FIF NOT AFFLICTED, PLEASE HAND TO SOME ONE WHO IS

READ THIS BOOK, IT WILL, INTEREST YOU.

INDEX.

PA	AGE.
PŘEFAGE	1
PART I.—GENERAL	2
Some of the Physiological and Mental Results of the Opium
HABIT	2
Opium and its Effects	3
MY PLAN OF CURING THE OPIUM HABIT	6
WHISKY DRINKING OR ALCOHOLISM	7
The Moral Results of Opium Mania	10
Viewless Fetters	11
The Glass Railroad—A Dream	12
An Lastructive Letter	13
The Fell Destroyer	14
A thrilling Incident	16
A Wife's Appeal	17
PART IL.—TO THOSE DESIRING TO ORDER	18
To persons wishing to order Opium Antidote or Cure	18
Questions to be Answered by those Desiring Treatment for Opium
Habit	18
Is there any Danger in the Use of the Antidote? How much will it
Cost?	19
Will the Use of the Antidote Interfere with my Ordinary Avocation	19
Can it be sent by Mail? An Important Point	19
How Long Shall Antidote be Used to Complete Cure	19
Fathers, Read This. Opium	20
To Persons Wishing to Order Dr. Woolley's Whisky Antidote or Cure	21
Questions to be answered by those desiring Treament for Whisky
Habit	21
How Much will it Cost? How Long Shall the Antidote be Used?	21
Will the Antidote Relieve the Desire for Liquor?	21
How Drinking Causes Appoplexy	21
PART III.—TO THOSE UNDER TREATMENT	22
Special Instructions and Advice to those to be treated for the Onium
Habit, and also to those under Treatment	22
Words of Encouragement - Warning and Entreaty to Onium Patients	25
Special Instructions to those about to go under the Treatment for the	1
Whisky Habit and to those under treatment	27
PART IV.—TESTIMONIALS AND CERTIFICATES.	20
ANALYSIS BY WM. J. LAND, STATE CHEMIST	77
PART V.—COMMENTS OF THE PRESS	00

PREFACE.

In presenting these successive little pamphlets to the public, my purpose has always been to set forth facts, demonstrated by well-attested results, as proofs that I successfully cure the Opium and Whisky habits or those peculiar diseases produced by the long and continuous use of opiates or alcoholic stimulants. Whether or not I am successful I leave to the unprejudiced judgment of the public after the nature and power of the evidence here given are carefully read and duly weighed. Only by true merit do I strive for reward. Honor or money obtained by other means are too dearly bought and too evanescent to be desirable.

It is with pleasure that I am able to state that my son, Vasser Woolley, M. D., has been for several years associated with me. This announcement will be gladly received by those who, having been cured by me, have beseeched me to leave my mode of treatment in some competent hands. My son and myself will be in attendance at all times at our office. All letters directed to my address will be carefully and confidentially answered. I have tried to confine the contents of this book mainly to such facts as might be of interest to those AFFLICTED BY THE USE OF OPLATES OR WHISKY AND TO THEIR FRIENDS, and I ask that they read it ALL. Every article in it will pay such interested persons to read. Take time and read it. Weigh each point well. Reflect and act for yourself.

Those wishing to put themselves in our hands can do so with full confidence that they will be justly dealt with and treated to the best of our ability. There are many who think their condition worse than any others, and that from peculiarities, supposed or real, consider themselves hop-lessly lost. Of those we ask that they present, in person or by letter, their case, and we will give a frank and candid opinion free of charge. Recorded among those cured by us are many cases who have been cured after both the most prominent physicians, in consultation with us have, and ourselves had expressed little hope of recovery. Therefore the friends of any one so apparently without hope, afflicted by the use of either opiates or alcoholic stimulants, nor the unfortunate ones themselves, should neglect to present their cases to us.

In the past fifteen years our practice has steadily grown in extent and importance, and we have reason to believe in proportion has our usefulness spread. We are now treating cases in all parts of this country, and receiving a liberal patronage from across the waters. As to the continued good results of our course of treatment, we would simply call attention to the accumulated and added testimony herein set forth. To all who are yet in bondage, we would say, put yourselves under treatment and do your part, and we will do for you as we have done for others. To the hundreds cured, we say ever hereafter beware of the seductive drug. To the many kind friends, male and female, ministers, physicians, and all who have been good enough by word or deed to promote the use of our treatment, and extend our field of usefulness, we beg here to record our heartfelt thanks, and trust none have or ever will regret speaking or acting in favor of us or our cure or treatment. We shall in the future, as in the past, endeavor to win by merit, and believe that our previous success will justify a live hope that our usefulness in this field of labor is but in its infancy. Read this little book, whether afflicted or not, and if you know any who might be benefited by a copy, send name and address, and the book will be securely wrapped and mailed without exposure or comment as to sender or source of information. Many now are happy who learned of us and our treatment in this way.

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

PART FIRST-GENERAL.

There are many diseases and disorders resulting from the opium habit that are not recognized as incident to the habit even by the medical profession generally. I have thought it well to here mention I have mought it were mention some of these results, though of course without any extensive description, as I

The nerve-force is depressed below par, as I may express it. From this repar, as I may express it. From this results a greater susceptibility to pain, or rather the power to endure pain is diminished; hence neuralgias and simulated rheumatism are common. The pains ed rheumansm are common. The pains will frequently most resemble the origwill frequently upon resemble the original pains, if any, which induced, or were present in the beginning of the habit. At first there is relief in an increased dose of the drug. In these facts, thus shortly of the drug. The phase rates, thus shortly told, lies a stumbling block, not only for the attendia. told, lies a stunioning block, not only for the patient, but for the attending physithe patient, our for the attenuing physician also, if, perchance, he has not been cian also, in, perchance, it has not been brought to think aright upon this subject. In convalescence, when opiates ject. In convariation, when opiates have been administered during the sick. have been administrated during the sickness even for so short a while as a week ness even for so short a write as a week regularly, there will be some return of the prominent features of that sickness or disease upon the withdrawal of the or disease upon the perhaps most frequentopiates. This is permany most frequently observable in pains, nervousness, looseness of the looseness, ly observable in pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, looseness of the bowels, sleeplessness, looschess of the bowels, etc. Hence it is plain that the physician etc. Hence it is plain that the physician should be able to distinguish between should be able to distinguish between the real and the simulated disease. No one except a close observer and one experienced in this subject should, therefore, be under any circumstances allowed the administration of opiates. It is especially important that the patient know not what is given, as familiarity with the not what is given, as tanimarity with the pain relieving and soothing effects of opiates without a knowledge of the dangers that lurk in even their occasional dangers that use, and of the ease by which the opium habit is fixed, is the cause of the vast

When the habit is formed the impairment of nerve-force effects all the functions. I mention first that the circulations. I memory and the circulation becomes sluggish. The mind, while active under the immediate effect of the

Some of the Physiological and Mental | drug, becomes dull under the plethoric condition which plethoric follows: condition which naturally follows. Hence the varied moods of these unfor tunate victims first elated and then deep down in classification down in gloom. Sleep, at first pleasant, becomes harm. becomes heavy while the mind is haunted by dreats while the mind is have the mi ed by dreadful dreams that banish all refreshing refreshing rest. Jerking and sudden starts from sleep continuously occur. The heart offer a continuously occur. The heart often flutters or palpitates, and a caused from impaired digestion and a lowered nerve to lowered nerve-force.

Like the other excretory organs, the liver not only becomes inactive, but has imposed many becomes inactive, but has its imposed upon it additional work in its office to cleanse the blood of its impurities, hence the ties, hence those ailments common from a disordered in the area allowed the disordered in the area area. a disordered liver, some of which are known to aware known to every one, though their source may not be any one, though their source by all. may not be so readily pointed out by all. Among these readily pointed out by dull Among these are pains in the back, dull headaches element pains in the back, a loss, a headaches, sluggish mind, drowsiness, a general uneasi general uneasiness, low spirits, etc. times nature asserts itself, and in its effort to throw or fort to throw off its yoke, the liver becomes excited and its yoke, the liver becomes comes excited and diarrheea or dysentery into follows. But the organ relapses into its old slavery, inactive until another re-

The kidneys are affected as the liver, and like it are affected as the liver. and like it are now inactive, then inactive, but read in inactive, but read in inactive. active, but rarely normal—when inactive the urine is scant, high-colored

The skin is dry except when there is demand for an enewal a demand for an increase or a renewal of its accustomed dose of the drug; then in this case there dose of the drug; perin this case there is a cold, clammy per-spiration, increase spiration, increasing as the demand for the drug increasing as the demand

The spleen, that functionless organing an enormous city, sometimes reaching an enormous city.

The bowels, of course, are constipated is nature but the bowels, of course, are constipated is not generally under this constipation, not generally understood. Constipation caused by the batternood. caused by the habitual use of opiates. is of the result of, not alone the impairment sis of the secretions, but from a semi-paraly peristalii sis, the peristallic motion, the natural movements of that motion, the natural movements of the bowels, in many cases, becoming almost bowels, in many cases, the becoming almost entirely extinct, the bowels never moving the purgabowels almost entirely extinct, tion, never moving except by purga-In females the function of mens truation becomes first irregular and finally, sooner in some cases than others, entirely suppressed. This suppression is not attended by the usual disorders -accompanying suppression from other unnatural causes. There is not a vicarious discharge of blood elsewhere, but the suppression is complete for the time, no secretion appearing for months and frequently not for years. There is this peculiarity in this functional action, as in all functional action affected by opiates, the suppression is temporary, and, particularly in this function, preservative. Not unfrequently there is a return of the menstrual flow in all appearances normal, after a suppression of five or ten years, or even longer. This additional fact is a surprise to a professional man that there may be suppression begun before the natural age for the "change of life" and continuing five or ten years after the usual time for that event, yet when the opium habit is removed there will be a return of the menses apparently in natural condition. I have seen such a case at the age of fifty-three bare a child. In the male there are marked symptoms of impotency of a most distressing nature. Coition soon becomes imperfect and a healthy appetite but rarely exists. Finally impotency and incapacity occur. Unfortunately, not knowing the cause, by many relief is sought in dangerous excitants and other temporizing aids while the fatal cause continues in its remorseless power. Here, as in the female, when the habit is disarmed, and from its enslaving power is taken the enthralled victim, nature asserts itself, and again vigor is re-established.

Under the opium habit the restorative powers are impoverished. Old wounds break down, become indolent and will not heal. Burdened with the debris of a wrecked system the blood carries not enough vitality to rebuild decaying tissues. Hence, running sores are not unfrequently of long standing from the use of the hypodermic needle or from wounds of greater or less gravity.

In these conditions it is amazing that the opium addicted can continue to exist so many years, yet we see them of twenty, thirty, forty years' standing still living, but dead to all true objects of life. But there comes a time, hastened, it may be, by various and unforeseen causes, when nature can no longer brave the fight and one by one her forces are completely overpowered and then, we see following in this train imbecility, insanity, paralysis, softening of the brain and dropsy, first observed in swelling feet and legs and finally becoming general, when the course of destruction is then so firmly set that nothing can check it unless there be safety in immediate treatment.

I might, and perhaps should, dwell more at length upon this sad picture, but I must content myself with thus briefly giving a few of the results of a habit which is becoming more and more widespread among us, making its victims, not as many ill-advised persons suppose, altogether among the vicious and ignorant, but most largely among the refined, the educated, the judge upon the bench, the divine in the pulpit, the doctor by the bedside, the lawyer in the court, the orator and lecturer before the people. Hence the importance of making known the results of such a habit and the ease with which it is acquired.

VASSER WOOLLEY, M. D.

Opium and Its Effects.

Happiness is the goal for which all human beings strive; the lion in the path of attainment is pain. To fight against this foe to ease is largely the province of medical science; and so intimate is the connection between our physical and mental being that the skilled physician, backed by his pharmacopæia, is not only a formidable adversary of pain, but is often (Shakespeare notwithstanding) successful in "ministering to the mind diseased."

Pain may be accidental or unavoidable, but generally it is the Nemesis of broken physical or moral laws. This Nemesis may come down along the path of heredity-a visitation upon the child of its parents' sins. But whether it be unavoidable or a direct or inherited retribution, pain is still the great enemy of man, the dragon that prevents his plucking the golden fruit of enjoyment. How to stay the dragon or put it to sleep has been a problem with which men have been occupied since pain had its beginning. It was found that certain plants possessed, in different degrees, the property of diminishing unpleasant sensations, soothing the system, and imparting to it a temporary exhilaration. Among these plants were tea, coffee, cocoa, tobacco and cannabis indica, a hemp, and the papaver somn ferum, or white poppy. Opium, the dried gum of the poppy, was and is given a high place in Materia Medica, and together with Morphia, the silky, white alkaloid which chemistry gives us

PART Spe Wo Spe PART AN

PART

PREFACE.

PART I.-

SOME

OPIU

MY F

WHIS

The

View

The

A÷

Will

Can

How

Fatl

To I

Que

Hoy

Wil

Ho

as one of the chief active principles of Opium, is esteemed as a hypnotic and a

THE PHYSIOLOGICAL EFFECT of Opium, administered therapeutically, is to dull the message of pains transmitted along the efferent nerves to the spinal cotd and brain—the grand focus of sensibility—and thus give ease and afford time for nature to rally her restorative forces, Precisely how the drug operates to relieve pain is not known; but instead of enfeebling and diminishing innervation—that is, nerve power—as is by some supposed, may it not increase it? It has this effect operating through the nerves upon the heart and blood capillaries. It increases their action, stimulates them temporarily into more vigorous operation; may it not act correspondingly upon the nerves? We know that it is the weak nerves that are the best conductors of pain. Robust innervation is unfavorable to the transmission of morbid or diseased sensation. This is proved by the insusceptibility to pain that we find in the American Indian, the old-time Highland Scotch and other hardy races who live in accordance with nature, and have nerves unimpaired by the vices, the artificial customs and diseased heredity of civilization. Wounds and terrible flesh lacerations scarcely make these people flinch, and this is not due alone nor in any great degree to stoical endurance, for we see the same insusceptibility to pain in Indian children who have been removed from parental influence at an early age. Robust innervation seems able to throw off diseased sensation in a measure (as healthy skinpores throw off blood poison) before transmitting the message to the brainthe seat of sensibility. But this idea as to the way Opium operates upon the nerves to lessen pain is merely thrown out as a suggestion and speculative idea. We return to the therapeutic value of Opium as a soother and invigorator of the human system. Sufferers who have been relieved by it are ready to hail it as

AN ANGEL OF DELIVERANCE,

but let them beware; the drug is Janus. faced, and ere they know it, the other the demon visage—will be turned upon them with Medusean power to petrify their better faculties and reduce them to a corpse-like semblance of living humanity. When from inherited craving, or through the demands of pain or nervous exhaustion, the use of Opium has become a habit; then its therapeutic value ceases and its physiological operation merges

PATHOLOGICAL EFFECTS.

Often a few doses of Opium, in come one of its many forms or disguises, opens the door to this craving for its frequent use; the nerve molecules, upon which it has laid its insidious touch, seem already to have suffered some subtle change which makes them less able to sustain pain or exhaustion, and more eager to cry out for the artificial sustenance, each dose of which permanently increases the trouble it seems temporarily to relieve. In many instances the morbid effects of the Opium habit are not for a time outwardly or directly apparent. The health may seem to improve and the physical and mental forces to be revitalized. of the heart of the increased action of the heart and blood vessels acted upon by the Opium-stimulated nerves. The circulation is quickened and the irritation of the tation of the system and dropsical filling out of the flesh may pass for the results of healthy invigoration, as the hectic color and precocious plumpness of a peach may deceive you into believing that a wholesome ripeness which is merely a diseased state caused by the worm at the

Some explanation of this deceptive phenomenon, seen in the first stage of the Opium habit, may be had in the fact that the changes it produces in the system are first functional, and afterwards structural or organic, and that in functional disease reflex activity is increased, while in organic disease, it is increased, while in organic disease, it is increased. ganic disease it is diminished.

The poison first works upon the nerves-It causes a modification of the movement of the molecules, producing a faulty innervation, which is the beginning of the Opium habit, and the beginning disease which the basis of the disease which we call Morphism. There sh rtly takes place an isomeric change in the nerve axis by which it loses its tone, And as innervation precedes circulation and the culation and the nerves control the flow of blood in the capillaries, as the moon controls the tide, it follows that the blood vessels must suffer a change corresponding to that of the nerves. Such a change does take place. The heart is supplied with a complex system of nerves, the careha action of the nerves. nerves, the cerebro-spinal, vaso-motor, accelerator, depressor and vagus. The blood vessels also are supplied with nerves and are supplied with nerve-force In Control of the innerve-force. In consequence of the increased action imposed upon it by this and blood vessels become ctrained enand blood vessels become strained, enlarged and lose their normal calibre. losing in consequence the elasticity or resiliency necessary for their normal action. As these blood vessels, with their co-working nerves, radiate to every part of the system, the diseased condition is speedily communicated to the other great centers of reflex activity-the brain, the stomach and the reproductive organs. Functional disorder in these is followed by the graver condition of structural change; irritation merges into passive congestion, followed it may be by organic lesions and degeneration of tissue, breaking down of the cells, an opening of the door to dropsy and other kindred disorders.

A diminution of the entire natural forces is the certain result of the impaired merve-nutrition caused by abuse of Opium. The nerves, having undergone a change of calibre and lost their elasticity, lean more and more upon the artificial prop supplied by the betraying drug. They ery out for this pernicious food in order that they may discharge their functions. They require it in increasing quantities, for each dose increases the necessity for another, and thus the habit fastens itself upon its victim. Heavier grows the burden, day by day more cruel the tyranny, and less able the will to fight against it. The whole system is let down. The subtle poison has permeated every part. Impoverishment of the nerve-force has produced impoverishment of the blood, diminution of red corpuscles and of the capacity to excrete carbonic acid gas; the digestive organs are enfeebled, the muscular system atrophied; lesions, passive congestion and general disintegration are taking place in various parts of the body, and the man is a wreck, his body crumbling to ruins. How is it with the mental and moral parts of his being? These, of course, being built up with the material portions, share in the general wreck, and an observance of the produced by the Opium habit is even more sad than to note the gradual physical decline it produces. Since the brain is the focus of sensation-the meeting point of the numerous nerves that trawerse the body-it follows that it must soon suffer from Opium-diseased nerve power. It does suffer speedily, though at first the excitation produced by the greater flow of blood to the cerebrum is apt to be mistaken for an increase of intellectual force. The brain-worker, who has resorted to Opium to stimulate his faculties, is deceived into believing that the spasmodic energy he acquires is a permanent gain. But here also the reaction sets in; here, too, the unnatural strain reacts into placidness, and the brain, impoverished by its lack of proper nerve food, refuses to perform its functions of thoughts and reason. Balance I etween the faculties is lost, and some portions of the brain may be dormant, while others are stimulated into excessive action. Usually the faculty most morbidly excited is imagination. But its action is simless and desultory, ephemeral. It is the child of pathology, and its outcome consists of wild visions, terrors, suspicions and other abnormal developments. Cerebral congestion, or cerebral anæmia, or hyperæmia resulting in mania or idiocy, may be the sequel, or the brain may undergo a slow decay, its faculties become weakened gradually, its reasoning capacity diminishing, its ambition dying out, its energy expiring, until the eye-the window of the mind-betrays, by its poor, dimmed, bleared and dreamy aspect, that it is no longer lighted by the fires of the intellect within.

MENTAL AND MORAL CONDITIONS

The loss of mental equilibrium involves also loss of moral poise. The will, which is the moral balance-wheel, is first enfeebled, then paralyzed; the perception of right and wrong is clouded, the sense of moral responsibility disappears, truth is almost utterly disregarded, a fatal obliquity affects the moral vision, the natural affections are blunted, and a disgusting selfishness, apparent to every one but its possessor, alienates the love of friends and relatives.

Thus do decay and ruin extend to every part of the human temple. The mindthe glorious inner shrine-is overthrown; the moral sense, which is the illuminating lamp within the holy of holies, is extinguished. Sadder ruin than any the stars look down upon in the land of lost gods-the ruin of a man-the one being in all the universe made in the likeness of God.

BUILDING UP THE RUIN.

We have shown how opium has operated like the dry rot, in subtly permeating and disintegrating the physical, mental and moral man. Now, how shall the ruin be restored, how shall the man be made whole? Shall he break off the opium habit at once, and leave nature to do the work of restoration unaided? This course is frequently not only impracticable but dangerous. The patient has usually no power to break off the habit; his strength of will is impaired.

PAR

PREE

PAR

PAR

PAR

PRE

PAF

PA

PA

But if he possesses will force enough to throw off the yoke, the torture his nerves must endure from the deprivation of the accustomed food may produce serious illness or mental frenzy. It is no imaginary pain; it is as real as the agony that accompanies resuscitation from drowning or suffocating, and is far more lasting, because it is founded on actual change in the structure of the nerves and other tissues of the body. Something must be done to restore the normal calibre and tone to these tissues before they can act independent of the opium sustenance. Tapering off—taking the drug in lessening doses—will not always answer.
"Touch not, taste not, handle not," is a better motto for such sufferers. Yet they must have something to lean upon outside of their own natural forces to aid them in the work of restoration, As the process of pulling down was done gradually by an outside agent, so the work of building up must be effected gradually by the help of an outside factor that shall co-operate with nature. This I claim to do by my OPIUM CURE OR TREATMENT. Its discovery is not accidental; it is based upon a careful study of the pathology of the a careful study of the pathology of the opium disease or habit, and persistent thought, research and analysis brought to bear upon the elements and substances that might assist nature in her efforts at Deeply impressed by the alarming and increasing extent of the overuse of opium by the misery and want it occasions, by the thousands of men and women who are lost to society, lost to their homes, lost to themselves through the influence of this fearful habit, I have devoted the energies of many years of my life to perfecting a means of assisting those whom the insidious drug had enslaved. With heartfelt pity I have looked upon their efforts to escape its subtle yet powerful tyranny. Knowing as I did the actual and organic difficulties in the way of release, I could appreciate the moral courlease, I could appreciate the moral courage of their struggles and sympathize with the despair engendered by their failures. To discover a means or treatment which should help to restore the nerve tissues and blood vessels to their normal state and natural elasticity, and thereby put a stop to the craving for an adventitious food—this was what I undertook to do, and what I earnestly and honestly claim that I have succeeded in doing. The treatment is in perfect accord with physiology, being, of course, easier and more rapid where the constitution is less undermined. I do not hesitate to undertake to effect a cure in any case where sufficient vitality remains and the patient will abide by the simple directions and restrictions that are given.

What more is necessary for me to say? Shall I relate the success that has crowned my earnest effort to relieve the sufferers from the opium disease? No, for others shall tall the disease? shall tell the story. It will be more graphic and more convincing when read over their own signatures,
B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

My Plan of Curing the Opium Habit.

There is a fascination to the Opium afflicted in the idea of speedily attained freedom from his terrible bonds. Some have taken advantage of this fascination and are addressing the people with seemingly fair ingly fair promises. Against any man who treats this rayaging disease successfully, I have nothing to say. If every one who professes to cure the habit did what he claims he claims, my practice would be increased. But as many of them fail, I have to bear part of the censure. But my success is so well brown. so well known and my standing in Atlanta, the home I have chosen, is so well defined defined, that my practice is steadily spreading and enlarging. I have studied the plans of rapid the plans of rapid treatment and experimented with cases, using not only remedies known but a see that the second seed of the see dies known by the medical world and my self, but also many of the remedies the receipts for which I have purchased from the proprietors. They have not proved at all satisfactory.

of my professi.

I have made it the rule of my profession to search diligently for every possible means to make the cure of the Opium Habit scientific and treatments. The objections to all rapid treatments, as have been practiced by myself or observed in the practice of others. others, are: 1st. Danger to life. 2d-The agonizing suffering. 3d. The shattered condition in which the nerves are left. 4th The shall be sh 4th. The tedious and difficult after-treatment. 5th. The demoralizafrom business. Now, why these objections: For twenty-four to forty-eight hours the patient goes through what is there is but a still the st there is but a slight thread upon which the life of the patient hangs. The attention of a skilled at hangs. tention of a skilled physician is needed then to watch soul then to watch each pulse beat, each breath, and twitch of nerve. The patient is upheld by the boat that it will tient is upheld by the hope that it will all soon be over. At this point some injuries to nerves, mind cod the whole injuries to nerves, mind and the whole vital being that from the (shock they with difficulty, or never, recover. Some few recover. Again one readily sees here what terror this suffering entails. It is the province of the physician to cure if he can, and if not, to relieve his patient as much as possible. Here is a patient whose leg is mangled by a railroad accident. His leg cannot be saved. His life is in immediate danger. The surgeon is manifestly justified in adopting the heroic treatment of cutting off the injured member. But here is a patient whose leg is drawn up by chronic rheumatism or other eause. His life is not in immediate danger. Is a heroic treatment justifiable here? Shall we jerk this leg straight, at the risk of the life of our patient, by tearing the blood vessels and herves asunder? I think not. I know we should not where there is an assured method, which, though it may require more time, is certain and comparatively painless. As I have shown in the preceding article, the Opium Habit is a chronic disease. The poisonous drug has insidiously woven its roots into the very vitals of its unfortunate victim. Slowly, perhaps, but steadily, has it entwined a many-sprayed root into this and that vital organ, changing the whole being physically, morally and mentally. Where, then, is the rationality of tearing up this growth with rapid and fearful jerks? After reasoning and experimenting, I have failed to be convinced that I would possibly be justified in attempting such treatment. My plan, then, is to sustain the system, and by proper antidotes destroy these roots and germs of the disease at the same time I heal the various injured parts-the nerves, the digestion, the secretory organs, the heart, the brain-all the organs-for all are involved. When the rapid treatment is conducted in a hospital or infirmary, or whatever the place may be called where the opium-afflicted goes or is sent for such treatment, the patient is dismissed in most cases before the shattered nerves have time to re-act. He is turned loose to take care of himself, and as the re-action, under favorab'e surroundings, requires from two to three months, we see that a return to the old panacea of relief is the most natural of all steps. I have seen cases, where the unfortunate patient has fought the fight for a year with Spartan endurance, at last succumb to his sad fate, and with despair return to his enslaving master, humbled and disheartened, censured by his friends, and half centuring himself for what he has been led to believe is simply his own moral weakness. I ask, in all candor, can we say this patient was cured? I think not. I never esteem a patient cured until he can be dismissed free from the desire or necessity of opiates, and restored fully to vigorous health of body and mind, with steady nerves, good appetite and digestion, clear brain, and quiet, refreshing sleep. That my patients are so dismissed, I refer to the experience of those who permit meonly a few-from the vast number I have pronounced cured. But when these rapid treatments are attempted by the patients themselves at home, but very few pass through the "racket." The majority abandon the attempt, some from time to time renewing the effort with usually continued failures. In my treatment there is no such experience as the "racket," or what by many is known by the more appropriate name of "the horrors"-a total collapse. From the first, improvement is seen, which gradually becomes more and more manifest until the patient is free. He takes the medicine without inconvenience to business and without pain or suffering. The patients leave off my treatment when cured without shock, and with no desire or necessity remaining for opiates or stimulants of any kind, cured, with increased weight, healthy color, steady nerves, good appetite and digestion, clear brain, quiet and refreshing sleep, ready and able to again enter the fight of a busy, useful life-happy, free-declaring themselves to be as new beings.

Then, may I ask, is it humane-is any one justified in subjecting to these "horrors" those unfortunate ones, our fellowmen, who, from disease or other cause, have unknowingly been insidiously bound by this deep, many-rooted curse? If there be one class of unfortunates more than another needing our sympathy, enlisting our thought and care, and demanding our earnest, rational and scientific research for their benefit, it is the sufferers enslaved and cursed by the fearful Opium Habit, misunderstood and persecuted by many physicians who have not given the study they might have to the subject, censured and often despised by the public at large.

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

Whisky Drinking or Alcoholism.

It is hardly necessary to say that the great and spreading blot upon modern civilization is drunkenness. Statistics PRI prove this by an appalling array of figures, showing that over six hundred and fifty millions of dollars are annually spent in this country alone for intoxicating liquors, and that insane asylums, hospitals, jails, poor houses and graveyards are peopled largely through the instrumentality of this most potent of evil agents. A horrible feature of drunkenness is that children are born to alcohol-poisoned parents-children with deformed minds and an inherited craving for stimulants engrafted upon their or-

The conditions of modern society, together with heredity, account for the increase in intoxicating stimulants. The accumulating population, and the consequent struggle for food on one side and wealth and show on the other, irregular habits of eating and sleeping, increased hurry, turmoil and anxiety, greater amount of mental work and strain-all these operate to develop the nervous element out of proportion to the physical force. And out of this excessive development of the nervous element is born the craving for a stimulant, which shall act in some cases as a spur to keep the energies from flagging, and in others as a nepenthe to procure surcease of disappointment, anxiety or fatigue. It answers its purpose temporarily, but at what fearful cost our daily observation can illustrate. One cannot walk upon the streets without meeting men whose imbruted countenance and blear eyes plainly declare how alcohol can blot out God's likeness in man. For this deletcious agent is not insidious and secret and slow in destroying as is opium. It does slow in destroying as is opium. It does its work openly, rapidly, directly. No slow "dry rot" in its method. The task of pulling down the human temple is performed with activity and its signs

The "moderate" drinker will not acknowledge these signs of degeneration, or at least he will not refer them to their right cause. Even when disease sets in, and his entire system is a congested, disorganizing mass, he often persists in his self-deception, tries to prop his impaired digestion, relaxed muscles, diminished brain force and depressed spirits by increased indulgence in the stimulant which has wrought all this evil. Could he look within and see the discord which has been wrought in his once fine and delicately adjusted physical mechanism, he would shudder with horror. He would no longer wonder at the complication of disorders which prey upon his vitality.

For, as we have said, alcohol is no insidious underminer like opium, but

A DIRECT AND ACTIVE DISORGANIZER. It first produces functional disturbance. Acting upon the complex arrangement of nerves, muscles and blood vessels, it breaks up the harmony of their co-ordinate action—destroys that fine rythm in their inter-operations which constitutes health. But this mere functional disorder is speedily followed by structural derangement. Morbid changes are produced in the actual substance of the various organs. The congested state of the blood vessels is reflected upon the different membranes on which they ramify. The lining tissues of the stomach exhibit all the anatomical characters of inflammation, being intensely red, and soon becoming thickened and indurated, often permeated with deposits of alcohol-The organ loses its susceptibility, and no longer responds to the normal stimulus of food, being difficult to rouse except through the artificial excitation of liquor. This congested and inflamed condition of the stomach causes that disagreeable nausea experienced in the morning. Most frequently large quantitles of phlegm are coughed up from the stomach. There is no appetite until a stimulant has been taken. The other visceræ are involved in the disorder-The liver becomes engorged, obstructed, indurated, its secretions deficient or deprayed, with chronic indigestion as a sequence. Meantime the brain,

THE CENTRAL ORGAN OF EXCITABILITY,

can but participate in the changes which Man. The support of the fair temple called Man. The sympathy between the physical organization and the intellect is close and direct. In many instances the sensorial system suffers at once from the alcoholic stimulant; in others the derangement seems to come as a reflex from the disorders of the visceral region. But whether the affection is primary or secondary secondary, the brain of the intemperate speedily becomes diseased, and the disease rapidly assumes this character of organic deterioration. The structure of the membrane first, then that of the brain substance itself suffers change and degeneration through organic lesions. which are often precursors of imbecility, epilepsy, loca motor ataxia, or of delirium tremens. In some instances particles of pure alcohol are found deposited in the cerebral matter, which is a portion of

These morbid changes in the brain of course affect the volition. A healthy will-force cannot reside in a diseased brain, and this important factor of the intellect becomes weakened and finally paralyzed as the victim becomes more enslaved by the cruel tyrant to which he

"Bows his haughty manhood down And makes its glories dim."

Lower he descends, degenerating morally and physically.

GRAVER SYMPTOMS APPEAR.

The natural susceptibility of the stomach is exhausted; it refuses to be roused save by increasing quantities of the fiery stimulant. The nervous sytem is shattered; its tone and elasticity are gone. The blood vessels are constantly in a turgescent state, apparent to the most casual observer; the liver is enlarged and torpid, the lower extremities are edematous, the stomach tumid, the muscles either rigid or relaxed. The brain, having suffered structural deterioration, is unfit for thought or to guide the operations of business. Mental as well as physical labor becomes distasteful, impossible; the moral sense is of no avail, for the will-the kingly director of human action-lies a bound captive in the inner citadel of his sorely besieged fortress. The victim has no control of his mind or body-no power to keep the resolves he makes to break away from the enslaving habit. Meantime the morbid condition of his stomach enhances the craving for alcohol. It becomes a burning, consuming thirst; he is unable to turn his thoughts to any other source of relief or enjoyment; all restraints of education or society or domestic affection are lost sight of. Every influence is made to yield to that artificial necessity for a stimulant which now has absolute control of the system through the changes it has wrought in every organ and tissue, and calls imperiously for regular and increasing indulgence in order that the altered stomach and brain may be enabled to perform imperfectly their offices. But even this resort fails of its effect at length. The victim fails to find even temporary relief in the poison that has undermined him Even in increased quantities it can excite to but a poor flickering flame the energies of brain and body-energies it has nearly consumed. In this exhausted, unnerved state, the patient' feels helpless, all the doors of his being are open to the entrance of epilepsy, paralysis, cardiac congestion, or delirium tremens, with its horrible hallucinations, its convulsions, alternating with stupor or profound, suicidal depression, and its frequent sequelæ, idiocy, insanity and death. To RESTORE THIS WRECK of humanity, shattered, helpless, trembling on the brink of the final vortex, is a work akin in grandeur to creation itself. "To effect the cure of the drunkard would be worth the labor of a life,' says an eminent physician. It is a task which moral suasion has essayed with but indifferent success, for the reason that this appeals to the will-power of the patient, which force, as we have already seen, can no longer assert itself through the diseased and degenerated brain. The strongest resolutions, therefore, are often in vain, for the moral and intellectual faculties are under control of the potent influence which has laid its changing finger on every part of the organism. The thirst for alcohol is so deeply engrafted in the system that it is as much a part of it as are the instincts and appetites interwoven with it before birth. Consequently, the effort to disregard this craving is attended with so much suffering that most inebriates are deterred from making the effort. To attempt to break off from the habit without the interposition of any aid or palliative is to undergo a difficult and torturing ordeal, which may end in nervous illness, in convulsions or insanity. The causes of the difficulty and pain are obvious, They are due to the exhausted and degenerated condition of the internal organs, and our best hope of eradicating the craving must be based upon the possibility of doing away with the diseased state of the organs upon which it is engrafted. Some treatment must take the place of the stimulant, with power on the one hand to soothe the burning of the inflamed membrane and relieve the thirst or craving for drink, and on the other hand to build up the disorganized tissues, restore to their normal size and tone the congestion-distended blood vessels and give tone and strength to the nerves, and remove the physical disabilities under which the moral and intellectual powers rest, so that the volition may be enabled to act with its wonted freedom. These things, I claim, are accomplished by my treatment for such cases. When directions are followed I have had and am having most gratifying success, curing some of the worst forms of mania-satisfying the fierce thirst and gradually building up the shattered system and restoring its lost capacities. And this it does without material suffering or risk; without doing violence to the system as sudden abstinence without aid must do, or incurring the anxiety, the mental strain and the danger of failure which always attends the plan of simply "tapering off."

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

MORAL RESULTS OF OPIUM MANIA.

The Moral Results of Opium Mania.

The name of Charles Dickens must ever awaken a tender chord in the hearts of the millions who love his memory and who appreciate the efforts so apparent in his writings for the good of all humanity. In the work upon which he was engaged when that great event occurred which touched, as with an electric shock, the length and breadth of two continents, he gives to the world an awful and direct warning against the rapidly increasing vice of the Opium habit. Whether from some peculiar circumstances the attention of this great and good man had been recently and forcibly drawn in this direction we cannot know, but who that has tion we cannot know, out who that has intelligently read the fragmentary history of "Edwin Drood" can fail to see the writer's purpose in showing us, through the carefully drawn character of John Jasper, the fearful consequences of an indulgence in this body and soul-destroying practice. Married from early manhood, for he was but twenty-six years of age when he was first introduced to the reader, and, so far as his history is given us, totally wrecked at la t, we see in vivid coloring the gradual demoralization of an immortal being, gifted in person and mind to a great degree. Dickens has lain for long years in his silent tomb within the sacred precincts of Westminsster Abbey, but "being dead, he yet speaketh," and through the magic pages of the "Mystery of Edwin Drood," calls to you today, oh! sad and suffering humanity of this afflicted class, chained down by a servitude far more galling (in that it endures through all the eternal years) than that which fettered the hapless serf of Pobæski. The process of demoralization may be a very gradual one; it differs widely in different temperaments and with different constitutions, but none the less is it sure and inevitable. Jasper was a gentleman by birth and education, endowed with the heaven-born gift of a rare musical genius; his profession was that of chorister in the Cathedral of Cloisterham. His daily associates were men and women of culture and refinement, yet as John Jasper could so degrade himself that he sought out and then frequented a low den in a filthy and obscure back alley of London, there to mingle in closest contact with the coarse, the obscene and the vile from all races on earth, smoking even the same pipe with the priestess of this Black Art, a miserable old hag; so will you, gradually and imperceptibly to yourselves, it may be, lowered in time to a depth of moral degradation, the mere memory of which will (should you ever by God's providence be rescued from this curse) haunt you with its ghastly visions so long as your life shall last. Indelible are the scars left upon the souls of the men and the women who have yielded to the weird grasp of the opium fiend. We are told, furthermore, in this sad history of John Jasper, that the evil effects of his vice were not confined to himself alone. Physically and mentally his agonies were appalling. Who can read of them without a shudder? But poor, be otted slave as he was, he contrived, while under the excitement of a powerful dose of the deadly drug, to work a terrible wrong, to blight the hap piness of those who were his best friends (even to attempt the ruin of his only blood relation), the man who had the misfortune to be his nephew and his ward. He became a curse to all with whom he was thrown in contact. The moral part of his nature entirely perverted, he viewed all things through a false medium, was utterly through a false medium. um, was utterly unprincipled, unscrupulous, restrained neither by fear of man or reverence for his God. At the point where this story leaves us, Jasper was an insane man. The confirmed devotee to the Opium habit CANNOT be a perfectly sane person. The distorted visions supplant truth and reality, and the strongest intellect is not proof against its absorbing power of proof against its absorbing power and tenacious clutch. Here we are forced to leave the miserable victim of a fatal tim of a fatal vice. What his end would have been had the "lamented dead" lived to depict it, we can readily conjecture. But let us turn now from this character of fiction to dool with fiction to deal with startling facts that lie before us. It has been ascertained by carefully prepared statistics that the amount of opium brought to the United States is ten times greater than it was thirty years ago; one-third of it is computed to be used for medicinal purposes.

