Wednesday.

Rev. L. R. Dunn, D. D., the preacher of the afternoon found his text in Revelations 12:11.

"And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony, and they loved not their lives unto death."

SERMON.

In this chapter the great antagonizing forces which this world contains are vividly brought before us.

This world, so far as we know, is the only great battlefield of moral principles in the universe. In this world truth and error, sin and holiness, God and angels, good and the Devil, are in eternal antagonism; it is the conflict of the centuries going on from the dawn of time, gathering volume and force, and never more unrelenting or fiercer than it is this hour.

But notwithstanding all the efforts of the powers of darkness in the past, the word of God rings out clear and unmistakable, that there can be no doubt as to the result, for the victory is certain.

I have two simple thoughts to bring to your attention. First, what they overcame. Second, how they overcame.

There is one foe the leader of all the others, that is presented before us in this chapter, and that is the "Dragon,"—the "Old Serpent," "the Devil." He it is that is especially referred to in the word "him."

The word of God brings before us just as clearly the personality of the Devil, as it does that of Jesus Christ.

Satan is the great leader in all strife and conflict that the church of Christ has to engage in, but there are great forces under him. The heathen, or anti-Christian world, governments, superstition, error, idolatry and philosophy—all in their various forms, they have antagonized Christ's cause.

By the liquor traffic, and through the opium trade, and kindred forms of organized evil, Satan keeps more millions from Christ than by almost any other means that he has devised.

There is a poison in that literature which is ruining thousands and tens of thousands of people of all ages.

After a comprehensive enumeration of the different forms of evil in the world, the speaker proceeded to the second thought of the text: "How the church overcomes?"

The blood of the Lamb when it was shed in this world gave the promise and the pledge that all these powers should be overcome. "And He shall not fail nor be discouraged till He shall set in judgement in the the earth," etc.

This victory is assured to the saints on account of the blood of the Lamb and the word of their testimony. Christ, the Lamb, entered the conflict against sin for us and in that fight the blood was shed.

Young convert and old convert, when you get into a tussel with the devil and he is likely to overcome you, gather up all your strength and shout Jesus, and you will overcome by this wonderful power; but one mention of the word of Jesus is enough to overcome a million of devils. They cannot stand that, they know what you mean when you talk about the "blood of the Lamb."

And ultimately, oh! blessed be God, the time is coming on, the devil has got notice to quit, the writ of ejectment is coming on, and Christ has the power to enforce it. And so the church overcomes the world by his power and faith.
"This is the victory" says the apostle,
"that overcometh the world."

The speaker next referred to the human means to be used as conveyed in the closing words of the text. Man was to be the witness to his fellow man of the power of the cross, and closed with an earnest exhortation to sinners to come to Christ.

Thursday at Mount Tabor.

The weather was cool and delightful on the Mount to-day, and the grounds were filled with people at an early hour.

The 10:30 service was attended by the largest congregation of any week day yet.

Rev. Dr. Freeman, of Morristown, delivered the morning discourse, taking as his text the 5th chapter of the Epistle of St. James, the 19th and 20th verses.

SERMON.

"Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth and one convert him, let him know that he which converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death and shall hide a multitude of sins."

This is one of those numerous texts of Scripture which is like a many sided chrysalis, you turn it which way you will and there is light on every side.

You look at this text from one side, we have suggested to us the sinner's condition; turn it again and we see the sinner's danger; another side shows us the sinner's hope, salvation; another side shows us the instrumentality of his conversion who turns; still again and another side shows us the possibility of final apostasy.

I propose this morning simply to call your attention to one of the surfaces of this bright chrysalis, and perchance you may be able to see through that some of the reflection of the chrysalis on the other side.

There is one thing that strikes me as very strange in reference to the conversion of sinners, and that is that sinners themselves should have anything at all to do with it; we should have left that out.

It is strange also that a man has to do anything for his own conversion. Yet we are told to "work out our own salvation with fear and trembling."

The speaker next gave this definition of conversion, "that it was a turning away from the wrong course into the right course."

We are not to understand that in the human agency in the conversion of sinners men work independant of God.

The rest of the passage which I have just read sets that point at rest. "It is God that worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure."

And it is therefore God's work, ultimately however much he may have employed human agents.

The Scriptures do not teach that God could not work otherwise, but that is not the point.

The divine plan is that men shall be instrumental in converting their fellow-men, so that men convert others by pleading with them, by urging, and by pointing them to Christ, who is the only Savior of sinful man, and therefore men cannot boast as though they unaided, had wrought this thing to pass. Let us notice some Scriptural illustrations of this principle of man's agency in the work of conversion.

