band, Sam the Band, is one of Jersey's teaching. With concern directed at leading rock bands. While the band is faculty and students, the Curriculum good, and plays good music, they also put on a show. This was news to the Committee discussed at length the idea of eliminating hourlies during the final week of classes. With all conceivable Social Committee! Imagine, it was only after they had hired the band did they problems being looked at, the committee passes the legislation and referred it to the faculty for approval. During February's faculty meeting, it was again discussed at length, and passed almost three discussed at length. learn what they had hired! How can any group be so stupid, dumb, ignorant, and *%£&? to hire a band without knowing what the band does? The only reason the unanimously (there were three dissen-ting votes). It should be emphasized that although the legislation arose out of the Curriculum Committee, it was the Social Committee knows this now, is because on Feb. 23, (along with a friend), I informed the group what they were in store for! When asked why this band had been hired. Emory pointed to faculty en masse that approved it. Stan, who pointed to a girl who said "They put on a show?" Then someone

With regards to particulars, the legislation has the following exceptions: Lab practicals, language orals, and other evaluations will still be given during the final week of classes. Also, no it can have more than three exams in a 24 hour period; any one who does can have one exam deferred. Finally. ion will take effect this legislation will take effect in September 1978. Also keep in mind that the decision was made with the effects of a 13 week calendar being considered.

has been debate over the procedure of arriving to such a decision. The question of whether or not there was enough student input into the decision is a valid one. The Curriculum Committee did discuss the matter over January without the entire student body being present.

However, potential problems were cited at that meeting, at least to the committee members satisfaction. Also, the objection that only one student representa was present at the meeting has been raised, and rightly so. But again, potential problems were discussed at that meeting. Further, all three student representatives support the legislation. It should be remembered that the three reps were elected by their peers and are capable of representing studentions. Student interests, therefore were duly considered. Finally, as most of you know, there was an open meeting of the Academic Committee last Sunday at 7 PM in the Welch-Holloway Lounge. This legisla-tion was the main issue to be discussed and debated. I find it appalling that only 5 people outside of the committee and myself showed up. This meeting was well publicized in the form of posters. ements, and a front page ad in the Acorn. The conspicuous absence of some of the decision's most outspoken critics only reflects the lack of student concern for what happens to them. The only consolation is that the 5 people who were present, as well as the Academic Committee, had something significant and intelligent to say.

Although I believe that this type of matter is ultimately a faculty decision you do have a voice. If you disagree with what has happened, tell your senator, contact Dean Ackerman, talk to your rofessors, or come to a Currie do not make your objections known, all I ask is that you don't make it a boycott issue in October, because I'll be laughing

> Hugh J. Brodie Division C representative to the Curriculum Committee

THE SOCIAL LIFE OF A HOMOSEXUAL AT DREW

Well, today is Friday. Classes are over, and I have a relaxing weekend to look forward to. I think I will leave most of my homework until Sunday, and enjoy Drew's various weekend social activities. By the way, I guess I should mention, that I am a homosexual

The fact of being a homosexual on a campus where social life is geated toward heterosexuals, is a complex one. On the one hand, there is no activity that a heterosexual can participate in that I am restricted from. I can go to the Pub, I can hang around the U.C. I can also go to various meetings, ranging from groups involved in religion, to photography, to sports.

On the other hand, there is very little of this activity which I can take part in as an open homosexual. There is no type of group on campus. (with the exception of the Women's Collective), which even acknowledges that there is homosexuality on campus; much less the fact that gay people are welcome in the group. If, for example. I were in the Photography Club and concentrated on taking photos of various aspects of gay life; or if at another type of meeting. I brought up an aspect of homosexuality which per-tained to the subject being discussed. I wonder if I would be considered a welcome member of that group.

The main center of social life on the weekends is the Pub. I have been in the Pub on several occasions, so I must say all types of people are welcome there. I can also say that I have seen members of the same sex (I don't know whether these people were straight or gay) dancing together with no noticeable reaction from the people watching them. What I do wonder, however, is what would happen if two members of the same sex danced close together and people would be afraid to do. And they have a very good reason to be afraid, because they probably would be extremely harrassed afterwards.

This harassment stems from the fact that homosexuality is not supposed to be a part of Drew's social life. It i the reason why films or plays reflecting gay life are not shown on campus, and also the reason why no gay lecturers are brought here. But gay life does definitely exist at Drew. And until this life is given more recognition, both heterosexuals and homosexuals will be ignoring a very real aspect of their school.