What hecomes of the medicinal purposes. What becomes of the balance? Is it not a subject calculated to occasion alarm for the future manual the future mental and physical strength of our people? Among the victims of this dire disease are men and women of all classes professional characters of highest abilities, writers, artists, lawyers, physicians, ministers. Ab, little does the world suspect how often the thrilling poem, the soul-stirring and eloquent address, the melting sermon, is the result of a powerfully exciting dose of Opium in some one of its many forms. Oh, the pressing necessity for a crusade more effective than the first, so great as to numbers and so powerful as an organization that it will seize and drag before the public gaze this terrible vice with all its Mephistophelean charms. Oh! men and women with immortal natures, be warned! Earnestly and gratefully should we believe in a divinely restraining influence, but there is a point beyond which it rarely goes. You should keep yourselves from the temptation, and God will keep you from the sin. The men or the women who are conscious of a weakness, and yet will deliberately place themselves in the way of temptation, have small claim upon the sympathy of their fellowbeings. "Touch not, taste not, handle not." "Pass not by it." Shun it—avoid it as you value the security of your precious souls. Oh! the awful pathos of these lines, wrung from the anguished lips of one who had recklessly enslaved himself through yielding to the "cursed spell of the poppy wine." They come as echoes from the innermost depths of Dante's Inferno, as the intonations of a lost soul, who, realizing his inability to avert the doom which he has brought upon himself, sighs out his agony in words that only dimly foreshadow his Promethean torture:

THE OPIUM EATER.

Thy curse, O God, has followed me fast. In the days and weeks of the shadowy past, And the weary years that lie before
Are ringing loud with the sullen roar
Of the whistling tide that is carrying me on To the starless night and the cursed dawn Of the world beyond. And the opium grave Is yawning wide; and there is none to save. For mind and will have been swallowed up In the poisoned drugs of the hideous cup
I have drained so long. And the light of day
Has shown its last on my lonely way; And the hopes of youth that lingered there Have given place to a dark despair. For the poppy wine, with its cursed spell, Is dragging me down to a lasting hell. Dragging me down; and the seething wave Of the waters of Lethe my feet will lave, The shricks of the damned my ears will greet, And the soundless tread of hurrying feet. Fleeing in vain from the burning wrath Of the merciless fiend that bars the path, Wild as the wail o'er the coffined dead, Are the burning words of the book unread That holds my fate. And no hope of day Cheers me on my desolate way; And the voice of the night winds seem to cry, With a shuddering moan as they pass me by, "Too late! too late! thou hast listened too long, To the lulling strains of the siren's song, For the witching wave of the poisoned wine.

Has bound thy soul in its deadly twine.' Too late! O God! and I dare not pray, For the light of thy face is turned away. The curse of thy wrath and thy angry frown, To the darkness of night is bearing me down. Yet the world was bright in the years long dead, And the Savior smiled as he bowed his head, . And heard the prayer of the innocent rise To the sinless throne beyond the skies. The world was bright, but the tempter came And breathed on me with its breath of flame; And the tempted fell 'neath its lurid light Of the mocking eyes, and the ghastly night Like a pall of darkness settled down On the broken life; and the weary round Of the days and weeks, the months, and years Are filled with the mist of falling tears.

I have known many persons destroyed by ardent spirits who were never completely intoxicated during the whole course of their lives .- Dr. Benjamin Rush.

Joy is a prize unbought, and is freest, purest in its flow when it comes unsought. No getting into heaven as a place will compass it. You must carry it with you, else it is not there. You must have it in you as the music of a well-ordered soul, the fire of a holy purpose, the welling up out of the central depths of eternal springs that hide their waters there.

Viewless Fetters.

O! wearisome weeks and months and years,

Of baffled hope and of wasted prayers; O! onward tide, that knoweth no turning! Despite my heart's cries, its deep passi nate vearning.

And yet I must rise, with each new dawn, and face The merciless world, and take mine own place 'Mid the throng who are striving for gold or for

Do they know I am fettered-do they hear the dread clank,

Whose maddening echoes are now in mine ears? And then, as I see my sweet wife's pearly tears, I am sure, ah, my God, she has caught the dread sound.

And long since hath she known, I am bound! I am bound !

Bound; yes, by the chains of a nameless shame. Like the sirec's breath with it's withering flame. It has blasted life's hopes; bid God's mercy depart, Oh! what terror can equal this death in the heart! What can equal the shadows still deepening around.

In the dungeon of years where my spirit is bound; Or this agonized sleep, from which I arise, Within black prison walls—shut out from God's skies?

And once I had wealth and a princely home,
Gone! gone! 'midst the vortex—that home once my own. Where sweet wedded love seemed to hallow the

And heaven smiled on us, in our babe's sunny face.
O! How shall it end? Will the phantom called

Bring dusky-winged demons to snatch my last breath

Will weird fiends from Hades, encircling me round.

To starless realms bear the soul of the Opium bound?

PR

PA

The Glass Railroad-A Dream.

There was a moral in that dream.

"It seems to me," said the bard, "as though I had been suddenly aroused from my slumbers. I looked around and found myself in the center of a gay and happy crowd. The first sensation that I experienced was that of being borne along with a peculiar gentle motion. I looked around and found that I was in one of a long train of cars that was running over a railway. I could see the train far ahead. It was turning a bend in the railway, and seemed to be many miles in length. It was composed of cars. Each car opened at the top, was filled with men and women, ali happy all laughing, talking or singing. The peculiar, gentle motion of the car interested me. I looked over the side, and, to my astonishment, found the railroad and cars were made of glass. The glass wheels moved over the glass rails without the least noise or oscillation The soft, gliding motion produced a feeling of exquisite happiness. I was so happy. It seemed to me as if everything was at rest with me; I was full of peace. While I was wondering over the circumstances, a new sight attracted my gaze. All along the road, on either side, within a foot of the track, were lines of coffins, one on either side of the road, and every one containing a corpse dressed for burial, with its cold, white face upturned to the light. The sight filled me with unutterable horror. I yelled in agony, but could make no sound. The gay party around me only redoubled their singing and laughter at the sight of my agony, and we swept on and on, gliding with the glass wheels over the gliding with the grass which over the glass railroad, every moment coming glass ramoad, every moment coming nearer and nearer to the bend that formed an angle with the road far in the distance.

angle with the load far in the distance. "Who are these," I cried at last, pointing to the dead in the coffins by our side.

"These are persons who made this trip before us," replied one of those near me.

What trip: 1 dance. Why, the trip we are now making: the trip in these glass cars over this glass

"Why do they lie along the railroadeach one in his coffin?"

ch one in this country a whisper and half laugh which seemed to freeze my

"They were dashed to pieces at the end of the road," said he whom I adend of the road, sam he whom I addressed. "You know that the railroad dressed. terminates at an abyss that is without bottom or measure. It is lined with pointed rocks. As each car arrives at the end it precipitates its passe gers into the abyss. They are dashed to pieces against the rocks, and their bodies are brought up here and placed in the coffins as a warning to other passengers; but no one minds it, we're so happy on the glass railroad.

I can never describe the horror with which these words inspired me.

What is the name of this railroad?" I

The person whom I addressed replied in a low voice:

"It is the railroad of Habit. It is very easy to get into one of these cars. Every body is delighted with the soft, gliding motion. The cars move on so gently. Yes, it is the railroad of Habit, and with glass wheels we are whirling over the glass railroad towards a fathomless abyss-In a few moments we will be there, then they will bring our bodies and put them in coffins as a warning to others, but nobody will mind it, will they?"

"I was choked with horror. I struggled for breath, made frantic efforts to leap from the cars, and in the struggle I

I knew it was only a dream, and yet, whenever I think of it, I can see that long line of cars moving gently over the glass railroad. I can see the cars far ahead as the ahead as they are turning the bend of the road. I can see the dead in their coffins, clear and discipled the clear and distinct, on either side of the road, while the laughter and singing of the gay and heread in the gay and happy passengers resound in my ears. I only see those cold faces of the dead, with their the dead, with their glassy eyes uplifted and their frozen hands upon their shrouds. It was a horrible described to the shrouds. It was a horrible dream.

And the bard's changing features and rightening ever brightening eyes attested the emotions which had been aroused by the mere

It was a horrible dream. A long train glass care alian of glass cars gliding over a glass railway, reighted mist freighted with youth, beauty and music, while on the while on the ot er hand are stretched the victims of yesterday as a timely but un-

"There's a moral in that dream." Reader, are you addicted to any sinful abit? Break it of habit? Break it off ere you dash against the rocks.

How forcible does this dream remind one of the incidence this dream remind one of the insidious and delusive effects of the habitual use of opiates and alcoholic stimulants. holic stimulants, how much alike in their exhibitaration and its much alike in their exhibitation, and its unhappy final results. Reader if sults. Reader, if you are not afflicted yourself of the handings. yourself of the happiness offered you in the act of doing good by directing some erring one, who is so afflicted, to the way of painless relief?

Arrest this "glass train" in its fearful speed and with its precious freight. This arrest must be properly done. The most approved "air-brake" must be applied. I claim to have and to understand how to apply these "air-brakes" without so much as a shock to the victim of these habits.

An Instructive Letter.

The following letter is written by a physician of high standing. He was cured by my treatment in 1877. He does not wish his name published, but gives me permission to refer the afflicted to him. I prefer, as a rule, not to publish certificates without the name and address of the giver, but I make an exception here, as this letter contains much information in regard to the habit:

Dr. B. M. Woolley Atlanta, Ga .:

My DEAR SIR-This age in which we live is eminently a practical one. Yet it is impossible for any system of science or art to stand before the intelligence of this people, flooded as they are with intellectual light, if not sustained by real claims of merit, confidence and respect. These reflections are called forth by a paragraph in your last letter to me, wherein you state that some are incredulous of the power of your Opium Cure to eradicate the disease for which you recommend it To investigate this matter and give you the benefit of my experience and careful study is the object of this communication, and more especially as I hope it may lead others to as complete relief as I myself have had. I can conceive of no condition in life so destructive to everything that makes life desirable as the Opium habit.

To begin, then, we might inquire in what way this substance exercises its physiological action? There are conflicting opinions, but the one that best accords with my own views is that of Moliere and Hammond-that anemia of the brain is present, opium producing contraction of the cerebral vessels. A toxic dose of opium produces narcosis at once; in a small dose, the narcosis is preceded by excitation. that in the first instance the stage of excitement is so short that it is not appreciable, the dose overpowering the system at once-its physiological action being similar to that of congestion. At first the capillary vessels are dilated by the stimulus sent through the nerves supplying the part, and afterwards contracted. It has been demonstrated by Moliere that in sleep we have cerebral anemia, or, in other words, that by withdrawing blood from any part, by whatever means, we lessen the sensibility and produce partial, if not complete, anæsthesia, as shown by the great Nelaton, in the asphyxia produced by the inhalation of chloroform. The result is always a quieting and anodyne one. I further believe that this is the demonstrable physiological fact in the opium habit. The subject, by continual use of the drug, produces a chronic contraction of the cerebral vessels, to which condition the brain (through habit) accommodates itself, and when the drug is left off, the cause of this contraction of the cerebral vessels (which has now become a second na ure) being removed, the vessels are dilated, resulting in congestion or engorgement of the brain, with all its peculiar sufferings, as is shown by hyperesthesia, irritability of the stomach, or cerebral vomiting mania, and, in many instances, even death, this congestion being peculiar on account of its peculiar cause. Now, if this theory be correct, and I believe after careful study that it is, we can comprehend why it is that a p.rson, after becoming addicted to the use of opium, or its alkaloids, which have the same physiological effects, is so utterly powerless to remedy his wretched condition by a discontinuance of its use, and we can also conceive how unscientific it is to expect him to abandon the habit without aid. Now, the question arises, how would we intelligently prescribe for his pathological condition? If we can find a drug that would prevent the congestion of the brain, consequent upon the abandoning of the opium habit, and thus relieve the unique symptoms attending this congestion, scientifically speaking, the end is attained, and we might expect that the cerebral vessels would, after a long time, regain their normal condition and a cure result. The sequel of this communication will show that in the remedy you propose, be it what it may, we have a specific in this

But another question is, whether or not this evil is one that threatens the interest of this people? We contemplate, in an enlightened way, what man isthat he is the image of his Maker, like a God, dwells among the stars, else how does he view you world that rides, through space with lightning speed through his own invention—the telescope —that he catches the light and unfolds it to an admiring world into spectres of beauty that even the remembrance of his grandeur after his death is a joy forever for the living, and that his dignity is yet more clearly demonstrated when we contemplate the nature of the soul. In the language of Professor Armick, "Even in thought it stands in the ashes of a cindered world, exultant in a destiny which has just begun, when worlds have ceased to be." And then woman—the greatest and best gift of God to man-

Pi

THE FELL DESTROYER.

"Pain and anguish ring the brow,"
A ministering angel thou."

Or who in the shock of battle exclaims: "I know 'twas a trumpet's note,

And I see my brother's lances gleam,

And I see my brother's lances gleam, And their pinions wave by the mountain stream And their plumes on the glad winds float." Or who, in their beautiful resignation and pride of faithfulness, still clings to the drunken footsteps of her husband until death breaks the bond and then goes and weeps over his discreditable grave and forgives him all. But all this seems as a gem set in clay—his living temple. Yet this soul, even that of a Daciere, whose eloquence was almost superhuman among the orators of antiquity, or some of our more modern senators, whose names I forbear to mention, so honored in their memory, and that of wives, sisters, mothers and brothers, fathers, daughters and sons, is to-day prostrate and trailing in the dust, shadowed by the broken lamps, whose rich clouds of brilliant light have been exchanged for poisonous vapors, a sad and dismal monument of former greatness, this, too, the fruits and work of that ness, tins, too, the frents and work of that incubus, Opium, which has fastened with such dreadful terror his poisoned fangs upon the vitals of this generation, an evil that stops not until the house of the soul shakes under the tempest, the rafters rot and give way, the roof sinks in, and the building falls to the ground like a palace all in ruins, with the light and love vanished and gone before. comes up from every city, town and hamlet in this broad land a wild refrain and cry for help from this Opium fiend. It is the most terrible disease of which I have any knowledge; yet you have a have any knowledge, yet you have a certain painless and radical cure, demoncertain paintees and radical cure, demonstrated to me by an actual personal test. I contracted the habit of taking Sulphate of Morphia, hypodermically, during a of Morphia, hypoterinicany, during a spell of sickness. I could see no rescue, and I had abandoned all hope of relief.

I had used as high as sixty grains of morphine in twenty-four hours, yet your remedy has affected a complete cure. I no longer take the Antidote, and am now in as good health as I ever was in my life. This I cheerfully state, and with the deepest gratitude to you, sincerely hope that my experience with your invaluable remedy may lead others in my deplorable condition to the same rescue and renewed happiness.

Very respectfully your friend,

The Fell Destroyer.

There are few, if any, evils into which the human family are led by degrees and from which from which they finally suffer that are not alluring in their incipient influences, or hid hereatt or hid beneath a deceptive garb. The avenues of vice are generally hedged about hy formatter and generally hedged about by flowery paths. The vilest of the vile are often draped in purple and fine linen. The very apartments of the most wicked are often made attractive by enchanting music, the lights of cheerfulness, the ballance, the lights of cheerfulness. ness, the hallucinations of perfume and poetry, as well as the most attractive works of art and nature. The most poisonous serpents are often clothed in beautiful Lorents beautiful hues. Many beautiful flowers hang over dangerous precipices, and embosomed is the control of th bosomed in their sweet folds virulent poisons. Some of the sharpest and most poignant thorns are but barely hid by flowers exquisitely beautiful and of the sweetest odors. Terrible volcanoes lurk beneath mountains beneath mountains perfectly bewildering in their ravishing beauty. But of all evils, perhaps evils, perhaps none are so insidious, delusive or alluring, nor any more loathsome, unutterably pernicious and horrible in final results. in final results, than that caused by the excessive and that that caused by In excessive and habitual use of opiates. In its incipiency it seems to be a panacea for all ills for all ills, and doubtless does at times make its view. make its victims feel as though they were transported and transported on the wings of a speechless music, and floating through the air, and even in the vales enabled to play hide and seet with the vales enabled to play the part it is hide and seek with the meteors. But it is but a step battern the meteors. But it is but a step between these heights and the deepest abasement, prison bars, handcuffs and wretched death. The chain of its bondage may, indeed, for a long time be golden may, indeed, for a long time be golden; many a day may pass before going on a slow in the while there is going on a slow insidious consumption of native stranger! of native strength, and when at last captivity becomes tivity becomes a pain, its victims awake to discover in terror and despair that the very forces of disenthrallment have perished out of their reach, and the gate of egress closed behind them; and it is here the soul begins to shrink, and realize the appalling truth that it has been sinking instead of rising; that it has been truly dwarfed instead of expanded and enlarged; that it has been defaced and abased instead of polished and exalted; for it is a fact worthy the consideration of all, that the soul ever withers and shrinks from its healthy growth towards the true end of its being under the dominance of any sensual indulgence.

Investigation has established the fact that opium suspends, and by long continuance in its indulgence virtually extirpates that vital force out of which springs hope, insight into excellence, for titude, volition made permanent in perseverance. It is an artificial energy destructive to all natural energy. It actually annihilates the power of will over action. In fact, the emasculation of the will may be classed as one of its most chareteristic effects, and, by submitting to it, the victims sow a harvest of degradation which involves in its mildewed sheaves manly and womanly fortitude, faith and promise-all the list of high-toned principles which are the virile; even more, the true human glory. Then let me admonish all to beware of the use of opiates in any form! Soon, ah! too soon, will all its pleasures turn to pain. Soon will its waters turn to fountains of bitterness, from whose brink you will be forced by power of habit and that insatiable, undefinable and inexpressible thirst of the Opium-diseased victim to draw in their foul and ever maddening lees, without the power, unaided, of arising. At this point how often do the pitiable victims beat their breasts in despair, as they behold their buried hopes, their dead and mangled ties of former affections. They are provoked to curse themselves and the heinous drug for destroying the noblest powers of their nature-these powers, which it may have been, in earlier and better days it was their great ambition to strengthen, to nourish, to ennoble, to enlarge and clarify Then, as one who has had peculiarly favorable opportunities of learning of the insidious character of this drug in the incipiency of its use, as well as the terrible and appalling effects of its long continuance, I would say to all who are but yet tampering with this charming but heinous monster, beware! You, it may be, are as yet only dallying with it in its flowery paths of pleasant dreams-but beware! Retrace your steps at once! You are, I assure you, as one daring the brink of a cataract. The music now enchanting you, instead of heaven-born origin, is but demons' alluring chimes. You are but dallying with the gentle influence pertaining to the approaches of a Niagara. Then reverse your oars and paddle for life ere it be too late.

It may be that some reader may conclude that much more is said and written about the opium habit, its terrors and dangers, than the facts in the case justify. It may not be unreasonable to expect such views from those not posted in the nature, fearful extent and appalling increase of the habit. Could you but for one moment see what multitudes of victims, composed of both sexes, of every class, from every station in life, are gradually approaching, while others are writhing in the torment of hell on earth, which the Opium habit creates for its votaries, you certainly would not be so indifferent or calm in the cause of reform in this direction. I am aware that, perhaps, there is no evil into which a fellowbeing is prone to fall where condemnation is more universally bestowed, and less pity felt, and where fewer are found disposed to lend a helping hand than where the evil habit of using opium to excess prevails. And yet who is a greater slave, who deserves more pity, or who is more in need of the gentle, yet powerful, stroke of Charity's hand than the opium victim? But thus it is too often the case with the world. It is always so much easier to condem, to criticise, to pull and push down than to create or reconstruct, that the majority are most frequently found satisfying an easy conscience by adopting the former course. But is it right? Is it charitable? Is it Christianlike.

Do you ask what you can do? I answer, much indeed. I have given to the public from time to time irrefutable evidence of the most absolute efficacy of my treatment even in the most extreme cases. You would do a great charity and a Christian duty by an earnest effort to satisfy yourself, if no already convinced, of the fact stated, and then carry the knowledge to the heart and home of every despairing sufferer you can.

Could you but for one day actually see the numerous throng of the opiumafflicted of this land-realize their torment, hear their cries of suffering and earnest entreaties for help-could you look into their faces, betokening the very gloom of despair and the darkness of their hearts, or witness, it may be, the idiotic smile, offspring of some alluring

PR

PA

but sadly delusive dream—such an alarm would go forth as would certainly be heeded where the human heart had not become callous, and the fountain of sympathy and the springs of charity had not forever dried up. Could you but draw aside the curtains of secrecy that so universally veil this sad, evil habit and direful consequences but for a moment and behold the wretchedness withincould you know but , half the secret distress of the opium-afflicted of our country, and realize fully the fearful increase of the habit-could you be made aware of the number who fill places in our asylums from its effects, or the host who perish unknown—could you be made aware of the number of homes darkened and made hapless by its baneful influence-could you see its fiendish, fiery tongue of destruction spreading demonlik desolation among the flowery paths of human affections, and mysteriously putting its cold, clammy, poisonous grasp upon the very vital cords that bind fond heart to heart, destroying the happiness of each, you would not think too much is said, or could be said, in reference to

Could you witness, day by day, estrangements between the most devoted, gradually increasing b/ some—to them it may be hidden, unknown cause, until it may be maden, unknown cause, until the anguish of separation even threatens them—could you know the many noble impulses of the best minds—now chilled and beclouded by the dead night-shades of this curse, you would not become tired of having your attention called to its prevalence. Do not so universally condemn, but pity; upbraid less and

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

A Thrilling Incident.

It was a dark and gloomy night-just such a night wherein ghosts are said to such a night wherein ghosts are said to walk, and when disembodied spirits meet in nocturnal conferences, The clock had toled the solemn hour of twelve when an unearthly scream, as from some lost soul, unearthy stream, as their some lost soul, sinking, strugglingly sinking into realms of eternal despair, awoke the sleepers in of eternal usapan, anothe the steepers in rooms overlooking the Alabama river, at selma, just below the wharf. Windows were quickly hoisted in every direction, and prying heads protruded, while all along the question resounded, "Who is along the question resouraged, "Who is it?" "What's the matter?" With an occasional, "Is it murder?" No, for now casional, 18 to manufact 100 lor now hear the cry more distinctly, "Come heral somebody". hear the cry more assumency, "Come here! Come here! somebody, or I shall drown in this." here! Come nere: somebouy, or I shall die. I shall drown in this river tonight!" Only those who heard this cry, like myself and some others, can realize its startling, unearthly sound as it came to us in its awakening influence, over the waters, through the darkness of that midnight hour. It is now recalled as the memory of a horrid dream. A man, in an unguard ed moment, had fallen overboard from one of the steamers anchored at the wharf just above us. He could not swim, but had caught some driftwood, by the aid of which he barely managed to float with the current. We could not see him, but we could hear his upcome his unceasing cry: "Come here! Come here! somebody. I shall drown in this river to-night!" An occasional rough wave seems to fill his mouth; there is not be to be a seems to fill his mouth. there is a struggle, and we think he is gone; but no, he is heard again, and, with wilder cries than before, he implement wilder cries than before the cries t implores for "Help! Help! Help! A ferryman (it was Dick, one of Callahan's colored was Dick, one o lahan's colored ferrymen), nearly a half mile above, has heard the cries and is coming to the rescue, hallooing as he pushed to the rescue, hallooing as he pushes his little boat. "Where are you? Where are you?" Without ceasing where are you?" ceasing, we hear the distressing cries: "Come here! Come here! Oh! help mely He is going down, down, down, borne on he going down, down, and borne on by the turbulent waves, and we can but for we can but faintly hear the pitiful cries. But hear the pitiful un. To it L up. Is it hope or despair? We hear him again when the may him again. There is hope; it may be that the be that the ferryman will reach him in time in time. Ah! hush; what is that? The ferryman says: "I have him! I have him! I have him! Let go that twig and get into my heat and got and into my boat, and do as I bid you, and I will but you I will put you once more on land.

He had caught He had caught a twig which projected from a high, perpendicular bluff of him in his efforts to keep from being there. swept along with the current. There woice he was, strength nearly gone, voice almost inaudilly nearly gone, voice almost inaudible, but still faintly cry ing: "Come her, but still faintly cry included." ing: "Come here, but still faintly cry Oh! Help!" To him, it was of little only take him out of the chilling only take him out of the chilling waves and save him out of the chilling waves and save him from so fearful a fate as that in fate as that icy grave. Dick reaches him at last; he pulls him into the and difficult rowing, lands him on element He is soon freed from the shore. He is soon freed from the man, restored to comfort and is a saved man, restored to comfort and physical strength.

Can there not be a useful application of this incident to point a moral? How often, in an unguarded moment, are our fellow-beings falling into bad habits, and, like the man who was in the water, find the current of some besetting sin bearing them irresistibly down, down to endless ruin. They realize, finally, their danger, and cry aloud for "Help!" but the world is asleep. Possibly, a few near by may hear the agonized appeal, and some may be moved to say, "Poor fellow!" But not more than one out of a hundred paddles through danger and darkness to their rescue.

There is a large class of sufferers to whom we may aptly refer just here, and, perhaps, there are no others to whose sufferings the world at large is as little sensible. We refer to the unfortunate men or women, who, from various causes, have gotten into that most distressing and fatal of all bad habits, the constant use of opium in any of its shapes or forms. Their most intimate friends, while perhaps moved by a vague pity, will at the same time stand by, not having the knowledge or means, however willing they may be to use them, for the rescue of the unfortunate.

Let me say to those who are being surely drowned by an element worse than muddy water that help is at hand. Only trust in confidence, and you can be saved by the same means hundreds of others have been.

Either write or come in person to Dr. B. M. Woolley, at Atlanta; place yourself in his hands, just as the man whose story you have just heard yielded to Dick's strong grasp and was drawn out of the icy wave into the safe little boat. If you, whose eyes meet these lines, are not addicted to the use of opium, thank God for it, and then look around and see if you can find among your list of acquaintances some poor drowning man or woman, and go to them and awaken them, and help them to reach this boat. If you can do no more, send them this book, and then send to Dr. Woolley their names and address, which will be held strictly confidential.

A Wife's Appeal.

Smile not so brightly from the cup He looks upon; Dear Circe, thou hast many loves, And I-but one.

I'll deck my face with sunny smiles As sweet as thine, My lip shall glow as brightly red As ruby wine.

False syren, I thine arts defy; He is mine own!
The love light in his eyes shall shine On me alone.

-smile no more from out the cup He looks upon; Sweet Circe, thou hast many loves, And I—but one.

PART SECOND.

TO THOSE DESIRING TREATMENT.

To Persons Wishing to Order Opium Antidote or Cure.

PR

PA

It is necessary to have the following questions plainly and truthfully answered. It is absolutely useless to expect a cure when failing to do this. If you are not positive of the amount, have some druggist weigh or measure a supply carefully and test the matter fully. Do not in this test try to see how little you can be sustained with, for this would deceive me. You might be sustained with half the amount your system has been accustomed to. If you have reduced the amount you used, let me know it, and how much, and by what means you have reduced it. Never state the amount by guess; by so doing you are liable to cause yourself unnecessary trouble and

Questions to be Answered.

Age? Sex? Married or single? Occupation? Present state of

Have you palpitation of the heart? Do you use spirituous liquors? If so, state to what extent? Do you

What caused loss of health? Length of time you have used Opium? Cause of habit?

Have you ever used more opiates than now? If so, state how much more, and how long since, and by what means did you reduce the amount? Have you ever taken treat-ment for the habit? If so, state who ment for the land. It so, state who treated you, and what was the result?

How much opiates were you taking when you began the treatment?

How long since you quit the treat-

How much Opium, if any, it took to sustain you when you stopped treatment, and how much now?

Were you ever, at any other time in your life, addicted in any degree to this habit? If so state particulars. Did your parents or grand-parents use opiates or stimulants?

State the exact amount used. If Morphine, the number of grains per day, or the length of time one bottle lasts you. If Gum Opium, the number of gradit ber of grains per day or the length of time of time one ounce lasts you. It Laudanum or McMunn's Elixir, the length of the McMunn's Lasts you length of time one bottle lasts you or the or the number of bottles used per week week (A bottle of Laudanum or Elixir usually contains one ounce, and a bottle a bottle of Morphine one drachm or sixty quair sixty grains.) State how you use the opiate you talk opiate you take. This is important.

What is your temperament? (A person who is nervous, quick, ensitive to improve sensitive to impressions, is of a nervous temporary ous temperament. One who is stout, full-blooded, red-faced, is of a sark guine temperament. A thin, dark featured retired retired retired featured, reticent person is of a bilious temperament. A thin, didn't temperament the state of t temperament, while a pale, fat, sluggish nature gish nature is called phlegmatic of

Name of patient? P. O. address?

Nearest express office? It is important that each and every ne of the all the one of the above questions should be fully answered fully answered, and, as nearly as possible, even and, as nearly as possible. sible, every symptom, disease or habit the patient has been or is now afflicted with should been or is now afflicted with should be made known to me, as they are all made known to me, as they are all considered in compounding the pounding the medicine, and are in

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS FOR FEMALE APPLICANTS ONLY.

Are you regular in menstruating? If not, state how long since your sick ness appeared of ten ness appeared? State how often it state how often

How many children have you had ince you have locally have since you have been using opiates? Are you now pregnant? If so, how far advanced?

ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS FOR MALE APPLICANTS ONLY.

Is your virility or sexual appetite as great as before using opiates?

If not, then state how long you have been failing and to what extent. been failing, and to what extent.

I advise that the antidote be ordered each time in two monthly supplies, as my experience has taught me that the patient is thus less liable to get out of medicine. You can get one month's supply at a time, but never order less than one month's supply. To get out of antidote before you are cured will necessitate a resort to other drugs, and this will interrupt the course of your treatment and retard your cure.

Is there any Danger in the Use of the Antidote?

It is innocent and beneficial for those for whom it is prepared when taken in prescribed doses, but IT IS DANGEROUS FOR ANY ONE ELSE. It should, therefore, at all times be kept in a secure place away from children or others who might taste or take it. NO ONE EXCEPT THOSE FOR WHOM IT IS PREPARED SHOULD EVER TASTE IT, MUCH LESS EVER TAKE A DOSE OF IT. It must be made powerful to do its work properly.

How Much Will It Cost?

The cost is not great when you consider the Opium you take cost money, and unfits you for every duty in life, and there is no end to it; while with the Antidote, in mind and body you are soon fitted for usefulness, relieved from suffering, and ere long can lay it aside also.

Terms will be given on receipt of a statement of the case, and I will endeavor to make them as reasonable and low as the nature of the case will admit.

Any communication you may make shall be kept always strictly private.

Will the Use of the Antidote Interfere With My Ordinary Avocation? No.

On the contrary, you will be more natural and better able to attend to business.

Can It be Sent by Mail?

Being a liquid, it cannot. It is packed in plain wooden boxes and sent by express.

An Important Point.

Now, one word on another important point. If you have not the money to pay for the medicine for a reasonable length of time, that you may complete a cure before quitting its use, allow me to advise you to get it before commencing, or be very certain you can get it as you need it. I would impress upon you the fact that I do not want your money for nothing. I do not believe in half-doing things, and if you only take, say one or two bottles when the case may require five or six or more to complete a cure, I can assure you what little you have taken will do you but little permanent good.

I wish to be candid in this matter, whether it curtails my business or not. I claim no supernatural or extraordinary, special or spiritual interposition in my behalf in this treatment, but do trust that I am, and shall continue to be, honest and candid in the whole matter, and especially in my dealings with the patient, and I hope they will be candid, frank and confiding with me. I desire no flattery as to the effects of the Antidote, but simple facts pointedly stated. Let us try to do each other good. I sympathize with every Opium-afflicted person. I have had experience with thousands of such afflicted, and know of their horrors and trials, and I wish to do them good, not to flatter them with false hopes; and if they will give me their confidence, get my remedy and obey instructions, I can assure them that I can get them out of their troubles.

How Long Shall the Antidote be Used?

It is impossible to answer this definitely. Much depends-1. Upon the quantity of Opiate used, 2. The length of time it has been used. 3. The general condition of health, obedience to instructions, etc. We warn patients that they often feel so WELL they imagine they are cured when they are not. Beware of this and follow directions. The Antidote must be taken long enough to thoroughly eradicate the effects of the narcotic poison from the system, and to give nature time to re-establish a healthy normal condition. I will always complete a cure as soon as is practicable, with a due regard for the comfort and safety of the patient. Some are cured in a month or two, but few in less than five or six months, and some require ten or twelve months, and others, extreme cases, more.

PR

PA

Fathers, Read This.

The New York Voice recently elicited the opinions of eminent physicians on the subject of hereditary we reproduce one of the replies for the benefit of our readers:

The forms of hereditary deterioration from drink are many. This is necessarily the case, because the toxic action of alcohol (and it is always toxic on physiological conditions) is universal upon the system. In this universal upon the system. In this respect it differs from many poisons, which are apt to act more or less locally. The universal impression is of such a nature that it will more particularly fasten itself upon such constitutional traits of the organism as are predisposed to yield to its powerful impressions. This subject is very familiar to the alienist or neurologist. Dr. Maudsley says: "Certain forms of nervous disease, such as epilepsy, hysteria, dipsomania, hypochondriasis, etc., may predispose to other forms of nervous disease in the offspring as conversely, insanity in the parent may predispose to other forms of dismay predispose to other forms of disease in the offspring. The same auease in the onspring. The same author says: "The mingling and transformation of neuroses (dipsomania, etc.) are more plainly manifest when the history of the course of nervous disease is traced through generations; it is seen how close are the fundamental relations of certain nervous diseases, and how artificial the distinction between them sometimes may appear." That is to say that may appear. That is to say that dipsomania, amnesia, somnambulism, dipsomana, annesia, somnamounsm, etc., may masquerade in turn, in the same individual, or, more likely still, same maryaman, or, more meny sun, may descend, through heredity, in

Dr. C. H. Hughes, the eminent alienist, says that he has seen in the tamily of the drunkard, "One given tacks of hysteria or epilepsy, or melmore prominent works on insanity mere full of this subject. It is not should be persisted in to the constituant to be alternated by abstinence and gence in small quantities a return toward a normal state. Indulating in small quantities of wine or nounced "more dangerous" is promounced "more dangerous" is promounced "more dangerous" than persided in the reason is that the constant impression affects the constitution more than the interrupted impressions, the latter affording the organism opportunities to rerecover itself. I do not think I know of a single drunkard who has a sound member in the offspring of his drunken years. Of course, fifteen years of excessive study of this subject would be expected to brighten the optics with respect to its phenomena. Such an one would readily see things hidden to the casual observer. But close observation has convinced me that, either openly and plainly as in physical degenerations—or else covertly, as in the morals and the disposition, or in the mental powers, severally or united, the constitution of every child united, the constitution is every child of the steady drinker is impaired by the steady drinker is impaired by the drinking habit of its progenitors.

I am acquainted with a family, the father and mother of which are of excise a long-lived drunkard. One of the children has chorea badly—this cannot have come from the "surround-formed in the central nervous organs not have been a matter of "environan occasional drunkard, while still a drunkard and an idle profligate.

It would be easy to fill a large book I do not believe that it is possible for born into the world without being ebriate ancestry.

Opium.—There are no doubt a great the use of this drug and who would habit if they knew how to do it. We forming them those persons by informing them that Dr. B. M. Woolley, and do it in such a way that you will again. He is a physician of good and made once desolate homes happy once.—New Orleans Picayune.

To Persons Wishing to Order Whisky Antidote or Cure.

STATEMENT OF CASE.

It is necessary to have the following questions plainly and truthfully answered:

Questions to be Answered.

Age? Sex? Married or single? Occupation? Present state of health?

About your usual weight in health and weight now? About what height?

Have you palpitation of the heart?
Do you use Opium or any other stimulants besides whisky? If so, how much?

Are your bowels constipated, or do they move regularly?

What caused loss of health? Length of time you have used whisky?

Amount you use in twenty-four hours?

Cause of habit?

Do you drink habitually, or only take "sprees" occasionally?

If you spree, state what is the general length of time a spree lasts?
What time elapses between sprees?

When did you have the last spree?

Have you ever had delirium tremens? If so, how often and when?

Is the habit hereditary?

Did your parents or grandparents drink to excess?

Temperament?

Any person who is nervous, quick, sensitive to impressions, is of a nervous temperament. One who is stout, full-blooded and red-faced, is of a sanguine temperament. A thin, dark-featured, reticent person is of a bilious temperament, while a pale, fat, sluggish nature is called phiegmatic or lymphatic.

For answers to the following questions see answers to same questions under the head of direction "To Persons Wishing to Order Opium Antidote or Cure."

IS THERE ANY DANGER IN THE USE OF THE ANTIDOTE? WILL THE USE OF THE ANTIDOTE INTERFERE WITH MY ORDINARY OCCUPATION? CAN IT BE SENT BY MAIL?

How Much Will It Cost?

The price of the whisky antidote is $10.00 per month's supply.

How Long Shall the Antidote be Used?

One month's supply is often sufficient, but I recommend the use of two months' supply, and in some cases three or four months' supply should be used.

Will the Antidote Relieve the Desire for Liquor?

It will, and restore the system to a natural and normal condition. There is nothing magical. The system is diseased either by heredity or the long use of alcoholic drinks. The antidote meets this disease and overcomes it, thus enabling the person afflicted to stop both the Antidote and the Alcoholic Stimulants.

How Drinking Causes Apoplexy.

It is the essential nature of all wines and spirits to send an increased amount of blood to the brain. The first effect of taking a glass of wine or stronger form of alcohol is to send the blood there faster than normal. Hence the circulation that gives the red face. It increases the activity of the brain, and it works faster, and so does the tongue; but as the blood goes faster than common to the brain, it returns faster, and no immediate harm may result. But suppose a man keeps on drinking, the blood is sent to the brain so fast in large quantities that in order to make room for it the arteries have to change themselves. They increase in size and, in doing so, they press against the more yielding, flaccid veins, which carry the blood out of the brain, and thus diminish the size of the veins-the result being that the blood is not only carried to the arteries of the brain faster than is natural or healthful, but it is prevented from leaving it as fast as usual. Hence a double set of causes of death are in operation. Hence a man may drink enough of brandy or other spirits in a few hours, or even minutes, to bring on a fatal attack of apoplexy. This is, literally, being dead drunk.

The wind is unseen, but cools the brow of the fevered one, sweetens the summer atmosphere and ripples the surface of the lake into silvery spangles of beauty. So goodness of heart, though invisible to the material eye, makes its presence felt; and from its effect upon surrounding things, we are assured of its existence.

PART THIRD:

TO THOSE UNDER TREATMENT.

Special Instructions and Advice to Those to be Treated for the Opium
Habit and Also to Those Under Treatment.