The first significant fact is this. In the great scheme of human redemption, the central figure is found to be a man.
Human plans would never have thought of that, but God thought of it.

Then again we find further that this divine man, when he was sent about the great work of converting sinners, selecting men to carry the message.

And when he left the earth he promised to send his Holy Spirit, and one might ask, "Why, could not the Holy Spirit do all this work, why should men be selected to be his ministers?" Passing by angels and not even allowing himself in the person of the Holy Spirit as his representative after he should leave the earth, to do all this work, but furnished men.

He called them from their fishing nets and said, "Behold, I will make you fishers of men."

As seen on the day of Pentecost, when 3,000 souls were saved, the Holy Spirit has its work to do, and the preaching apostles also had their work.
The Spirit prepared the people to receive the Word and prepared the preachers to preach it, and then stood by them while they preached.

While angels have their allotted work to do in reference to the salvation of men, yet there is a part of the work that men can do a great deal better than angels.

Many instances were then deduced to show that the angels are often instruments in the conversion of men, but their part is limited and men are always called in to complete the work. There is something in this great work that even the great Head of the Church does not do. Mind I do not say "can not do!" but selects men to accomplish.

Take the marvelous instance of the conversion of Saul of Tarsus.

He was stricken by the way, and God showed him his heart as he never saw it before. He was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, but determined to turn and lead a better life.

He was blinded by the vision of glory, and had to be led in his blindness until he entered Damascus.

But the full work was not yet accomplished, it needed a human instrumen-tality not because the divine was insufficient, but because in the Messiah, the divine and the human were blended and in the work of salvation they were blended. And so he goes to Ananias.

And Ananias was surprised and even his faith was disturbed for a time.

But do you remember what he said to Saul the first thing?

He went to him and said, "Brother Saul."

Their common experience made them brethren, he called this persecutor his brother, and said unto him, "The Lord even Jesus who met thee in the way, hath sent me that thou mightst receive thy sight," and straightway his eyes were opened.

I cannot think that these are mere accidental circumstances, but it seems to me that there is a law here that men shall have a part in the conversion of his fellow men.

God, in selecting men to be instrumental in converting other men, does it because he would have everyone of us understand the great delight there is in doing good.

Another reason why God would have us labor for others. It may be because men can sympathize better with men than another being can.

Suppose, for example, that my poor heart is oppressed with the sense of sin. I have been hardened; I have heard the gospel, but it never produced any effect. I am sinking in despair—I want help; I want to know what I shall do to be saved.

I suddenly start; I hear the music of a silvery voice and I look and see before me an angel of God, and a voice says to me, "my friend what aileth thee?" I say, and tremble while I say it, oh, sir, I am a sinner; I cannot look at such a pure one as you are; I am going to ruin, and I don't know what to do. The angel says: "My friend, fear not, there is salvation for you. Why, I was one of that innumerable throng that went down on the plains of Bethlehem and saw the shepherds; I joined in the chorus of "Glory to God on high, on earth peace, good will to men."

I know that there is salvation for you." But I say, I am such a great sinner, how do you know he can save me. The angel replies: "I have heard it said that he is mighty to save; that he saves the people from their sins, and is able to save, unto the uttermost, all who come to him."

But I say to him, "Ah, that may be true in a general sense, but how do I know that he will save me, there never was such a sinner as I am; "If you can only tell me that there is mercy for me, how glad my soul would be." Yes, there is mercy if you only come to Christ."

"Did you ever come to him? Were you ever saved?"

"I never needed salvation, there were some of my brothers that sinned against God, they never were saved.
I never heard that there was any provision made for their salvation, but I know what is done for you—poor lost men, I have no experience in the matter."

I should say, "fold thy wings and go back to the upper heavens, your visit to me is but an assurance of my doom."

And I weep and mourn, "Woe is me for I am undone."

But I hear another voice, not so finely tuned as the angelic, but there is a strange sympathy in it that thrills my heart, and the voice says, "Brother what aileth thee?" And I look up and there is a man.

He tells me there is hope for me, that he was once such a sinner as I, and Christ saved him and Jesus can save me.

That is the story of the Cross, let somebody tell it to me that knows nothing by experience and it does me no good, but let a brother man, a sinner like myself come to me and tell me what he has felt and seen and my heart responds with joy and hope.

AFTERNOON SERVICE.