'60's Action '70's Style

riday, March 3, 1978

Students March For Jobs

by Stan Bindell Drew Alumnus

Washington, D.C.—For some people it is the difference between eating or starving. For most it decides their style of living and whether or not they can get that car or house for status. For many it is the link between dignity and dishonor. Yet some hand it out and take it away as if it is just a game.

I am referring to that four letter word

On February 18, approximately 2,000 people, mostly students, marched five-miles here and protested the job situation in our country. Marchers had come from many locations throughout the

There was one bus from New Jersey which was from William Paterson College with 29 people aboard, 24 of them WPC students. The other five were

The bus was sponsored by the Student Mobilization Committee. a national group which arose in the late 1960s to protest the Viet-Nam war and has continued to fight for human rights. The march was sponsored by many organizations including National Fight

The march started at Lafayette Park which is across the street from the White House. The march continued through the city passing many federal buildings such as the F.B.I. Building and the Treasury Building.

Protesters stopped to chant at the Capitol Building. This building was well-protected by the cops as they had the grounds barricaded. The police were armed with guns and foot-long billy-police all day and remained orderly to not provoke harassment. The officers of the law also were busy directing and stopping traffic.

The march continued through the ghetto sections of our Capitol before coming to a halt at The Coliseum. The protesters had been loud but organized Marching through the rich govern-ment section and the poor peoples section shows one who the government eally works for.

Banners read: "Jobs for Youth". Banners read: "Jobs for Fourt".

"Jobs for Women", "Union Jobs and Union Wages", "Jobs Or Income Now",

"Jobs Not War", "Defend Affirmative Action Stop Bakke", and "Defend The Right To Strile."

Chants included: "Jobs not Jail".

"They say cutback-we say fightback".

"Grab a sign-get in line-tell the state what's on your mind." "There is only one way-you got to make the rich pay". "No more peanuts-we need jobs", and "The people united-can never be defeated."

The scene was ren 1960s as the Capital had to slow down for a couple of hours. Many of the libertarians handed out literature deal-couldn't console him much, because Meg had forgotten about me too, and by some miraculous coincidence we'd written to the same people. I won't give the last names he mentioned to protect the guilty: "And Beth! Whatever happened to Beth?"

Bob Goggins (continued from page 4)

"Now, now — there, there. Beth's

"But she promised to write!" "Doesn't everybody?"

He heaved a big sigh. "Yes, I suppose ou're right."
"Besides, didn't Rob send you a postcard of Drew? The heautiful cam-pus? The university in the forest?"

Bob replied that one of the reasons he went abroad this year was because he didn't want to see Drew. He then went Reporters and photographers were spread throughout the crowd. The people in Washington were friendly as people in washington were tricity us they waved to the passing marchers and usually applauded them.

Once the march was over, it was into women and youth. All the demands spring from the problems of the Capitalist system." The Coliseum for a free stew dinner including fruit, bread and apple cider. A band and speakers followed.

The band played soul music similar to James Brown. John Shilby, a WPC student joined them for a couple tunes as he played the harmonica.

This was not the only culture for WPC students as Joel Lewis, a student WPC students as Joel Lewis, a students of the New School in New York, and Michael Reardon, recited their own poems on the bus on the way down to the Capital.

Bob Gustavson, a representative of the United American Indians of New England, received the most applause of any speaker.

Gustavson said: "I'm going to speak to you in a language that is foreign to me, English.

"It is time to say to the peanut farmers, we are still here and we are still Indian. Whether it is treaties, jobs or incomes, the day of broken promises is "A joke on the reservation is when a white person comes and asks what we called this land before white men came. We say "Ours."

"The time has come to take this country back for all human beings. Remember when you look at history books and John Wayne movies that they lie. Indian wars are not over, they have just begun."

Otis Hyde, a member of the Marxist-Leninist party, also drew heavy

"We have gone from slaveships to ghettos and now they say we want more. we don't just want more but Goddam-mit we want it all. Rockefeller and the CIA intend to run the country forever we say no. We don't want George Meany, we want our own labor leaders. When we talk about the factories, we want to use it, we want to own it, we want to eat and get ourselves a job. We will be the state." Hyde said.