Before you begin the Antidote I wish to here repeat that it is difficult to say how long it will take to complete a cure in any given case. The remedy should be used for a length of time sufficient to enable nature to reestablish a healthy condition and harmonious action of all the organs. To try to force this is not economy in money or comfort. It is a great mistake, yet one too often conceived and acted upon, to think that the forcing a person off or from the use of opiates, or from the remedy for the Opium habit, cures that diseased condition produced by the long and continued use of the deadly drug. I can stop the use of opiates, I might say, immediately, but it takes time and a wise, patient and persevering use of efficient patient and persevering use of emerent remedies to repair the damages done to the entire system by the poisonous to the entire system by the poisonous salts of the drug, so that every organ can act in healthy harmony with each other, thereby restoring the willpower and every other essential power power and every other essential power of the body, and so enabling the once afflicted persons to control their acafficient persons to control their actions, appetites, etc. The causes which may promote or retard the progress or completion of a cure are so gress or completion of a cure are so numerous, and vary so much in the different cases, that it is difficult to approximate the time with any decrease of certainty. Only office the approximate the time with any degree of certainty. Opium affects different persons in dissimilar ways. Some are damaged much more rapidly some are using sear much more rapidly and seriously than others. Some have more native recuperative power than others: Some obey instructions imothers: Some over instructions implicitly, while others will insist upon the advice or suggestions taking the advice or suggestions of outsiders or try various experiments

I would just here suggest to all interested in the subject, that it is in my opinion of paramount importance that every one should determine for themselves whether they believe me to be an honest honest and reliable person. If you believe I am both, then trust me to advise you vise you wisely and unselfishly. If you cannot trust me thus far, then have nothing to do with me or my treatment. I know that it is natural for all to be exceedingly anxious to ascertain how long it will be ere their bondage is ended ended, and the light of hope and the health and happiness will take the place of gloom and despair, and could I honestly and truthfully tell to each afflicted one h afflicted one how long it would take to complete a cure in their case, it would be a source in their case, it would be a source of great happiness to me as well as to the as well as to themselves. I can, however only content of ever, only say what I HAVE said in reference to the erence to this subject in other places, that some are cured in two or three months fare cured in two or three months, few in less than six months, many in seven to eight, while some require from to eight, while some read quire from ten to eight, while some and rare and discount twelve months, and rare and difficult cases even longer.

A system suffering from any chronic lisease disease, and especially a disease brought about by a long-continued bad habit, such as the long-continued bad habit, such as the use of large quantities of poisson the use of large quantities ties of poison like Opium, cannot be made health; ike Opium, cannot and made healthy in a day, or week, and in but few cases in but few cases in a month. I have but little faith in a month. but little faith in the safety, rationality or permanent ity or permanency of extremely quick or rapid curses and the safety, rationally or rapid curses are properly of extremely quick or rapid cures of the Opium habit. In most things we are that most things we recognize the fact that it is much easier it is much easier to destroy, to burn down, to many to destroy, to burn down, to mar, than to reconstruct. Yetit seems to be thought by some that an Opium-discount hought by some that has an Opium-diseased system, that has been receiving the been receiving the ravages of the drug for years, can be ravages of the druged, restored to he relieved, reconstructions. Is ed, restored to health in 10 to 20 days! Is and you cannot so a moment, reflect, and you cannot so conclude.

When the abnormal condition, produced by the use of opiates, has been it by your restored health, and by the gradually growing consciousness that you no longer need either the opiate or the remedy, which acts well only on an abnormal condition of the system. You will, when fully restored to health, have no desire for, but rather an aversion to, the use of the antidote, as well as of the opiate. Until this condition is produced and fully established, it is not prudent to discontinue the remedy, be the time long or short, though you may reduce the dose ever so much.

I want to emphasize certain points. Remember that no two bottles of medicine made for the same patient are alike. Each is a separate prescription for the case from the beginning to the end, according to the condition of the case each time the prescription is made. Therefore do not expect to find them alike in color, taste or apparent effect. This, however, does not exclude your report of the effects. I want to know all the changes.

PATIENTS, READ THIS.

After you begin using the Medicine, always order again when you have (at least ten days' supply on hand. If your mail or express is not very prompt, or if you live far away, then order two weeks or more before you are out. Don't forget this, as it (cannot be sent hurriedly, and you should not get out if a cure is expected. Remember, I always have several hundred cases on hand, and ithat every bottle is made after the order is received.

Every order should be accompanied by an account of progress of the case. State how the Medicine sustains. State when you began using the last Esupply of Antidote. How many doses you use per day, and how much at each dose. If sleep is sound and refreshing. Appetite and digestion good or not. Bowels regular, constipated or loose. Mind cheerful or otherwise. Do not simply say, "Doing well," but give particulars. I will furnish you blank reports, which should be filled whenever an order is given by the patient under treatment. This is important, as it gives me a clear idea of the patient's condition. My great aim is to cure, and to do so in the quickest time practicable, always having due regard for the comfort and safety of the patient.

I advise that the antidote be ordered in two monthly supplies at a time, as my experience has taught me that the patient is thus less liable to get out of medicine. To get out of Antidote before you are cured will necessitate a resort to other drugs, and this will interrupt the course of your treatment and greatly retard a cure.

You can get one month's supply at a time, but never order less than that amount.

Directions for Taking Opium Antidote.—The dose should be taken with perfect regularity and exactness—four doses a day of a fluid drachm—or fill the measure I send with first supply up to mark running from 1 to 60. Thus, 1—60. Never take more—to be taken at 7 and 11 o'clock in the forenoon and at 3 and 8 in the afternoon. If affected unpleasantly about the head, eyes or stomach, reduce the dose.

The use of all stimulants should be discontinued. Where a correct statement has been given, there will be no need for them. The bottles are numbered in the order in which they should be taken. Finish each bottle before beginning the next.

Follow Directions.—This Antidote or Cure should be taken exactly as prescribed. NEVER TAKE MORE THAN THE PRESCRIBED DOSE. Where a correct statement of the case has been given it will sustain.

Why an Increased Dose Should Not be Taken.—As I have noticed that some do not understand why an increased dose cannot be taken if dePI sired effect is not produced by the regular quantity, I will try to explain and show the danger: As a rule, certain ingredients are used in as great a quantity as it is safe to do, while others may be regulated by the statement of the particular case for which it is specially prepared. Now, if, from some error in this statement the remedy should not sustain, you see at once you dare not try to correct this by taking more than the regular quantity, and you risk taking too much of certain ingredients, and thus retard your cure if you do no greater harm. The only safe plan in such a case is to stop taking out of such a bottle, or try a reduced dose, and then if it does not answer, stop; and, if necessary, use a small quantity of opiates until you have another supply prepared to suit your particular case, you giving a full account of the effects and short-comings of this one. Generally, reducing the dose will correct any trouble. More than the pre-Scribed dose NEVER WILL. Remem-

P

What You Should Not Use. Acids, so far as practicable, should be avoided. If acid fruits are used, use them with plenty of sugar. ALL SPIRITU-OUS OR MALT LIQUORS, AND OPIUM IN ANY FORM, SHOULD BE ENTIRELY AVOIDED. All drugs of a stimulating or depressing nature should be avoidor depressing nature should be avoided. Avoid mercury, or, if used in any form, be sure that the bowels move freely in 12 to 18 hours afterward. Any medicine not prescribed by me should be taken, if at all, in smaller doses than usual. It is best smaller doses than usual. It is best to get my consent before you use any medicines with the Antidote. In fact, generally, other medicines should be generally, other medicines should be abandoned, as far as possible, while using the Antidote. Most preparations of iron are not objectionable but tions of iron are not objectionable, but often beneficial, if taken between doses of Antidote. So if your family physician thinks you need iron, take it.

Your Family Physician Should it be necessary to employ a physician, show him these instructions and cau-

The Bowels and Liver.—It is very necessary that the bowels act once per Constitution almost invariable day. Constipation almost invariably day. Goussipation annost invariably exists with the opium addicted. Some exists who containing any above prohibited artials any simple catharuc, not containing any of the above prohibited articles, can be taken, or I will send you a pill, to contiver and bowels, when ordered be taken, or 1 win send you a pill, to act on liver and bowels, when ordered and I think it necessary. Should the constipation continue, I recommend the use of the Fluid Extract of Cascara Sagrada, one teaspoonful morning and night. You can get this at any drug store. The get this at any drug store. bowels are in a state of semi-paralysis, and to overcome this, regularity in attending stool at a CERTAIN CONVENIENT HEAD NIENT HOUR EACH DAY MUST BE OBSERVED. This, with simple warm water enemas, frequent salt-water baths and age baths, and drinking water with magnesia before here. nesia before breakfast, with proper diet and exercise, will, as a general rule, prove all that is necessary.

Bathing.—Bathing frequently in tepid water, in which you have cast a handful of the will handful of common table salt, you will find a handful find a benefit. I would advise you to take such a farty take such a bath at least once in forty eight hours, for one or two weeks after beginning the use of the remedy, and then land the and then less frequently. Just before going to had requently. Just before wipe going to bed is a good time. Wipe Sleep.—Plenty of sleep is necessary, ut the house and but the hours should be regular, and early rising important. Retire early and avoid and avoid excitement. Retire are restless and excitement. If you are restless and do not sleep until late, the cause contains the cause con the cause generally is the antidote is stimulating stimulating too much. Reduce the night dose and night dose and you will be relieved.

If you should you will be relieved. If you should wake very early you may feel wake very early the may feel uncomfortable before the time for the first dose. This is well, for you will be stored to the first dose. for you will be free from any support and nature and nature will be free from any support to help in the to help in the work of restoration.

Exercise.—Take moderate exercise in the open air. Do not fail in this particular. The Do not fail in this husy at particular. It is well to keep busy at something but something, but never overwork body or mind to a never overwork body or mind to a state of exhaustion.

Breakfast hat

Breakfast before taking much exercise.

Diet.—While taking much exercise. Diet.—While taking much exercise, ou should use taking the remedy, you should use nutritious food that agrees with we nutritious food that agrees with you. Use no acids. If You eat acid for Use no acids. you eat acid fruit see that it is thoroughly rine and see that it is there are the sugar oughly ripe and put plenty of sugar

Discontinue the Use of Opiates. You hould entirely use of Opiates. should entirely discontinue the use of opiates in any fact dose opiates in any form from the first dose of the Antidot of the Antidote, and never, under Antidote, and never, under Antidote, But CIRCUMSTANCES, resort to it again. But say: "By, resort to it again. some say: "But circumstances may arise where it will circumstances may arise where it will be absolutely indisopinion that any one that becomes addicted to the use of opiates, and ever expects to be freed permanently from the habit, had better die than to get into it and go on to destruction by degrees. This, to some, may seem harsh, but I really believe, from my observation, that it is better for one to be dead and buried than to continue in a state of life where they are in the midst of a living death, unfit for the duties of life, or the realities of death.

Contents of the Remedy. A word as to the contents of this remedy. I give you the certificate of a well known chemist of high professional character, showing the remedy to be scientifically prepared and well adapted to the cure of the Opium Habit, and irrefutable evidence from the cured, and this, with instructions how to use it, I consider sufficient; and I would therefore add that further questions as to its contents need not be asked, as you cannot reasonably expect me to answer them. All questions as to its action, how to use it, etc., not answered here or in other printed matter I furnish, it will give me pleasure to answer to the best of my ability, and, I trust, to the satisfaction of all. I shall, at all times, try to keep you posted as to what the remedy is capable of doing, and try to tell you how to have it accomplish the desired result; and if you do your part, you may rest assured it will do its work to your perfect satisfaction, and return you to freedom and health again.

As a Stimulant and Nutrient.-While using either the Opium or Whisky Remedy, and you feel in need of a stimulant, especially if bowels are loose and stomach not disposed to tolerate solid food, use scalded sweet milk with red pepper in it, say from one-half to one pod to the pint. Make it strong with the pepper and drink hot often. It will prove very efficient as a stimulant, nutrient and astringent. It also tends to quiet the nerves and promote sleep.

Diarrhoea and Dysentery.-I recommend the following treatment for these affections. Take one of my liver pills, and three or four hours afterward take this prescription:

Receipt.

Of Tinc. Catechu., 21 ounces. Of Jamaica Ginger, 11 ounces.

Of Ess. Peppermint, 1 drachm. Of Spirits Camphor, 1 drachm:

Mix and make mixture.

Dose: One teaspoonful with water every two or three hours until bowels are checked.

In conjunction use the above stimulant and nutrient—sweet milk and red

This treatment should not be used unless the looseness of the bowels is so great that much weakness is caused.

Write Frequently and Fully.-It often facilitates a cure, and is always best for the patient to write frequently-not less than once or twice a month-giving a full account of progress of case, effects of remedy, how many doses you are using per day and how much Antidote at each dose; how the appetite, bowels, sleep and digestion, etc., are.

Remember, if your mail or express is not very prompt, or you live far away, you should order two weeks or even more before you will be out of Antidote. Give me at least ten days' notice, it matters not how near you live. This is very important. In no case fail when writing for a new supply, to give particulars of progress. Do not simply state, "Doing Well," etc., but give particulars as to improvement, and if any troubles, what they are. Keep no secrets from me in this matter, if you wish to be cured and get the worth of your money.

Words of Encouragement, Warning and Entreaty to Opium Patients.

In observing the action of my Opium Cure, or Antidote, I have learned certain facts I have thought it well to make known to those who have ordered or who may yet order the remedy. Let me say that there need be no doubts in the mind of any in regard to the efficacy of the remedy. It will do what is claimed for it. If directions are followed it will cure, and that, too, without pain or material inconvenience. I am perfectly aware that these are broad assertions, but I have seen the facts they assert too often and fully demonstrated, in case after case, to admit of a doubt. In witnessing the effects in thousands of cases, I have yet to see a failure where directions are followed, and there was no incurable disease or organic lesion to prevent a final recovery. I will now mention some of the errors and troubles which at times, in many cases, seem to impede progress, and into which so many appear prone to fall. The action of the Antidote is usually so perfectly satisfactory and wonderful in every way, so surprisingly mild does it act in destroying all desire or necessity for opiates in any form without pain or inconvenience; so happy are patients at this point in the realization of these desirable results, and the further evidences of their recovery, such as that their sleep is now sweet and refreshing, their appetite is good, their general health improved, and, in fact, that their whole nature is becoming renovated and rejuvenated, and the functions that were so materially disorganized and impaired are resuming their natural actions, that they are apt to conclude too soon that a complete cure is even then effected. And as a consequence of such conclusion become careless in the use of the remedy, by using it irregularly, or in too small or too large doses, or it may be, abandon it altogether. Just here it is but too often the case that they conclude it will do no special harm to discontinue the remedy for a day or take a little toddy, acid, or take or do some other forbidden thing. My friends, here is great danger. This is a pitfall I would warn you of, that you may avoid it in your gropings, for you are, I assure you, not in the perfect light, but, as it you, not in the perfect fight, out, as it were, only in the mild moonlight and the bright stars of hope shining on your pathway, so late in perfect dark-ness. While this should serve to enness. Write this should serve to encourage, you should not allow yourself to be deceived. But while I would warn, I do not wish to discourage. They are not the truest friends who flatter most, but they who have the nerve to be candid at the risk of innerve to be canonical and the risk of in-curring temporary displeasure if they can but thereby ward off impending danger. My desire is to give you the benefit of my observation in simplicity and candor, while I would at the same and candor, while I would at the same time most positively assure you that time most positively assure you that the glorious light and liberty of the perfect day is attainable, when your health shall be to your soft. perfect day is attainable, when your renewed health shall be to you as the freshness of the morning of youth.

But how often are we deceived in reactual amount of the But now of the actual amount of the hody and mind on the gard to the actual amount of the strength of the body and mind we have when just recovering from a long ill. when Just recovering from a long illness! Let me warn you do not too soon conclude that you are entirely well. Obey instructions; use the remarkable edy as directed; keep me posted as to edy as unrecord, acep me posted as to its action; NEVER, UNDER ANY CIR-CUMSTANCES, TAKE MORE THAN THE PRESCRIBED DOSE. More than the prescribed dose will do harm at all at PRESCRIBED DOSE. More than the prescribed dose will do harm at all times.

It will be a lines. Don't forget this. It will usually depress and make you nervous, and depress and make you nervous, and deprive you of quiet and refreshing sleep, and might prove extremely dangerous besides. It is seldom proper to reduce the dose of the remedy until the general health is improved, and, to a marked degree, re-established. will usually be indicated by improved appetite and digestion, and the reestablishing of the secretions, a more cheerful disposition, more energy, etc. Never reduce your dose so low as to make you extremely nervous or to cause great depression. Keep me posted as to any reduction. Write me often and particularly how you take the remedy, quantity, hours of taking,

Be vigilant. Do not too greatly under estimate the strength and recuperative powers of your late enemy because you have gained a partial victory. Do not conclude that you have totally destroyed his entire forces by simply one death-dealing broadside. Almost imperceptibly and quietly were the stronghold the strongholds of your most vital points occurring to the strongholds of your most vital points occupied by that fearful and insidious for Occupied by that fearful and Occupied by the Occupied by t sidious foe, Opium. By slow, stealthy step, with bloom. step, with bland smiles, silvery dreams and musical and musical notes of almost heavenly cadence did notes of almost heavenly cadence did this alluring enemy invade von vade your very being. But when you finally discourse being. But when you finally discovered your danger you found him firmly fixed and well entrenched and all fixed all fixed and all fixed all fixed and all fixed all fixed all fixed all fixed and all fixed and all fixed all fixed all fixed all fixed all fixed all fixed and all fixed all fi trenched, and doubtless you, as well as others have as others have done, tried hard to rout him, but found him, but found yourself altogether too weak. weak. You have now opened upon him, it is true him, it is true, a very powerful force, but you should but you should not expect too sudden a victory a victory. You should only expect to gain your lost gain your lost ground by forcing your enemy back ground by forcing your enemy back step by step until every inch has been by step until every inch has been regained and fortified.

More than a regained and fortified. More than one complete victory has been lost by to been lost by too great elation over partial success tial success. Closely and energetically followed up Closely and energetically followed up, advantages gained may not only be considered a secret of success in war cess in war, or ordinary business, but in the curious ordinary business, as in the curing of chronic diseases as well. You should chronic diseases that unwell. You should remember that under the dire in a der the dire influence of opiates your whole system luence of opiates your whole system has undergone a great has change. Your very constitution has been greatly very constitution well-nigh been greatly very constitution impaired — well-night impaired — well-night disken up—and broken greatly impaired — well-normal condition. This result has been brought about slowly about slowly cresult has been broug ous salts of Oni Gradually the poison ous salts of Opium found their way into every part of your being, and there did perverted the not of destruction and organized the not of destruction and des perverted the natural action of every organ. Now organ. Now, to change all this, and not only retard the action of this enemy, but to kill permanently and forever remove the very dead bodies of this foe out of your sacred territory, and repair the damages, and to do this without pain, danger or material inconvenience to yourself requires TIME AND GOOD, PATIENT MANAGEMENT OF EFFECTUAL MEANS. I FIRST ASSURE YOU THIS CAN BE DONE. Then supply the means and directions how to wisely use the same. Now, if the end justifies the somewhat tedious and persevering use of such, be patient and PER-SEVERING. A complete victory is most desirable. It is possible. Spare not ammunition, efforts or treasure until you are entirely free and every stronghold of your being is re-occupied and fortified with healthy and friendly forces, until your very being has, by a slow, but painless and sure process, had time to become renewed and re-established. The value of accomplishing such an end is too apparent to render it necessary to make any further appeal. To say that it involves ALL there is to you of true life and happiness in the present or future of your earthly existence is hardly enough, for the destructive influences of opiates, not only upon the body, but the mind and moral sensibilities, are such that it seems to be confined, not alone to the present or the earthly future of its victims, but extends far beyond, even to the darkening and damning of the immortal soul, and to the entailing, it may be, its most blighting, pestilential and pernicious influence upon unborn generations. Not simply and alone to sell medicine do I appeal to you. I desire your deliverance from such a curse. I desire to accompl sh a complete, lasting cure, and to check that fearful evil which is spreading its influence as a most deadly malaria throughout our country. Then let me entreat you as you value your own happiness, or realize your own responsibility as a citizen, husband, wife, father, mother, son, daughter, or your obligation as a responsible moral and religious being in the present or future of time, or your peace and bliss in eternity, or that of your posterity, to be patient and persevering unto the achievement of a perfect victory over and soul-destroying drug. Respectfully,

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D.

and complete freedom from this body

To Those About to Go Under the Treatment for the Whisky Habit and to Those Under the Treatment.

Directions for Taking the Whisky Antidote.

The dose should be taken with perfect regularity and exactness-four doses per day of a fluid drachm-or fill the measure I send you with the first supply up to mark running from 1 to 60, thus: 1-60. Never take more. To be taken at 7 and 110'clock in the forenoon and 3 and 8 o'clock in the afternoon. Reduce the dose if unpleasantly affected about the head, eyes or stomach.

Read This.

Many of the instructions and much of the advice just given to the opiumafflicted are applicable to patients whom I now address. Therefore, it will be necessary for you to read what is directed to the opium-afflicted.

Before beginning your treatment I wish to remind you that you are taking a course of treatment for a disease, and that that course is nothing of magic, but the result of long and careful study of this subject. The medicine is made after your statement of your condition, and if you will read thoughtfully what I am about to say, and follow these instructions, you will find the Antidote to be all that is claimed for it, and that it will do all that should be expected of any medicine.

Important Instructions to be Observed When the Treatment for the Whisky Habit is Begun.

Stop all alcoholic stimulants, opiates, bromides and other medicines not prescribed by me. The stomach, liver, kidneys and skin need to be prepared for the full good effect of the Antidote. In most cases the stomach is inflamed and the walls engorged. In such condition, most frequently, there will be nausea, caused by the stopping of the accustomed stimu-lants. This is an effort on the part of Nature to cleanse the stomach and must be encouraged. Drink warm water, glassful after glassful, until the stomach becomes distended and you yomit freely. If the nausea continues, but the vomiting does not begin readily, add a little salt and mustard to the water. There is no danger of giving too much water. The patient may want to stop taking the water, but it should be continued until there is no odor of whisky coming from the stomach. The larger the quantity of water the easier will be the effort to vomit. Now this process is admirable in many respects. The water distends the contracted and inflamed stomach and washes out and causes to be thrown out from its folds any indigestible or irritating matter, and forces into the cavity of the stomach the unhealthy secretions that have been locked up in its congested walls. When so distended the stomach naturally inclines to contract, and so the vomiting is comparatively easy. Also, there is this important effect, the stomach being thus distended will absorb ach being thus distended win absorb is diluted the hot, irritating blood, and thereby relieved the kidneys. The relaxation, due to the vomiting, causes the skin to act freely, thereby relieving its own congestion as well as the general congested condition of the whole eral congested condition of the whole system. As soon as the vomiting ceases, take a prescribed dose of the Antidote. If this should not be retained, it may be the vomiting has not been sufficiently encouraged. If there remains any odor of whisky you may know this to be the cause, and the warm know this to be the cause, and the warm water should be again administered as above instructed. If, however, there be no odor of whisky, let the patient if and in an hone give one-half the sip the water as HUL as he can drink it, and in an hour give one-half the prescribed dose of the antidote. This course of treatment is best begun in the course of treatment is best begun in the afternoon. Give the antidote every four hours after it is retained until quietness or sleep is produced. The quietness or sleep is produced. The next day begin administering the anti-dote only as directed on the bottle and in this book under the heading, "Directions for taking the Whisky Antidote." in this book under the nearing, "Directions for taking the Whisky Antidote,"

As soon as the stomach will retain As soon as one summen will retain anything, begin the free lise of sweet anything, began the tree use of sweet milk, prepared this way: Break up one permanian a nint of milk, prepared this way: Break up one pod of red pepper in a pint of sweet milk; bring the milk to a scald, not BOILING, but just beginning to puff pepper and give BOILING, but just beginning to puff up; strain out the pepper and give HOT. A large glassful of this hot three hours. On the second night take three nours. On the second night take the pills or other purgatives which take sent with the antidote as directed.

Many cases do not require this vomit-Many cases do not require this vomiting treatment, as this course is necessional when nausea results from ing treatment, as this course is necessary only when nausea results from stopping the Whisky. When there is no nausea, or but very slight, take, the first night, the pills or other purgatives sent you as directed. It is well to say, however, that the vomiting process will be necessary if the patient is one spree or has been drinking very heavily ily. The sweet milk preparation is always indicated.

Diet. For three days eat no solid food, or but little, as here directed. The sweet milk prepared as above should be used as above should be used a few times each day. The hot sweet milk, without the pepper, should be talk, without the pepper, should be taken every three hours, sub-stituting stituting occasionally beef tea and hot chicken or has chicken or beef soup, highly seasoned with red persons to solids. with red pepper, but without solids.

The second day a poached egg may be taken twice. Also chew rare beef-steak not not a large beefsteak, not swallowing it, however. Eat light cracklight crackers. The third day the steak can be swallowed, and from then op, well prepared and from then aregable well prepared food of any agreeable kind may be food of any agreeable kind may be taken. Avoid acids, also any food taken. also any food which does not agree

For Instructions upon the following subject, see the same instructions given the Opium-Afflicted.

"What you should not use," "Family, hysician", Physician," "Bathing," "Sleep," "Exercise." "Bowels and Liver, Doctor and Patient.

"Save me, doctor, and I'll give you thousand as a thousand dollars."

The doctor gave him a remedy that eased him, and he called out: "Keep at i!, doctor, and I'll give you check for a a check for five hundred dollars. In half or five hundred dollars. In half an hour more he was able to sit up, and he calmly remarked: "Doctor, I feel like giving you When a

When the doctor was ready to go the lick man was sick man was up and dressed; he followed the doctor was ready to go followed the doctor and dressed; and said lowed the doctor to the door and said:

Say, doctor to the door and said:

hill the

"Say, doctor to the door and satherst of the month." first of the month." When six months had been gathered o time's boson the had been gathered to time's bosom, the doctor sent in a bill amounting to five dollars. He was pressed to cut it down to three; after 50 and he sued to win to three; after 10 and 10 doing he sued to get it, got judgment, tion the patient get it, got judgment of execur and the patient put in a stay of execution. Better 2011 in a stay of execution. tion. Better collect as you go.

There is not in the wide universe a ving thing now living thing not in the wide universe in motion to an atom which is not man to an and article. Shall in motion to an end outside. man, then, be but an idler, and dream life away, or work an idler, and dream idler, and dre life away, or work only for himself?

PART FOURTH.

TESTIMONIALS AND CERTIFICATES.

Wonderful Experience of a Scientific Scholar-Used Morphine for Nearly Ten Years-Thirty Grains, or a Normal Dose for 122 People in One Day, and Yet is Cured, and is a Happy

Douglass, Lincoln Co., ARK., May 29, 1887.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.— Dear Sir—When, nearly two years ago, in a spirit of extreme skepticism, I wrote you my resolution to give your Antidote a trial, and said that if it would relieve me of the bonds in which I was then enthralled, I would give you a certificate that would be of an extraordinary character, I little thought that I would ever be called upon to redeem the promise. However, a promise is a promise, and, as contrary to my expectation, though greatly to my joy, you have fulfilled your part of the bargain I can do no loss that of the bargain I can do no less than adhere to mine, and give you, for such use as you may deem fitting, a short account of my case: In the spring of 1876 I had a very severe attack of acute articular rheumatism that caused me untold suffering, from which I could get no relief but from the use of Morphia, hypodermically. I was compelled to use this frequently for several months, and by the time my health was restored I had the Opium. Opium, or rather Morphine Habit, so firmly established that it was impossible for me to break it off. I tried various remedies to assist me in the struggle, but even with their assistance I would only reduce the drug to a certain point, and when the effort of quitting it entirely was made it proved a failure, and thus it continued for nearly ten years until finally I had come to use the enormous amount of thirty grains of Morphine, hypodermically, every twenty-four hours. I had given up all hope of ever breaking off the habit and had settled it. tled into a state of apathetic despair. About this time my attention was accidentally called to the action of your remedy in a case of whisky habit, wherein it worked a quick and permanent cure; and shortly afterward I witnessed its action in a case of Morphine Habit of twenty years' standing, the parties assuring me that they took no morphine from the time they began your Antidote. I was loth to believe any special efficacy could exist in your medicine, and bitterly prejudiced against any secret remedy, besides knowing the great number of advertised cures for the Opium Habit that were the most arrant humbugs, I was only convinced by actual demonstration that yours was an exception to the rule. So early in July I wrote for a month's supply, and determined, even against the dictates of my judgment, to give it a trial. Thus, on the 22d of July, 1885, I began the treatment, and this is my experience therewith: On the 21st of July I had taken thirty grains of Morphine. On the morning of the 22d I began with your medicine, and, to my great surprise and gratification, found that I could quit off the opiate at once. I found that your remedy supported me perfeetly and rendered the use of the opiate entirely unnecessary. My rest at night was sweet and refreshing, which it had never been under the use of Morphine. My appetite increased and I gained in weight notably in a few months. I took the full dose of the remedy for about three months, and then began gradually to reduce the dose until after a period of sixteen months I had without difficulty reduced the dose to eight drops three times a day (the original dose was sixty minims, eighty-five drops). About the first of December, 1886, I quit the Antidote without any inconvenience or return of desire for opiates. Since then I have not taken nor desired either, and I feel now ten years younger and like one to whom a new lease of life has been granted. During the entire time I was taking your treatment I was attending to one of the most arduous and extended medical practices in the State, and never felt the least prostration or annoyance from quitting

I write this freely and disinterestedly, prompted solely by a desire to wake a glean of hope in the heart of some poor fellow-sufferer who may be plunged in the depths of a chill despair such as mine was. Make such use of it as you wish, and if any whose eye it may meet wish to correspond with me on the subject, let them address me on the subject, let them address me by letter and I will cheerfully give them such other data as my letter does not here contain. This much will I do for you from pure gratitude, for them, from pure humanity, and ever remain truly your friend,

P. H. PENDLETON, A. B., M. D., Formerly resident physician to Louisville City Hospital.

Thirty Grains of Morphine Used in Twenty-four Hours by a Physician Who Doubted, but is now Cured.

MACON, TENN., July 4, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-I feel that I would be doing an injustice to you and suffering humanity if I did not give you as state. ment of my case. I also feel it a duty ment of my case. I also feel it a duty I owe to all those who are suffering in opium bondage to tell them that there opium bondage to tell them that there is a way for you to break off the shackles that bind them hand and he will cure you. His Opium Cure is a never-failing remedy, pleasant to eradicating every vestige of the distake, speedy in its action, thoroughly eradicating every vestige of the discasse caused by the use of opium. I speak from experience. I have tested speak from experience. I have tested it, both on myself and others, and have never known it to fail in a single have never anown to to rail in a single instance. It will do even more than slave to tobacco; now I have no deslave to topacco; now 1 have no desire for it. Some may say that their case is beyond the reach of any known case is beyond the reach of any known remedy. Let me speak a word of consolation to all such that their case is more than mine. I used substant solation to an such that their case is no more than mine. I used sulphate from the six or seven vages to the seven value of the no more than mine. I used sulphate of morphine six or seven years, hypo-amically, and was a complete wheels of morphine six or seven years, hypodermically, and was a complete wreck of my former self. I used as high as or more in twenty grains or more in twenty to as of my former sen. I used as high as thirty grains or more in twenty-four hours, and tried every known twenty-four world to break of the habit known hours, and tried every known way in the world to break off the habit by the reduction plan, but always failed, standing I tried every remedy known to the profession, but found nothing that would reach my case, and had given up to die when I came across one of Dr. Woolley's little books, read it, threw aside my fears and prejudices, sent for his cure, took it according to ing to his directions, and in less than six months was well and hearty, for which I thank God for directing me to Dr. Woolley. In conclusion, if any one doubts the above testimony write me at Macon, Tenn., enclosing stamp and I will cheerfully answer them.

Yours truly, ELIAS CHAMBERS, M. D.

The Sworn Statement of an Opium Eater-An Old Soldier Wounded in the Late War and has Used Opium Ever Since.

It is with pleasure I write you these nes. The beater lines. The horrors of an opium-eater can only he can only be realized by experience never described flicted. No language is adequate. From the off language is adequate. From the effects of the late war, being wounded and the late war, being wounded and otherwise afflicted, I unfortunately to fortunately became addicted to the opium habit. For years I struggled in that to overselve that vain to overcome the monster that held me bound in fetters of an iron-like grasn. like grasp. As a last hope I came to Atlanta Go. Atlanta, Ga., and threw myself on the kindness of Dr. B. M. Woolley, and can say, with an humble, gratified heart, that one heart, that once more, through his kindness and kindness and wonderful skill, I and free man wonderful skill, I and a free man free man. I can, with confidence, say to those again, with confidence, say to those afflicted like I was, if they will give D. Translated like I was, if confiwill give Dr. Woolley their full confidence and co-operation, that he will cure them. If the confidence is the confidence and co-operation, that he will be their cure them. cure them. If they fail it will be their fault and not her they fail it will be their fault and not his or his remedy. At 10 ps. not difficult to follow his directions. When I came follow his directions. When I came to the city and began treatment, about the city and began treatment, about two months ago, weighed control two months ago, weighed one hundred and eighteen bounds. I me hundred and eighteen bundred pounds. I now weigh one hundred and forty pow weigh one hundred and forty pounds. I eat and sleet well, do not work. well, do not want opium or other medicine. I began to pium or other medicine. cine. I began the use of opium or other metric 1865, and what he use of opium of times 1865, and what I suffered at times while using it as u while using it, especially when getting out of opium out of opium, which I sometimes did time be told a lat one cannot be told or described. I at of time used from five to six ounces laudanum dail the amount by but gradually reduced ing the amount by great effort and suffering. I was a great effort and suffering. when I was using two ounces a day years of came here. I am now with out so age and years of age and can see to read with not out spectacles, a thing I have been able to do for many years. I do not use or feel the need of any medicine. I am well, hearty and happy; returned from a useless invalid's condition to a capacity to work and earn a living for myself and to aid my family. I walked eight miles on yesterday, fifteen the day before, on business, and feel that I could walk twenty again to-day if it were necessary. So, by no means, am I a feeble man. My flesh is firm and my nerves steady. My address is Columbus, Ga., where I now return a happy man. If any one would like to hear from me in regard to my case, I will be more than glad to write them if they will enclose Very truly, stamp for reply.

HUGH W. BARR. (Formerly of Columbus, Ga., but now of Selma, Alabama.)

To Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

GEORGIA, Fulton County. Personally came before the undersigned, Hugh W. Barr, who, on oath, says that the allegations set forth in the above are true. W. T. TURNBULL, N. P.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this Feb. 2, 1888.

H. W. BARR. [Signed]

Another Doctor Freed from the Bonds of Opium.

ATLANTA, GA., July 30, 1878.

Major B. M. Woolley. My DEAR SIR-While I do not presume to think that I am able to write or say anything that would likely add to the strength of a fact so well established lished as that of the efficacy of your Opium Cure—yes, praise be to you only, a cure it is, and a cure it has been a cure it is, been for one of the greatest of sufferers, both mental and physical, and I shall always remember the name of Woolley and never cease to praise his kindness to me—I feel it to be my dubt. duty to at least give you some of the facts concerning my torture as an opium slave and my happiness as a cured man. First, and most important to me is, that I AM CURED AND WELL by the use of your most invaluable remedy. I am now taking none of your remedy, nor have I taken any for eight weeks, nor no stimulant of any kind kind, and, indeed, I have felt no need for any. This makes me know that I am cured, for had I left off taking opium and the state of taking and the state of taking opium and taking ta opium while in the habit, I would most certainly have died in the eight weeks for the need of it. When I began the use of your remedy I was nearly 59 years old, and had been a slave to the habit for from seventeen to twenty years. I was a perfect wreck in both body and mind. Picture to yourself the sufferings of the damned in hell, and you can then form some faint idea of my sufferings while a victim to that most terrible, withering and torturing habit-Opium. Oh, that I were able to speak a word of consolation to every afflicted one in the land and say to them: Be healed; there is hope; there is safety and relief in Woolley's Opium Cure. My bowels gave me much trouble, but soon came all right, and are now regular and my general health good. My appetite all I could wish it. My flesh and skin appear to be all new. Old acquaintances tell me I am getting young. My flesh is solid. gained twelve or fifteen pounds, which is considerable for one who belongs to "Pharaoh's lean kine." A very remarkable fact is that when I was once compelled to discontinue the use of your remedy for awhile, it only required 1 of a grain of Gum Opium to quired 4 of a grain of Gum Opum to fully sustain me, when I had, before using your remedy, used 30 to 35 grains daily, and during the time I discontinued using the remedy, I never than 2 grains on the parameters. used more than 2 grains opium. But, for fear of my letter growing tiresome to you, I will close by saying that if you think, by the use of my name or this letter, it will be the means of getting one poor, miserable soul out of torture, you are at liberty to use both as you see fit. Hoping that whoever is so fortunate as to see this will doubt not and apply to you and be eured of the worst of diseases, I am sincerely yours, Dr. W. M. GARRETT.

Cured Eight Years Ago, and Still Cured, and says so.

ATLANTA, GA., Dec. 10, 1886.

Dr. B. M. Woolley: DEAR SIR-Thinking a statement of my present condition would be enmy present contracts would be enof opiates, I write these few words. Since leaving off your treatment, now nearly eight years ago, I have never nearly cigate your go, I have never used opiates in any form. My health is as good as any man's of my age, which is nearly 69. I have not been in bed for sickness in many years. I am active and peart. I was nearly dead when you began freating me, and could have lived but a short while. Yours respectfully.

DR. W. M. GARRETT.

I will Always Praise Your Medicine, for it is a Sure Cure.

GADSDEN, ALA., Aug. 2, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR—You will excuse me for not writing sooner. I will say that my wife is cured of the morphine my wire is cured of the morphine habit, and says if it had not been for you she would have been in her grave. you sne would have been in her grave. Says she will always praise you and your medicine, for it is a sure cure. May God bless you and may you ever hay too oless you and may you ever be ready to help others as you did her. I will answer any letter of any one I will answer any letter of any one who wants to know of you. You can who wants to know of you. You can do as you wish with this; it may help some poor soul to use your medicine.

