

I find it interesting that, in many writings, Hartshorne doesn't use the term "aggregate" to refer to concretes that are neither "events" nor "individuals," but uses the term "composite" instead.

Is this difference significant enough that I would be well advised to change my own usage accordingly?

10 May 2009