"The day when social justice comes. even if rotting. I'll raise up and say hallelujah." Hyde concluded. There were several other speakers such as noted poet Irma Hall. All the speakers, first spoke in English then repeated their views in Spanish. Many signs and chants were also in Most people felt the march was a

Vincent Peppard, a WPC student, explained: "This is the first of many demonstrations. Just as you don't expect much at your first piano lesson, we didn't expect much today but it will

"It was a good beginning," said Jim McCallan who plans to start a job program for youths in Paterson, I was motionally involved so its tough to be bjective. But this was multi-national. there was ethnic unity and there was unity of a band of different organizations. We made bold advanced demands, hitting on the Capitalist system in a mass way and bringing it to on with the names: "Jim was supposed to write me. But he once said he was glad I wouldn't be at Drew this year, I thought he meant he was glad I was going to England, but maybe he meant something different." But the worst was Beki; she'd been one of the few who wrote, but now even she rarely sent anything. Alas, there seemed to be no even the Acorn never sent a

Finally, I slapped him on the shoulder and said: "Y'know what the English would say to all this?"
He looked up gloomily. "What would they say?"
"Buck up, old chap!"
He investigated me for a moment, then said. "You're boring."

concluded Jack Jordan, former studen government president at WPC. "It was nonrhetorical. The Viet-Nam protests started with a few buses just like this. It takes time and patience. People can see the movement growing. It's a conciousness raising tool. Each person on the bus will tell 10 more." Jordan

The object is to spread the word.

Sue is certain that people will soon watch TV and movies in living, three-dimensional color. Much more research must be done first, however.

Any advances in holography will undoubtedly show up in Soho's Museum of Holography. "This place is exciting," remarks Sue, "It's rare you can be in on something that is such a new frontier. When historians investigate holography, they will talk about the people I know and work with everyday.

typing. Abe Beame posing with his grandchildren, and others such as Bella Abzug, Kitty Carlisle, "Cousin Brucie" Morrow, Arthur Barnes, Joseph Pap. William F. Buckley, and Tom Brokaw.

The first exhibit, called "Through the Looking Glass", opened to the public in December 1976. Since then, the staff has turned "Through the Looking Glass" into a travelling Show. "We try to send our show to some of the 'cultural wastelands' in the country," Sue says with a laugh, "for some places, our little show is really a big show from New York." When the Museum of Art in Raleigh, North Carolina hosted the Museum of Holography's "little" show, it nearly tripled the existing one day attendance record.

Exhibits in the Soho museum change anyway, and free us to concentrate on several times a year. "Since holography Recently, the Rockefeller Foundation approved a grant for the Museum of Holography. "The Museum will use is still new, the museum is in a go an exhibit, we just send out a call: 'Hey guys, let's get some of your work

YOUR BIG DEBUT! 0101010101010 0 01000 0 0

mand stables

2021 103

EMERIAN

 01015 00000000000000

The movie this weekend is Blake Edwards', The Pink Panther Strikes Again, starring, (who else?), Peter Sellers.

As usual, Sellers is superb. He is again the bumbling Clouseau, escaping death and defeating crime with clumsy insani-

The type of humor characteristic of anther movies is, for most, easy to enjoy. Violent death and destruction are all through the films, but circumstances are so bizarre that nothing can be taken seriously. Some few self-selected in-dividuals who claim (every chance they get) to be intellectuals, however, find Panther movies insulting, childish and in terrible taste. All the more reason to

This week's Coffeehouse features the return of Goldrush, a Drew favorite. Dave Alvey and Jim Miller, an Ex-Drewid and a senior respectively, make up the band. You may have heard their pleasing folk sound in their Coffeehouse appearance last semester, on their performance in a Tolley-Brown Loungering concert, or one of their off-campus appearances in the area.

As if the entertainment wasn't enough of a reason to come down, you can also take the opportunity to avoid Woods food by coming down and sampling some delicious home-baked goodies. As always there will be donuts and cake, Omicron Delta Epsilon, the Economics Honor Society, is sponsoring a series of seminars beginning next week. Prominent individuals from area firms will present lecture and discussion on relevant topics including consumer credit, insurance, investments and the options market.

The series begins Thursday evening. March 9, at 8:00 pm, with the issue of consumer credit presented by Mr. Rick Nann, the Administrative Assistant and Loan Officer in the Consumer Lending

An exhibit of pictorial photography by Bailey Donnelly will be on view in University Center room 104, beginning Monday and running through March 17. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 12:30 to 2:30 p.m., and Monday through Thursday, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Chairman of physics and acting dean of the faculty at Lake Forest College. Donnelly has exhibited in leading photographic galleries in the United photographic galleries in the United States and overseas in Hong Kong, Argentina, South Africa, and Italy. He is the only four-time winner (in three