J. S. BROWN. THERE IS HOPE IN IT.

Let the Opium Afflicted and Their

Major B. M. Wootley, Atlanta, Ga.:
My DEAR SIR—I deem it due you and the suffering opium afflicted to state that I am a perfectly cured man by the use of your Improved Opium Cure or Antidote. I was in the bondage of that tyrant, Morphine, for more age of than byrans, morphine, for more than four years, using 10 grains, and than four years, using 10 grains, and sometimes more, every 24 hours. I tried six other remedies prepared for the Onium Habit the cure of the Opium Habit, and among the six were several of the then most celebrated. They all failed to most celeurated. They all failed to cure me. I had well-nigh despaired when you told me that you had an improved remedy that would certainly

My long acquainfrance with proved remeny analy would certainly cure. My long acquaintance with you curintaguity, you cure. My long acquaintance with you and confidence in your integrity gave hope. I shall ever thank God gave you hear treating the terms of the state hope. I shall ever thank God for it. When you began treating me I was in a desperate condition. Flesh and energy gone—a mere skeleton of my former self, weighing 109 pounds. ergy gone—a mere skeleton of former self, weighing 109 pounds my no pleasure to myself old in the skeleton of my former self, weigning 109 pounds; un-happy, no pleasure to myself, a burden to my family and friends, a burden 152 pounds, am cheerful and to my family and friends, wounden weigh 152 pounds, am cheer I now happy. Life now is real, and not to ie, as then, a nymg death.

It has now been several months It has now been several months since I was able to discontinue your remedy. I left it off without material inconvenience or necessity for an opiate of any kind. I feel better than I have for seventeen years, even before I became addicted to the habit.

Your remedy does not only relieve the afflicted of the desire or necessity for the opiate, but most remarkably restores the general health. It acts gently, and yet powerfully—at least it so acted upon me. It restores to a normal conditions. normal condition all the secretions. It improves the appetite and digestion. It clears up the swarthy skin and puts sound flesh upon depleted frames, and active health active, healthy blood in withered veins. veins. It promotes sound and refreshing sleen ing sleep. It cures beyond a doubt if used as your used as you direct.

It affords me great pleasure to hear of your unprecedented success in curing others. ing others as well as myself. If my cure on this well as myself. cure, or this brief account of my case, will be account of my case, will benefit you or the afflicted, it is at your disposal to use as you may wish.

With your disposal to use as you may wish. With a grateful heart I shall ever remember you, and pray for the success of you and pray for the success of you cess of you and your cure.

Very truly yours, E. D. Cheshire. Your Antidote is Just What You Say it is, and I Hope Every One will Have an Opportunity to Try It.

JOHNSON CITY, TENN.,

Dr. B. M. Wooley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR—I have been very negligent in this and data. I can say that I gent in this one duty: I can say that I never varied one duty: I can say that I never varied one iota from your directions, and tool one iota from your directions. tions, and took your Antidote regular; from first dook your Antidote regular; from first dose of Antidote I never had the least dose of Antidote I never had the least desire or appetite for morphine, of which deadly drug I was a slave for three words. above date tal years previous to the above date, taking it three times daily.

I was become if was becoming it three times danged hat my life was such a victim to it that my life was a burthen to me, but am happy twas a burthen to me, but am happy to say I am a free man to day, and shall ever be thankful to you had your Antidate be thankful to you and your Antidote, and am ready to bear witness to: bear witness to its virtues at any time, and will correspond to the who and witness to its virtues at any time may wish to make with any one who may will correspond with any one word dote, for it is in the a trial of your Antidote, for it is just what you say it is, and is addicted to they that every one who patter may have a wful liabit of more estimated. phine may have an opportunity of getting relief in the arrange of getting relief in the way I did. Yours with many thanks, or and Daniel W. S. MITCHELL, Editor and Proprietor of the Johnson It Has Been Over Two Years Since I Quit Taking Your Medicine, and Have Never Felt any Bad Effect from the Morphine Habit Since.

> NEW FOUNTAIN, TEXAS, May 29, 1888.

DEAR DR. WOOLLEY-I am proud to let you know I have never gone back to the morphine habit. I have never had occasion to want to take up the habit again. I never had any craving for it after I took the first dose of your medicine. It has been over two years since I quit taking your Antidote, and have never felt any bad effect from the Morphine habit since. I hope you will forgive me for such negligence in not writing to you before, and I hope you will not think I have forgotten you, for I assure you that the name of Dr. Woolley is ever near and dear to me, and if you can use my name in any way that will be testimony that your remedy for the cure of Morphine habit is a sure cure, do so, and if any one will write to me I can and will give them the plain facts. I do not know of any one else who uses opiates. If I did I would tell them who to send to for a sure cure.

Ever believe me a warm friend of yours, J. M. MOBLEY.

Cured, and if Any Person Doubts Your Success in Curing the Opium Habit, Refer Him to Me.

OGLETHORPE, GA., Dec. 4, 1887. Dr. B. W. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-I can say to you that Your Antidote in my case has done all you claimed for it, for after using a course of about six months, I feel in better learning to the six months, I feel in better learning to the six months. better health than I have for ten years. You must understand I used only Seven bottles. I have not taken any Opium or Morphine. thanks, I remain your friend. If any Person doubts your success in curing Opium and Morphine Habits you are at liberty to refer them to me.

Your friend, MRS. J. B. MATHIS, P. S.—As I have done all the correspondence for Mrs. Mathis I can say that her cure is a most remarkable one. I shall recommend your cure to all afflicted, as I know that it possesses virtue. Respectfully, N. T. JONES, Oglethorpe, Ga.

You Saved Me from Utter Ruin-Your Antidote Cured Me.

ALEXANDER, TEX., June 18, 1888. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR DOCTOR-Yours of 11th inst, at hand, and in reply to your inquiry, will take pleasure in saying your Morphine Antidote cured me of the Morphine habit, for which accept my heartfelt thanks, for I feel that you have saved me from utter ruin. May God's choicest blessing rest upon you. If you think my letter will be of any benefit, or the means of saving any one from ruin, either in this life or the life to come, you may use it. Thanking you for what you have done for me, I am Yours truly.

H. R. ARMSTRONG, Dealer in General Merchandise.

> BONHAM, TEXAS, June 18, 1878.

Major B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. DEAR SIR-Excuse me for not writing sooner. I appreciate the cure your Antidote made on me. I am in excellent health and gaining strength every day; and this is to certify that I used Opium for four years, using thirty grains a day. I applied to you for your Opium Antidote or Cure, which I used for four months. It has cured me beyond all doubt. I had no difficulty in leaving off the use of Opium when I commenced the Anof Opinia when I commenced the Altidote No interference with my business, and no difficulty in quitting the Antidote.

Yours very truly, W. H. GILBERT.

SWORN TO!

After having used one-half bottle Morphine per day, he comes before the world in a sworn statement of his case, with the hope that it may be the means of relieving other sufferers.

MIDVILLE, BURKE Co., GA., October 6, 1879.

Major B. M. Woodley, Atlanta, Ga.:
DEAR SIR-You have cured me of the terrible habit of taking morphine, and hoping it may be the means of relieving other sufferers, I send you this sworn statement of my case to use as I had been taking morphine over you think best.

four years when I ordered the first bottle of your cure; was taking internally 24 to 25 grains sulphate morphine daily, and sometimes took as much as one-eighth ounce bottle in two days. I was in a very low state of health, and could not have lived long had I continued the use of opium. I started to taking your Antidote on the 15th day of December, 1878, and took my last dose June 28th, 1879, and from that day (December 15) to this (October 6), I have not taken a dose of opium in any form. I suffered no pain or inconvenience while taking the Antidote, but began to improve in health and spirits from the first dose. and to-day am in better health than I have known for years. I left off the Antidote without suffering. I thank you for your kindness to me, and hope that your business will ever prosper, not only for your own good, but for the good of the thousands of slaves to the opium habit all over this country.

GEORGIA—Burke county:

Personally appeared before me, a Justice of the Peace in and for said Justice of the reace in and for said county, Troup P. Hodge, who, being sworn, said that he was cured of the opium habit by B. M. Woolley's Opium Antidote, and that the above-written And one, and the statement of the Sworn to and subscribed before me this 6th day of October, 1879.

C. L. Godbee, J. P. Hodge. MIDVILLE, GA., Nov. 24, 1879.

Major B. M. Woolley, Allanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR—Yours received and con-DEAR OUT 1 Outs received and contents noted, and in reply Would say, use any part or parts of my letters you wish. I can truly say, the only unwish. I can truly say, the only unpleasantness I ever suffered while taking your Antidote was always removed by decreasing the dose.

If you wish it, drop me a Postal, and I will make affidavit to the words you ish to insert in the Original costic I will make and with the original certification of the voice words you wish to insert in the original certification. Yours very truly, TROUP P. HODGE

Now of Savannah, Ga. SAVANNAH, GA., June 21st, 1886.

SAVANNAM, Worldey:

Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR—Will you kindly send me DEAR SIR—WIII you kindly send me two or three of your catalogues? A physician here, who is a friend of mine, will give your Opium Cure a trial with physician nere, who as arriend of mine, will give your Opium Cure a trial with He admiss at the will give your opposite a trial with some of his patients. He admits that some of ms panents. He admits that the profession knows no cure for the Opium Habit. There is not a healthier man in the State of Georgia than I am, and if this doctor did not know me so well he would not believe that I was ever addicted to the Opium habit. Yours truly, T. P. Hodge.

It is a Sure Cure.

TROY, TEX., March 30, 1891.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

This is to certify that I have been a slave to the last slave to the Opium habit for the last ten years ten years. I commenced to use your remedy the commenced to use your remedy the 3d day of October, 1890, and onit it and quit it on the 4th of January, 1891, and have and have no inclination to use Opium any more any more; am feeling better in every respect, and cheerfully recommend your medicine to all suffering as I have for it is have, for it is a sure cure.

Yours gratefully,

The Doctors got me into the Habit and then could not get me out-Your Medicine did Everything you said it Would.

PELHAM, TENN., Jan. 17, 1888.

Dr. B. M. Woolky, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR-I take this method of expressing to pressing to you my grateful acknowledgment for my grateful ack edgment for having relieved me of the most prothe most unfortunate affliction that was ever infinite transfer affliction bewas ever inflicted upon a human being. It was a read me ing. It was necessity that forced me to take many to take morphine hypodermically and or longer. I come for fifteen months or longer. I commenced with a fourth of a grain, and before I quit I was taking five taking five grains per day, as you know. I was taken sick with high fever and pain in my right shoulder and side. which my right shoulder and side, which was so severe the doctors gave doctors gave me morphine to allay I could not quit its use, and they had not get me allay beautiful to the habit, and could not get me allay beautiful to the habit, and could not get me allay beautiful they have the same allay the same allay to the same allay they have the same allay they all they allay they allay they allay they allay they allay they all they allay they allay they allay they allay they allay they all they allay they allay they allay they allay they allay they all they allay they allay they allay they allay they allay they all they allay they all they allay they all they allay they all they all they all they allay they allay they allay they allay they all they all they all they allay they all could not quit its use, and they had gotten me out of the habit they had gotten me out of the habit the every doctor in into. My father tried they all every doctor in his reach, and they all the no good seach, and they all the no good some did me no good. I then had some thing like gravel; the doctors called it tubercle, and tubercle, and said I would die sure, and no encounted I would die sure, and said I would die sure, one I had no encouragement, as every one said I would die sur said I would d said I would die, and indeed it looked like my case was so weak I could not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles ing but skin and not get up by myself cles in a leg to the country and n nothing but skin and bones; no muscles in my arms and bones; no muscles in my arms cles in my skin and bones; no muton when I community was a living skele. ton when I commenced your antidote.

After I got the antidote adapted to my case, I ceased to oniates my case, I ceased to want opiates any stimulant whatever. I took your antidote for eleven months, and left off its use without any inconvenience whatever. I have never taken a dose of morphine since I commenced the use of the antidote, and it has completely cured me. When I began your antidote I weighed 75 pounds, and now my weight is 139 pounds.

Yes, praise be to you only. A cure it is and a cure it has been for one of the greatest sufferers, both mental and physical, and I shall always remember the name of Woolley, and never cease to praise his kindness to me. I have never taken any medicine since taking your Opium Cure, and have been doing hard labor, working on the farm and taking the weather as it comes. Your medicine did everything that you said it would do, and a great deal more than I expected it would or could do for me in my condition. It seemed like raising the dead. So you can take this and use it as you think best. Yours truly, JOHN BURNETT.

can but Speak Well and Favorably of Your Medicine-I am Entirely Free from the Use of Morphine.

DEAR SIR-If I have written any thing that will be of any benefit to your valuable medicines, you are more than welcome to use it. I do not one minute hesitate to say it has been the cause of cause of my being free from the iron grasp of Morphine. I had been a slave to it for seven years, and so completely had it done its work that I dould not possibly quit it without something to give relief, and I have tried other advertised remedies, which only gave probatory relief, and would

When I saw your remedy advertised not prove permanent. and so many testimonials in favor of it, I made up my mind to try one more time to get relief, and when I gave you my first order I made a trial of it. I found it to do all claimed for it. So I resolved to keep up the treatment, which I did, and I am happy to say I feel bott. feel better and stouter than in all the seven years I took morphine. as a free man. I have no pain now, but my but when taking morphine I had only temporary temporary relief by the morphine, which was increased at almost every dose and almost every dose, and then but little relief. Now I am feeling happy all the time, and thankful it thankful that I am again a free man.

Dear doctor, you are at liberty to use any part of my letter you see fit. I only hope all who try your remedy will use it as I did-for its benefitsand according to directions, and I know there will be no such thing as fail. You are at liberty to refer any one to me. I can but speak well and favorably of your medicine. I am entirely free from the use of morphine or any other poisonous drug, and it was accomplished by your precious remedy. I have taken no morphine since I first took your remedy, and used only one bottle of the last you sent me and have one on hand yet. I have no desire for morphine or your medicine. Long live Dr. Woolley to send his remedy to the end of the earth to every one effected by the use of morphine. Yours very respectfully,

Greenville, S. C. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Mr. Keith's post-office address is now Atlanta, Ga.

MORE EVIDENCE!

A Physician Uses Wqolley's Opium Cure in His Practice—Cures a Patient and Orders More Medicine for Another Patient.

SPRING PLACE, GA., } Sept. 20, 1879.

Major B. M Woolley, Atlanta, Ga,: DEAR SIR-In May last you sent me your Opium Cure for a patient of mine, your opium outeror a patientor mine, and I neglected to write to you as to his progress toward recovery. I will ns progress toward recovery. I will now state that your remedy is all that you say it is. The first dose sustained him fully, and from the time he took has four dose he has now fall the the first dose he has never felt the least desire for opium or anything of its kind. It has now been nearly three nonths since he left off the cure, and months since he left on the cure, and he is in splendid health. I have another such case, and I think I shall soon have my patient's consent to apply to you for him.

Very respectfully, E. H. L. Keister, M. D.

SPRING PLACE, GA., Oct. 13, 1879. DEAR SIR-Enclosed find money for patient referred to in my last letter. Of course, you may use the part of of course, you may use the part of my letter you spoke of wishing to publish. Wishing you the continued success which I know you well desuccess. success White I Rhow you won't serve, I am, Yours respectfully, E. H. L. KEISTER, M. D.

ANOTHER M. D. CERTIFIES.

A Physician of Thirty Years' Practice Sees the Good of Woolley's Opium Cure and Sets Forth Facts as Wit-

WILLISTON, BARNWELL CO., S. C. Major B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

My DEAR SIR-I am not in the habit of giving testimonials in regard to secret compounds or patent medito secret compounds or parent mean-cines, but owing to the fact of the well-known difficulty of curing the opium habit, and that there is no well established remedy known to the profession for its cure that I know of I eannot realize that it is any reflection upon the medical profession for me to state facts in regard to the success of your remedy as witnessed by myself. It certainly cures and does what you claim for it. I have been a practicing physician for over thirty years of the old school of medicine, and I am frank to say to you and the public that I have never witnessed the action that I have never witnessed the action of any remedy which at all approximates yours in meeting the indication this translation that it is the indication of tions in this troublesome opium habit, or rather disease and its effects. I say this unsolicited, and without the expectation or desire of reward, unexpectation of desire of reward, unless it is in the way of saving some of less it is in one way or saving some or the many victims that are daily fall. the many victims that are usily raining from this dread monster, opiumeating. If you think this will benefit your cause, or any afficted one, you your cause, or any annoted one, you are at liberty to use it as you think best, and you can refer any one to me best, and you can refer any one to me for further information in regard to matter.

Yours very truly,
W. W. SMITH, M. D. A PHYSICIAN

Of High Standing Writes a Letter Over

GALLATIN, TENN., Dec. 29, 1879.

Major B. M. Wootley, Atlanta, Ga. ESTEEMED FRIEND—I am really provoked at myself for not having having provoked at mysen for not having written to you long ago, as you rewritten to you long ago, as you requested; for I assure you I am not ungrateful, but negligence and businating indifference has ungratefut, but negationee and business rather than indifference have ness rather than indingrence have caused the procrastination. Antidote has, in my case, done even more than you claimed for it, in that it has built up my nervous system and improved my general health to such an extent that I am improving in the such as a proving in strength and gaining flesh almost daily. I am satisfied is fact, I know—that your Antidote will destroy or break up the opium habit, sustain the nervous system and improve the general health-It is a powerful nervous analeptic, which powerful nervous analeptic, of which I think is the secret of its success. I have never taken of wanted taken or former wanted to take an opiate in any form, or stimulant of any kind, from the first door I first dose I took of your Antidote. I ordered but one bottle in October, your remembers of the control o remember; did as you directed, reduced the dose, and when it was out I had no desire for more; felt no inconvenience and quit. I feel that I am wall are and quit. I feel that I am well, and shall ever feel grateful to you for to you for my restoration to health. Hoping to hear from you soom again, I am your sincere friend, J. W. FRANKLIN, M. D.

Gallatin, Tenn. HE FURTHER WRITES.

GALLATIN, TENN., Jan. 28, 1880.

Major B. M. Woolley:
Yours of the 3d * received and noted Account thanks for noted. Accept my hearty thanks for health interest you manifest in my health and welfare all manifest in my health which and welfare; also for the photo- which shall prize also for the photo- which I shall prize as a memento of one who has contain a memento of one who has conferred a blessing upon his race and the his race and the age in which he lives. You ask me if you can use my letter for ask me if you can use my letter for the benefit of others. Yes, in any way your judgment and charity may dictate.  * I am improving in health. proving in health, and my family say from in looks. Being glad to hear from your you at any time, believe me, your

J. W. FRANKIIN, M. D.

CHLORAL HYDRATE.

From a Minister of the Northern New York Conference.

ATLANTA, GA., Jan. 28, 1880.

Mr. B. M. Wooliey. Allanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR A Painful attack of fatal was the comma that nearly proved fatal was the occasion for prescribing that Hydrate for prescribing relief. Its Chloral Hydrate for my relief. Its effect was magical. I was sleeping The very sweetly in ten minutes. The minutes it again with like results. My physician did not caution me to discontinue its use, and I continued it because I found relief from asthma and had sweet and refreshing sleep. For about five years I felt no bad effects resulting from its constant use once in twenty-four hours. The quantity taken up to this time was about eleven and a half grains. About a year and a half since I found the one dose insufficient produce sleep the whole night and I took it again about three o'clock in the morning. Soon I began to experience a new trouble. My nerves became irritable—so much so that I could hardly hold my per to write. A severe pain was felt in the arms from the elbows down, and finally in my lower limbs from the knees down my feet. This pain was so new and so strange that I felt alarmed and began to look seriously after the ause. Finally I came to charge my Whole trouble to the use of chloral, and I made up my mind to act promptly for an entire cure. I had never heard of Mr. B. M. Woolley nor his Antidote, or more properly. ture, but was advised by a citizen to go to him in preference to any one else, as he made the nature and cure of such difficulties his specialty. fold him my difficulty and he pre-Scribed for a cure. For three weeks I took the prescription exactly as directed know, and I am now, so far as I know or feel, as free from chloral as If I had never heard of the drug-The first symptom of convalescence was the disappearance of the pain from my limbs. It took only about week for the extirpation of that begge of suffering. Then my nerves began to behave and become steady, and people began to salute me on the streets with, "Why! how you have improved. This Southern climate is just 4. Just the thing for you."

Tam now at work from morning until night, and the secret of the change in my condition, under the blessing of God, is the faithful use of M. of Mr. Woolley's remedy just as he directed. I was told by my friends that r that I would be obliged to go back to the use of chloral because I didn't sleep walls of the because I didn't sleep well for a few nights after totally abandoning it at once. But I had became had begun war for victory and it came Very soon without touching the drug again. I watched the effects of the remedy with deep interest and came to the following conclusions, namely: That to abandon the use of a poison as subtle and insinuating as opium or chloral, after it has permeated the whole physical system, weakened and almost paralyzed the nerves, some substitute must be provided to sustain the nervous system, and to hold it up until the power of the drug is broken and the system is enabled to recover its normal condition. Now, I think this sustaining power is found in Mr. Woolley's Antidote, and I believe its use as he directs will not only cure the opium habit, and give victory over the poison of chloral, but will sustain, hold up and give victory to those who desire to free themselves from the habit of using tobacco, and the worse still of using alcoholic drinks. J. T. WRIGHT.

P. S.-I will just add to the above that I experienced no difficulty whatever in discontinuing the Antidote. I do not use it at all. I will also add that the above is written wholly for the benefit of the afflicted and without solicitation from Mr. Woolley or J. T. WRIGHT, any one else.

Of Oneonta, New York, and a member of the Northern New York Conference of the M. E. Church.

Cured of the Laudanum Habit-In Better Health Than For Five Years.

Толеро, Оню, Feb. 27, 1888.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR-I have taken all the medicine you sent me; was able to metherne you send me, was able to take it in half doses a few days after I commenced. I have no desire for I commenced. I have no desire for laudanum at all and consider myself a cured woman. I am under many obligations to you, for I am in better obligations to you, for 1 am in better health than for five years. You can use this as you please, and if any one who doubts will write to me I will who doubts. who doubts will write to me I will answer any inquiries in regard to it. Three months' supply cured me of the laudanum habit of three years' the laudanum habit. the laudanum name or or orree years, standing. With many thanks, I am, Respectfully, Mrs. S. J. Essing.

Our working hours are very import ant, but our leisure hours are those that form our tastes and our habits.

If I Had Not Gotten Your Medicine When I Did, I Would Not Have Lived a Month Longer.

Івонтон, Оню, Feb. 23, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Gr.:

DEAR SIR-I have intended writing you for a long time. I am well and hearty, but if I had not gotten your medicine when I did, I would not have lived a month longer. I have given your address to a great many people in this city, and did all I could to have them send to you. I do not know whether they did or not. As for myself, I was cured in six months. Respectfully,

MRS. H. E. AMOS.

SWORNI

Col. B. F. Sawyer, well known as one of the veterans in the editorial

Major B. M. Weolley, Atlanta. Ga.:
DEAR SIR—Solely in the interest of suffering humanity, I consider it a suffering numanity, 1 consider it a conscientious duty to give my testimony as to the safety, efficacy and thorough reliability of your Opium

For reasons that concern no one but myself, I became addicted to the cowmysen, 1 became audicieu to the cowardly and suicidal use of opium to an extent that not only impaired my energies, but seriously threatened the destruction of both mental and physdestruction of countinental and physical powers. In this dire extremity I furned to you for help, induced thereto, not only by my own observation of the efficacy of your inedicine in other cases, but from the personal acother cases, out from the personal acquaintance of twenty years I had with quaintance of twenty years 1 had with you as a Southern gentleman. The result was successful—almost magresult was successful—almost magical. From the first dose I felt a deical. From the most uose I telt a delicious relief, and have felt from that day no more desire for opium than a day no more desire for optum than a decent, well-bred horse has for todecent, went-offer notate first for to-bacco. So pleasant, invigorating and hopeful was its effect that it betrayed me into an over-indulgence of the remedy, thereby creating the only inremedy, thereby creating the only inconvenience I experienced during the convalescence. This, time of my convatescence. This, however, was promptly remedied by decreasing instead of increasing the As this, I onine is a company decreasing the doses. As this, I opine, is a common doses: As unis, 1 opine, 1s a common mistake with patients, I would remistake with paments, I would respectfully suggest that you caution them against it, as it is postively the them agains of the street the only one trouble I had to encounter.

When I commenced the use of your remedy I was taking one drachm of morphine per week, with an insatiable longing for more. The first dose of your medicine cured me of all desire for the drug, and by a faithful adherence to your directions I was completely restored to manhood, and to-day, four months after taking the last dose of your remedy, I feel younger and more like a man than I have felt since the war. I have neither craving for the drug nor its antidote and never think of either unless mentioned. less mentioned. Hoping this may be of use in the design of of use in directing the attention of some—even one—poor sufferer to the the Balm of Gilead, I am your most grateful and sincere friend,

B. F. SAWYER, Atlanta, Ga.

Now Oxanna, Ala. Sworn to and subscribed before me this January Sth, 1880.

N. P. and Ex-Officio J. P.

Short But Convincing-

PRESTON, WEBSTER CO., GA., July 3, 1878.

Major B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. DEAR SIR-I have used your Opium antidote with Antidote with entire success. I am perfectly come perfectly cured of the habit, and can say that in which and can be say that in which are the same and can be say that in which are the same and the same are the say that, in my opinion, your Opium Cure will never opinion, your Opium Cure will never fail if taken according to direct ing to directions. Yours truly, W. P. TRACY.

A Lady Restored to Health.

MARION, S. C., June 1, 1880. Mr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I must write that the praise is to you for my cure, and of cure it is formy for my cure, any of cure it is, for I have not taken any of your medicing I have not taken any of seither your medicine for line weeks, neither have I taken for nine weeks, neither have I taken any other stimulant nor do I feel the any other stimulant nor do I feel the need of any. My general health is good of any. My general health is good. I suffer sometimes from indigestion from indigestion; with that exception my health is splendid. My skin is looking new and I was as well as T. S. new and I. looking new and I am feeling as well as I did before I am feeling as of as I did before I began the use of morphine. morphine. My friends tell me I am that it is so much that it is so muc looking so much better. I tell them that my thanks that my thanks are to you, for I be lieve if I had continued the use of morphine until morphine until now I would think been a living skeleton. If you fand a certificate from me will be of any use, I will freely me will be of any use, I will freely give it to you.

ing you will pardon me for my long silence, I will close by saying that I shall ever remember you and will always pray for your success. You may publicly refer to me at any time. With many thanks, I am,

Respectfully yours, MRS. J. ALBERT SMITH.

He Still Succeeds.

SAVANNAH, GA., Feb. 9, 1880.

B. M. Woolley, Esq., Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR—I am happy to inform you that your last bottle of medicine has more than effected my cure, as a portion of it remains unused. It is more than three weeks since I stopped using the antidote. My health is much better than it has been for the Past fifteen years—my appetite good; sleep refreshing; in fact, a new man. I commenced the use of your Antidote a skeptic as to its good results, but resolved to give it a fair trial, well knowing the state of the st knowing that my own will power, no matter, matter how strong, was insufficient to enable me to free myself from the habit of using laudanum. The second year of the late war I control year of the late war about the second year of the late war about the second year. tracted inflammatory rheumatism. My sufferings for many months were most intense, and to allay the pain and deaden the nerves laudanum was Prescribed. This treatment continwhen many mo the, and finally, when I was able to attend to business, I found to dis-I found that I had contracted a disease a thousand times harder to eradicate the icate than the most acute rheumatism. To discontinue the use of laudanum was utterly impossible. It became became a necessity to sustain the system, and when I had resolved to discontinuous and the system of the discontinue its use the action of the heart and nerves compelled me to resort and nerves compelled me to resort to it in order to relieve my sufferings myself ferings. The struggle to free myself continued many years, and by an almost are most superhuman effort of will and untold untold suffering I did manage to reduce manage I did manage to reduce manage to reduce manage what, duce my daily allowance somewhat, but was daily allowance royself. In but was never able to free myself. In fact, was never able to free myself. fact, my health was almost ruined. It is a linear that It is a low estimate when I say that $1,000 axpense $1,000 would not cover the expense of made and not cover the expense beof medicine and doctor's bills, besides in a great exsides incapacitating me to a great ex-tent from business. tent from attending to business. Your antidote has done for me in eight antidote has done for doctors eight months what the best doctors in Pennsylvania failed in doing effecting a complete cure. I had been in this State but a few months when your advertisement attracted my attention, and the result was that last April I commenced using your medicine and continued it until three weeks ago. In all I used less than fourteen bottles. I am now in good health both in body and mind, enjoying refreshing sleep, excellent appetite and renewed energy. These I have not been blessed with for many years until the present. I will say in conclusion I am satisfied from my own experience that your antidote will effect a complete cure in any case, no matter how desperate or long standing, if persevered in for a reasonable time and directions faithfully

The remedy is painless, the result gradual but thorough, building up the shattered system. This is my exgradual but thorong. This is my extension of the shattered system. The shattered system. The shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system is a shattered system. The shattered system is a shattered system Savannah, Ga.

THOROUGHLY SATISFIED.

am Thoroughly Satisfied Your Medicine is All and More Than You Claim THOMASTON, GA., June, 5, 1880. For It.

B. M. Woolley.

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 28th ult. received a few days since, and in reply would say that I would have written to you sometime since, but wanted to be sure that my cure was permanent. commenced with your medicine June 7, 1879, and took my last bottle, but 7, 1879, and took my last bottle, but one, February 1, 1880. Mine was an extremely complicated case of discases, suffering, in addition to the eases, suffering, in gravel, rheumatism opium habit, with gravel, rheumatism when I commenced with and piles. and piles. When I commenced with your medicine I was reduced to almost your medicine I was reduced to almost a skeleton, in spite of all the tonics as skeleton, in spite of all the tonics medical skill could suggest, and the tonic properties of strange to say, the tonic properties of syour medicine suited my ease exactly, your medicine suited my ease exactly, and in a few days after I commenced and in a few days after I commenced your medicine suited my ease exactly, and in a few days after I commenced its use my appetite improved, and my appetite improved, weeks was general health in a few weeks was much better than it had been for years. nuce verses management been for yours. I am thoroughly satisfied your medi-I am thoroughly satisfied your medi-cine is all and more than you claim for it. I left off the application of the for it. I left off the antidote on the 7th of March, 1880, since which time 7th of March, 1880, speeded or worked a The or marries, 1000, since which time I have not taken, needed or wanted a Phave not taken, needed or wanted a dose of morphine. You are at liberty to publish my certificate. My word is as good as my oath, but if you prefer, I will swear to it. You are at liberty to refer any one in this section to me. I have made no secret of using morphine. It was prescribed by a physician, and I was "tied band and foot" before I knew it. Wishing you much success in your good work, I Fraternally,

J. S. King.

Note.—Mr. King was made member of the State house of representatives from Upson county in 1885.

i Deem it a Duty to Make Known My Entire Cure of that Dreadful Disease,

ELLISVILLE, MISS., May 25, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woo ley :

DEAR SIR-I deem it my duty to extend to you my grateful thanks and make known to any suffering person the fact of my entire cure of that dreadful disease morphine eating. It has been twelve months to-day since I took the last of your cure. Before I commenced your treatment I ate one commenced your readment and one bottle of morphine covery four days. You are at liberty to publish my testimo-JACKSON BROWN SHOWNS.

A Letter from a Lady and Her Husband She has been Cured of the Opium Habit for Five or Six Years.

EVERETT'S SPRINGS, FLOYD Co., } GA., January 10, 1880. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR—Yours of the 25th ultimo DEAR SIR I ours of the 25th ultimo came to hand last Saturday, and we owe you a thousand apologies for not writing to you years ago, and our only excuse is negligence, and hope you will pardon us for the same.

will pardon us for the same.

I, J. A. Winn, do hereby certify that my wife, Namie Winn, company taking your Oning A relation. menced taking your Opium Antidote on the 14th day of February, 1874, or on the red day of recollect which, or 1875—we don't recollect which. She 1870—we don a reconect which, one commenced to take it according to your directions; it was attended with your directions, it was attended with some pain or uneasiness, and we knew the medicine was too strong; and she the medicine was too strong, and she lessened the dose by taking only three doses per day, with very happy effect. She continued taking it that way until that a bottle was taken up. Then she She continued taking it that way until half a bottle was taken up. Then she lessened the dose still more, and took itin small doses until she would forget to take it entirely, leaving some of the medicine or antidote in the bottle.

My wife had used opium for twelve years, using one bottle of morphine every sixteen or seventeen days. hereby certify that my wife is entirely cured of the habit of using opiates. She never has had any desire for opiates since the first day she took your antidote. My wife is a daughter of Judge James McConnell, of Cherokee county, Ga. We hereby certify that the above is true to the letter.

J. A. WINN, NANNIE WINN.

P. S -I would swear your autidote will do all you claim for it if taken according to your directions. J. A. W.

Have Great Reason to Rejoice—The Testimony of Others has been a Great Benefit to me-I'm Willing to Contribute Mine for the Salvation of Others.

> FRIENDSHIP, MAINE, May 15th, 1888.

My DEAR DR. WOOLLEY—You seem to be apprehensive that I have gone back to one of the state of the st back to opium again. Not so, my dear friend dear friend. I am free from all opiates of every of every name. I commenced the antidote on Co. I commenced of antidote or Opium Cure the 29th of May, 1887, and left it off the 4th day of February 1987 of February, '88, making a little more than eight most ment. than eight months under treatment. I have now hours to the treatment to the treatment to the treatment to the treatment. I have now left one-fifth of a bottle, which I shall one-fifth of a bottle. which I shall keep as a memento of my former at the my former condition while using the drug, morel, near drug, morphine, which came near unining me for life. My general health is now better that is now better than it has been for at least six your than it has been for at least six your than it has been shipe least six years. I was using morphine and three and one-half years nearly and honest control thanks for the kind and honest control thanks and honest care you have shown me and dealt with and dealt with me. I shall ever be grateful to you for your candid consideration for sideration for me in my almost hopeless distress less distress. I sound the praises your remedy everywhere I go.

I remain yours truly, ERASTUS F. WHITNEY. [LATER.]

DEAR DOCTOR—You can use my letter if you choose. My health is and I feel greatly encouraged at the

My sleep is prospect before me. sound and refreshing, better than it has been for many years; my appetite is good and digestion better than for eight or ten years. So you see I have great reason to rejoice at my freedom from that horrible condition in which I had fallen by the use of opium. My nervous system seems to be in better condition than it was before I began the use of morphine. Now, my dear sir, you have my very best wishes for your success in relieving the afflicted.

Yours, etc., E. F. WHITNEY, Friendship, Me.

HAPPY AND GRATEFUL.

His Wife Restored to Him.

THOMASTON, GA., Sept. 1, 1880.

Major B. M. Woolley :

DEAR SIR-Something over three years since my wife was taken very ill, and during six months was lingering between life and death. By the advice and through the prescription of heavy advice and through the prescription of heavy the use of of her physician, she began the use of morphine, thinking it would be an easy matter to quit its use at any time after she got better, but our hope was 2 vain one, for indeed we found it necessary not only to continue its use, but to gradually increase each dose until she was compelled to use a bottle for every six days, or ten grains daily, which she did for some length of time. We then applied to you, and received two months' supply of your antidote. During its use she did not take a single dose of morphine. Not being able to continue the use of your antidote, she again returned to morphine phine and continued to take it regularly sains larly for about twenty months, using a bottle for each twenty days, or three grains daily. We supposed the two months' supply of antidote was the cause that the cause that the quantity was reduced. During the whole time, as stated above, my wife was unable to sleep not more than the control of not more than half of any night, the balance of the night being spent in an easy chair. About the 20th of December last ber last we obtained another supply of your antidote, and it has sustained any wife my wife in every instance. She has not used any more morphine since, and lead to her and has been able to attend to her domestic duties with a tolerable described on the days. gree of ease. For the last ten days she has been able to stop the use of the antidote entirely without any inconvenience. She has no desire for the morphine or antidote. Of your last supply she has nearly a bottle left, which she will keep if any need should arise for it. We believe fully that the very worst case of Morphine Habit can be cured by the use of your remedy if directions are adhered to.

We feel very much elated at the result or success of your remedy. My wife now declares she is rich in the freedom she enjoys from the effect of the morphine. Hoping you may live long to accomplish much good in your special line of medicine, I am,

Yours truly, A. E. SINGLETON.

P.S.—I should have mentioned that Mrs. S.'s appetite is now good, and the constipation of her bowels is removed. If you desire to use this letter in any way you are at liberty to do so. The above can all be verified.

I am Cured and my Health is Better than it has been in Three Years-I Sleep Like a Boy.

PINEVILLE, RAPIDES PARISH, LA., (

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR-I have concluded, after waiting to see the result, to write. I have used none of the antidote for thirty days. My health is better than it has been in three years, and I sleep like a boy, and my appetite is good; weigh more than for several years past, and am not able to say where past, and am not able to say where my weight will stop, as I have only begun to gain so rapid since I quit the antidote, and I am thankful for your cure, besides I am quite sure my life and usefulness have been prolonged. The difference in my feelings now and when I first received the Opium Cure when I have received the Optom Cure is simply beyond description. My family think your remedy should be known throughout this continent, and I shall remember you as a faithful, upright, conscientious man, and shall uprignt, conscientious man, and snall use my influence for you and yours. use my inflaction to and yours. If anything I have said or can say will benefit you, then you can refer to me, or I will give you any kind of a me, or I will give you any kind of a certificate you may desire. You are at liberty to use my name when it at nerry to use my name when it suits you. I am running a steam ferry boat; am engineer and have terry boat, and engineer and have charge of the boat, and am now able charge of the both, to attend to both.
Yours respectfully,
C. R. WATKINS.

I took the last dose of your Antidote January 9, 1887, and since have had no desire for an Opiate of any kind.

HALLVILLE, TEXAS, April 30, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

ESTEEMED FRIEND-I received your letter this morning and will answer. Ought to have written long ago. You asked if I had quit using your medicine. I have quit using it, but not until permanently cured. I took the last dose of Antidote January 9, 1887, and have had no desire for an opiate of any kind. Your medicine stands ahead of any I ever used; it did all, and even more than you claimed for it. I never had the least desire for morphine after the first dose of medicine, and never had as sweet sleep in my life. I haven't language to express my thankfulness to you for freeing me from such a bondage, and will ever keep your name sacred. In conclusion, my prayer is that you may be spared long to help poor suffering humanity. With many wishes for your success, I am, as ever, your true MRS M. C. PROTHRO.

Used from one to three pints of Whisky daily, and am now cured and do not

Brownwood, Tex., May 8th, 1888. Dr. B. M. Weolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-Replying to yours of. recent date, will say that your Whisky Antidote thoroughly cured me of all appetite I ever had for whisky in any shape. In March, 1886, I received what you said was one month's supply, but it lasted me about six months, as I found after taking it one week I could get along with an occasional dose. I have never tasted spirits in any form since taking the first dose, nor do I ever have a desire to do so. I had been a steady drinker for thirty years, never drinking less than a pint a day and more frequently three times as much. I experienced no trouble after the first day. I drank a pint of straight whisky and took a maximum dose of the antidote before breakfast. I was very sick for several hours. When I got over that (mixing medicine and whisky) was all right except I could not stand the smell of whisky. Have told lots of people about it as being the "boss." With the best wishes for your success, I am

Yours, etc., JAMES R. CALDWELL.