Sermon by Rev. G. W. Smith, of Roseville, N. J., taking as his text, 1st chapter of the Acts of the Apostles the first clause of the second verse. "Have ye received the Holy Ghost, since ye believed?" or as given in the New Version, "Did ye receive the Holy Ghost when ye believed?"

The need of repentance was first clearly shown by the speaker, and the conditions to be fulfilled in order to be saved and in order to become a sharer in Christ's atonement. The explanations the disciples had to give to opposers of Christianity and rulers, in reference to what they did, were next enlarged upon.

To be saved we must turn from sin and turn to Christ with all our moral being. The speaker referred to two classes who munit conversion. The first is the moralist who said that all that was necessary was to turn from sin. The other class is those who profess the higher life but represent it as so inferior and as of little account. God's order is high, higher, highest.

Many rush into the church without conversion and thus take it by force. Christ is to be found just where sin separates from holiness—where death from immortality.

It was shown next that it was not necessary to know how or why this conversion came; we must put ourselves in the way of it as we put ourselves in the way of the wind to feel its cooling breeze.

The preacher closed with an earnest appeal to all unaved, sin sick sinners.

Terrible Accident.

By a mine cave at Hackelbarney, yesterday, three men were killed and two badly hurt, William Gulick, John Beek and Charles Jones were killed, and William Stires and Isaac Emmons badly hurt.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon the mine on top the hill, west of Hackelbarney, was the scene of a terrible accident. The mine is an open cut about 50 feet deep and 30 feet wide, with a wall of rock on each side. Several miners were at their various duties when suddenly, without a moment's warning, the east wall caved in, covering William Gulick, John Beek and Charles Jones with hundreds of tons of rocks, ore and earth. William Stires and Isaac Emmons, who were near the west side of the cut, being covered only up to their waists.

In a very short time a large crowd of people had gathered and immediately lent a helping hand towards rescuing the men who were still alive, and, after two hours of desperate efforts, Stires and Emmons were extracted, when it was found both had their limbs badly mangled and broken. They were sent to their homes immediately, and it is to be hoped they will recover. Jones' body was recovered badly mangled, but Gulick and Beek's body, at this writing (6 P. M. Thursday) have not been found. It is said that the mine was not safe, and if such is the case the company will be held responsible.

A Woods Meeting

For the Newark District, Newark Conference, will be held at Rockaway Valley, between Denville and Boonton, to commence Sept. 8th, and continue 10 days or more. No sermons in the grove on the Sabbath, but in the church, which is conveniently near, during the day. The object of this meeting is the salvation of the people, and will be under the supervision of Rev. J. H. Knowles, the presiding elder. The ministers of the district are cordially invited to attend with their congregations. Stages from Boonton.

Last Friday afternoon about five P. M., while returning home from the Camp Meeting, Rev. G. Jackson, his wife and niece met with quite an accident. When just beyond Denville, a reckless driver with a fast team of bay horses ran against his buggy smashing one of the wheels in pieces. The furious Jehu, with two others, looked back, saw what was done, but onwards they drove. The injured party narrowly escaped broken limbs. It is said the driver had been to Camp Meeting. It will be a satisfaction to know who he is?

Since the day he was shot the President's pulse has twice run up to 130—on July 23 and on August 15. On July 4 it was 126.

Straw rides are very popular at Asbury Park, but the Journal of that place reiterates that "they are immoral, and no mother who has a care for her daughter will permit her to attend one of these parties."

[From the Christian Advocate.]

Camp Tabor, N. J.

After an agreeable ride of an hour and a half on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, through one of the most picturesque and highly cultivated portions of New Jersey, we arrived at Denville, where the Railroad Company are building a new station, over 200 feet in length, for the accommodation of visitors to the camp grounds. This looks very much like business, and from what I know personally of the gentlemen in charge of Camp Tabor, I am sure of the success of the enterprise. After a walk of about five minutes I found myself on the grounds, and was struck with the improved condition of affairs. Another feature of Camp Tabor is the water, which is derived from a spring on the adjacent farm, is conveyed to a large reservoir on an elevated portion of the ground through earthen pipes, and thence by iron pipes to all parts of the camp. The water is largely impregnated with iron, sulphur and carbonate of lime, rendering it tonic, laxative and alterative. Its effect is to stimulate the secretions of the mucous membranes generally but especially those of the alimentary canal and is therefore valuable in cases of habitual constipation, congestion of the liver or kidneys, and dyspeptic eructations or flatulence. During my stay at the camp, several of my friends fully corroborated my own experience and views respecting the medicinal virtues of the water.