Kinsley Award, given by ored by Eastman Kodak

SERIES

Photo

Exhibit

Goldrush in Coffeehouse

O.D.E. SPONSORS LECTURE

Pink Panther Visits Drew

This continuation of the life story of Inspector Clouseau is a traditional Panther movie with a new twist—a futuristic one. People and buildings disappear at the touch of a button. Edwards is spoofing the current sci-fit trend in entertainment. Ironically, this takes something away from the film. though it is based on impossibility and ridiculousness. Clouseau's character is much more effective when acting in more realistic situations. This is a movie well worth seeing. If damper on the evening anyway on less sugary foods like gingerbread, pound cake, and nut breads. A variety of coffees and teas (including herb teas) as well as cider will be available. Since this is not a profit-making venture, we can offer great munchies CHEAP!

The Coffeehouse is open every Sunday from 8:30-11:30 in the Pub. Spongered by the IUC Board, we try to present sored by the UC Board, we try to presen have any comments or suggestions, o you want to help in any way (publicity, baking, working for a night), please contact Pat Lauer through Campus Mail (Box 1001) or by phone (377-

Division of the American National Bank and Trust Company of New Jersey. Refreshments will be served.

tion deadline for this seminar is Registration deadline In Wednesday, March 8.

you are always ready for a good laugh, and can allow the Clouseau mentality to take over your mind for an hour and a half, without worrying about the fate of your I.Q, you'll have a great time. If not-stay home—you'd only put a

Cellar Theater Features Two Plays

by Laura Grayson
This Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday nights at 8 p.m. the cellar studio theater in the basement of Wesley House will present two student productions.

The first, Truckstop to Trinity, written by Drew juniors Carl Preston and Jim O'brien and directed by Jim O'brien, takes place in a cheap diner in the midwest and moves smoothly through the unsmooth and intertwined lives of the characters. Also running clever and smoothly through the center is a thread of religion and anti-religion which, in addition to revealing some of the characters, serves as something of a

The set is simple and accurate, down to the probably greasy silverware and ketchup bottles.

It's a fairly strong piece, especially for a student playwright, "Truckstop" stars Janis Baldassari, Keith Turek, June Campbell, Rob Wittenstein, Mike

Horan, and Jill VanderMay.

The second of the one acts. The Golden Fleece by professional playwright A.R. Gurney Jr., is directed by junior Sue Lehrer and stars sophomore Cathy Stacchini and freshman Karson Mesler. The story is an adaptation of the myth of Jason. Medea, and the golden fleece — set in the present, and applied to a situation of tenuous balance between marriage. obligations, and freedom.

The play itself is pretty good, but it's obligations, and freedom.

The play itself is pretty good, but it's the acting that makes it work so well. Both Cathy and Karson are surprisingly accurate (and take the play through a Godot type atmosphere, to a Gene Kelley impression by Karson, to real and personal monolugues, to an abrupt and powerful ending).

Both plays are done by advanced directing students, who will receive credit for them as part of an independent study course. Both are worth seeing.

Happenings Around Town

March 6
Benefit Recital: An anthology recital entitled BIRDS, BEASTS AND FLOWERS featuring Her Serene Royal Highness, Princess Grace of Monaco and Richard Pasco of Britain's Royal Shakespeare Company, Place: McCarter Theatre, Princeton Univ. Call 609-452-6122 for further information.

March 8-11

March 10

March 12
Lecture: CLIVE BARNES, DRAMA CRITIC. Place: Nassau Inn in Princeton's Palmer Square. For further information call 609-921-8700.

Play Reading: THE BODY PARTS OF MARGARET FULLER. The play has a strong feminist theme and is part of the series — McCARRER'S NEW PLAYWRIGHTS-AT-MCCARTER. Place: Green Hall annex, Washington Rd. and Nassau Streets, Princeton.

March 17-19
Theatre: GODSPELL. Place: Hanover Park High School. For reservations and further information call 887-0899.

March 8-11
Theatre: DAMES AT SEA. Place:
Montclair State College. Upper Montclair, Call John Welden at 8934313 for further information.

Concert: MEAT LOAF. Place: Alexander Hall, Princeton University. For further information call box office at

_____ Dance Marathon Date Changed

ATTENTION!!! The date of the up-coming Charity Dance Marathon has been changed to Friday, April 7th. (This gives everyone an extra week to get in shape and polish their dancing skills.) The time is the same (8 PM to midnight. April 8th) and the place will be the University Center. Pledge sheets will be available next week, so be sure to get one to start collecting your sponsors. See you there!!