Three Years Since Cured and Has Not Tasted Whisky Since.

> BROWNWOOD, TEXAS, June 13, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Yours of recent date at hand and contents noted. I am all right; have never tasted a drop of any kind of liquor since I took the first dose of your medicine, nor do I ever have any intention to do so. It has now been over three years since I commenced the use of your medicine and it has been almost three years since I took the last dose. I got letters from all parts of the country asking about your medicine, its effects, etc. I have but one answer. That is: That it will as surely cure a man of whisky drinking as water will quench thirst if he will follow the instructions.

Wishing you success in all things, I shall never cease to bless and thank you for what you did for me.

Yours, etc., J. R. CALDWELL.

A LADY CERTIFIES

To the Efficacy of the Treatment.

PERU, FLA., March 19, 1880. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

My DEAR FRIEND-1 avail myself of the present opportunity of writing to you, I am entirely cured of the Morphine Habit. My health is a great deal better than it was before I quit the morphine, though I am not yet strong. I havn't taken any of would that since November last. I would that I had the power to express my gratitude, or in any way to prove how much I am indebted to you for my for my release from the terrible Opium Habit. I and my family will always removed. always remember you. You are perfectly at liberty of the state of the feetly at liberty to use the above in any way if it will be the means of influencing of the means of influencing others to be freed from the habit of prime to be freed from the habit of using opiates. May success

Very respectfully, MRS. W. B. MOODY.

A LADY

Restored to Health and Usefulness by B. M. Woolley's Opium Cure.

HONEA PATH, S. C., Aug. 8, 1881. Major B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR-I have been completely cured by the use of your antidote. The last bottle you sent me was enough. I left off without any trouble whatever, and shall ever feel grateful to you for the interest you manifested in my case, for your letters of cheer and punctuality in sending medicine, etc. I had been taking Morphine twenty months; was using a bottle every nine days when I began your antidote. From the time I took the first dose of your cure I never wanted Morphine. It required twelve months to effect a cure. It has been twelve months since I quit your antidote, and I am now in better health and completely cured of the Opium Disease. If there is anything in this that you can use, do so. With lasting gratitude, I am, Yours most respectfully,

MRS. J. A. WAKEFIELD.

DELAWARE COUNTY DEMOCRAT.

H. Frysinger, Publisher, Ed. J. Frysinger, Associate Editor.

CHESTER, PA., Nov. 24, 1881.

B. M. Woolley, Attanta, Ga .: DEAR SIR-The reason why no more of your medicine was sent for was, it was not needed. The lady, who had used Opium for fifteen years Years, was cured with seven bottles. She felt sure she needed no more and stopped. She has not touched opium nor had any desire to do so since she began taking the medicine, more than twenty months ago. Your cure is certainly reliable, and those addicted to the the to the terrible habit of eating Opium in any in any of its forms should avail themselves of the remedy if they can possibly and the remedy if they can possibly and the part it. sibly raise money enough to buy it. Should you wish me at any time to write to wish me at any time to write further details to any unfortunate of the details to any unfortunate nate victim of the habit who is hesitating about trying your remedy, I shall it shall be glad to do so for the unfortunate one's sake. I know how diffi-cult it is sake. I know how difficult it is to persuade one's self to try a remedy so far away and so little known at this distance. Physicians told me the lady could not be cured; hence I hesitated long about trying your remedy, but finally did try it with the gratifying results above Yours, etc., H. FRYSINGER. stated.

[LATER.]

December 19, 1881.

You are at liberty to use such parts of my letter I recently wrote you as certifying to the specific qualities of your medicine either with or without Yours, etc., my name. H. FRYSINGER.

"TEN THOUSAND THANKS."

Still Cures the Afflicted.

SAND RIDGE, S. C., July 22, 1881.

Major B. M. Woolley :

My DEAR FRIEND-I received yours of the 16th inst., asking what had become of me, and was glad to bear from you. I am truly sorry I did not write you ere this. I can now say to you that I have left off taking your medicine ever since the 4th of February, 1881, and I feel no need for it or opiates. My health is in good condition I feel that I can return ten thousand thanks to you and your medicine, for I was almost dead when I begun its use, and now I am entirely cured. I sincerely hope and pray that you may ever live to do good to the opium affiicted. You can use the above as you see fit. I remain yours truly,

NELSON GROOMS.

Cured and Goes Before a Notary Public and Makes Oath to the Fact.

MALDEN, WEST VIRGINIA, May 22, 1888.

DEAR SIR-I received your letter in Dr. B. M. Woolley: reference to my not writing you for more medicine. I am glad to say to more medicine. I am giau to say to you I did not need any more. I am you I and not need any more. I am cured. I commenced taking your medicine March 18th, 1887, and took five months' supply, except one bottle, which I now have on hand. I reduced the dose, as you directed me to do, and the five months' supply lasted do, and the tive months. I am now well of the Morphine Habit and in better health than for years. When I com-menced your medicine I don't think I menced your meanante racen't tomk I weighed one hundred pounds; now I weigh one hundred and thirty-five pounds. I am fully satisfied your medicine will do all you claim for it, and more, too; it is a sure cure if given a fair trial. I shall always feel thankful that I saw your advertisement, as I had given up all hope of ever getting well at that time, but wrote you, and thank God I did, for I could not have lived two months longer. The very first day I took the medicine it helped me, and I will never forget you or your medicine for the good it has done me. May God bless you for it. I am a poor hand to write, but if I knew one in the condition I was, I would write them to go and be cured. If any one would like to hear what I have to say about your antidote, and will write me, I will give a true statement. To show my sincerity in this matter, I go before a Notary Public and make oath

Yours very respectfully, MAGGIE HIX.

WEST VIRGINIA, KANAWHA CO.

Personally came before the undersigned, Maggie Hix, who, on oath, says that the allegations set forth in the above are true. MAGGIE HIX.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this May 26, 1888.

J. W. PARRISH, N. P. Kanawha Co., W. Va.

HYPODERMICALLY.

A Graduate of the Richmond, Va., Medical College Certifies.

OFFICE OF WRIGHT & CO. OFFICE OF WRIGHT & CO.

CONTRACTORS GA. PACIFIC R'Y,

N'R DOUGLASVILLE, GA., June 10, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woo ley :

DEAR SIR-I take this method of expressing to you my grateful acknowledgments for having relieved me of the most unfortunate affliction that was ever visited upon a human being. It was almost a necessity that forced me to submit to the administration of Morphine hypodermically, and to continue it for such a length of time that before I was aware of it the habit had fastened upon me, and I found myself completely enchained, without even the hope of ever being relieved. But for the watchfulness of a wife, ever seeking for the means by which I might be reclaimed, I would probably never have learned of your propably level have learned or your remedy. But it matters but little by what means I reached it, or how it came to me. The fact that I have taken it and am now cured, and am almost as full of life and vigor as before I ever took a dose of Morphine, is to me the most satisfactory and convincing evidence of the power and virtue of your remedy. It has brought sunshine and happiness to my house upon which the dark shadows of sorrow and sadness had for three long and weary years lingered, and your name will be honored as long as one of my children lives to speak it.

When I commenced the use of your medicine I was taking from seven to ten grains of Morphine hypodermically cally a day, and could take without inconvenience twenty grains per day. I have been able to attend a large force of railroad hands all the time, and during the first month of your treatment there was an unusual amount of sickness among them. It is unnecessary for me to mention my wife and children to you, for she herself expressed to you the deep and lasting all lasting obligations she felt for your kind interest in my case, and be assured that sured that she will always entertain for you the most profound respect and confidence, and teach our children to look upon you as our greatest bene-

I am not curious to know the ingredients of your antidote, neither do I think I have any right to inquire; but being a professional man, a graduate of the ate of the Richmond Medical College, of Virginia, an army surgeon and a practicing physician of twenty years' standing physician of twenty years' standing, I can consistently assert that I have never met with a remedy so effectual and satisfactory in its operations as Woolley's Opium Antidote, and I fruit. and I further believe that if used under his any der his directions and advice, and case no decrease no case, no matter how desperate, can be entirely reliaved by entirely relieved by it. I give it my unqualified endorsement, and if this letter which letter, which but half expresses my appreciation but half expresses to appreciation of your kind services to me and the control your kind services to ever me and the gratitude I now and ever shall feel for the shall feel for the inestimable benefits I have received at your hands, will be of any service at your hands, will be of any service to you, you can use it in any way you think proper.

Yours truly,
JNO. S. PENDLETON, M. D. Now of Marion, Va.

Tea should never be made in a tin

You Want to Know Whether I am Cured or Not-I Am.

SELMA, ALA., May 31, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-You want to know whether I am cured or not-I am. I have not taken any of your medicine or any kind of opiates since I quit your medicine about two months ago. Since I got through with your medicine I haven't wanted any Morphine, and I do not expect to ever use opiates again. If you want any certificate to use, I will send it to you. I would have written before now, but was waiting to see whether I was cured or not. Nothing more. J. S. PORTER.

ANOTHER LIVING WITNESS.

A Floridian Cured by B. M. Woolley's Painless Antidote.

CORK, HILLSBOROUGH Co., FLA., April 1, 1881.

Dr. B. M. Woolley :

My DEAR SIR-I hereby take pleasure in saying that your remedy is a safe and permanent cure, that I am fully restored, and also to state that you can use my letter or name as you see fit or proper; and I hereby fully endorse and recommend your antidote to any and all who may be similarly afflicted. It is four months since I Quit your antidote, and I am now com-Pletely cured of the habit; am well and at work, and don't want Morphine now no more than if I had never taken any of it. Accept the heartfelt thanks of my wife.

Very respectfully and truly yours, BURREL YEATES.

A PHYSICIAN CURED

Who was Afflicted with Rheumatism and Nervous Debility as well as the Habit of Using Morphine.

NEAR KEWANEE, LAUDERDALE Co., Miss., May 28, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ca.:

DEAR SIR AND FRIEND-Yours of 23d inst. to hand a few days since. It may be grateful to you to be informed that the that the reason of my not ordering an additional supply of your antidote was that there was no need of doing so, as I was entirely relieved of the Opium and Morphine disease. It also had a great influence in relieving me of rheumatic pains and nervous debility. More so, really, than any medicine I have taken since my affliction. I am convinced from its effects upon my own case that your antidote is one of the best remedies in rheumatism and nervous debility that can be resorted to in the treatment of such complaints. My former strength and action is fast returning to me, and I am quite a different man to-day to what I was when I began your treatment, and, therefore, I owe you many thanks. Truly, etc., J. P. Welch, M. D., Rewance, Miss.

Contrary to the Advice of Friends I Took Your Medicine and I Thank God I Did-lam Cured and Happy.

MAPLE CREEK, TENN., Oct. 15, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR FRIEND-I know that your medicine will do just what you say it will. It has been just five months since I took the last dose, and can assure you and every one else that I am cured of the Morphine Habit and a great many more ills that were preying upon my worn-down system. cannot command language to praise you and your remedy as I wish, but do say that I thank God that my eyes ever beheld your advertisement, for it was just in time to save my life, for I made every effort to quit opiates that was in my power, but a sad failure was the consequence every time, as all Morphine eaters can testify. If you can get anything out of this that you think will be of any good to you or any man or woman suffering as I was, you are at liberty to use it as you think best, for I am ready to testify upon oath at any time if neces-sary to anything that I have written. I am a bad hand to write, but will correspond with any one and gladly, too (stamp or no stamp). I want you to have as strong a certificate of my case as can be written, and I am satisfied I cannot write it as it ought to be; therefore, I make the request that you write a certificate and send to me, and I will sign it and return if it contains facts. I again thank you for saving my life. The small amount of saving my me. The small amount of money paid you was well spent. I do not want a dollar of it back.

I want to say before I stop writing that I had as little encouragement to commence your medicine as any man could possibly have. Everybody said it was a humbug until I almostthought so too, but was compelled to do something, for that dear something I much stood in need of. I propose to substantiate my truthfulness in anything that I might say or write by my neighbors, and will give their names and addresses if necessary; some of them preachers of the gospel, justices of the peace, merchants and other good men. Hoping you may live to cure thousands who have needlessly or otherwise gotten in the Morphine Habit as I was. I remain. Yours obediently,

WM. F. RAINEY.

My Health is Better Than For Six Years-I Weigh Twenty-three Pounds More Than When I Began Treatment.

HAMBURG, MISS., May 27, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I have postponed writing you until a sufficient lapse of time after taking your antidote that I would be fully satisfied as to a permanent cure from that curse of all habits which becomes fixed only as the Opium Habit does on one. I have not taken any Morphine since the 17th day of September last. On that day I commenced taking your antidote, which fully sustained me, and I had no desire for Morphine from the first dose of antidote and left off the antidote the 16th of April last. I only ordered four months' supply, eight bottles, of antidote, and have a half bottle as a relic and am now a free and happy man. My general health is better than for six years. I weigh twenty-three pounds more than I did before taking your antidote, and, doctor, I owe you a debt of gratitude, which can only be canceled with my life, for being the means of restoring me to a life of usefulness to myself and others. May your life be prolonged to continue in the good work of restoring the unfortunate ones as you have done with myself and a host of others is the sincere Your grateful friend,

D. B. PACKER. I am still improving in flesh and my health is better. It has been three months since I took the last LATER-July 14, 1888.

dose of the antidote. I have no desire whatever for opiates-no more than if I had never taken any.

D. B. PACKER.

I am To-day a Sound Man Without Any Craving For Lither the Morphine or Antidote.

Breslaw, Texas, Aug. 15, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

My DEAR SIR—Some two years ago began the use of Morphine, one quarter grain doses per day, to ease pain and quiet nervousness. Continued to increase it by degrees until I took one and a half and two grains daily. By this time the habit was so thoroughly fastened on me that it was almost impossible for me to break off without assistance. About this time I saw your advertisement proposing to cure persons afflicted in this way. Finding, as I thought, the right man in the right place, I concluded to try him. I ordered at once a month's supply of his antidote, discontinued at once the use of morphia and from the first dose of antidote had no more desire or craving tell opiates. I took the antidote weeks, stopped the use of it and an to-day a sound man without any craving ing for either Morphine or antidote. I can conscientiously recommend al Woolley's treatment to any and all who are afflicted in the way that I was. If the was. If they will follow his directions it will follow his directions tions it will carry them safely through to a sure cure without paid or nervousness. It is no humbus, but a sure sure. but a success. Try it and be cured. Your friend,

R. L. SMITH, M. D.

Seventy-six Years Old—Cured and is Now Happy and Grateful.

ANDERSON C. H., S. C., May 26, 1863

Dr. B. M. Woelley, Atlanta, Gains DEAR SIR—This is to certify that of mother M. mother, Mrs. Nancy Jolly, is cured of the Morphis. Nancy Jolly, is cured the the Morphine Habit. She began 13, use of your medicine November 1882, and discontinued April 1983. She did not She did not uncork the sixth bottle not use all of the nork the sixth bottle nor use all of the fifth. My mother suler she is thanken. she is thankful to the Supreme Rulei and to you fee to the Supreme Rulei and the Supreme R and to you for the cure, and desires that her testimony be heard from land to land land to land. She is now seventy six years old.

Yours respectfully, MRS. S. J. MOREHEAD, Took forty grains of Opium in one day -Sixty-four years old-Forty years afflicted with Kidney and Liver Disease, nine years in Opium Bondage, cured painlessly—Read what he says.

TYLER, TEXAS, May 26, 1883. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-I deem it my duty to you and the suffering Opium afflicted to state that I am a perfectly cured man by the use of your most valuable Opium Antidote. I was bound by the Opium tyrant for nine years, taking at the time I commenced your treatment forty grains in twenty-four hours. I tried every way I could think of to quit it, but failed. I had about given up the idea of ever being cured, but I thank God I learned you could cure, which I doubted until I commenced the use of your medicine. I am now nearly sixty-four years old, and have been afflicted for forty years with kidney and liver disease. I was recommended to take Opium to

I commenced to take your antidote deaden the pain. on the 18th day of October, 1882, and left it off the 16th day of March, 1883, a perfectly cured man. I will say that from the first day I began your antidote I had no desire for Opium and have never had any, and as soon as the antidote had performed its work I could not take it any longer, and no one need have any fear of trouble in leaving off the antidote. It is not a substitute. but I have found it a perfeet cure. Any person desiring further information in regard to my case can address me at Tyler, Smith county, Texas, and I will cheerfully an-Swer all questions. I am now an old man, and this is my first time to appear in public print in behalf of any man or remedy, and I do so now to give my feeble testimony in behalf of your valuable remedy. I will add that from the very first commencement I slept soundly at night and enjoyed my meals with a Yours very truly, DAVID L. DARK.

An M. D. Cured and remains in Atlanta ten months after cured.

ATLANTA, GA., Feb. 8, 1883.

Dr. B. M. Weolley, Atlanta, Ga. : DEAR SIR-It is with great pleasure that I can say that I have been cured of the most fearful and destructive of all habits, the use of morphine, by Dr. Woolley's Opium Antidote or treatment. Up to the time I went under your treatment I had been taking morphine over eight years constantly, and was taking eighteen or twenty grains hypodermically in twenty-four hours. I had tried the reduction plan time and again, always attended by much suffering and a failure to be cured. I consulted many physicians and tried everything I could, known to regular practitioners in the medical profession, but to no purpose. After all hope had fled of ever being freed from the bonds of opium, I heard of Dr. Woolley's wonderful cures, and after due consideration I determined to give up my practice and go to see him, though I had little or no faith in the remedy, and to give up my practice in Arkansas and go to Georgia with so little faith was quite an undertaking. After arriving in Atlanta I called to see Dr. Woolley and found him to be a thorough Christian gentleman, and that he had cured hundreds, and had several hundred then under treatment. I found that he stood as high as any man in the city; that he was a graduate of one of the oldest medical coleges in the South, located in his own city, and that he was endorsed by the most prominent physicians in the place. I was soon convinced he fully understood his business, unostentatious, yet discreet and candid in every way. I also saw and talked with a great many cases that he had curedcases of years standing—many of whom had been cured for years, never having relapsed. After all this evidence I began to have some hope, and gave him a true history and correct statement of my case, the full amount of Morphine I was using, the length of time I had used it, etc. I commenced the antidote on the morning of the 16th of August, 1882, and from the first dose I felt better and had no desire whatever for an opiate of any kind. I adhered strictly to directions and had no material inconvenience from the first dose to the last, which last dose I took on December 21st. 1882. From the first my health improved very rapidly. My sleep was refreshing, my appetite, secretions and digestion all good. When I commenced the antidote I weighed 110 pounds and now weigh 142 pounds and still improving. I have not taken, nor have I had any desire to take, the drug or any other stimulant since I left off the antidote. It is useless for me to say more to make known my faith in the treatment. It will cure if directions are followed. I am a practicing physician, practiced for years. I have endeavored to follow the principles of medical ethics, but could not allow myself to die rather than violate ethics. I was convinced after investigation that Woolley could cure, and I am now myself again. I hope this statement made to you and the public may do you and especially the Opium sufferers good. Yours very truly,

J. E. WYLIE, M. D. Sworn to and subscribed before me, February 3, 1883. (Signed)

G. H. TANNER, N. P., Ex-officio J. P. ATLANTA, GA., October 1, 1883.

My KIND FRIEND-Prompted by a desire to help all who are afflicted with the terrible disease of Opium-eating, I make this personal appeal to you through Dr. Woolley, who cured me some ten months since. I was using from eighteen to twenty grains of Morphine daily by hypodermic injection. I have remained in Atlanta to see if I was really cured, and I can say I am, and will return to Arkansas in a few days to resume the practice of medicine. Being a physician, I have tried everything known to the profession, all to no purpose. I am now a sound, healthy, fat and hopeful man, and I trust as a sympathizing friend you will not mink hard of me for writing to you, for if you are one of the unfortunate, or have friends so afflicted, you will, I know, appreciate this and consider it a kindness. Dr. Woolley is a friend and a great bless ing to that unfortunate class, and will cure you if you will only trust him.

My address in future will be Benton, Selina county, Ark., and if I can give you any information further, write me.

Your sympathizing friend,
J. E. WYLIE, M. D. Now of Redfield, Ark.

Takes Neither Morphine nor Antidote

ARCOLA, Mo., June 18, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR AND FRIEND-Yours of a few days since came duly to hand, stating that you had not heard from me since sending me the last medicine. will here say that in Sept. last I received a letter saying you were sorry I had quit taking the antidote and gone back to Morphine. I wrote you right away that I was thankful to God and you that I neither took Morphine nor your remedy, and have not since the 7th of the previous September, and was thoroughly cured of the dreadful habit of using Opium by your antidote, and I again thank you for my great deliverance. May God bless you that you may bless others the same as you did me is my prayer. I will send you 2 certificate after harvest.

Yours truly, BURDINE DODD.

Too Good to be True.

CEDARVILLE, DADE Co., Mo., January 27, 1883.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIE—This is to certify that I have been thoroughly and painlessly cured of the Morphine Habit. I send you this statement of my case to use as you think best. I had taken Morphine nearly two years before beginabout five antidote. I was cured with about five months' supply. It did all you claimed and more than I expected it would do in restoring my general health. Now I do not send this certificate in part payment of the great obligation I am under to you, but as a free will offering to your genius and a feeble expression of my gratitude for my liberation from a bondage that was fast drawing me to an opium eater's grave, and with a hope that it may induce other poor slaves to apply to You and be freed. I contracted the habit through no fault of mine. made several desperate efforts to get rid of the demon of destruction, but alas! he was too strongly intrenched in my very system to be easily dislodged. I made up my mind it was impossible are to be easily up impossible are to be easily u impossible ever to be cured and determined nave to be cured and determined nave and leave to be cured and determined nave and leave and leave are to be cured and determined nave and leave are to be cured and determined nave are to be cured nave are to be cured and determined nave are to be cured nave are to be cur termined never again to try. When I first saw your advertisement in my county paper promising to cure, I sent for your book, which had scores of those whose testimonials in it. I wrote several of those whose testimonials appeared, all of whom replied it was no humbug, so I commenced it was no number of the cured of the commenced treatment and was cured of the habit. I went through treatment without trouble or pain, and to-day are to-day am in very good health and spirits. It is not only my wish that this be published to the world, but I insist upon it, to spread the news to all Opium eaters, and let me advise all such afflicted to go under treatment at once and enjoy the tranquillity of mind, satisfaction of existence I do since my fortunate liberation. I will gladly answer all letters of inquiry and invite correspondence, postage stamp or no postage stamp.

Very respectfully yours, BURDINE DODD. Sworn and subscribed to before me, F. M. Brown, an acting Justice of the Peace in Cedar township, Dade county, Mo., on this the 27th day of January, 1883. F. M. BROWN, J. P.

As Sound as a Silver Dollar.

GADSDEN, ALA., Jan. 12, 1883. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

MY DEAR SIR-As you have heard nothing from me in so long a time, I thought I would write a line and let you know that I am well and sound as a silver dollar. I have quit the use as a silver dollar. I have quit the use of the antidote. Do not need any or want any. I left off the use of your antidote the 18th of August after using it eight months. I quit according to Your instructions and had a ing to your instructions and had no trouble at all. As you know I had piles or hemorrhage of the bowels very badly, which is also cured. I am sound in every way. When I began your medicine I was a total wreck, had no appetite-now I am fat and hearty, good appetite and digestion. I never lost a day's work from the time I commenced your antidote until I was cured. I am here, and had it not been for your truly wonderful medicine I would have been dead. I know it, for I lost all hope, and many told me I could not live. But thank God and Woolley's medicine, I am here and willing to help any poor, miserable, unfortunate Opium or Morphine eater. Anything I can do I will gladly do to lend a helping hand. Any one wanting to know I will gladly give them my experience. Though I paid you all the money you charged for curing me, I can never pay you as I would for saving me. With best wishes for your success, I W. P. CRAMER. am yours truly,

The power to do great things generally arises from the willingness to do little things.

I never want Morphine now, nor your Antidote either.

OXANA, ALA., April 11, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I was taking from one to two grains Morphine, and had been taking it for six or seven months. I tried your remedy. It has been two weeks since I have taken any of the antidote, and must say that I think it is the greatest remedy I have ever known. I never want any Morphine or your antidote either. I have been fooled so much by advertisements that I was afraid that your antidote was a humbug. Men that had tried your remedy tried to get me to try you, but I would not, for I had no faith in it, and when I got it I merely did it to satisfy my wife and not that I thought it would cure me, but I must say that when I tried it I was agreeably surprised. I left off the Morphine without any disagreeable feeling. If any one doubts your remedy I would be glad if they would write to me so I can tell them what I think of it, and if necessary I can prove what I say by those who live around me. You can use this if you

Yours with many, many thanks, R. N. Donovan.

I am indebted to you for my life-I am well and happy.

OCHLOCKNEE, GA., Aug. 23, 1888. B. M. Woolley, M. D. :

DEAR SIR-This is to certify that I commenced taking your antidote December 18th, 1887, and took my last dose July 20th, 1888. I am finally well and desire no opiates at all. I have gained thirteen pounds in weight since taking your antidote. I can't express my thanks, for I am indebted to you for my life. Accept my thanks and kind wishes.

Respectfully, MRS. A. BARWICK.

Read This.

FLORENCE, S. C., Dec. 12, 1883.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-Dr. J. E. Wylie's letter making known his cure of the Opium Habit, or slavery to Opium, or Opium bondage, is too mild and gentle an expression for that hell-born seducer, whose Satanic grip is in likeness to a nightmare. When I commenced to take your antidote I was a little skeptical. I felt that I had a new enemy to encounter. In fact, I was so much afraid of the change that I was constrained to keep the antidote until after Christmas, thinking it might effect the usual enjoyment on such occasions, and I pledge you my honor I would have enjoyed my Christmas by the change. From the first day my system began to undergo a change, and in a few days the change was remarkable, My appetite, sleep and di-gestion, bowels—in fact all the secretions began to act well and naturally. In short, your treatment was a grand success, and a triumph for me inexpressible. I am cured and no longer a slave to Opium. I am once more a man, physically, mentally and sexually. In fact, I am "Richard again," and I shall ever feel grateful to you. There are those who hold out inducements to the afflicted that a cure can be made in from ten to sixty days. The very nature of the disease would utterly condemn such a cure. The nervous system would not have time to undergo such a radical change, and that change which the entire system must undergo. I am satisfied that it can only be done gradually, and it must take time or there will be periodical nervousness which the will-power cannot resist. Your remedy and treatment avoids all this shock to the system and cures. If any one doubts that I am cured, I am willing to have blood drawn from my body at any time, and have it analyzed by a chemist, to prove that it contains no opiates. This will prove it, will it Yours very truly.

J. B. JARROT.

Does not Need any More Medicine.

CROWVILLE, FRANKLIN PARISH, LA., October 11, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-I received your letter a few days ago and was very glad to hear from you. You ask me why you did not hear from me in regard to more medicine. Your antidote has cured me. I have not taken a dose of morphine or opium of any kind since I began your antidote. I am indeed cured, and in better health than I have been for five years, and am under many obligations to you.

Very respectfully, AMANDA V. BELL.

WHISKY ANTIDOTE.

Dr. Woolley's Mission.

We call the attention of the public to the advertisement of Dr. B. M. Woolley, of this city. We do so all the more cheerfully and confidentially because the editor, whose name will be signed to this article, has experienced from the treatment of Dr. Woolley a relief that was as needed as it has been unexpected and evidently complete.

The testimonials which Dr. Woolley prints are all of them genuine in character and speak for themselves in no uncertain tones. Their thankful tone is the result of grateful relief to disordered minds and systems through last resort to his remedies for two of the greatest evils that afflict humanity. To those who are similarly afflicted they point the certain way to speedy relief and certain cure. These in person are thoroughly harmless as administered and really miraculous in their effects.

The writer, as known to his friends, has for years been the victim of the alcoholic habit. This had grown upon him to an extent that seemed uncontrollable, and seriously threatened his life, as it had already largely impaired his power for labor and usefulness. As an almost last resort, he began the use of Dr. Woolley's antidote. The result has been wonderful. The use of a single bottle faithfully taken has eradicated all taste and desire for stimulating drink, and for the past eight weeks greater strength has come, a clearer mental condition experienced and health completely restored. This result has been a marvel to friends, as it has been a source of hope and gratitude SAMUEL W. SMALL,

Atlanta, Ga.

The use of most medicines, like the application of nearly all remedial measures, is attended with more or less discomfort or unpleasantness, for they are intended to be somewhat disciplinary, the discipline being necessary to remove the effects of our own wrong-doing.

No More Whisky.

Mr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I write to inform you how much benefit your Whisky Cure has been to me. At the time I commenced to take the cure I was a complete whisky wreck. I could not sit up fifteen minutes, and I could not eat nor sleep and it seemed that I would die if not under the influence of whisky. I had been drinking since I was thirteen years old; contracted the habit in the army, where I enlisted at thirteen and had been drinking more or less ever since. I am now thirty-four years old and can say honestly that I feel like a different man. My appetite is good. It sleep sound. In fact, my whole nervous condition is altogether im-Most truly, HENRY FORD. proved.

ATLANTA, GA., July 3, 1883.

Used a Quart of 100 Proof Whisky Per Day and Cured.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .: DEAR SIR-Your medicine has cured me entirely and I do not crave stimulants. My health has improved in so many ways, I can just say that it has made me a sound man. Since it is known that I do not drink, I have no trouble in getting a situationthey send for me. I was drinking a quart of 100 proof whisky per day. With my best wishes for your suc-

Yours truly, J. G. MAYO. cess, I am

Selma, Ala.

AN M. D. CURED.

Write to Him and Receive Full Particulars.

MILLSTONE P. O., Ga., } Nov. 29, 1881.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .: DEAR SIR-After having been cured for more than a year, I can now freely give a statement of my case for the benefit of those afflicted as I was. I used opiates in excessive quantities for many years, and by the use of your remedy for about twelve months I was entirely and perfectly cured. It is now more than twelve months since I discontinued your antidote and have no further use for it nor opiates.

can heartily recommend your treatment. I weighed about 117 pounds when I commenced the use of your remedy and 171 when I left it off. I will gladly answer any communication in regard to the matter (stamp or no stamp enclosed), as every one who is afflicted as I was has my sympathy and I wish to do them all the good in my power.

D. W. Sisson, M. D.

No Opiates Nor Stimulants Wanted.

Есно, Темм., Nov. 18, 1882. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-This is to certify that for sometime I was addicted to the habit of opium-eating. I had been given to the habit for about four years, and commenced taking your antidote about the last of May, 1880, and took it until December 1st same year. It cured me sound and well, and since that time have had no desire for opium, morphine, whisky or any other stimulants and have used none. I consider your medicine a perfect cure. Yours, etc., E. W. MARSHALL.

A Free Man.

DRY GROVE, MISS., Sept. 20, 1881.

B. M. Woolley, Esq., Atlanta, Ga.: My DEAR SIR—Your two letters came duly to hand and should have been answered more promptly. Many thanks for your kind sympathies, etc., for I know you meant them. I am happy to say, however, that I do not need them, for I am again a free manfreed from the most awful, loathsome, damnable habit, or should say disease, for the Morphine Habit is as much a disease as any that we meet, only a thousand times worse, for ordinary diseases yield to ordinary treatment, while the Morphine gives way to nothing, except it be a special remedy such as yours. "Woolley's Opium Cure" is certainly everything you claim for it, and I cheerfully testify that it will cure if the directions are carried out. The six bottles (three months' supply) that I ordered from you did their work effectually and promptly. My case I consider was a wonderful one. In 1878 it took six drachms of Morphine a week to sustain me and my weight went from 196 to 109 pounds. I was cured with three months' supply, as above

Hoping you much success, I am your friend,

R. M. MITCHELL, M. D. LATER.

October 31, 1881. DEAR SIR-Yours of the 18th ult. to hand. You can do as you please with the letter, although it was not written for publication. Hoping to hear from you occasionally and with thanks for past favors, I am Yours truly,

R. M. MITCHELL, M. D.

Dr. Mitchell Writes after Nearly Seven Years.

DRY GROVE, MISS., Feb. 7, 1888. B. M. Woolley, M. D .:

My DEAR DOCTOR-I have never felt the least anxiety for Morphine since I quit taking your cure over six years ago and have been well ever since. The most singular part of the cure is that I cannot tolerate any preparation of Opium, even the most minute dose, say five minims paregoric, without being cramped. It took sixty grains of Morphine daily to sustain me and I kept it up two years. You have made a perfect cure in my case, doctor, for which I thank Your friend,

R. M. MITCHELL, M. D.

AN ALABAMIAN TESTIFIES.

He Refers to Many Distinguished Men as to the Truth of His Statement.

BRIDGEPORT, JACKSON Co., ALA., } January 16, 1882. To all whom it may interest:

I take pleasure in stating that Dr. B. M. Woolley's Opium Antidote is all and more than he claims for it. Having come out of the Confederate army with chronic diarrhea, the physicians that I consulted sought to relieve me by means of Opium. It was given me so long that what is known as the Opium Habit became firmly fixed. I could, and often did, take forty grains Gum Opium at one time. When I became convinced that I was receiving no permanent benefit from its use, I sought to throw it off, but found that I was firmly fixed in its deadly grasp. I was reduced to extreme emaciation, and in sorrow was going down to the grave when I chanced to get one of Dr. Woolley's books, in which I learned there was a sure, reliable remedy. I ordered a supply at once. The first taken assured me all I had read about the antidote was true. I abhorred Opium. I arose the first morning a new man and cheerfully took up the duties that had been so long neglected. I am sure I do not exaggerate when I say it (the antidote) is the very best nerve tonic ever prepared. And it is an absolute pleasure to take it, there being nothing at all disagreeable con-nected with it. I earnestly advise all who have acquired the habit of taking Opium. Morphine or any other drug of their nature to write at once to Dr. B. M. Woolley, or order his medicine, follow the directions he will give you and you will be speedily restored. You will not be required to lay aside your daily avocation, but receive new energy. If there is any one who doubts this statement, I refer them to Gen. Joseph Wheeler, M. C., W. M. Lowe, M. C., Dr. D. W. Yandell, S. Keith & Co., all of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. Chas. W. Harvey, Anchorage, Jefferson county, Ky., Dr. John G. Harvey, Jacksonville, Fla., or any one with whom they may be acquainted at Bridgeport, Ala., as to my veracity.

J. M. McKendree.

Your Medicine will Cure any Case.

REDWINE, JACKSON PARISH, LA., Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. : March 4, 1882.

DEAR SIR—I can say that your Opium Cure has entirely cured my wife. She began to take your remedy some twelve months ago and quit in October last. When she commenced your antidote she weighed about 100 pounds, and now weighs 145 pounds. I have no doubt whatever that your medicine will cure any case.

I am yours respectfully, LUTHER BARNES. LATER.

DEAR SIR—In answer to your letter, I can say you are at liberty to use my letter if it will do any good. My wife's health still improves. She now weighs 158 pounds. I sent Mrs. of Texas, one of your pamphlets. She sent me word that your antidote had cured her, and thanks me kindly for sending the book. You can refer all cases to me in this country. I am generally known.

I remain yours respectfully, LUTHER BARNES.

ANOTHER HAPPY HUSBAND.

His wife Entirely Restored-"My wife is in perfect health, bearing upon her cheeks the bloom of youth again."

WARREN, BRADLEY Co., ARK., April 4, 1882.

Dr., B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. : DEAR SIR-Doubtless you have looked for a letter from me in regard to my wife's condition after a discontinuance of your medicine. I feel perfeetly satisfied the cure is complete. She has not had the least desire for either Morphine or antidote since taking the last package sent. The time from then until now, being several months, has been sufficiently long to warrant me in announcing to you and the world at large that your remedy is all you represent it to bc. My wife is in perfect health, bearing upon her cheek the bloom of youth again. Home is marked with cheerfulness, where before partial gloom prevailed (or I might have put it, perpetual gloom, for such it was). We are under lasting obligations for this happy result to you. I am now ready to recommend your remedy to all afflicted with the Opium Habit. Hoping that you may live long and continue to contribute to the happiness of thousands, I subscribe myself yours most obediently,

A RAPID CURE.

He used only one grain Morphine per twenty-four hours and was cured with one bottle and a half of the Antidote.

TAMPA, FLA., April 3, 1880. Dr. B. M. Wootley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-I feel ashamed that I should have neglected letting you know the good your medicine has done in curing me. After the first dose of your Antidote I never wanted any more Morphia. I was only taking one grain per day, and in order to see whether I could quit the habit without an antidote, I tried it three days and came near dying, and had to take Morphia again. I took one bottle of your antidote and part of the second. I am now entirely well and can heartily recommend your antidote to all Opiumeaters.

Your humble servant, . JOHN BRANDON.

A PHYSICIAN'S PATIENT.

I am satisfied from the effects of the remedy in this case that there is not a better Opium Antidote in the world than Woolley's.

HOOD, HARRIS Co., GA., April 26, 1882.

Dr B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-Having seen your advertisements in the newspapers where you propose to cure those addicted to the Opium Habit, and having a friend that I knew to be thus afflicted, I got him to consent to use your remedy. I ordered the same for him, and consequently had the most ample opportunity to note the effects of the remedy. When he began the use of the antidote he had been using five grains of Sulphate Morphine daily, and was completely broken down, mentally and physically. His appetite and di-gestion were almost entirely destroyed; his bowels never acted except from the use of cathartics, and the action was attended with the most griping pains; his sleep was disturbed by horrible dreams and he awoke in the morning feeling less refreshed than when he retired at night. In fact, his case was one to win the sympathy of any one who knew his deplorable condition. From the time that he used the first dose of your antidote his condition was greatly improved, and this improvement was steady and rapid until he was completely cured, which was done in about three months. He is to-day a stout, robust man, in full possession of all his faculties and in the enjoyment of good health, and is perfectly extravagant in his praise of the remedy. He would not consent to have me use his name, but if any one doubts the above statement, they can be fully verified by addressing me at Hood, Harris county, Georgia. I am satisfied from the effects of the remedy in this case that there is not a better Opium Antidote in the world than Woolley's, and also that it is one of the very best nerve tonics. To any one who may doubt, I can say, and conscientiously say, that Woolley's Antidote will cure the Opium Habit. Most respectfully,

W. F. WILSON, M. D.

AN INTELLIGENT FARMER

Testifies in regard to his wife's case.

CLOVER, YORK Co., S. C., November 21, 1881. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-You seldom ever find a farmer who is willing to risk himself with a pen and paper, but by request of my wife, and the sympathy I have for some of the human family, I feel honor bound to give my honest views in regard to what is termed the Morphine or Opium Habit.