Prof. Loomis has lately been advising his patients suffering from pulmonary complaints to visit the region of the Adirondacks, to escape the humid atmosphere of the Atlantic coast. And I recommend those of our own people who are afflicted with throat or lung difficulties to spend a summer at Camp Tabor, as it is several hundred feet above high water mark, and about fifty miles distant from the sea, with a perfectly dry atmosphere.

People living by the sea coast all the year round get salted through, and need a total change to freshen them up, and to rid themselves of the tired good-for-nothing feeling which is so common there. Such should come and test it for themselves.

The location of Camp Tabor upon a side hill renders the drainage—the sine qua non of all such places—absolutely perfect. Where such favorable conditions are lacking, only the greatest care can prevent the appearance, sooner or later, of an epidemic fever, which must bring such gatherings into disfavor. The soil at Camp Tabor is of a light and porous character, and becomes dry very quickly after a shower. I noticed several new cottages in course of construction, each apparently seeking to rival its neighbor in beauty of design or elaborate disposition of grounds. In this particular it may be taken for granted that Methodists are very much like other people. There are a number of delightful drives among the hills in this section, and several families have their horses and carriages on the grounds. In a word, I know of no place where one tired of business and the cares of the world may enjoy more perfect quiet, rest and good fellowship.

I have found here some of the most congenial and obliging friends it has been my good fortune to meet in many a long day. I write this from no interested motives, having no personal share whatever in the conduct or ownership of matters here. But I sincerely wish that those suffering in any of the ways I have described, may come and find here the same comfort and relief which I have myself so pleasantly experienced.

GEO. W. TALSON, M. D.

The contract for enclosing the Methodist church at Milton, has been awarded to Mr. Joseph W. Headley; the contract work to be completed in 60 days from the time the lumber is furnished.

DENTIST

MORRISTOWN, N. J.

I have great pleasure in presenting the testimonials of persons for whom I have done work in my line who are competent judges of thorough dentistry. S. E. Hedges, M. D.; Rev. J. K. Burr, D. D.; Rev. A. H. Tuttle are persons well known throughout the entire State.
CHESTER, N. J., July 28, 1880.

Dr. S. R. Osmun:
DEAR SIR:—I have not been able to see you since you extracted my teeth, and I take this opportunity of expressing my thanks to you for the professional skill and courtesy you manifested at that time.

I had taken gas once before at "Headquarters" in New York city and my impressions were unpleasant and its effects damaging to my health.

As administered by you its results were perfectly harmless and very satisfactory, and I shall take pleasure in recommending to my friends not only your art in filling teeth but also a fearless use of your gas.

Very respectfully yours,
S. E. HEDGES.

Doctor S. R. Osmun has done work for my family in almost every branch of dentistry and I unhesitatingly pronounce it to have always been of the highest order. I have such confidence in the excellence of his work and his skill in execution as to sincerely recommend him to such of my friends as are suffering with troublesome teeth.

A. H. TUTTLE.

Dr. Osmun has for a number of years done dentist work for myself and family and has invariably given full satisfaction.

A master of the science of dentistry, he avails himself of all the recent appliances of the dental art and displays a great skill and thoroughness in all branches of dental work.

Camp Notes.

It was impossible for us to be at the service Thursday afternoon; we were enabled to get a brief synopsis of the sermon through the kindness of Rev. J. L. Hays.

The typo's had it "Woodbridge" whereas it was Mr. C. T. Trowbridge, of Brooklyn, that proposes building that cottage on St. John's Ave., for which the plans are in preparation.

A complete report of the grand sermon preached by Rev. J. Dalley on Thursday evening, will be found in the last number of the RECORD. We are getting nearly out of some of the numbers, so that all who wish complete files will please have them set aside at once.

Rev. T. C. Mayham called on us today, it being his first appearance upon the grounds. We were delighted to see him looking so well, and find him as complacent as ever. Mr. Mayham was always a warm supporter of the RECORD, and we want to thank him for all he has done for us in the past. And while we are upon this subject we want to extend our heartfelt thanks to other pastors whom we do not know so well personally, but who have done their best for us, and we feel grateful.

Last night as Officer Burch was patrolling the Circle, he discovered a dark object lying on the Tabernacle platform, and discovered it to be a man who very comfortably rolled in a blanket, was sleeping soundly. Mr. Burch aroused him from his nap and wanted him to go to the police quarters for shelter, but the stranger indignantly replied, "Young man, I fight for Jesus and I want you to understand that I don't consort with thieves and felons." Mr. Burch had to explain and finally persuaded him to take a look at the police office, where he left him stretched upon the sofa. This morning he had disappeared.

