

What is constant in christology, and what is variable?

What is constant is one assertion answering one question and making one point by asserting one thing about one subject.

Everything else is variable, including every formulation of the assertion as well as of the question to which it is the answer and of the thing it asserts about the subject.

2 March 2007