Up to February 10th, 1881, Mrs. Campbell had been an inveterate Opium eater for fifteen years without my knowledge. I knew there was something wrong with her health, but could not discover the cause. Finally she told all. I, as a matter of course, began to look for a remedy. My wife at the same time told me it was useless. She never had taken any remedy, but she had tried to reduce the dose, but found that would not do. I, being of a different mind, commenced a correspondence with you. After receiving your blank from you I was told that it would be money thrown away, even by a brother of mine, a prominent physician in Clover. He told me to throw my money in the fire and just let the thing alone, as there was no remedy for the disease, and no person in the county would think for a moment of doubting his word or judgment. I found B. M. Woolley to be an open-hearted, genial gentleman. I applied his remedy, and to-day I can say, without fear of contradiction, that my wife is positively cured of the Opium Habit, which was of fifteen years' standing, and I know money could never induce her to resort to Opium again. She is not the same woman. Her health is good. She has gained in flesh. Persons seeing her now would scarcely recognize her. In fact, if the case had not been under my own eye, I never could have believed the improvement. She had no bad feeling after the first two or three days. Her sleep was sound. Before she never knew a sound sleep. Moreover, during term of her treatment, she took care of a child five years old, holding it in her arms nearly all the time, as it was afflicted with spinal disease. Had it not been for that, I believe she could have been cured in half the time. She was cured in six months. I write this, if need be, for the eye of the world, and more especially for those who are addicted to the Morphine or Opium habit. You need have no fear of B. M. Woolley's Morphine and Opium Cure. There is no humbug about it. I know there are some who profess to cure the habit who are impostors, and could name them right here, but it is not at all necessary, as I have given you the name of one who is not a humbug and that is enough. If there is anything in the case not told, and any one so afflicted wants to know, I will freely tell them. But one thing I will tell you, that is, if you are afflicted with the Morphine or Opium habit, apply at once, take his remedy, follow directions, and I will insure you a safe and harmless and happy cure.

Yours fraternally, D. M. CAMPBELL.

Again, nearly seven years later, he writes.

Dr. B. M. Woolley: April 18, 1888.

DEAR SIR-Mrs. Campbell is in fine health, never having occasion to resort to opiates. Truly,

D. M. CAMPBELL, Pineville, N. C.

OPIUM AND WHISKY.

Cured of both habits--He has no desire for any stimulant.

MEXIA, TEXAS. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-I received a letter from you a few days since, asking why you had not heard from me, and if I had abandoned the Opium Cure and returned to the old habit. I am happy to answer that I have not ordered because I have had no further need of your antidote. Neither have I returned to the Opium or Whisky or any other narcotic. I take nothing stronger than coffee, and am in better health.

than I have been in twenty years. Indeed, I am a new man. The facts of my case I will relate to you, and if you think it will benefit suffering humanity, you can use it if you choose. I am over fifty years of age. Had been using Opium or Morphine for about twelve years previous to taking Woolley's Antidote. I commenced the use of Opium in small quantities, after drinking whisky too much. Continued to increase the dose until it fastened on me with a bond I could not break until I got Woolley's Opium Antidote. Tam now free from Opium and Whisky. I have not used any stimulants since I have been cured, Yours truly, Julius J. WARD. three months.

LATER.

DEAR SIR-When I used Opium I would sometimes drink Whisky. As I stated in my former letter, I commenced using opiates from excessive dissipation until I formed the habit. Your antidote cured me, and strange to me, I have not the least thirst or desire for spirits of any kind or opiates since my cure, say the past three months. I am satisfied you can cure the Whisky Habit with less trouble than the Opium Habit.

Yours. JULIUS WARD.

No More Whisky for Me-You Cured Me of Drinking When I Could do Nothing for Myself.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., May 20, 1888.

Dr. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I suppose you thought I had forgotten you, but I do not think I will ever. I left off your medicine as you directed me to do, and I have never felt the need of it from that day until this. Appetite is good; sleep as sound as a dollar; mind is cheerful and I am a happy man. I have very near half bottle of the antidote left and will keep it to remember you. I can get all the whisky I want where I am working, but no desire to drink whatever. You need not be afraid; I would not go back to drinking under any circumstances. My wife says how Wonderful your medicine is to bring happiness into the house. She thanks you very much. Yours respectfully,
HENRY MAGRATH,

Rampart street, between Marion and Bartholomew streets.

Whisky Under Foot-I can Handle Whisky and Never Touch It-I Have no Desire for It.

> CHATTANOOGA, TENN., Aug. 13, 1888.

Dr. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Your letter received sometime since, but have been so busy did not answer it. I do not think I need a second course of your valuable medicine, for the first one has done the work so completely that no more is necessary. I can handle whisky and never touch it. I have no desire for any stimulants. You can use my letter whenever you think it will do any good, for any man ought to do anything he can to relieve his fellow-man, and I know your medieine will do its part.

Yours respectfully. JOHN R. BROTBECK, S19 Gilmer street.

I Am a Sounder Man To-day than I Have Been in 20 Years.

> MANHATTAN, KANSAS, (Dec. 20th, 1885.

Dr. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I received your note today, saying you had not heard from me in regard to my being cured. I wrote and am sorry you did not get my letter. I am cured of that fearful habit, and to-day weigh 155 pounds. When I began to take your antidote I weighed 85 pounds. I never suffered for the want of opiates after I commenced your medicine. When you told me you thought I was about cured, and to try and quit with the first bottle of the last two you sent me, I used only two doses from the bottle and threw the balance away, and the other bottle is now in my desk, which has never been opened. I now eat more than I ever did in my life, and my stomach is getting stronger and I am gaining strength all the time, and if I continue to gain for six months longer I will be as good as I was at 30 years old. I will be 62 next month. Believe me your friend, for I know I would have been under the sod long ago if it had not been for your medicine. Yours truly, J. C. LAIRD.

LATER.

MANHATTAN, KAN., Jan. 4, 1886. Dear Doctor Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I thank God and Dr. Woolley that I am a sounder man today than for twenty years. I weighed since I wrote you last month, and weighed 165 pounds, which is as much as I weighed at twenty-three years old. My bowels are in better condition than since 1853 when I was in California. You are at liberty to publish anything I have written, and if it will do any good to suffering Opium eaters, I will swear to all I have written, but anywhere in this country or South Michigan my word is sufficient. They can be cured without suffering. Yours truly,
J. C. LAIRD.

His Brother Nearly Restored and He is Convinced of the Good Results of the Treatment.

WHITE SAND, MISS., Aug. 18, 1885. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Yours of the 31st ult. to hand, notifying me that you had forwarded the medicine as ordered. I am sorry to inform you of the death of my poor, unfortunate brother. He was killed on the 4th of the present month by a falling tree. He was passing near a dead pine that was on fire near the ground, and had burned sufficiently to break off and fall while he was in range of it, some portion of the tree striking him on the head, crushed the skull and killed him instantly. He was getting to be in fine health, and was almost free from the Opium habit. Said he was in better condition than for some years past. I have no hesitation in saying that the treatment in his case was a complete

H. GREGORY, M. D.

September 12, 1885. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Yours of the 26th ult. to hand. I have no objection to your using the letter. It was not intended for publication, but what I said in regard to the success of the treatment of my brother's case I have not the least hesitancy in reaffirming, and will furthermore add that, in my opinion, your antidote, if properly used, will care any case of Opium habit where there is a moderate amount of constitutional stamina, and the case is not complicated with some incurable dis-Yours respectfully, H. GREGORY, M. D.

Cured Five Years Ago.

PINEVILLE, N. C., Jan. 14, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

Well, my old friend, Mrs. Campbell and Miss Poage send their best wishes for your success. They have never wanted any opiates since cured in 1881.

I want you to send me a bottle of medicine for a young man for the cure of the whisky habit. He only uses a pint of whisky in twenty-four hours. Send it right away; I want him cured.

Yours truly, D. M. CAMPBELL.

To Publish if You Wish.

NINETY-SIX, S. C., Sept. 23, 1885. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-If any one should doubt your Opium Cure doing all you claim for it, you are at liberty to refer them to me and I will cheerfully give them a history of a complete cure you have made in a very bad, complicated and stubborn case coming under my knowledge. You have been very kind and liberal, besides making a complete cure, all of which is highly appreciated. I refer to the case I have been ordering medicine for.

W. S. RICHARDSON.

Has been Cured for Five Years and Never Touched Opium Since.

GREENVILLE, ALA., Sept. 15, 1885. Dr. B. M. Wooliey:

DEAR SIR-I owe my life to you and the kind friend who advised me to take your Opium Cure. I was for several years so given to the habit of me. I fall decide was a torture to me. I felt daily that death would be a mercy to me rather than to be chained to such an awful habit, 1 could not live without it. I had to take it regularly three times a day, and sometimes are the times are the and sometimes oftener. I tried every means possible to rid myself of the habit, but to no purpose until I commenced taking your cure. After giving up the are ing up the Morphine, I determined to give your medicine a fair trial. I went strictly by directions. After taking the first dose I began to gain natural strength, and from day to day grew stronger. I found your medicine perfectly painless, and after taking it six months left it off without any difficulty. I have not taken a dose of Morphine in five years; have given it in sickness, and never had any desire for it after taking your medicine. I feel a solicitude for those who are afflicted with the habit, and would most earnestly pray for them to apply to Dr. Woolley for relief. You are at liberty to make use of this as you see Most respectfully, ALA OATES.

WAYNESBORO, BURKE Co., GA., September 14, 1885.

Dr. B. M. Woolley: DEAR SIR-In March, 1884, I ordered a supply of your Opium Anti-dote, and that, with what I got af-terwards, cured me sound and well, but I will give you a certificate when I have more time to write it. My object in writing is to order a month's supply for a lady friend who learned how I got out of the habit and is auxious to try it. Yours truly, JOHN F. LAWSON.

Thoroughly cured of the Abominable Habit.

ALEXANDER CITY, ALA., March 30, 1885.

Dr. B. M. Wooliey: to inform you DEAR SIR-I write that I am cured of the Opium Habit. It is now near four weeks since I left off the use of the antidote, which I did without any inconvenience, having on hand at that time over a half bottle of the medicine. I feel grateful for your kindness to me as a practitioner of medicine. You relieved me of a habit that I was unable to relieve them. relieve myself of without help. I made several unsuccessful attempts before I applied to you, depending, however, entirely upon will power, but I could not make it work. Anything that I applied to you, will power, but I could not make it work. thing that I can do that is right, that will advance your interest, I stand ready to do.

Very respectfully. O. P. DARK.

April 6, 1885. LATER. DEAR SIR-When I saw your advertisement I was taking about ten grains of Opium per day. I immediately wrote for and promptly received your book, and after reading and carefully reflecting on it, I became pretty well satisfied that you could do what you said. I ordered and received the antidote and began its use on the 9th of last December. I had lost in weight about thirty pounds, and my general health was badly shattered from the use of opiates, but in three weeks after commencing the use of the antidote I gained fourteen pounds, and in about two and a half months I recovered all my lost weight. I left off the use of the antidote entirely without any inconvenience whatever, and feel that I am thoroughly cured of the abominable habit. I have no doubt at all, from my own experience and from that of others, whose assertions are not to be questioned, of your ability to cure any case of Opium Habit if your directions are followed. Permit me to extend to followed. Fermit me you my sincere gratitude. Yery respectfully, O. P. DARK.

It Will Not Do to Fool With Morphine.

LEON, ALA., Aug. 8, 1885.

Dr. B. M. Woolley: I received your letter a few days ago and was glad to hear from you. I will say to all persons, it will not do to fool with Morphine. It will cause trouble, and I believe I would have been dead to-day or in the asylum if I had not used your medicine. I commenced taking your medicine in January and quit it in May. It will do all you claim it to do and I will recommend it to all who are afflicted from the use of opiates. I took Morphine until I found death drawing near. Your antidote cured me. Lam under thousands of obligations to you. I can do as much work as I could ten can do as much work as I could ten years ago. Sleep regular and sweet; rest better than for years. Your antidote is better than I could explain.

Yours as ever, McDonald.

Go out of doors and get the air. Ah, if you knew what was in the air. See what your robust neighbor, who never feared to live in it, got from it: never tearen convertiness, power to constrength, cheerfulness, power to convince, heartiness and equality to each event.

, Saved From the Grave.

WINNSBORO, S. C., June 15, 1885. Dr. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I deem it due you and Opium-sufferers to inform you of the great success of your remedy. I discontinued your medicine on the 15th of May last, and now am quite well and feel if I had continued the Morphine I would have been in my grave ere this. Respectfully,

MRS. M. A. LYLES.

After Eight Years Pestored to His People.

HOGGARD'S MILL, BAKER Co., GA., November 8, 1884.

I have never led a dissipated life, but got in the habit of using Morphine while suffering from sore eyes. I used Morphine seven or eight years. It ruined my health; my energies were destroyed; I had about given up; I would have been willing to give up everything and begin life over again to be cured. My wife persuaded me to try Dr. B. M. Woolley's treatment. Though I had doubt, I gave Dr. Woolley a correct statement of my case and began treatment about May 1, 1883. When I began treatment I used a bottle of Morphine in about two and a half days. From the first dose of Dr. Woolley's medicine I neither felt any need nor any desire for Morphine or other opiates, nor have I taken any since. opinies, nor hard a half months' supply of Dr. Woolley's medicine. By reducing the dose as directed by Dr. Woolley, this amount was all I used, and I left off the medicine the first Sunday in June, 1884, without any trouble or inconvenience. I have taken neither Dr. Woolley's medicine nor any Morphine or opiate in any form since. I am in excellent health, and as free from the habit and disease induced by using Morphine as it is possible to be, and as any one who has never tasted an opiate. As an evidence of the confidence my fellowcitizens have in me, I will here add that I have just been elected by them to represent my county (Miller) in

B. F. Jones.

Cured, and Says So.

LINDEN, ALA., Dec. 8, 1884. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-I left off taking your antidote 14th last August, and am happy to say that it has made a cure of me. I had one bottle left. If you want a certificate I will send it to you. Yours truly, J. T. HOGUE.

After Using Morphine Twelve Years and as Much as Sixty Grains in Three Days is now Cured-A New Person and Lives to Rejoice.

ENNIS, TEXAS, Jan. 20, 1887. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

RESPECTED FRIEND-I write you the glad tidings and glorious blessings you have brought our family, connections and friends. You have cured me of that terrible habit. I am now a new person and live to rejoice. My husband had in his hand a bottle of Morphine he had bought, when Doctor A. asked him if he used it. My husband replied that he did not, but that his wife did. Dr. A. said: "Send to Dr. Woolley. I know he can cure her. I have seen the worst cases cured. I have no interest in the matter, but I think Dr. Woolley deserves a great deal of credit for his great discovery."

The cause of my habit was, I was given all kinds of opiates in spasms. I was down sick two years. I had never seen a person who used opiates. I was told I could stop. I tried to quit by lessening the dose, but could not. I was as helpless as a babe. I cannot describe my terrible suffering trying to cure myself. I never had any trouble after I got your cure. It perfectly sustained me from the first dose. I took four months' supply of the antidote and am now cured and feel like a new person. I used opiates twelve years and used as much as a drachm in three days. We all join in sending sincere thanks to you and hope that that you may live long on the earth you and continue to do much good. You may use this if you wish.

Sincerely MRS. S. T. McCullum.

"I've a dreadful cold, doctor." is see you have. Let me feel your pulse. H'm!—yes. You'd better take a hot bath, and under no circumstances get your feet wet."

A Daughter Relieved and a Father Made Happy.

ROCK HILL, S. C., June 13, 1884. Dr. B. M. W o'ley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-My daughter Carrie commenced taking Morphine in March, 1883. Took at one time as much as five grains of Morphine in 24 hours hypodermically. We tried the reduction plan with her, and succeeded in getting the amount reduced to 4 of a grain, but still she could not do without it; actually had spasms when from under the influence of Morphine and health much impaired. We became alarmed about her condition, and was advised by Dr. Crawford, our physician, to try Dr. Woolley's antidote. We procured one month's sup-Commenced using it the 18th day of April. Used it as directed until May 2d; had no desire for Morphine; reduced the number of doses to one per day, on rising in the morning, for one week; May 9th was her last dose, and with it she finished. She is now, June 13th, well; has no desire for Morphine or any other stimulant whatever. We believe that your medicine will do all you claim for it if taken as directed. With many thanks. I am Very respectfully, T. F. CLINTON.

LATER EVIDENCE OF THE CURE. ROCK HILL, S. C., July 29, 1884.

Dr. Woo ley:

DEAR SIR-On the 13th of last June wrote you a statement of my daughter Carrie's case, with result of treatment. In due time I received yours asking permission for publication of certificate of cure. To this I answered in the affirmative. We live some distance from the post-office, and have recently learned that my letter was not mailed; hence the delay. Our daughter is ter is well and hearty. We consider the land hearty. the ls well and hearty. We care to cure permanent. All praise to your antidote. T. F. CLINTON.

am Positively Cured of the Morphine

WURTSBORO, SULLIVAN CO., N. Y., 25, 1887. Friend Dr. Woolley:

Habit by your antidote. I have not alver any your antidote. taken by your antidote. I have any Morphine or anything of the kind since September, 1886. I am positively cured of the Morphine Habit. Please accept my thanks for my deliverance from the bondage. Your friend.

MRS A. C. BENEDICT.

Cured after Using Morphine for More than Ten Years.

CRAWFISH SPRINGS, GA., August 11, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Wooliey, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-This is to certify that after using Morphine for more than ten years I have been permanently cured by the use of your Opium Anti-dote and your kindness. I began the use of Morphine in 1887, and used it constantly up to the 5th of August, 1888. I used 15 grains of Morphine every day, but can say that to-day I am, through the treatment of Dr. Woolley, permanently cured. I never suffered any ill-convenience from the first dose of the antidote. I left off the antidote on the 10th day of May, 1889, and have not used or wanted any stimulants since. If any one doubts these statements I would refer them to L. W. Myers, N. P. and J. P., of Crawfish Springs, Walker county, Ga., who is acquainted with me and my case. Your friend,

MRS. MARY E. IRELAN.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 17th day of August, 1889. [Signed] J. T. KIRKPATRICK, J. P.

I certify that I am well acquainted with Mrs. Mary E. Irelan, and have every reason to believe every word of her statement is correct. Any person wishing to know more about the case can write to me, enclosing stamp, and I will cheerfully answer any questions. J. T. KIRKPATRICK, Justice of the Peace.

Cured of Opium Using.

IRONWOOD, TEXAS, Feb. 9, 1884.

Dr. B. M. Woolley: MY DEAR SIR AND FRIEND-I write to inform you that your antidote for the cure of the habit of Opium eating has made a cure of me, and I feel that it is a final one. It has now been nearly five months since I took the last dose of your medicine. I think it was on the 23d of September, 1883. My health, generally, is better, and feel better than I have for four or five years. Though I think that I paid you well for what you did for me, I must say that I feel that I never spent a few dollars, nor do I think I shall ever again spend that amount, that will be of more service to me than the amount of money I have invested with you. And now I hope you may live to a good old age, and that you may be the means of saving more from going to an Opium eater's grave. I cannot tell you my feelings when I found I could get about my business without being stimulated with an opiate of any kind. Why, sir, I never felt so much like shouting for joy in all my life. So now, with many thanks to you, and my best wishes for your prosperity, I bid you adieu.

MILTON HALL.

If You Want to Quit Whisky It Will Do It.

RICHMOND, DALLAS CO., ALA., June 1, 1884. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I feel that your Whisky Antidote is all that you have represented it to be, and if any man will only comply with your directions and exert innate man, and say, I want to quit it, and will do it, he can do so beyond a doubt. I felt that my case was hopeless, as did many of my friends, but now it is very different indeed, and all are as proud to meet me as they were in former days. Wishing you success in all your invaluable efforts, I am yours truly,

I. N. KYSER, M. D.

Even Arkansas Whisky Succumbs.

Douglas, Ark., May 14, 1885. Dr. B. M. Wootley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-I began taking your medicine on the 15th of April, and continued taking it regularly up to the solution of the soluti doses per day. I must say I had but little confidence in your Antidote at first, but the first dose took the whisky feeling away from me, and I have not wanted any since. It made my head a little dizzy at first, but I continued to take the prescribed dose, and the dizziness soon passed away. My health has improved. I think I have sufficient to cure me. I often forget to take it, but my wife reminds me, for she has felt the effect of my cursed habit. I feel as if I was entirely cured. With the kindest of wishes from my wife, mother, and sisters and friends, Iam Your true friend,

C. D. SAMPLE.

THREE MONTHS LATER.

Douglas, Ark., Aug. 20, 1885. Dr. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I write to you to ask you to please send your book and a blank to the following names. I have seen them and told them what you did for

I am entirely well and the proudest man living. I tell every one of your Antidote and how it cured me. I had some left, which I keep as sacred as gold dust. All my friends know how it treated me, and to see me cured they have faith in it, for I was a hopeless creature; everybody had lost all hope of me, and I had lost confidence in my own self, but now, thank God and you for your relief, I am a sober man once again. May God assist you in your wonderful relief to all suffering har wonderful relief to all suffering har been ing human beings; for as sure as they take your Antidote they will praise God and you for deliverance from this mighty destroyer of minds, families, happiness and prosperity. You will relieve many a poor old mother's aching heart and stop the cries of ten thousand little sand little tongues, crying for bread, and rok and rob many a grave of its victim. With the praise of God and man, I will close. Yours,

C. D. SAMPLE.

DISINTERESTED TESTIMONY.

I am personally acquainted with Mr. C. D. Sample; we have been intimately acquainted; we have been intimately acquainted since our boyhood, and I know that I know that the effect of your Antidote has been along in has been a fountain of salvation in deed to his deed to him. As he says in his letter he has poor he has never taken or desired to take a drink of whisky since he began your medicine medicine. You can refer any one of me for substantial of me for substantiation of the truth of your claims in the truth of your claims in this particular. I have other national this particular. other patients under treatment with your opium and whisky cure whose progress is onthe progress is entirely satisfactory so far, and of when and of whom I will write further when their cures their cures are perfected. If I can be the means are perfected. If I can be the means of inducing any one to give it a trial it a trial, I will be more than happy. Meanwhile I remain Yours truly, P. H. PENDLETON, M. D., Douglas, Ark.

Whisky in Texas.

MONTAGUE, TEXAS, June 1, 1885. To Dr. B. M Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR-Feeling thankful to you for your kind inquiry after the result of your Whisky Cure in my case, I must state that I feel sure the cure in my case is as radical as it has been speedy. From the very commencement of your treatment, and notwithstanding the fact that the habit was fastened on me so effectually, though conscious that it was destroying me, I was utterly unable to break it off, yet after the first day of its use.

I had no inclination for the continuance of the habit, and before the consumption of the second bottle I had as little taste for the medicine as for the whisky: yet my good wife, out of an abundance of caution, has procured the third bottle, which I am not wanting or using, but keeping for future contingencies, which I think will not occur. I have many friends who are useful men and some of whom are in high positions of usefulness, who I am sure would be as gratified as myself for your happy deliverance from a habit, which, in many instances, is more to be pitied than condemned, and who I feel sure would at once seek your assistance, yet I feel a delicacy in asking them to make a trial. You can, if you see proper to, use this as an inducement to others to do as they think best. Re-W. J. SPARKS, Attorney-at-Law. spectfully yours,

The Last Dose, and Cured.

NEW FOUNTAIN, TEXAS, April 18th, 1886.

Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I am happy to say to you that I took the last dose of your medicine Feb. 9th. I have not felt the least particle of pain or suffering since then, nor since I took the first dose of the antidote. I took the first bottle as directed and the second one as directed and the second one as directed until I took half of it, then I took I took only half the amount directed, two doses per day. I took two doses a day of bottle No. 3 until half of it was good took two one was gone, and then I took only one dose a day until I had about one-fifth of the bottle left when I began to decrease I the crease the size of the dose until the medicine was used up. I have enjoyed better health and had better health and had better appetite and sleep than I have had for years. I had used morphine four years and eight months and took your medicine three months and seven days, and it has been two months and six days since I took the last of the medicine. I feel very grateful, and hope that whenever you think of Texas you may know that you have a warm friend there. Respectfully. J. M. MOBLEY.

LATER.

NEW FOUNTAIN, TEXAS, } May 15th, 1886.

Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-Yours received asking whether you can use my letter. You are a thousand times welcome to use it, and that is not all, if any doubts that your medicine will do what you recommend it to do, if they will write to me I will go to any trouble to prove to them that it will do the work of restoring the health and strength which have been destroyed by the use of Morphine. I hope that every one who is afflicted by the use of Morphine or other opiates will soon learn of your remedy. Respectfully.

Over Fifty Years Old, but Cured.

GEORGETOWN, QUITMAN Co., GA. ? August 28, 1886.

Dr. B. M. Woolloy:

DEAR SIR-I write to express my gratitude to you for curing me of the Morphine habit. I have about one fifth of the last bottle I got of you left. I am over fifty years old and weighed 184 pounds when you began to treat me. I now feel perfectly well and weigh even 200 I have not used any of your medicine now in two months. If it will be of any benefit to you to use this letter you can do so. Yours truly, A. H. Wood.

After Sixteen Years Bondage, Once More Free.

BIG VALLEY, LAMPASAS CO., 1 TEXAS, July 19th, 1886.

DEAR SIR-I used your antidote Dr. B. M. Woolley: for Morphine and Opium. I used the for morphine and option. I used the internal drug for sixteen years before

I began your medicine. I got the month's supply December, 1885. I believe the medicine I got from you cost me altogether twenty dollars. I am cured long ago. I could hardly believe the fact that I was cured and taking nothing. It takes a man of superior ability to describe the tortures of an opium maniac, but I had them all and now I am cured and thank God most reverently am a man again. I took the antidote regularly but soon began reducing the doses. I lost my wife about the time I quit the remedy entirely, and with all the sorrow and depression I took no more.

You are at liberty to use my dame at any time and in any way that will recommend your remedy and save some fellow-creature from a living hell. I am, as ever, yours,

J. A. MOHLER. Cured After a Slavery of 13 Years.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., June 21, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR, SIR-I am cured of the Morphine Habit. I had used Morphine about 13 years and used 12 grains per day. I took the first dose of your antidote on the 14th day of February, 1884, and the last on the 4th day of March 1885. I never wanted Morphine from the first dose of your antidote, and felt no inconvenience in stopping it and never think of it now. I regard it as the most remarkable medicine of this or any other time. It will certainly cure any case with but little if any inconvenience to the patient if they will give it anything like a fair trial. J. H. BROWN.

Addicted Twenty Years, but Cured in Her Old Age.

SOCIAL CIRCLE, GA., July 26, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I write to let you know DEAR OTHER I WILLE TO LEE YOU KNOW that my mother is cured of the Opium Habit. She has not taken any for five months, and she stopped taking your antidote the 17th of June. Her cure I think is the greatest cure you have made. She has been taking Opium for twenty years and you Opium 101 owency years and you cured her in four months. She has cured ner in tout months. She has no desire for the Opium nor the anti-dote. Her health is better and she is dote. Her hearing is better and sine is gaining strength every day. Respectfully.

J. H. WALTON, M. D.

LATER.

Social Circle, GA., June 29, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-Your letter of the 5th instant has been received. I am thankful that such a great remedy has been placed in your hands to save humanity-from an Opium grave. My mother had been taking Opium for twenty years and has been cured by you of the habit in four months. She has gained in weight every day. Her weight before taking treatment was eighty-five pounds, now it is one hundred. She says that no one but those who have taken Opium know how to be thankful for a cure. Her life was no pleasure to her or to her children; she could not get up without help and had no energy whatever. She never felt like talking to anyone, but rather liked to be by herself where she could not be seen. It is different now, for she wants to live to be of some comfort to herself and her children. For the last twenty years she has not been. She is as cheerful as she was twenty years ago. She has no desire for either the antidote or the Opium. She took the last dose of opium the 12th of last February, and left off on the 17th of June. She is now over sixty years 12. sixty years old. Any one wishing to know if she is cured can write her. Mrs. A. E. Walton, Reese, Ga., enclosing stamp. You can use this etter if you ter if you wish. I want your photograph, as I want to show my chi dren when ren who saved their grandmother from an Opium grave.

Yours respectfully, J. H. WALTON, M. D.

A Minister Testifies.

APPALACHICOLA, FLA., I take pleasure in testifying that, from personal observation and from perform perfectly reliable sources of information. I am a M. tion, I am satisfied that Dr. B. M. Woolland Carls at safe Woolley's Opium Antidote is a safe and reliable remedy for the danger ous and reliable remedy for the danger ous and destructive Opium hahit-For obvious reasons I cannot give names, never having sought permission to do south having sought permission to do south and have sion to do so; but if my word can have any weight any weight, 1 desire to express strong confidence, 1 desire to express strong confidence in Dr. Woolley's remedy-

C. A. APPLE, Rector P. E. Church, Now at Satilla Bluff, Ga. Appalachicola, Fla.

A Free Woman and Wants Every One to Know It.

ROCKDALE, TEXAS, Sept. 13, 1886. Dr. Woolley:

I received your letter of inquiry yesterday; and was really sorry that I had been so neglectful of my duty. Please forgive me for it, and let me assure you that I am perfectly free from the use of any opiate up to this time. My health is better than it has been for many years, and to-day feel free to say that your wonderful medicine has wrought this great change in me that people speak of so often when they meet me. I do not hesitate to tell them of this life preserver that came so strangely into my house, for I had already tried every way that I could think of to free myself from the terrible habit, before I applied to you for help; but instead of getting better I grew worse all the time, so no one need tell me they can cure themselves of the habit, for if it could have been done I think I could have accomplished my cure. And now, doctor, let me say to you that if my letter will be of any consequence, use it in any way you may desire. All I hate is that language fails me when I try to tell what your medicine is really worth to those who are slaves to the detestable drug. Please accept many thanks for your consideration of me. Hope you may live long to carry on the good work you are accomplishing.

Respectfully, MRS. LOU BAKER.

Cured Four Years Ago.

REDFIELD, ARK., April 14, 1886.

Dr. B. M. Woolley:

My DEAR FRIEND-I have re-built a good reputation in this country that Morphine pulled down, and if I keep my health I am going to hold it. have never taken an opiate of any kind since I took the first dose of your antidote, and if you wish I will send you a certificate to that effect. With my regards to my old friends there, I am.

Yours truly, Wylle, M. D. J. E. Wylle, M. D.

LATER.

REDFIELD, ARK., Dec., 1886. DEAR FRIEND-It has been my intention to write to you before, but something has always prevented. My health is good and I weigh 147 pounds. I have a very large practice and it is said that I stand A 1 in my profession. I have an Opium eater I want to cure, so I want you to send me some statement blanks so I can take her case and send in her statement and have the antidote shipped. Yours truly, J. E. Wyle, M. D.

Wife Cured and Husband Happy.

CAMERON, TEXAS, Jan. 6, 1887. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAREST FRIEND-I write to let you hear from my wife. She is entirely cured of the Opium Habit, and in better health than for four years. Your medicine is just what you said it was, only a great deal better. Many thanks to you, doctor. You can use my wife's name if it will be of interest to you. Her name is Mrs. M. B. Winston. Yours truly, W. Q. WINSTON. As ever.

A Friend to the Afflicted Cured Nearly Four Years Ago.

GADSDEN, ALA., Nov. 21, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

My DEAR SIR-I should have written to you sometime since to tell you how long I have been cured. I am not capable of writing a letter for your book. I cannot express myself in strong enough terms for the good you did for me. I am sound and well; have not tasted Morphine or Opium in nearly four years; never have wanted it since you cured me. I was nearly dead when I commenced your medicine. I had no faith in it, but the next day I found I had struck the right thing, so I clung to it like a drowning man to a straw. I followed your instructions, and came out as sound as a silver dollar. Since I have been cured I have done all I could for you. I never spare time or trouble to speak of the blessings of Woolley's speak of the diessings of wooney's medicine. Have answered many letters of inquiry. One man in Texas wrote me he had a friend he wanted cured, and asked about your remedy. He afterwards wrote me he was the friend alluded to, and was cured sound and well, and offered to pay me for urging him to take your treatment; but I wrote him no. I was fully paid when you cured me, and for all I could say or do as long as I live. I know of some who have taken my advice and are cured sound and well. A lady sent for me about a month ago to come and see her. She wanted to talk to me about my cure. I went, and she was an awful looking object, and looked as if she would not live long enough to get the medicine. She asked me to write for her, which I did, and the medicine came, and today she looks like a new woman, and says she eats and sleeps well, and does not wish to improve any faster. I never in my life saw anyone improve as she has; looks fresh and lively, and is doing splendidly. As for my name going to print, I am not ashamed to own that I was a Morphine eater for I came by it honestly. A doctor gave it to me and I did not know of the danger until I was fast.

Yours truly, W. P. CRAMER.

Gured, Sleeps Well and Appetite Good.

HANCEVILLE, ALA., Jan. 21, 1887. Dr. Woelley:

DEAR SIR-I have been sick ever since I received your kind note of inquiry after my health, hence the delay. I am weak—had something like pneumonia—but otherwise I am all right, I sleep well, have a good appetite, and doing well generally. I feel very thankful to you for my deliverance from narcotics. You are at liberty to use this as you like.

Respectfully, etc., J. A. SIMPSON.

Your Whisky Antidote Will Do All You Claim for it-I am Cured.

MEDON, TENN., Jan. 16, 1887. Dr. B. M. Woolley :

DEAR SIR-I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know that I am still among the living, but I don't think I would have lived to see Jannary 1st, 1887, if it hadn't been for your Whisky Antidote. I commenced taking it April 24, 1886, and quit June 25. I h even't taken a drink of whisky since I took the first dose. I would have written sooner, but thought I would wait and see if the craving for whisky would come back. I am glad to say it has not. I have been where I could get whisky any time if I wanted it. I can truly say your Whisky Antidote will do all you claim for it. I have had as good health as I ever had in my life since I quit drinking whisky.

· Yours truly, GEO. A. PIRTLE.

Have Never Wanted Opium Since the First Dose of Antidote.

PELHAM, GA., October 15, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

DEAR SIR-I received your letter which found me well and hearty. I can say to you that your Antidote has made a final cure for me. I commenced your treatment 15th February, and left it off 12th May. I never wanted Opium since the first dose of your antidote. I can say it is a sure cure for the habit, and will cure anyone who will take it by your directions. You can use my name, and if anyone who is in the habit will write to me, I will write to them, for they can get well by getting Dr. Woolley's Antidote. Doctor, I feel for anyone who is in the Opium habit, for I know how it served me. I tried everything I could thing I could, but it done me no good, but anyone can be cured who will follow your directions, which is very easy to do. My case was a bad one, and I had lost all hope, for I had used Opium sixteen years, but when I began to take your antidote I never wanted Opium again, and felt better than when taking it, and I worked hard all the time I was taking your antidote. Doctor, I shall never forget you, and thanking you for your treatment, I hope you good luck, and that every Opium eater will send to you and be cured, for I pity them. Use my name if it will do any good.

I remain, yours, Moses M. HARVEY.

Words Fail to Express Her Happiness at Her Deliverance.

LOCKESBURG, ARK., Aug. 19, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR—Pardon me for not sending you a written communication, making by ing known my cure and my gratitude for your great benevolence to suffering humanity. Language fails me to express my gratitude for the cure of mywhen I hat dread habit, Morphine. When I began taking your antidote, on the 15th April, I was using ten grains Morphine in 24 hours, and stead ily increasing, and had become to be almost a wreck, and my life was a misery to myself and those around me. I feel almost sure had I not taken your antidote I would to-day be numbered with the dead, but after the use of five month's supply of your medicine I feel that I am myself again.

And here let me say that I have not taken any opiates of any kind since I commenced taking your antidote.

I now enjoy better health than for several years previous to taking the antidote. And, in conclusion, should this communication fall into the hands of any who are afflicted and are skeptical, I will say that if you could have seen me before I was cured, and could see me now, though the greatest skeptics, you could not doubt the the great virtues in Dr. Woolley's Sincerely yours, Opium Cure.

MRS. BELLE GARST.

Wounded in the War-Sores Running ls Given up for Dead, and yet is Cured Sound and Well, and Swears

ATLANTA, GA., Dec. 9, 1886. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga:

DEAR SIR-For something over four Years I was a great sufferer from two Causes—first, inflammation of old Wounds; second, chronic dysentery. My sufferings were intense, and at times were seemingly beyond all human endurance. While in this condition I commenced using Morphine in most increasin moderate doses, but kept increasing until I found I was taking from ten to twelve grains daily. I made several efforts to free myself from the drug, but all the life became a drug, but all in vain. Life became a burder wasted. burden—no rest, no comfort; wasted energies and blighted hopes. One of my wounds became a running sore, and the dwarf hopes had now beand wounds became a running to the dysentery, which had now with come chronic, seemed to hold on with greater tenacity. I became a living skeletor skeleton. All hope of life seemed to take into darkness. The grave loomed to before up before me, and at times I could at times I sinking feel, or seem to feel, myself sinking down into its cold bosom. As a last resort, I decided (I must confess, with little horse) little hope,) to try your antidote. I reported to you in person. After an examination, you expressed a doubt of my final recovery, but thought you might benefit me. I turned away with a heavy heart, but resolved to grapple manfully with my last enemy —Death. I commenced taking the antidote as per directions, and to my utter astonishment, in a very few days my old wounds began to heal; my health improved rapidly, and to-day I am myself again. I took about six bottles or three month's supply, of the antidote, and left it off without any inconvenience. I have gained fortythree pounds in flesh, and am still gaining. I now have a distaste for Morphine, and have not taken a dose of medicine or suffered a day's sick-ness since taking the last dose of antidote, September 4th, over three month's ago. I am now convinced that your antidote will do all and even more than you claim for it. I cannot express in words the gratitude I feel in my heart for my deliverance.

Sworn to and subscribed before me December 10th, 1886.

G. H. TANNER, N. P. & Ex.-Of, J. P. (Signed) 1126th Dist. G. M.

You can Make a Statement of my Case from Previous Letters.

KEYSVILLE, FLA., Aug. 28, 1884. Dr. B. M. Walley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-Yours of the 16th inst. to hand, and will say that I am finally cured. You may use my case for pubcured. You may use my case for publication if you wish. I suppose you know how long I have been using Morphine, and how much, as I have written you before. I never shall forwritten you before. You can get to recommend you and your medicate to recommend you and your medicate to suffering humanity. You can get to recommend you and your medicine to suffering humanity. You can hake a statement from the letters I make a statement hefore. make a statement from the letter have written you before. Yours respectfully, Mrs. Jas. A. Moody.

It is not what people eat, but what they digest that makes them strong. they digest that makes them strong.

It is not what they gain, but what they save, that makes them rich. It is not what they read, but what they is not what they had nakes them learned. is not what they read, but what they remember, that makes them learned. It is not what they Profess, but what they practice, that makes them righteous.

Has not the Least Desire for Whisky.