Who We Shall Hear.

Friday evening Rev. C. S. Sims, D. D., will fill the pulpit. Others are as follows: Saturday morning Rev. George Hughes, of the New Jersey Conference and editor of the Guide to Holiness.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30, the anniversary of the Mt. Tabor Branch of the Woman's Foreign Mis. Society will be held. The speakers are Mrs. W. B. Skidmore, of New York, Corresponding Secretary of the Society; Mrs. Chandler, of Ocean Grove, and Mrs. J. H. Knowles, Secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Newark Conference.

Sunday morning at 8:30, there will be a Love Feast before the Tabernacle. At 10:30 Rev. Chas. S. Fowler, D. D., Missionary Secretary of the M. E. church. At 2:30 P. M. Rev. A. Craig, of Trinity Church, Newark.

CLOSING EXERCISES.
The only closing exercises will be the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, before the Tabernacle at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Latest from Washington.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN.
FRIDAY, Aug. 26th, 8:30 A. M.

President slept most of the night, awakening at intervals of half an hour to an hour. On first awakening there was as there has been for several nights past, some mental confusion which disappeared when he was fully roused, and occasionally he muttered in his sleep. These symptoms have abated this morning as on previous days. At present temperature slightly above normal, pulse a little more frequent than yesterday. Pulse, 108; temperature, 99 7-10; respiration, 17.

[Last night at 10 o'clock Doctor Bliss informed the Cabinet that there was no good ground for hope of the President's recovery, and Secretary Blaine telegraphed to the same effect to our Minister in London.—Et. Record.]

How We Live.

Very few persons indeed who have never visited Mt. Tabor during midsummer weather have an intelligent idea of the way in which we live in the "tented grove," that in reality can present more neat cottages to the square foot than any other place of its age in Northern New Jersey. Cottages beautified within and without—within by light drapery and superb summer furniture that is comfortable rather than rich, and adds to the general air of ease and freedom pictured in the open doors and windows—and without by vine clad trees, rich baskets of flowers and artistic beds of plants, among which in graceful curve droops the hammock or nestles the rustic seat.

Notwithstanding the extremely dry weather we have had an abundance of the pure sweet spring water with which the grounds are so well supplied. Water superior to Croton, (we will say nothing of the Passaic!) and with a head sufficient to force it to the highest stories, giving all who wish it hot and cold water, bath room supplies, and in fact "all the modern improvements" that can be desired.

There are those however who enjoy tent life—the free, light and airy residence that gives the greatest amount of comfort and healthful outdoor life with the least amount of household cares. Who does not dwell with gratification upon the pure and innocent beauties of "Sweet Home," or regard the half-tent half-cottage style that others affect with other than pleasant emotions? The peace and restfulness to be gained on Mt. Tabor is as marked on its leaf canopied avenues as is the tormenting, wearing life of the metropolis on Broadway.

But then, of course, the rain and muggy weather, says our hearer. Well gentle, (or otherwise) reader, we don't have mud on Mt. Tabor. We leave that for the cities. We are located on the shady, breezy western slope of a mountain that is overdrained and underdrained and sheds water like a duck's back. Ten minutes after a heavy shower has passed over Mt. Tabor the streets and roads have not a drop of standing water on them, and the ladies are out in their dainty slippers. There ought to be some water standing around to scare them into putting on heavy soled shoes, but there is no water, and no malaria, and no chills excepting what are brought here and they are not catching, and there is no nothing but peace and quiet, a paradise for children, a house of refuge for their mothers and a fountain of pure spiritual grace for all.

Fully 5,000 people were on the grounds Thursday.

A. Kelly, Chief of the Dover Police Department, made a delightful call on us. We admired the new regulation suit (?) very much.

Miss Craig filled Mr. Jacobus' post to-day. The new instrument requires but little effort to keep the bellows supplied, and is much less fatiguing.

Persons who have occasion to pass up Wesley Ave., may have noticed an animal of feline species, black in color, chained to a post. We warn them to pass by on the other side, as it is a dangerous animal. Miss Lizzie Campbell was attacked by the cat last evening, and sealed proposals to furnish court-plaster are now in order.

DIRECTORY FOR MT. TABOR.

COMPILED BY THE RECORD.

The following is a complete list of householders dwelling upon Mount Tabor whether in cottages or tents. We have not thought it necessary to give the names of all in a family, being content with the head of the house, but where friends or boarders are staying with a family their names are also included.

Where the avenues run north and south they are numbered from the entrance and when east and west they are numbered from the top of the grounds down.