THE COMMITTEE

Prints and slides to be entered in the 12th Annual Student-Faculty Photography Show should be taken to the University Center Gallery, Room 104, Hours are 12:30 to 2:30 pm Monday through Friday, and 7:30 to 10:30 pm Monday through Thursday.

WANTED TO RENT

Rugby Preview

Friday, March 3, 1978

This spring rugby season marks the end of one era and the beginning of a new one. The graduating senior ruggers have been the nucleus of the team for the have been the nucleus of the team for the past three years but many new faces show promise of a show era in DRC history. As the seniors tell of the legends of Mickey Mole and the Tongan Stud. next year's ruggers will talk of the exploits of Mr. Mystique and the Dynamic Duo.

Indeed, this season does mark a change and a new beginning in DRC history. With our newly awarded funds we'll have league refs, proper uniforms, medical equipment, and team insurance. Now, all we need is a field. With our first game on March 11th we may have to play in snowshoes.

With our first game on March 11th we may have to play in snowshoes.

As well as nine games, the club also plays a tournament at Union on April 15th, in which four clubs will participate. The Eastern Rugby Union has also invited us to send three ruggers to their April tournament in Central Park. This tournament includes ruggers from the entire Eastern seaboard.

It should be an exciting season and all It should be an exciting season and all

Rich Riker

The Black Russians, lead by the superior goaltending of Bob Wolff who recorded his third straight shutout, stifled the high flying Butt Ends in a 2-0 victory. The game was typical of past contests and the tone was set early in the first period. Both teams showed that they were ready for the contest by exhibiting an intense style of play which would carry on throughout the game. In the first period the play was highly contested with neither team gaining any advantage. In the second period, Rich Riker, defenseman for the Russians, beat goalie Hugh Brodie with a blast from the point to open up the scoring. This seemed to bring the Russians and the crowd to life and the rest of the period was dominated by the Russians. This domination continued into the third period as the Butt Ends could not third/period as the Butt Ends could not musicrany consistent offense, it became apparent as the period wore on, that the dreams

Give her the diamond of her

by Chuck Castellano

Rugby Schedule '78

March 11 — F.D.U. Rutherford a Drew March 18 - Fairfield at Drew (tentative)

If you are a good athlete and or can and do like to drink beer, give it a try. Get in touch with captains Rick Crawford or Marc LeBlanc.

Quore of the Week-John Gilrain in a burnt moment. "I'm not getting up before midnight tomorrow afternoon."

members of the McClintock Men's Contest of the Week-The first one to identify the two ruggers who were mentioned in this article as the Dynamic Duo, The prize is the new edition of the DRC tee-shirt which includes the caption, "Drew Ruggers Eat Their Women." Hint—the initials of these ruggers are M.M. and D.H. Answer should be sent to box 463 campus mai

Gilrain-2-26-78

April 1 - Rutgers at Rutgers April 8 - Jersey Medical at Drew April 9 - Fort Dix at Fort Dix April 15 - F.A.R.T. II at Union April 18 - Essex B's at Drew April 22 - Seton Hall at Seton Hall April 30 - Monmouth B's at Brookdal

Russians' bench strength had begun to take effect. Midway through the period. Perry Walinsky scored an insurance goal with a picturesque wrist shot. The victory moved the Russians into sole possession of first place with a one game lead.

In the other game, both teams, the

In the other game, both teams, the Confederates and the Freed-O-Lays, were looking for their first victory. Neither one would achieve this goal. Both teams played their best game so far this season and battled to a 1-1 tie. Scoring for the Confederates was John Gaylord and scoring for the Freed-O-Lays was Joe Dans. Both Teams played well and the contest was closely fought. Next week will see the second meeting between the Black Russians and the Confederates and the Butt Ends meeting the Freed-O-Lays. This week's action will be closer than ever with everyone attempting to defeat the Black Russians. Everyone is invited to come to the gymand watch the action, it will be worth it.

May 6 - Morris County and Alumni at Black Russians Take Lead

Women's Lacrosse

In eager anticipation of a great season, on February 27th, the Women's Varsity Lacrosse team began running, to get back in condition. Starting about March 6th, the squad will begin formal practices in either the gym or on the field. Practices will be held five days a week for approximately two hours a

The turnout for the squad's first varsity season has been encouraging. About 30 women are coming out for the practices, and approximately 10 of them

Along with the new uniforms and equipment, will be a new women's lacrosse coach, Ms. Alleen Day. At present she is an assistant coach at Centenary College, and is a lacrosse player herself.