Tuscumbia, Ala., Dec. 13, 1887. Dr. B. M. Woollev:

DEAR SIR-After using your Whisky Antidote two months I was cured. It has been over ten months since I quit taking your medicine. I do not think I would ever have quit drinking had it not been for you medicine. I never have the least desire for whisky. I am completely cured.

Your friend, JNO. A. MCCLAIN.

I am completly cured of the Whisky Habit, and have been for some time.

CENTRALIA, Mo., Jan. 14, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIG AND FRIEND-Your letter of December 1st has been received. Sorry I could not answer it before now. You ask me in regard to my case. I am happy to say that I am completely cured, and have been for some time. Have still a half bottle of medicine left, but have quit taking it. You may use my name. Any letters your patients may write me I will cheerfully answer.

Yours most truly, L. F. BERNARD.

Would get on periodical sprees-Had been drinking all my life, and yet am cured.

BRYAN, TEXAS, May 19, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley. Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Yours of May 4th received. In reply will say I believe I am entirely cured. My business often calls me into saloons, when friends ask me to take a drink with them, but can refrain. I can truly say that your antidote is a most wonderful medicine. I am forty-one years of age, and have been all my life, not a regular dram-drinker, but would get on regular periodical sprees, I was born with a taste for whisky. I feel, I know that I am entirely cured. I give you authority to fix up any kind of a testimonial you may see fit, and you can't make it too strong, and use my Yours truly,

JAMES H. ADMIRE.

I can assure you that your Whisky Antidote will do just what you claim it will do.

SHELBY, SHELBY Co., ALA. May 15, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR-Please excuse me for not writing you sooner. I can assure you that your Whisky Antidote will do just what you claim it will do. The 6th of last November, on election day, I drank all day. On the 7th, when I got up, in place of taking a drink I took a dose of your medicine. I expected to feel very bad for several days and would want my dram, as I had drank for seven years, but did not. I used three bottles and took a little out of the fourth, and quit the antidote without knowing that I had been taking it in my feelings. So I am thankful to you for what you did for me, and will ever recommend to all I can. You can use my name if you wish. It may be that I can be the cause of some one who desires to quit the use of whisky to try your medicine. I am,

Yours very truly, D. MOSTELLER.

Has been cured five years, and remains cured.

WHITE PLAINS, GA., April 29, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

My DEAR SIR-Some four or five years ago I was cured of the use of Morphine by your treatment. I was using the enormous amount of sixty grains (one bottle) of Morphine every three days when I began your treatment. It has now been four or five years since I touched opiates or your remedy, and I have been perfectly healthy and attended to my business without any discount for the state of th ment has done all and more than I could have hoped, as I am satisfied I would now be in my grave had I not used your medicine, and I hope every one who is afflicted by the use of opiates will put themselves under your treatment and be made free and happy as I am. Should any one who is addicted to the use of opiates see this letter and hear this letter and would like to hear from me, I will take pleasure in replying to their letters, as I feel the deepestsympathy for all such afflicted, a sympathy that those who have never been afflicted cannot have for the unfortunate opium eater. I experienced no pain or inconvenience while taking the medicine, being able to attend to my business during treatment. With my best wishes for your continued success in relieving suffering human-Yours very truly, ity, I am. JNO. H. JACKSON.

I used your Opium Cure and it cured me.

LAURINBURG, N. C., May 8, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-As it is my duty to benefit mankind whenever it is possible, I willingly write this, hoping it may be seen by some poor victim of Morphine who will thereby be induced to try your Opium Cure. I took Morphine for three years and was completely in its power. I used your on the power of the pow Opium Cure and it cured me. It has been over two years since I quit it, and I have the same to the sam and I have no more desire for Morphine than if I had never touched it. You must have firmness and follow directions strictly and it will certainly Very respectfully, JNO. L. McLAURIN. cure you.

Cured and weighs 16 pounds more than when using Opium.

HAZLEHURST, COPIA CO., MISS., Dec. 31, 1888.

My DEAR SIR—I am truly thankful to tou to tell you that I am in good health.
Weight that I am in good health. weigh 149 pounds, have gained 16 pounds since August. Am now heavder than I have been in fifteen years. Manhood has returned all right again. I anhood has returned all right agore pleasant safely say your cure was more pleasant than the last I took before yours but it is took before to the safe as long to vours but it took four times as long to effect a cure as it did the other though it only it ect a cure as it did the other much as the quick cost about half as much as the Quick cure did. Yours was so gentle rid of the Orthon that I was getting rid of the Opium Habit.

I am truly yours, E. M. Ashley.

was a confirmed Opium eater could not no confirmed Opium eater could not go about my business without my Opium pouch—I am now a free man.

HAZLEHURST, COPIA CO., MISS., Jan. 27, 1889.

To all Opium and Morphine Eaters: This is to certify that I was a confirmed Opium eater and could not go about my business without my Opium pouch with me. Having read Dr. Woolley's book on Opium Cure in January, 1888, I sent for two months' supply of Woolley's Antidote and he sent it immediately. I had some doubts and did not begin the use of the antidote until the 31st of May, 1888. Since the first dose 1 have not wanted Opium. I got four months' supply, used it in June, July, August and September and sometime in October. I have some of the antidote on hand now. It never stopped me from my daily avocation or misput me in any way. I followed directions as near as possible. I am past sixty-three years old. In August I weighed and never felt better in my life than I do now. I will answer all communications that are accompanied by a two cent stamp. A friend to the Opium and Morphine user everywhere. Hazlehurst, Miss., P. O. Box 43.

Heft off the Antidote without any inconvenience two months since.

CORINTH, MISS., Sept. 17, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR FRIEND-I write to inform you that I am cured of the Opium Habit. It is now two months since I left off the antidote, which I did withleft on the antique, which I did without any inconvenience. I feel grateful for your kindness to me. You ful for your kindness to me. You cured me of a habit that I was unable cured me of a habit that I was unable cured me of a habit that I was unable to relieve myself of without help. I have good health. I weigh more than I have for years. If you wish a certificate I will send you one with great asure. Yours respectfully, Mrs. Lucinda A. Lawson.

LATER.

CORINTH, MISS., January 24, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. . DEAR SIR-I have now been freed DEAR DIR 1 mave now usen irred from the Opium Habit for nearly two from the Opium Habit for nearly two years, and I feel better to-day than I have felt for years. I can conscientave felt for years. wonderful mediane wrought that great change in mediane wrought tiously say that your wonderful med-icine wrought that great change in me. icine wrought that great change in me.

I do not hesitate to recommend your

I do not hesitate to recommend your medicine to any suffering from that medicine to any suffering great delivdreadful habit.

I do thank you bless you that you erance.

erance.

may bless others the same way you did me, is my prayer. You can use this if it will do any good. Yours respectfully,

MRS. L. A. LAWSON.

I cannot thank you enough for what you have done for me.

PRESCOTT, ARK., Dec. 22, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-I hope you will pardon me for not notifying you of the wonderful success your medicine had on me. I am entirely relieved of the Morphine that was fast destroying my life. I have not had to use any of your antidote since the 15th of last May and am in better health than I have been for several years and will weigh more. It is wonderful what a change it has brought on me and I cannot thank you enough for what you have done for me. If a certificate certified to by me will be of any benefit to you I will gladly send it to you.

Yours truly, Col. W. T. Steel.

When I commenced taking your Antidote I weighed 145 pounds-Now I tip the beam at 172 pounds.

LEES CORNER, MICH., Nov. 30, 1888. B. M. Woolley, M. D.

DEAR FRIEND-It is with pleasure I address you and can truly say I have not been so happy for 25 years as I am now. I am cured of the Opium Habit not having taken any since May 29th, 1887. Your remedy is all you claim it to be. To be candid with you, when I first took it I had not much hope or faith in it, but it worked like a charm. Before taking the antidote I had horrid dreams; it seemed as if I was in danger and could not get away from it. I would be in awful distress and wake up. When I commenced taking antidote I weighed about 145 pounds. Now I tip the beam at 172 pounds. I wish to write to you as I would an old friend. My wife says I am a changed man, not cross and peevish as before. I now enjoy life. After commencing the antidote I had refreshing sleep, no more bad dreams. I seemed to have a new lease of life. Not wishing to be tedious to you I will close by wishing you a long life of happiness, and for your antidote the success it deserves. Many thanks from your grateful friend.

URIAH FRITZ.

Cured of the Laudanum Habit.

PINEVILLE, LA., Dec. 23, 1888. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIE-I feel it my duty to you to say, after using your medicine for eight months, that I am a well man and entirely free from the use or want of Laudanum or any stimulant. It is certainly one of the best remedies in the world and I wish it was in my power to communicate it to all unfortunate creatures that become ensnared by the body and soul destroying demon Laudanum, which I used for fifteen years, but thanks be to God and Dr. B. M. Woolley, I am once more a free man. If any one doubts your remedy I will be glad if they will write to me so I can tell them what I think of it. Please accept my thanks and kindest wishes for what you did for me.

Yours truly,

HENRY LEIN.

I should have written before but wished to give full time to prove all-I am restored to health and I am a happy

522 FRANKLIN ST., NEW ORLEANS, LA., Jan. 19, 1889. B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-This is to certify that after taking your Opium Antidote eight months I am once more restored to health and I am a happy man. As it is impossible to give any idea to any other member of the human family than those addicted to the Opium Habit, I will say to any one wishing to know of the real worth of the antidote, or any one who is a slave to the habit, write me, for it is a pleasure for me to say it will give you new life and make you happy. From the first dose you can drop your Opium and give up all Respectfully, WARREN W. BEALS. Lemons will cure many a cough, if boiled down to a syrup with sugar.

No Desire for Opiates or other Stimulants-I will give Certificate and Swear to it if you wish.

SNELLVILLE, GA., Sept. 25, 1889. Dear Doctor Woolley:

Owing to press of business, I could not write until now I also wanted to wait to see what your medicine would accomplish. It has accomplished a great deal. It has almost performed a miracle. I left off the medicine ten days ago, and am a free man. Doctor, you do not know how glad I was. My heart leaped for joy. I did not experience any trouble at all. I cannot find words to express the love I have for you. I will teach my children to honor and respect your name and strew flowers on your grave. I have no desire for opiates or stimulants. Doctor, you can use my name for all it is worth. I will give a certificate sworn to, if necessary. I will call, in a short time to see you, and I want yours and your son's photograph. I want to have them enlarged. My mind is now bright and clear. Yours truly,

Q. L. BRANTLEY, M. D.

Have Taken no Opium or Wanted any in 15 Months,

OXANNA, ALA., June 25, 1889.

B. M. Woolley, M. D., Allanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-It is with a great source of pleasure I write you, to say I have not taken any Opium or wanted it in fifteen months. Not as several doctors told me, that if I stopped taking Opium I would have to keep up your medicine, I only had to take half the quantity you sent me and have the rest to show my friends. I know your remedy will cure the habit, and with no uneasy feeling, as the Opium eater has when out of Opium eater has when the opium. All there is to do is follow Your directions and it is no trouble

I think your remedy is one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed on man. You can use this if you wish, and believe me to be one of your best friends. R. N. DONOVAN.

The physicians of this country do hore physicians of this count charge than missionary work without charge put tothan all other professions put together.

STILL LATER.

THE GREATEST MEDICINE ON EARTH

I am Cured, and will write to any one who wishes to know about my Case.

OXANNA, ALA., Feb. 5th, 1890. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

DEAR SIR-I take great pleasure in saying that after having been cured by you some years ago, I have remained cured up to this date, and am a happy and healthy man. I have not used any opiates since leaving off the antidote—have not wanted any. I was in very bad health, sallow complexion, before taking the antidote. I am now in fine health, with ruddy complexion, and am anxious to do all I can to assist any one out of their troubles; and if any one who is interested in the cure of the Opium habit will write me, I will gladly write them and tender my sympathy, as well as tell them about my case. I would say that the cause of my getting into the habit was the amputation of my leg. I continued the habit for some time, and often tried to stop the use of it by reducing the dose, but could never succeed entirely, although could get the amount of morphine used down to a very small quantity, and it did seem that I could leave it off; but it was too mighty in its littleness, and still held me in its grip. It became necessary for me to have my leg amputated the second time, when the habit grew on me very rapidly. By the advice of a friend of mine, and an old patient of yours-Col. B. F. Sawyer, of this place, whom you cured many years ago-I took your treatment with entire and perfect success, suffering no inconvenience or pain, or interruption from business. My leg healed up at once after starting your treatment, and I think it the greatest medicine on earth, and hope all who are afflicted by the use of opiates will apply to you and be cured as I was and still am. Yours truly, R. N. DONOVAN.

can do all my House-work, etc.-Could not do Anything Before Taking Your Antidote.

BUYCK, ALA., March 23, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga., DEAR SIR-I have put off writing to you to see whether I was cured or not.

I have come to the conclusion that I am cured. My health is better than for fifteen years. I am heavier than I ever was, and have no cause to take any medicine at all. I am grateful to you for your medicine. I feel like a new person altogether. I would be glad for you to send your circulars to * These are the names I wrote you I would send if cured, and I am cured, and it did not cause me any inconvenience. I can now do all my house-work without any trouble; could do scarcely nothing before taking your antidote. I do thank youfor my cure. I remain your friend.

MRS. MARY GANTT.

I AM CERTAINLY CURED.

Was Taking a Large Quantity of Morphine Hypodermically.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., April 9, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-On the first day of last December I commenced taking your Morphine Antidote, and I am happy to say I was enabled to quit the use of Morphine at once from the very first dose of your Antidote. I did not want any more Morphine. It seems I take a hatred to the name of the drug, although I was taking a large quantity daily by the hypodermic syringe. It has been nearly two months since I took the last of the Antidote. I am certainly cured of one of the worst habits that befalls humanity. May God bless you and may you live long to help others out of trouble. Your remedy will surely cure the Opium or Morphine habit. It is a better medicine than you claim for it, for it not only cures the habit. but it tones up the system, improves the appetite and the patient feels like a new being. Thanking you for your advice and a cure, I am,

Your humble servant, MRS. D. H. WEST.

I am Free from the use of Opiates-1 have no desire for them-Your Medicine did all you claimed for it-You can publish my Cure.

> GENEVA, ORANGE CO., FLA. January 12, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR DOCTOR-My gratitude will not let me express by words my many thanks to you for your kindness in curing me of that awful pain and misery that was dragging me down to destruction. I feel that I am free from opiates. I have no desire for them. You may believe me, Doctor, your medicine has done all you claim for it to do.

I should have written you sooner, but I have had sore eyes and could not see to write. I would have been cured sooner if I could have sent regularly for the medicine. I do not remember when I took the last dose of your medicine, but think it was some time in May. I presume you know when I began your treatment and how long I took it.

You can publish my cure if you wish, but I am a bad hand to write-I am getting old and feeble. I truly hope that the Lord will enable you to relieve all the poor souls who call upon you for help. What would have become of me had it not been for you and the hope of my dear Saviour, I do not know. Yours with respect,

MRS. MARY A. MANSFIELD.

Used Morphine Eighteen Years—Am entirely Cured-Was Cured Five Years

Union Springs, Ala, June 27, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Some days since I received a letter from you inquiring after my health. At first, I was persuaded that you had made a mistake in directing your letter and intended it for some one else. I then decided that your interest in patients whom you had relieved of the galling chains of Morphine more than five years since, prompted you to ascertain personally if they were yet able to overcome any disposition to return to the unfortunate habit. After more than six years since commencing your Antidote, and after more than five years since I ceased to use the Antidote, I am as free from any disposition to take up the habit as I was before I began the use of Morphine, which was more than eighteen years ago. While my health has never been good from childhood, and seldom, even for a day at a time, have I been able to say that I was free from all unpleasant feelings and pain during the fifty-five years I have been permitted to live, still my health has been much improved by kind Providence,

With you as his instrument. I have been relieved of the Mor-Phine habit. May you be blessed abundantly in the future while you continue to bless others.

Desiring that God may grant you a long life and abundant success, I remain.

Sincerely and kindly yours, R. T. Davis.

Yes, Use My Statement—You Can State that I Used Morphine Twelve Years.

Union Springs, Ala., July 6, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR—Yours of recent date received, requesting that you might use the statement made to you voluntarily in a recent letter to you, in which I stated facts in regard to my complete cure of the Morphine habit by the use of your Antidote, and I do hereby fully and freely grant the request. You can, if desired, state that I have used Morphine for about twelve years, daily, and have been relieved of the use of Morphine for more than five years. I have not used any Antidote or any substitute for more than five years. Hoping that some one, by these statements, may be encouraged to use your Antidote and be cured of the unfortunate habit, which they certainly will if they give you information necessary about their cases and carry out instructions fully. I remain, Kindly and truly yours, R. T. DAVIS.

More Whisky-Cured Over Two Years and Stays Cured.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 14, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR SIR-I received your letter, and was just thinking about writing off the I am the same as when I left off the Antidote. I have had no desire for drink whatever since you treated me, which will be two years this coming March. Do not be afraid. know what whisky has done for me,

I am well at present, and my weight is 158 pounds.

and I will never go into it again as long as there is any way to keep from

Yours truly, HENRY J. MAGRATH, Rampart St., between Maison and Bartholomy streets.

Your Opium Cure Has Saved My Life -I am Now a Well Man-Have Gained Thirty-five Pounds.

ORION, PIKE Co., ALA., March 12, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .: DEAR SIR-I feel that it is a duty I owe you to write to you, for your Opium Cure has saved my life. I am now a well man and have used only two months' supply of your medicine. Since I quit the use of it I have gained thirty-five pounds.

The reason I have not written to you before is, that I was waiting to get up more names, and tell you more about my cure.

You may use my name in any way you see fit in aiding you to cure others. Your friend until death, J. F. WARD.

I Followed Your Directions and am Cured of the Morphine Habit - I am Well.

ALBANY, GA., January 3, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .: DEAR SIR-Yours received. I had no cause to write to you, as I followed your directions and am cured of the Morphine Habit. I am well. I have not taken your medicine or Morphine in four weeks. I have not wanted it.

If it will do you any good for me to write you a testimonial, I will do it with the greatest of pleasure and give the public a full statement of my case. All I can say is that I am cured, and by your medicine.

Yours sincerely, JOE M. OLIVER.

I am Recommending Your Antidote as Strong as I Can Find Language to Express.

Mr. Vernon, La., Sept. 11, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-Yours of late date is at hand, and I am glad to know that you do not forget your old patient. Well, I am happy to say I have a perfect triumph over my old enemy, "The Morphine Habit." I felt for some time I had him under my feet, but I wanted to be sure before I discontinued the Antidote and when I stopped taking it I felt no inconvenience. However, my wife thought I had better continue to take it through the warm weather, so I continued taking it till about two weeks since. I left it off with a grateful heart that I am now once more a free man.

Now, my dear doctor, if there is one person in this world that I think more of than another, it is Dr. B. M. Woolley; and, furthermore, I would say that I firmly believe that it was none other than a kind and merciful Providence that brought about an acquaintance with you and your magical Antidote. May God bless you and continue your useful life to bless suffering humanity.

Well, I am feeling first rate. Every one says I look well, and I know I feel well, both physically and spiritually. I would be glad to hear from you occasionally, and I am recommending your Antidote as strong as I can find language to express.

Yours very gratefully. E. KEMP.

Weigh 160 Pounds and Never Felt Better in My Life-Health Better Than for 20 Years Past-Cured. Sound and Well.

> RIDGEDALE, TENN. September 13, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-I should have written to you before now, but have neglected to do so. I received your letter of the 11th, yesterday. In reply would say, that I can say that my health is better than it has been in twenty years. I weigh 160 pounds and never felt better in my life. I can eat heartily, sleep soundly and look the very picture of health. When I commenced taking your medicine, I weighed only 118 pounds, and my bowels never were, in my life, before as healthy as they are now—perfectly regular. I received your last bottle of medicine May 30th, and I took it until about the 15th of July, and still have some on hand. But I do not need to take any more of it, as I never think of it now. I feel that I am a cured man, perfectly sound and well.

I feel very grateful to you and kind Providence for bringing about this great cure. You can use my name in your circulars that your remedy is a perfect cure beyond a doubt. Just refer them to me and I will give them a full history of myself and your wonderful cure, for I know what I went through with and the benefit I received from your treatment. I have received letters from several different States in regard to you and your cure for Morphine and Whisky habits, and I wrote to them and told them they need have no doubt, for you could cure them if they would follow your directions in the treatment. Let me hear from you occasionally, and if there is anything I can do for you, I shall take pleasure in doing it. May God bless you in your good work. With respect, A. W. BRUSHWOOD.

I shall ever feel thankful to you for freeing me from that terrible habit-Morphine.

GRAND CANE, LA., Nov. 8th, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR SIR-I must acknowledge the receipt of your letter of October 23d, and also several others in the past. Excuse my negligence, and do not think it is because I am not grateful that I have neglected to write to you. I shall ever feel thankful to you for freeing me from that terrible habit. It has been about three years since I left off taking Morphine, and two years since, last August, I left off taking your antidote, and I have no desire for it or the Morphine either. I can say with the greatest pleasure that your treatment has cured me, and you will cure all those who are afflicted, as I was, if they will only persevere and follow your directions.

Wishing you success in your good work, and that you may be spared to relieve many in the future as you have in the past, I remain,

Most respectfully, MRS. MITTIE HARRIS.

In ordering medicine or writing letters, always put your postoffice address at the head of your letter, and state at what express office I must ship the medicine, and always sign the same name to your letters, and never sign initials only.

Ten years since cured and stays cured and is happy.

FAYETTEVILLE, GA., Aug. 28, 1889. D . B. M. Woolley. Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-You will, no doubt, be glad to know that I am still alive and perfectly free from the Opium or Morphine habit. You remember that ten years ago this fall, you cared me of the terrible habit, after having used Morphine seven or eight years, and was using the enormous amount of fifteen grains of Morphine daily. I am now a free and happy man, not having used any opiates since I left off your medicine ten years ago, and I only wish every one who is afflicted as I was knew as well as I do that if they will only trust you and follow your instructions in taking the medicine, they can be cured of the worst of all diseases—the Opium Habit. You can refer any one to me and I will gladly give any information in my power to aid such sufferers in being freed from their bonds. I am now 59 years old, am in as good health as I have been for the past 30 years, and am able to work and attend to all my business, and have been since cured, which was near ten years ago, Yours truly, as above stated. H. C. TARPLEY.

OPIUM AND WHISKY.

The Success a Great Physician is Having in Treating These Diseases.

From the Atlanta Constitution, Feb. 3, 1891.

Perhaps there is no class of people for which the general public has so little sympathy as those under the curse of opium and whisky. Very few people have any sympathy for them at all. This is all wrong. Those who are so unfortunate as to have these diseases these dreadful and harrowing diseases deserve not only the pity but the encouragement and support of all good people. Some are disposed to say that the opium and morphine users and drinking men have rendered their conditions miserable on account of habits. This is not the opinion of the Opin's most learned physicians. Opium using and whisky drinking are diseases, and must be treated in that many manner. The South's learned and skilled physician, Dr. B. M. Woolley, is him physician, Dr. B. M. woolley, high authority on this question.

He has spent his life in the study of these awful diseases. It is doubted if there is a physician anywhere who has had such a varied and practical experience with opium and whisky as Dr. Woolley. He is eminently a man of great learning, and his knowledge in this line is of the greatest importance to afflicted humanity.

As a practitioner, his office is one of the busiest in America. He has associated with him his son, Dr. Vasser Woolley, who is fully efficient, having devoted many years to this study. Those who receive the attention of Dr. Woolley and his son may have the assurance that they will be carefully, confidentially and skillfully treated.

The success of curing patients of these unfortunate afflictions has been They have simply phenomenal. thousands upon thousands of certificates to that effect. As evidence, here is a sample of the many letters he has on file in his office:

CABRIZO, PUBLIC LAND STRIP, Ind. Ter.—B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: Under your treatment I was entirely cured of the habit of using whisky, and it has been four years since I was cured. I would have written sooner, but I wanted to wait until I was sure the cure was permanent. I was a hard drinker off and on for twenty years, and a desperate drinker for five years. Today I have no appetite for intoxicating drinks. You are at liberty to publish this. My father, W. M. Gamel, has been cured under your treatment of the habit of using whisky. He had been a hard drinker for forty years. I will have him write you at another time. You are at liberty to publish this. Yours sincerely, GEORGE J. GAMEL.

It is impossible to give a large number of certificates. If you are afflicted with either one of these diseases, and desire to be permanently cured, write to Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga., the nature and character of your case. He will give you immediate attention. Dr. Woolley stands in Atlanta among our best business men, and has a reputation for honesty and integrity of the highest character.

He has the confidence of the people and they have tried him and know in whom they trust.

Dr. Woolley will esteem it a personal favor, if you know of any one afflicted with the opium and whisky disease, if you will send him their names so that he can furnish them information of great importance relative to their condition.

WILL NEVER TAKE ANOTHER DRINK OF WHISKY.

The Result in My Case is Worth Ten Times the Amount Spent.

SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 16th, 1891. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-Your favor of December 26th received, and in reply beg to thank you for your good advice, and intend to strictly follow it. Have stopped taking the medicine and still have the fourth of a bottle left. I Do NOT NEED IT-I AM ENTIRELY CURED. I also take this opportunity of thanking you for the untold good your medicine has done me. The result gained is worth ten times the amount spent for the cure. Several of my friends, having heard of my case (for I spoke of it everywhere), questioned me about it, and to two of them I gave a copy of your book, one of them by his own request, and I have assured all of its results in my case. I am not the one to say I am cured if I were not, because if I wanted liquor I would have it. Four of your bottles of medicine cured me, and now, I would not take a drink of whisky for five hundred dollars, and will never take one again. All who know me can certify to the fact that I lead a sober life now, and have done so since October 6th. You may make any use you choose of this letter, which is entirely unsolicited by you, and I will gladly answer any inquiries addressed to me, at 56 Bay street, in regard to my case. Your; truly,

T. C. GIRARDEAU.

USED WHISKY FOR YEARS.

I am Well and Happy, with New Energy, Hope and Ambition.

CAMDEN, WILCOX, Co., ALA., July 5th, 1889.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR SIR-Yours of the 2nd inst. to hand. Thanks for your sympathy and good wishes. In reply would say that I do wish that every one who is diseased as I was would be induced to give your antidote a trial. The difficulty with me was, and I have found it with all whom I have endeavored to persuade to use your medicine, they imagine they have a great deal of enjoyment in their sprees, and that if their desire for stimulants is destroyed, they will be deprived of some of this world's goods. Now, Doctor, since I have been cured by your medicine, I find that that was simply the imagination of a diseased brain, and, instead of being diminished, the pleasures of this life are increased a hundred fold. Then again, so many think it unmanly to use an antidote for that which they know every one looks upon as a disgrace. Poor, deluded creatures (maniacs, really), thinking to make the world believe it was an accident that they got so, or deluding themselves by the belief that they have the moral courage to refrain, or manhood to resist the temptation, not once recognizing it as a disease and well nigh incurable. The sooner the world recognizes this disease, or rather this most terrible disease, as a disease, the better it will be for suffering humanity.

I was afflicted for years, and in the most deplorable condition, and now I am well and happy, with new energy, hope and ambition.

May God bless you and your efforts te relieve and benefit humanity. Yours very truly,

JOHN E. GULLETTE: P. S.—If this will be of any benefit, it is at your service. Please send me another one of your books. Respectfully, J. E. G.

NO MORE WHISKY.

Your Remedy Will Cure Any Man Under the Sun.

HENDERSON, Miss., May 10th, '90. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga .:

DEAR DOCTOR-I am in receipt of yours of a recent date, inquiring as to my condition. I have often thought of writing to you, but wanted to give a sufficient length of time since I ceased taking the medicine to see whether I would have a return of the desire for intoxicants. I commenced taking the medicine right after a hard spell of drinking, and was almost dead with nervousness. I derived no benefit that I could see from the first day's treatment, and fully expected to have to endure several sleepless nights, as had been my previous ex-Perience after drinking. On the con-trary, I slept soundly the second night, and have ever since. I did not get the medicine in time to take the full treatment the first day, or I believe I would have rested well the first night. I took the first bottle and part of the second, when I was called away on business and neglected to supply myself with it. I felt so well, though, that I thought I would make a test case and see if I did have any further desire for drink. I had whisky offered me, but easily refused it, and in fact, had no more desire for it than if it had been so much water. Since that time I have discontinued the medicine, and having no further need for it, though I have taken one dose since for nervousness, caused by overwork, and it acted like a charm.

Your remedy will cure any man under the sun that will try to be cured. I drank an enormous quantity of whisky, being naturally of an exceedingly nervous disposition, it took a heap to keep my nerves quiet, and I had the most intense craving for it. I know if it could so easily cure me, it can cure any one. I have recommended it to several. If you desire. you can publish my endorsement of your remedy, and I can refer any one to any prominent official or citizen of Wayne county as to the truth of my statements. I most heartily thank you, Doctor, for this incalculable benefit I have derived from your treatment, and I shall be glad to aid you in your good work in any way I can.

Yours truly, JOHN P. DAVIS. (Formerly Waynesboro, Miss.)

Your Opium Antidote has Saved me from an Opium Eater's Grave.

GLIMP, TENN., Feb. 24th, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.: DEAR FRIEND AND DOCTOR-I am happy to say that I am cured of the terrible habit of taking morphine, and can truthfully say that your opium antidote has saved me from an opium eater's grave, for I had reached the Point where I could not live without morphine, and could not have lived long with it. I had not been using it but twelve months, but had increased the dose so rapidly that I was using 12 to 13 grains everytwenty-four hours, or 1 ounce bottle every five days. On the 1st of April, 1889, I was confined to my bed and was perfectly wild. I had the best doctors in the country, and their orders were to reduce the dose of morphine and give me only enough to keep me alive. There was but little hope of my recovery. My stomach would not retain anything but sweet milk and lime water. It was only a question of a very short time for me to pass away. My wife insisted that an order be made for a month's supply of your antidote. The medicine was ordered, and on the 17th of May, 1889, I commenced taking your antidote, and after the first dose I never wanted any more morphine except once. My medicine gave out one day before I received the second supply; and, therefore, I was forced to use some morphine until I received the medicine. I used four months' supply of antidote and am cured. It has been over eight months since I took any morphine and nearly two months since I took any of the antidote. I know if I was not cured, I could not have live twenty-four hours without morphine. I do not have an ache or a pain, but am in perfect health. Would that I could influence every oue who is in the opium habit to place themselves under your treatment and be made free and happy. May God bless you with health, and may your life be prolonged that you may carry on your good work in snatching thousands from eternal destruction. You are at liberty to publish anything I have written you. I am sure your opium antidote will do all you claim for it.

Yours respectfully, D. F. JENNINGS.

When I Commenced your Treatment Would as soon been Dead as Living. I now Weigh 170 pounds, and feel as Young as at 30.

EKOM, LAURENS Co., S. C., Epbruary 8th, 1890.

My Dear Dr. Woolley: Atlanta, Ga. I will try to write you a few lines to inform you that I think I amoured of the morphine habit. I commenced on the last bottle on the 20th of November, and Thave nearly a month's supply yet. I have not taken any since last Monday night, and this is Saturday, and I feel fine. I do not crave it or morphine. I do thank God that there is such medicine, and I will never get done thanking you. If I had continued the morphine I would have been in my grave by this time. When I first got the medicine I had as soon been dead as living. When I commenced on the first bottle I weighed 135 pounds, and I now weigh 170 pounds. I am fifty-two years of age and feel as young as I did when I was thirty. I cannot express my love and feelings towards you, and I thank you for your picture. I was anxious to see what sort of a looking man you were. I will keep it as long as I live. I feel all right, sleep good and feel good in every way. I feel so overjoyed I don't know how to write you. You must excuse bad writing and spelling, because I am so overjoyed this morning that I cannot balance myself, and I want you to fix up a certificate for me and let every one know what you have done for me. I commenced your medicine on the 15th of June, 1889. I would like to hear from you soon,

7

Your true friend till death, JOEL W. MOORE,

Took Chloral until Raving Distracted, but Cured and Happy.

Есно, DALE Co., ALA., March 30, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga. :

DEAR OLD FRIEND-I must thank you for the good of your antidote. I have been suffering with chronic colic for fifteen years, after which I commenced taking chloral. It seemed to ease me and I kept taking it until I could not live without it. I took from fifteen to twenty-five grains per day for fourteen months. It settled in my limbs. I was raving distracted. I did not know my neighbors when they came to see me. My family had given me up to die and my neighbors said I was too far gone to ever recover, but by the use of your antidote I became all right again. I felt a great change after taking the first dose of the antidote. After taking it for 30 days I felt better than I had felt in fifteen years, and I am now fifty-six years of age. When I began taking the antidote I weighed about 100 pounds and now I weigh 160. I have no desire for chloral and I can't bear to smell it. Your antidote cured me and I remain cured. I feel no symptoms of the colic. Ifeel like a young man again. I work as hard as I ever did. You can fix this to suit yourself, as I cannot fix it as it ought to be. I will close for this time, asking you to send me another one of your books, stating the good it has done me, I will hand it to some one who needs it. I have handed out all you sent me and will do my best for you, as your antifor it.

Your sincere friend till death, H. P. KUTCHEN.

Used One Pound of Strong Laudanum in Eight Days. My Cure has been all that Heart Could Wish or that a Reasonable man Could ask.

Toonigh, GA., March 23rd, 1890. Dr. B. M. Woolley:

MY DEAR SIR-It is with great pleasure that I write in answer to your letter of the 10th inst., which I was glad to receive. I also received your book and think it the best work ever gotten up on the subject of the opium and whiskey habits. The testimonials in it are no doubt true, as I can speak from a point of experience. I think my case to have been as bad as could be, but I suppose I don't know how bad they can be. My cure has been all that heart could wish for or that a reasonable man could ask for. I contracted the laudanum habit in the spring of 1887 while suffering from a severe case of blood poisoning, and continued to use it, increasing the dose until I became a complete laudanum drinker, so much so that I used a pound of strong laudanum in eight days. Was the most miserable person you ever saw, and had despaired of ever being anything but a pest to myself and people the rest of my life, which I wished might soon end; but in time I heard of Dr. B. M. Woolley, and it was said that he could certainly cure. I sent for the book, and after reading it was induced to send an order for his antidote, and I bless God for the hour I did so. I received the antidote in due time, and began its use on March 27th, 1889. I used twelve bottles, leaving it off November 26th, 1889, but during this time against directions, I used one pound of laudanum, a dose now and then:

But, in spite of all that his remedy cured me, and no doubt would have done so with less medicine and in less time if I had gone according to directions. I found Dr. Woolley to be a true gentleman in every way and as prompt in answering letters and orders as any man I have ever had any dealings with. All I can say is that he cured me and can cure others if they will try him. May he live long to make many a heart and home happy, and may his life be one of pleasure as a reward for his good work, and his last days be the happiest ones. And, when the cold, damp dews of death are falling fast around him may he have the sweet music of angels to accompany him through the bright and shining portals of Glory, is the wish of once his patient, now his most grateful friend,

ODIE FREEMAN.

P. S.—Doctor, you can use the above letter as you wish, as I do not think I will need any more medicine. If you have any books or papers that would be interesting to a boy confined to the house, and which are of no service to you, I will be thankful if you will send them. I think I can get a lady friend of mine to try your remedy. I sent her oue of the books. I hope to hear from you again.

ODIE FREEMAN.

Entirely Cured of the Dreadful Opium Habit and Happy.

NEW BIRMINGHAM, TEX., March 25, 1890.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR—I received your kind letter of the 14th instant, and will now answer. I am happy to tell you that I am entirely cured of the dreadful opium habit. I had used it constantly for twelve years. I commenced taking your opium cure February 20th. 1889, and took three bottles. I quit taking it June 1st, 1889, and have had no desire for either the opium or the antidote since. My general health is also much improved. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to you for all your wonderful cure has done for me, but I find words inadequate to do so. But I shall ever remember you and try to get others, who are afflicted as I was, to take your medicine. I have not yet received the book you spoke of sending me, but will take pleasure in reading it when I get it, and then hand it to some one else whom I think would be benefitted by reading it. Doctor, you are at liberty to use my name or anything I have written in any way you see fit, and I hope it will be the means of inducing some one at least who is addicted to the fearful opium habit to send for your great and wonderful cure. Your true friend and well-MRS. M. A. SKIDMORE. wisher,

The Analysis of Wm. J. Land, State Chemist.

ATLANTA, GA., July 26, 1876.

This will certify that I have made a thorough chemical examination of several of the best Opium Antidotes now offered to the public, and among those a superior preparation submitted by Capt. B. M. Woolley, of this city. The latter antidote I find equal, and, in some respects, superior to any I have analyzed. Indeed, I have been agreeably surprised at the excellence of his preparation. It is compounded in a scientific manner and is a perfect cure for the opium habit where the directions are duly observed by the patient. The numerous cures which he has made need no substantiation on this point, hence I have no hesitancy in recommending his article to the afflicted. Captain W. deserves credit for the ingenuity and perseverance displayed in getting up the best remedy of this class. Most respect-WM. J. LAND, Analytical Chemist. fully,

Prof. Land, at the time this certificate was given, was State Chemist. He is now dead.

PART FIFTH.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

READ THIS CAREFULLY.

Perhaps if not yourself personally interested in this, you have a friend who

I have made for the past fifteen years a special study of the Opium and Whisky Habits, and devote my entire professional attention to their treatment. As to what success I have attained, I refer you to the evidence I produce, and would call your attention to the comments of the press on my work, and especially what The Atlanta Constitution, the leading paper of not only this city but the South, has to say. The Constitution is here at my home, and knows the amount of relief suffering humanity is receiving by my treatment. Such matter as this and what the cured say, I regard as better testimony and truer evidence in favor of myself and remedy than aught I could say. You are at liberty to enter into correspondence with any therein mentioned, or to any one in this city where I live. (Always enclose a stamp for reply and if you don't get an answer. write again.)

I believe that experience will show that my ideas on these subjects are correct. To restore to full and vigorous health a person whose entire economy has succumbed to the baneful effects of opiates or of spirituous drinks is what must be done in treating these habits or diseases, as they should more properly be called. This is a task that requires no small amount of previous study and research to be enabled to accomplish. I claim to so have studied as to accomplish this, and consider it but a just reward for such an effort that I be thus granted the permission of so stating my claims.