Right now, there are five games scheduled. The season begins officially on April 7th. Based on last year's squad's great determination, despite their inexperience, this season should be an exciting and winning one.

ALLGRESSIVE BASKETBALL PLAYERS, CRANSHAW, BUT WHAT I MEANT WAS... Introducing a distinguished lectandic bird who has the answer to all those confusing

$400

Icelandic to Europe.

RECORD SALE

I KNOW I SAID I WANTED

Any Record in Stock 1/2 Price

Example: 798 LP for 399

MADISON PHOTO

With This Ad Only (Limit One Per Customer)

Good Only March 3 & 4

48 Main Street, Madison, N. J.

377-0522

UJA Speaker

These seminars are open to everyone interested, including Drew students, faculty, administration, staff, and members of the local community. No admission will be charged, but registration is required. Please leave your name at the U.C. desk.

Reverend John Grauel, Methodist minister who sailed on the ship Exodus for seven months and addressed the United Nations on behalf of the founding of Israel, will speak to the Drew Community Friday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in Great Hall. He is the guest lecturer of Drew's 1978 United Jewish Appeal Campaign Committee.

an elderly lady visiting from Florida. Call Mrs. Lois Bell, Office of Public

Rangers Face Trenton State in ECAC Saturday

by Matthew McGrath

In spite of late-season losses to Ursinus and Williams, the Drew Rangers have been chosen to play in the E.C.A.C. post season tournament. The Rangers face a powerful Trenton State team on Saturday night at Trenton. The tournament bid is the first ever in Drew basketball history. "I'm extremely happy," said Coach Harper "We're very honored to be chosen and we think we can win it.

The situation on Sunday, when the selection committee met, was not in Drew's favor. Wednesday, the Rangers lost a 77-75 contest at Ursinus. Drew led by twelve in the first half, but, a rally by Ursinus cut the lead to two at the half. The second half was a close battle but the Rangers came up on the short end of the score. The primary reason, said Harper, was foul shots: "We didn't make our foul shots and they did."

Against Williams on Saturday, the Rangers lost a barn-burner. After squandering a lead, the Rangers fell behind by one with seconds to go. After regaining the lead, Drew needed only ten seconds to win. Unfortunately, Williams scored with two seconds to play. A shot at the buzzer missed for the Rangers and the hopes for a tournament birth looked dismal indeed.

On Monday, the Rangers faced NJIT in their final IAC contest of the year. In a somewhat sloppy contest of the year. In prevailed 83-65. The squad ended the IAC part of the schedule at 8-0, thereby winning their second straight con-ference title.

On Tuesday, the hoped for phone call came to Harper's office and the Rangers were tournament bound.

Saturday night should prove exciting when Drew and Trenton State meet. Winning the tournament isn't out of the winning the tournament is it out of the question. The team beat some good squads this year and could do it Saturday. Fan support has been excellent according to Harper, and although the game is at Trenton, all are urged to attend. The team worked hard to get into the tournament and they deserve support. Remember, Saturday night at Trenton State at 8 o'clock

Acorn Phio by Glenn Esher

(Freedman all alone)

Peobody's Pearls

For as long as many Drewids care to remember, the men's basketball team has been the butt of too many campus athletic jokes. The team has always shown potential for winning seasons, but somehow could never put together a full season of solid forty minute play. Individual players as well as Coach Harper took blame and abuse from students who expected the Drew squad to play more like UCLA. And, while there was some constructive criticism advocating team play and fundamental basketball, there was also plenty of destructive and cruel abuse burled at a coach and a team who have almost always given one-bundred. abuse hurled at a coach and a team who have almost always given one-hundred

Now comes their time. Since the semester break, the cagers have played a fundamental team game that has resulted in the best winning season in Drew basketball history. Although they have not played the toughest schedule, the team's upset victory over Albright showed even the staunchest skeptics that this year's squad is indeed worthy of a post-season bid.

Apparently, the ECAC selection committee agreed and awarded the Rangers their first ever post-season bid. Coaches Harper and Little, along with the entire squad, deserve the heartiest congratulations and support as they meet Trenton State on Saturday. Win or lose, Drew could not be better represented.

WANTED: One Manager for the men's LACROSSE team. The pay is bad but company is great. See Professor Caroll, Tilghman 302 or Box Til-7

CO-ED VOLLEYBALL WEDNESDAYS 6-8 pm. Starts March 29. maximum 10 to Submit teams Mrs. Kenyon in Gym. Deadline March 13.

Acorn Photo by Glenn Esher

(Stewart fires, Lechner and Rubino pray)