I am aware of the fact that there are a number of persons claiming to cure these diseases, some propose to do so in a very short while, many professing to have the only known remedy. For my part, I am only too happy to refer to my record for the past fifteen years, which I have devoted to the treatment and cure of so many of these unfortunates who have, alas, so few to sympathize with them in their affliction. If, however, anyone is more successful in treating these diseases than I have been, and still am, I would be glad to know it, for I do not believe that my motives are entirely selfish in my efforts to relieve suffering humanity, and, therefore, I have nothing to say against those who may be successfully directing their efforts to so noble an end. It is truly a good and great field of work,

If you are interested in this subject, I solicit your correspondence, which, let me assure you, shall always be guarded with the strictest confidence. It will be granifying for those who are anxious that I leave my mode of treatment to some competent person, to know that my son, Vasser Woolley, M. D., has been associated with me in my practice several Yours most respectfully, B. M. Woolley, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Woolley is a gentleman of standing and intelligence, strictly reliable and respectable, and worthy the confidence of any who are afflicted or may have friends afflicted with the Opium Habit, and desire privacy and fair dealing .-Rural Southerner, Atlanta, Ga.

Personal Comments.

Dr. B. M. Woolley, for many years a prominent business man of Selma, now of Atlanta, Georgia, advertises in today's paper his Opium Cure, which has been subjected to an analysis and examination by the State Chemist of Georgia, Dr. Land, who unreservedly pronounces it superior to any other remedy offered for the terrible disease for which it is recommended. Dr. Woolley is a gentleman of great intelligence and high character, to whom Opium eaters may address themselves with the assurance that he will neither violate their confidence, nor undertake their treatment unless he believes he can effect a cure.-Southern Argus.

I was born and raised near Selma, Alabama, and did business in the city of Selma for nearly ten years.

B. M. W.

Dr. B. M. Woolley is a gentleman of high standing in the community, and of unimpeachable veracity.-Marietta Journal.

I married in Marietta, Ga.

Dr. B. M. Woolley advertises in another column a cure for Opium eating. This medicine has undergone a thorough analysis by Dr. Land, State Chemist, who unreservedly pronounces it superior to anything yet offered for that terrible disease.

Dr. Woolley is a citizen of Atlanta, whom we have known long and intimately. He is a gentleman of intelligence and high social position, is honest in purpose, prompt in execution, and Opium eaters may address Dr. Woolreliable every way. ley with the assurance that he is too high-toned to abuse their confidence, and too conscientious to take a case where there is no hope of cure. - Sunny South.

I now live in Atlanta, and have done so for about fifteen years. B. M. W.

Dr. B. M. Woolley is a gentleman in every sense of the term.—Christian Index, Atlanta, Ga.

We have known B. M. Woolley for many years. He has sold many a bale of cotton for us and our friends, and a more honorable man does not live in the South. From the Allania Commonwealth, then edited by Col. B. F. Sawyer.

It was with great pleasure that we noted among the recent graduates of the Atlanta Medical College, the oldest in Atlanta, the name of B. M. Woolley. Our readors for the page 18 of years have Our readers for a number of years have read of him in our columns, both as pro-Prietor of a medicine, the Opium Cire, which is a blessing to mankind, and as a most excellent gentleman. He is now a regular educated and diplomad M. D., and D. W. and D. W. State and D. W. and Dr. Woolley has our heartiest wishes for his professional success. McKee we

To the statement of Col. McKee we are ready fo add our endorsement to the characters of add our endorsement to add our character of Dr. Woolley and to add our sincere congratulations upon his most remarkable and well-merited success. We have long known Dr. Woolley-knew him in Alabama when years ago he stood prominent as a commission merchant in Selma, and was esteemed for his many social virtues, as well as for business capacity and sterling integrity. He is doing a good work, and we do most heartily rejoice in his success. Read the cure of Doctor Riddle, and if you know of a friend similarly afflicted, show it to him. -Rome (Ga.) Week'y Tribune.

What an Athens, Ga., Banner-Watchman Reporter Learned About the Opium Habit while in Atlanta this week.

There are very few of our readers who have any idea of the amount of Opium used in our midst, and will never know unless they should visit the office of B. M. Woolley & Co., the proprietors of the "Opium and Whisky Cure," of Atlanta, Ga., and see piles of letters from all parts of the globe, from persons who have been cured of this awful habit, and who have consented, for the benefit of fellowsufferers, to allow Dr. Woolley to refer to them. Dr. B. M. Woolley is an enterprising citizen and physician of Atlanta, and by this discovery has relieved thousands and brought them from the grave back to life and happiness.

Dr. Vasser Woolley, a son of Dr. B. M. Woolley, has long been associated with his father, and gives his whole time and attention to this practice. Dr. Vasser Woolley is a young man, and graduated with high honor at the oldest medical While in Atlanta we talked with Mr. college of the State. N. J. Lewis, of Alabama. Mr. Lewis is an old Confederate soldier, and followed the lead of the gallant and lamented Stonewall Jackson in his brilliant cam-paigns of Northern Virginia. He was paigns of Northern vinginia. He was severely wounded, and the pain from the wound caused him to use Morphine to wound caused man to use morphine to relieve his sufferings. He was reduced to a mere skeleton from the constant use of Morphine, and his wounds were run-ning and discharging pieces of bone. His ning and discharging pieces of bone. His life was only a misery to himself, and his friends concluded to send him to the friends concluded to send him to the Soldiers' Home in Virginia, where he could end his days. Passing through Atlanta he called on Dr. Woolley, but re-Atlanta ne canted on Jr. Wooney, but received but little encouragement to hope ceived but little encouragement to hope for a final recovery. He was using 10 to 12 grains of Morphine per day, but after the antidate name of the antidate name. the first dose of the antidote never had any desire for Morphine. Mr. Lewis used about three months' supply of the medicine. He is now stout and vigorous, having left off all medicine nearly three months' since, and has gained 43 pounds in weight. A remarkable fact is his wounds have all healed, and he is now keeping books in Atlanta. Mr. Lewis, for the present, will be in Atlanta, and will answer any inquiries in regard to his wonderful recovery.

We saw in Dr. Woolley's office a great many letters, telling of the writers' deliverance.

Mrs. A. C. Benedict, of Wirtsboro, New York, says: "I am permanently cured of the Morphine Habit.

Rev. G. W. Cottingham, of Little Rock, Ark., says: "I have suffered for years with neuralgia of the stomach, and acquired the habit of using Morphine to relieve the pains-tried for eight years to break the habit, but could not do so until I commenced taking Dr. Woolley's Opium Cure." He considers himself permanently cured.

Mr. M. M. Harvey, of Pelham, Ga., speaks out in plain language concerning his cure by the antidote. He had been using Opium for 16 years, and his case was considered hopeless. He commenced taking the antidote, and after the first dose never lost a day from work.

A visit to Dr. Woolley's office in Atlanta is an instructive surprise. His success is undoubted. To those who cannot see him personally, Dr. Woolley will send an interesting book free of charge and securely sealed. Both Dr. Woolley and his son are courteous gentlemen, and sympathize with the afflicted. We assure all that they can apply in confidence to them .- Dec. 5, 1886.

[From the Atlanta Constitution, the leading paper of the South and here at my home.]

A GREAT REMEDY.

The Opium Habit and Dr. Woolley's Wonderful Antidote.

There is no habit as enslaving as the habit of eating Opium or Morphine. It is stronger than any other. It holds its victims in an iron grasp, and crushes them slowly but inexorably. It destroys not only the body but the mind and conscience of its victim. Next to it is the habit of drinking. It is now settled that these are diseases, just as much as any abnormal condition that affects the body. Anything that will relieve those who are afflicted with either of these diseases is a public beneficence, and the man who invents it a public benefactor. Such a remedy is Woolley's Opium and Whisky Habit Cure. Such a man is Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Georgia.

The Constitution is careful about giving its endorsement to advertised remedies. They are too often nostrums of little value and dangerous effect; but for ten years we have watched the course of Dr. Woolley's Opium and Whisky Habit Cure, and we give it our heartiest endorsement. It has effected cures within our knowledge of Opium eaters, Morphine eaters and Whisky drinkers that were, simply miraculous. We have seen it snatch men and women from the very edge of the grave and restore them to intelligence. We have been amazed at its work. We speak thus earnestly, because we know whereof we speak, and if we felt that our voice could reach every wretched man or woman who suffers from either of these habits, we would speak with still more earnestness. So much for our duty.

Now, what is yours? Are you afflicted with either the Opium Habit or Whisky Habit? If you are, write to Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga., about your case. He is a man of strict integrity, and will hold your correspondence confidential. He will write you frankly, and tell you. just exactly the truth. If you have neither of these habits yourself, if you know anybody who is afflicted, put this in their hands in a delicate way, and have them write to Dr. Woolley, or write to him yourself in their behalf. There are thousands upon thousands of brilliant men and good women who are sacrificed year a'ter year, miserable victims to Opium, Morphine or Whisky. Once in the grasp of these habits they are helpless to resist. They can no more, by their own will, stand up against the temptation than a man who is sick can prevent his fever rising. The remedies of Dr. B. M. Woolley will rescue him. They will restore tone to the system, vigor to the impulses, health to the body, strength to the will, vitality to the heart and joy to the life. These are no idle words. They are spoken in soberness and truth. You can get a book of testimonials from people all over America. Address, in confidence, B. M. Woolley, and ask any question you wish answered. You can deal with him in confidence and be sure of honest treatment. Remember, address B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.

The Journal has no hesitancy in adding its testimony to the forgoing as to the absolute reliability of Dr. Woolley, and the proved efficacy of his remedy. Dr. Woolley stands high among our best citizens, and there are numerous persons in our city who are living witnesses and examples of the extraordonary curative powers of the medicine, which has been before the public.-Atlanta Evening Journal.

Record of a Wonderful Medicine.

Dr. B. M. Woolley's Opium Cure has made a wonderful record, and unlike a great many proprietary medicines, has stood the test of years. It is accomplishing cures to-day just as it did in past years, the only difference being that as it grows older, it occupies a wider field for good. It has accomplished a countless number of the most remarkable cures, as thousands of grateful patients have testified. The Custitution does not hesitate to endorse Dr. Wooiley and the Opium Cure. The doctor is one of Atlanta's best citizens, a man of spotless character. He is an enterprising and valuable citizen, and a high-minded man. There is no misrepresentation about his Opium Cure. It is not a worthless prepared aration sold to the patient until his money gives out, only to leave him in an uncured and helpless condition. The cures are certain and permanent. Ceives great heaps of letters from partients by the condition of the cures are numbers. tients he has cured, and whole numbers of the Constitution could be filled with testimonials from grateful people. One of the more recent is from Mr. N. J. Lewis, of Richmond, Virginia, who was Using ten or twelve grains of Morphine daily, but who was cured completely by Dr. Woolley's Opium Cure. Mr. Lewis was notified by several physicians that he was nearing death's door, so strong was the powerful hold of the drug upon him. The cure that Dr. Woolley accomplished Was like snatching a man from the very laws of death. Another case is that of Mrs. Belle Garst, of Locksburg, Arkansas, who says among other things. I hadn't taken your antidote, I would to-day be to-day be numbered among the dead." She writes a long letter to express the gratitude she feels, and says her health is excellent, better than it was before she fell a victimal of the control fell a victim to the Opiate Habit. Mrs. Lou Baker, of Rockdale, Texas, uses the follows: following language in a letter: "My health is better than it has been for many years are the say that years, and I feel to-day free to say that Your wonderful medicine has wrought this this great change in me; a change that people speak of so often when they meet me. I do not hesitate to tell them of this life preserver which came so strangely into my hands." As has been stated, whole papers, yea, whole books, could be filled with such testimonial. Verily, the cure is a great thing .- Atlanta Constitution.

Indorsement of Our Position.

Some time ago the Constitution gave a strong indorsement of the Woolley Opium and Whisky Cure. We were very careful in investigating the matter fully before we gave it our indorsement. We have seen its work for years. We had read thousands of testimonials from grateful patients who had been rescued from worse than death by its miraculous influence. We had personally seen cases that doctors had given up as hopeless, and left to despair and death, cured and made whole and sound and saved by Woolley's Opium Cure. Still we waited until evidence had accumulated and cases had multiplied so that it was impossible to doubt any longer, and then we could safely put our indorsement on it. There are many cases supposed to be hopeless that recover through nature's own methods. Consequently a few cases do not establish a rule with a medicine that deals with desperate diseases; but when the testimony is universal, when it comes unbroken from every State in the Union, from persons of different temperaments, living in different climates, taken in different stages of the Opium Habit, and often when other diseases complicate the case, when the testimony comes in this shape, and from clouds of witnesses, the truth is so plain that the wayfaring man, though a fool, may see it.

We print this morning a letter from the original written from the distant the original written from the distant 25th. It explains itself fully. Here is a man who tried two practicing physicians man who tried two practicing physicians who had tried the reduction system, and whose mania for Opium was so compliwhose manual for opining was so compufirm hod upon his system. He accidentally saw an advertisement of Dr. Woolley's antidote. He tried it, and in Woottey's antique. Fire tried it, and in a few months, it had not only rescued him from the Opium Habit but it had cured the diseases that sprung from the habit, and left him a free, happy and healthy man. Read what he writes and heed his words. — Constitution.

From a Religious Journal.

Read the cards of B. M. Woolley. "Whisky Habit Cure and Opium Habit Cure," which have proven to be infallible remedies, and made Mr. Woolley a benefactor to his race. The fame of his great remedies is becoming world-wide, as he has recently received orders for a large supply of them from the city of London, England. We know of their good effects. Let those afflicted give them a trial. Mr. Woolley has several private rooms for consultation with his patients, that are private both for ingress and egress .- Christian Index, April, 1882.

Dr. Woolley's Private Life.

It is proper that we should say a word or two concerning Major Woolley, as many desire to know something of the character of the man by whom they are healed. Dr. B. M. Woolley is a Southern man by birth. He removed to Atlanta ten years ago from Selma, Ala., where he bore the highest character as a public-spirited citizen, a fine merchant, and a man of unquestioned integrity and honor. This high and stainless character has been sustained by his residence in Atlanta, and we feel sure that under no circumstances would be deceive any man or misrepresent in the slightest the effect of his medicine. There is nothing of the quack about Major Woolley. He is plain, decorous, a gentleman of quiet, modest habits, making no pretensions and claiming no superior knowledge. He is a settled citizen of Atlanta, owns property here and continues to invest the reserve surplus that his matchless remedy brings him. He has two sons, both men of education and promise, who have made this their home and who will succeed him. They inherit their father's steadiness and honorable character. We have said this much simply to show that Dr. Woolley is not only a Southerner, but a responsible man, and a fixture here, with two sons, to whom he is just as ambitious to leave an unsullied name as to leave the fortune that is involved in his Opium Cure. - Atlanta Constitution.

Opium Habit.

Editors Observer:

I have been glad to see you advertising the now famous antidote of Dr. Woolley. I ask your permission to testify to several cures it has effected in my personal knowledge. One valuable ruling elder of the Presbyterian Church, and a prominent physician, was a nearly ruined victim of this habit, and now thanks God for his escape and walks the earth a free man. I know Dr. Woolley as a benevolent practitioner, and cordially commend his remedy.

A GEORGIA PRESBYTER.

COMMENTS ON THE ANTIDOTE.

See what the Editor of the Southern Argus says-He has known Dr. Riddle for years, and while in that terrible condition, an Opium Slave.

[From the Southern Argus, Selma, Ala., November 8, 1878.]

Dr. B. M. Woolley, a native of Perry county, was for many years a prominent citizen and business man of Selma, where he has many friends who will be glad to hear that he is meeting with a grand and deserved success in his new home in Atlanta, Ga., and glad, too, to know that his success is mitigating the sufferings and relieving the afflictions of his fellow-men. He is devoting his entire time (and it is all occupied) in treating the Opium Habit, and his remedies have wrought cures too marvelous to be believed, if the evidences were not sufficient to dipel every doubt.

One of the most remarkable cures of any kind on record is that effected by Mr. Woolley in the case of Dr. A. A. J. Riddle, of Marengo county, in this State, a planter of large means, a gentleman widely known in this part of the State, and a physician of prominence in his profession, who deems it his duty to suffering humanity to publish the facts relating to his afflictions and his rescue from the grave.

Dr. Riddle, on his way to his home from Atlanta, where he had been since last December, called on us Saturday last, and furnished us with a sincere statement of his case and cure, and, in addition, gave many interesting details too voluminous for publication. He now weighs 171 pounds and is a picture of perfect manhood. His flesh is hard, his nerves are steady, his eye is bright, his sleep is sweet and sound, his appetite is good, and his digestion perfect. This is a picture of the man who, eight months ago, weighed 109 pounds, whose mind was impaired, who could scarcely walk across his room, whose appetite was gone, whose sleep was broken and disturbed, and who was incapable of transacting any business, and to whom death seemed the only gate of relief from sufferings more intolerable than the pangs of dissolution.

Opium and Whisky Habit Cured.

What joyful news this is to know that those who are slaves to those fearful habits can be permanently cured and made new men. There is not a particle of doubt about it whatever. Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Ga., is the very gentleman who can accomplish it. Some may say that he is a quack; whoever says that does not know what he is talking about. This gentleman is a distinguished physician and citizen of that goahead city, having the confidence and esteem of her people. The physicians of Atlanta say that his remedy is a good one, and the State chemist approves of its ingredients. Should there be an unfortunate or unfortunates among our read-this man?" but write immediately to him and describe your case, when he will pre-Scribe for you. The representative of this paper found the doctor a most Polite, courteous and accomplished gentleman. Delays are dangerous, so remember to consult him at once. From the New Orleans Weekly Picayune, July 19, 1884.

A Benefactor to His Race.

Two of the greatest sources of misery and suffering known to the world are self-imposed. We refer to the pernicious and have self-imposed. and baneful habits of using opium and intoxicating liquors. These twin evils are conceded. conceded to be more destructive to life, as statistical as statistics will verify, than war or pes-tilence tilence. Either habit once contracted once ictim, and fixes itself on the unhappy victim, and often often carries the wretch to a premature

Dr. B. M. Woolley, of this city, has scover of both I woolley, of this dical cure of both I a specific for the radical cure of both habits. He has devoted years of Study and research to the subject, and his effort his efforts have been crowned with glorious successful sales ous success, as has been fully established by the by the great number of cures he has effected all a from Maine to California the California of the Atlantic to to California, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He has testimonials from the California, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific. He has testimonials from the the testimonials from the the testimonials from the the testimonials from the tes rescued sufferers in every State in the Union, which speaks more eloquently his praise to the speaks more eloquently his praise than aught we could say in his behalf.—Atlanta Evening Journal.

The Opium Habit.

For centuries science failed to discover a remedy for the fearful Opium Habit. A few years ago Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Ga., discovered a sure and permanent cure, which has proved a great blessing to thousands, who gladly testify to their cure and bless their benefactor. The writer has known Dr. Woolley personally for six years. He is a gentleman in the strictest sense of the word, whose integrity cannot be doubted, and if this article should be read by one suffering from this dreadful habit, we unhesitatingly assure him that Dr. Wooley's Antidote is no humbug, but will accomplish all that he claims for it. He regards all communications with the strictest secresy.

The writer has knowledge of a prominent Alabama physician's cure, who, when placed under Dr. Woolley's treatment, took habitually 180 grains of Morphine and 300 grains Chloral in 48 hours. This physician began taking Morphine under treatment for a severe wound in 1866, and increased the dose until the habit of 12 years had so fastened its fangs upon him that the above-named stimulants became necessary to his life. In seven months' time he was a well man, and is now prosperous and happy, and attending to his daily business.—Pike County News, Oct. 1, 1884.

A Great Cause.

We call the especial attention of our readers to the advertisement of Dr. B. M. Woolley's Opium and Whisky Cure, which appears in this issue. Dr. Woolwhich appears in this issue. Dr. Wool-ley's cure is doing a great work in a great cause There are a large number great cause area are number of people throughout the country who or people throughout the country who are unfortunately addicted to the Opium are uniformiately address to the Opium and Whisky Habits, and who have not the moral force, unassisted, to resist the great curse. To all such Dr. Woolley's Opium Cure is indispensable, and as numbers of his testimonials show, his numbers of his testimonials show, his great specific has never failed when tried. We know two gentlemen who tried. We know two gentiemen who have been cured, and who say they owe have been curred, and who say they owe life and all they have to Dr. Woolley.—

Athens Banner- Watchman, May 5, 1883.

From a Denominational Journal. [From the Central Methodist, Catlettsburg, Ky., June 8, 1678.] While in Atlanta I was the guest of Major B, M. Woolley, whom I faborably knew on the first circuit I ever traveled.

He has an Opium Antidote of undoubted excellence. I conversed with a number of his cured patients, who gave uniform testimony as to its merits. Among those with whom I conversed was Dr. Riddle. of Linden, Marengo county, Ala. Five months ago he was using 180 grains of Morphia and 300 grains of hydrate of chloral every 48 hours. He is now a cured man and weighs fifty pounds more than when he began Mr. Woolley's treatment. I write this in the interest of suffering humanity. The Opium Habit is a disease. The patient cannot break away from it without assistance. Woolley's Antidote sustains the patient until the injury done by the poisonous drug is repaired. I conversed with leading phycians of Atlanta concerning Mr. Woolley's treatment, and they said he had a good remedy and was doing great good, and had their perfect confidence. I have persuaded several afflicted persons to try Mr. Woolley's Antidote, and they are already improving in appetite, digestion, spirits, etc. If I did not believe I was doing humanity a great service I would not thus call attention to this great constitutional remedy. But Mr. Woolley is no humbug. The State chemist approves of the ingredients, the regular doctors commend the medicine, and hosts of grateful patients bless the hour when they were introduced to the knowledge of the agent that has released them from the worst slavery.

Woolley's Opium Antidote.

[From the Opelika (Ala.) Observer-Locomotive, February 13, 1879.]

Indisputable evidence has been furnished us of the wonderful efficacy of this remedy. We now know that it will do just what it is recommended to do. Rarely, indeed, does the Observer notice editorially any of the medical nostrums or "cure-alls" that flood the land. This remedy is not of that species, but it is an article of sterling worth, and its value to Opium afflicted can not be measured by mere dollars and cents; it is to them a priceless boon, and if they will only put their cases unreservedly in the hands of Major Woolley, we know he can cure them, and that, too, without pain or inconvenience. This is strong language, we know, but we have the evidence at hand to substantiate every word we say, and which will be gladly and gratuitously given to any one who will inquire at this antidote, is a native Alabamian, and is "to the manor born" a true Southern man. That he will deal honorably with you, every patient of his from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, and numbers even north of the Ohio, will bear willingly testimony.

Major Woolley, the originator of this

Opium Cure.

[From the Atlanta Independent, July 17, 1878.] The following from Life in the South is all true, and so well deserved that we republish it with an unqualified endorsement.

OPIUM CURE.

And we mean just what we say-cure. As we are issuing a very heavy edition of Life in the South, we feel it a duty to say, in behalf of suffering humanity, as well as for the benefit of a gentleman who has accomplished so much for it, that Woolley's Opium Cure is a cure. There are three species of conclusive legal proof :

1. Testimony from knowledge or personal observation.

2. The opinion of experts based upon testimony or stated facts.

3. The greatest of all human proofthe testimony of experts upon facts within their own knowledge or experience.

Either one of these proofs is considered sufficient evidence in the courts. Now, Woolley's Cure has not only one but each and all of these proofs. We, ourselves, have testified from our personal observation; thousands testify from experience and observation both; and lastly, physicians, regular of high standing, publicly affirm the unquestionable efficacy of the medicine in the curing. Mark the word—curing! The medicine is not simply a relief-it is an absolute cure. These words are written without the slightest knowledge or expectation of Mr. Woolley, and we write what we know to be true.

Honor to Whom Honor is Due.

Opium eating is a bad habit, which blunts and prostrates both the mental and physical faculties of those who indulge in it; yet, like that of chewing tobacco and drinking rum, it holds its victims in an iron vise. Once an individual becomes regularly addicted to Opium eating he cannot quit, and hence in this respect the habit is a worse one than rum drinking. Physicians generally believe the habit to be incurable, but such is not the fact. Col. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Georgia, prepares a specific which does cure. We write knowingly, because at least one case of permanent cure has come within our knowledge. The person referred to had been a slave to the habit fifteen years, and had tried in vain to stop, and had also appealed for a remedy to regular physicians in vain. By chance Col. Woolley's specific was heard of, tried, and seven bottles effected a permant cure, there being no craving or inclination for the drug left. This was two years ago, and there has been no relapse or return of the craving since. We recently wrote these facts in a letter to Col. Woolley, and he has desired us to state them in the Democrat for the benefit of sufferers from the pernicious habit who may be seeking a cure, and we do so most cheerfully. Col. Woolley's address is simply Atlanta, .

Georgia.—Delaware County Democrat, Chester, Pa., March 2nd, 1882.

Prof. W. J. Land.

[From the Monroe Advertiser, Forsyth, Ga.] In another column will be found the advertisement of Mr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, who is offering to the public a sure and perfect cure for the use of Opium. We would not feel called upou to commend this antidote but for the fact that Mr. Woolley has had it thoroughly analyzed by Prof. W. J. Land, who says it is a perfect cure for the Opium Habit, and that he dear the special to recomand that he does not hesitate to recommend it to the afflicted.

We know Prof. Land, know him to be, without doubt, the best analytic chemist in the South, know that he is so very conscientious and honest that he would utterly refuse to recommend anything unless he knew it to possess great merit, and consequently we feel satisfied the medicine is what it is claimed to be. Prof. Land was born and raised in Forsyth, and often visits his native town now, and often visits his nature and no one enjoys the confidence and esteem of our community to a greater every community to a greater ever er extent than himself. His recommendation ation will do, for the people believe every word of it.

Opium and Whisky.

New Orleans Times-Democrat, Dec. 24, 1882.] There is no curse to the human family of either of either of either of either of pinm. Opium or Whisky, nor is there a habit formed in fact, it formed as difficult to remove; in fact, it cannot be classed as a habit after certain stages stages, as it then becomes a disease, as marked in the most marked in its characteristics as the most deadly. deadly of maladies, and requires the most skillful treatment. Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Ga., recognizing the ravages that were being made by these two destroyers of peace, home and happiness, some years ago commenced to devote his whole study to the peculiarity of the condition of sufferers from these two habits, and after much labor made two important discoveries, which have enabled him to treat successfully all who have been fortunate enough to place themselves under his charge, and he has been philanthropic enough to issue a book upon the subject, which he sends free to all applicants. Dr. B. M. Woolley's address is Atlanta, Ga., and we have no hesitancy in commending him, as we know him to be not only a very skillful man, but an honorable gentleman.

See what the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution of Sunday, Feb. 3d, 1889, says of my treatment-My home is in Atlanta and has been for the past fifteen years.

A strange statement that carries conviction, and that is unsolicited and voluntary.

We have had frequent occasion to commend the Opium Cure manufac-tured by B. M. Woolley & Co., of this city. We were careful not to commend this remedy until we had seen it tried, and it had, so to speak, worked out its own salvation. We realize that one of the great curses of the world is the Opithese tracking the bitherto considerable to the present um Habit, hitherto considered incur-able. We felt that if there was a cure for this horrible, but worse than a disease, it would be a benefaction to spread ease, it would be a benefaction to spread the news of its work, to widen the field of its usefulness, and carry it as a helpof its userumess, and carry it as a nelp-ful aid to the helpless, and a relief to tul and to une netpless, and a reflef to those who are despairing. It worked its way slowly. A cure of the Opium Habit is not efficient unless it is permanent. ent, so that time was necessary to deent, so that time was necessary to develop the efficiency wonderful remedy. Went by, year after year, and still the went by, year arret year, and still the victims were saved. Then we commended this medicine to our friends. Since ed this medicine to our friends. Since that time we have had literally thousands of certificates laid before us indorsing what he had said. Here is one that reaches Dr. Woolley on Saturday, and it is so clean and definite and evidently truthful, that we print it. It is not an effusive affidavit. It does not aim to make an effect at words, but it does go to the heart of things with the power of statement. Read it:

OMEN, SMITH Co., Tex., Jan. 26, 1889. Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga.:

DEAR SIR-By seeing your advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution I was induced to try your remedy for the Morphine Habit. On January 4th, 1888, I began taking your medicine. I used three parcels, and on November 15th, 1888, I quit your remedy. I have not used your remedy or Morphine since and do not want either. When I began with your remedy I used a drachm of Morphine in about two weeks, and I did not feel that I could live without it. I then weighed about 135 pounds. I now weigh 175 pounds and feel better than I have since I got into the dangerous Morphine Habit some twelve or fifteen years ago. I do not seek publicity, but feel it a duty to my Southern sisters to let them know that your remedy is sure to cure with will and perseverance. You may use this (unasked by you) if Yours respectfully, Mrs. R. E. Arnold. you desire.

This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with R. E. Arnold, she being a near relative, and have felt great interest in the result, and unhesitatingly say that Dr. Woolley's remedy is all and more than he claims for it, and that Mrs. Arnold does not now appear to be the same woman she was twelve months ago, so great has been the improvement. Given under my hand and seal of office,

JOHN O. COLLIER.

Notary Public, Omen, Smith Co., Tex, State of Texas, County of Smith, Jan. 25, 1888.

The two affidavits are useful. Mr. Collier testifies to the cure from an outside standpoint, because there are skeptics who say that Opium caters do not know when they are cured. Mr. Collier's affidavit, therefore, is good evidence. By the way, he writes in a private letter that he saw Dr. Woolley's advertisement in the Constitution, which he considers the best paper in the country'.

Be cheerful, or at least try to be. It is to the health of the body and mind what sunshine and dew are to vegetation. Do not allow yourself to become moldy, as it were, by gloomy thoughts and fearful forebodings.

The Whisky Habit.

In addition to his Opium Cure, Dr. Woolley offers to the public a sure cure for the dread curse of whisky. Like his other remedies, it has stood the test, and has never yet been known to fail where the directions were carried out to the letter. How many thousands there are who have this dread habit fixed on them, and which, try as they may, it is impossible for them to throw off. Yet there are thousands who have been cured by Dr. Woolley's remedy. He has testimonial on testimonial from many people who are known and whose words are unimpeachable, which bear witness that they have either been cured themselves or have known friends to be cured. This cure of Dr. Woolley's is perfectly harmless in its nature and certain in its curative effects. For what he has done already in relieving thousands of sufferers is deserving of highest praise. What he will yet do upon this same principle of humanity cannot be estimated .-From the Greensboro (Ga.) Herald, August 21, 1885.

The Opium Cure.

It was our pleasure to have a recent interview with one of the world's successful specialists, Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta. A few moments' conversation with him will convince one of his thorough knowledge of the Opium Habit, and cure for that dreaded destroyer whose march is so insidious, whose prevalence physicians dare not acknowledge, and whose spreading influence, if made known, would be as a revalation to the public. The fame of Dr. Woolley's treatment and antidote for this disease has reached every State and nation of earth and found its way into the home of of prince and peasant.

The cure which Dr. Woolley presents to the world has been time and again weighed in the balance of actual experiment. It has not been found wanting in true merit, but its efficacious and efficient properties have received unbounded approval from the thousands of sufferers who have obtained relief. When it is inconvenient for those afflicted to visit him in person, Dr. Woolley would gladly furnish by mail a copy of his pamphlet or other information. The work in which this gentleman is engaged renders him a public benefactor.—Americus (Ga.) Recorder, November 30th, 1882.

Opium Cure.

About ten years ago Major B. M. Woolley commenced advertising in the Constitution an opium cure. Since that time it has become famous throughout the entire country, and to-day stands unchallenged by the general public, by patients and physicians, as the best cure for this terrible habit that is known to man. The Constitution, after it had been before the public a year or two, found that its success was so unvarying that it gave its endorsement, and we are prepared this morning to say that never in a single instance have we directly or indirectly heard of complaint against this remedy. It has gone on quietly doing its work effectively, and carrying, peace, health and blessings to the afflicted, and commanding admiration and confidence of the general and professional public. As said before, not one single criticism has been made upon its work, as far as we can hear it, and the testimonials received by Major Woolley from grateful men and women restored to life and happiness from the agony that is worse than death would almost fill a library. The Woolley Opium Cure is simply without equal, and has become to be the standard, North, South, East and West. It commands patronage in every State in the Union, and has been sold in England and upon the continent. Wherever one case is cured there is certainly to be a demand for others. But what can we say about this remedy that will compare with the original testimonials that come from men and women who have tried it and who know its Power?—Atlanta Constitution.

Oplum and Whisky Habit Cured.

Are you a slave of either of those fearful vices? If so we can recommend you to Dr. B. M. Woolley, Atlanta, Ga., an eminent physician of that city. Patients need have no hesitation in putting themselves under his treatment, as he is a gentleman of reliability and standing at gentleman of reliability and standing at his own home. Write and get one of his own home. Write and get one of his books, which will convince you that he is no charlatan. See his card.—From New Orleans Picayune, March 27, 1885.

Sometimes there are living beings in nature as beautiful as in romance. Reality surpasses imagination; and we see breathing, brightening and moving before our eyes sights dearer to our hearts than any we ever beheld in the land of sleep.

One of the Oldest and Most Popular Institutions in Atlanta.

The human race is scourged by many terrible diseases, some of them hereditary, some arrising from carelessness or exposure, and not a few are the result of baneful habits, which, like an armed man, take possession of their victims body and soul. Prominent among the latter are opium-cating and the intemperate use of alcoholic stimulants. But of the two the former infinitely more debasing and deleterious.

The habit of Opium-eating, or the use of narcotics in some other form, is the more insidious and brutal, from the fact that it is almost universally practiced in secret. The writer had once a life-long friend, and a true gentleman and Christian, whom he did not even suspect of indulging in this pernicious habit until he confessed it within a few months of his decease. It was the same old story. His medical adviser had prescribed it as a remedy for neuralgia, and the fascinating drug, which banished pain and steeped the senses in a delicious lethargy, had at length over-mastered him. How many similar instances might be re-many similar instances might be recounted!

To Dr. B. M. Woolley, of Atlanta, Ga., is due the merit of discovering a remedy and antidote for this terrible remedy which is sweeping hecatombs of victims annually into untimely graves.
The doctor is a native of Alabama, but for a long period has resided in Georgia's capital. A graduate of an Allopathic college, and skilled practioner of medi-cine, like the great Calhoun, he was induced to make the cure of the Opium Habit a specialty, as the former did the disease of the eye and ear, because of its fearful ravages in society. With this view, after much study and long continued experiment, which made him famous and proved an inestimable benefactor to mankind. This is not the work of a charlatan or unprincipled imposter. On the contrary, his treatment of this disease—for disease it certainly is—has had the unqualified indorsement of such members of the faculty as have tested its merits, both at home and abroad. A single instance out of many that might be cited, that of a professional brother, P. H. Pendleton, A. B., M. D., late resident physician to Louisville, Ky., City Hospital, will suffice for the candid reader. It is in substance as follows: The doctor had suffered from a very acute attack of articular rheumatism in 1876 and was compelled to resort to Morphine for relief. But the disease refused to yield to medical treatment, and he was forced to continue the use of the narcotic in increased doses to obtain any ease. This went on for ten years until the amount of the deadly drug administered daily, either internally or hypodermically, reached almost fabulous proportions. Hear what he has to say: On July 21, 1885, I had taken thirty grains of Morphine. On the morning of July 22 I had began with your medicine, and to my great surprise and gratification found that I could quit off the opiate at once." * * * " My rest at night was sweet and refreshing, which it had never been under the use of Morphine. My appetite increased; I gained in weight notably in a few months." The doctor goes on to say that by December he was able to discontinue the antidote, and felt like one to whom "a new lease of life had been granted." Certificates like the above might be multiplied by the hundred, and indeed are in print and duly authenticated. But the Woolley treatment and remedies for the cure, both of the Opium and Whisky Habits, are so well hnown and established that further evidence is wholly unnecessary. Read what that sterling religious journal, the Christian Index, has to say on the subject: "These have proven to be infallible remedies and made Mr. Woolley a benefactor to his race. " " We know of their good effects. Let the afflicted give them a trial."

Dr. Woolley's fame has crossed the Atlantic, and numerous orders have been received for his medicines from London and other parts of Europe. The Atlanta Constitution, Evening Journal, Athens Banner, New Orleans Times-Democrat, Southern Argus, New Orleans Picayune and scores of other influential journals have borne no equivocal testimony to the virtue and value of his remedies. Of late, considerable solicitude has been expressed by the friends and patrons of Dr. Woolley lest the secret of his cures, in case of his demise, should perish with him. But we are glad to state that in that event the business would still be continued by his son, Dr. Vasser Woolley, who was graduated .. ith distinction several years ago from the Atlan'a Medical College, and is associated in practice with his father. In conclusion, the writer, after a former intimacy of several years with Dr. Wool. ley, would cheerfully indorse all that has been said concerning his personal standing and the great value of his Opium and Whisky Cures .- Savannah Morning

DR. WOOLLEY'S

ANTI-BILLIOUS OR LIVER PILLS.

TO PATIENTS.—I have found that in most cases affected by Opium or Whisky Habit, there is a deranged condition of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels, requiring other medicines than my Antidote to act more directly on these organs, Liver, etc. It is difficult for the family physician to prescribe for these troubles intelligently for patients using my Remedy, not knowing its contents. I have prepared the above Pill, which all of my patients can use with impunity—one box of which I send with the first supply of Antidote free of charge. It will be well for you to keep a supply of them on hand, as the cost will be but little, and you will derive much benefit from them.

These Pills are purely vegetable, contain no opium, but act well upon the Liver. Will give relief to diseases caused by engorged or torpid Liver, Constipated Bowels, Indigestion, etc., such as Headaches, Jaundice, Chills and Fever, Billiousness, and many forms of Neuralgia and Rheumatism. In many cases of scant or painful menstruation, they give great relief by aiding nature in its work. They are a superior Family Medicine, and can be taken by any one in from ONE to THREE PILLS at a dose, as may be required to move the bowels freely. Ordinarily they will act best by taking two at night, and if they do not move the bowels after eating breakfast, take one more. After a healthy action take only one at night before going to bed until you are relieved. Price, 25 cents a box. Liberal discount to the trade.

B. M. WOOLLEY & CO., Atlanta, Ga.

CRAIC'S VIRCINIA SALVE!

Has Been Used for Twenty-Six Years with Great Success, and is Highly Recommended for the Following Diseases:

Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Wounds, Boils, Bleeding, Blind and Painful Piles, Scrofulous, Putrid and III-Conditioned Sores, Glandular Swelling, Eruptions, Cutaneous Affections, Sore Eyes, Liver Diseases, Itch, Ringworm, Spinal Affection, Rheumatism, Chillblains, Chapped Hands, Etc.

Salve Preparation is pre-eminently useful as a general dressing, used by Physicians, Surgeons and families. It is Emolient, Stimulant, at Suppurative and Healing.

certificates of its great healing virtues from many of the most intizens, who recommend it as one of the BEST FAMILY MEDICINES fered to the public.

s Salve is specially recommended to be used upon ulcers a frequently follow the use of the Hypodermic Syringe.

B. M. WOOLLEY & CO.,

Box 387.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA.

READ THIS BOOK!

It will interest you whether you are afflicted or not.
If not afflicted, please hand to some one who is.